Lawn Bowlers Getting Ready For Season

The women's section of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club held their spring meeting at the clubhouse on Wednesday evening under the president, Mrs. Ed Masaro. A number of Trenton women, who bowl at the local greens were also in attendance.

The first tournament of the year will be a doubles tourney to be played on June 2, the Bradley Cup in June and weather permitting the club games will start on May 29th. This year a bridge section will be run and bridge will be played on each Thursday of the week, while the club games are in progress. Mrs. Laura Hyde will be in charge of this committee.

Mrs. Jean Whitmer will head a committee to instruct new bowlers and it is expected there will be a large number of new jokers this season. Any bowlers intending to join are asked to phone, 3-2001 or 2-2373.

At a recent meeting of the men's section of the club financial arrangements were completed with the Trenton Club for the use of the greens during the season.

Despite the lack of a good rain, the greens are coming along fine under the care of Jack Smith and it is expected the opening can be held over the holiday weekend. The opening will likely take the form of a mixed jitney in the afternoon with a supper to wind up the day's activities.

Motorists took to the open highway, golfers got in their few really pleasurable rounds of golf, fishermen were able to enjoy their favorite sport without the help of a winter jacket, and even the boating crowd was out in force on the Bay of Quinte.

Saturday the mercury rose 1 degree higher — to 62 — for the warmest day so far this season.

Salmon River Watershed Under Survey This Summer

The Ontario Department of Energy Resources Management will conduct a full scale survey of the Salmon River-watershed this summer. The study, to be undertaken at the request of the recently enlarged Napanee Region Conservation Authority, will include studies of waters, forest, land use, fish and wild life history and recreation.

The purpose of the survey is to obtain a complete conservation report on the resources of the Salmon watershed which will assist in undertaking future projects.

In order to complete the survey it will be necessary for department employees to inspect forests, water, land and wildlife on privately owned lands and thus the co - operation of all land owners is required and will be appreciated. The hydrology survey commenced last week and the forestry and wildlife surveys will be commencing in the near future.

Further information regarding the survey may be obtained from the field officer of the Napanee Region Conservation Authority at 32 Dundas St., East, Napanee.

If you're ready to buy car tires and you're worried about safety... forget your worries at Fina

We make tire-buying safe and simple by limiting our tires to just three basic lines—and all three give you more strength and safety—for less money!

Every one of these Fina tires—the Fina Executive, the Fina Flyer, the Fina Superline—is as safe or safer than standard original equipment tires (tires installed on new cars at the factory). And every one is offered at a price lower than the price of tires of equal or better quality.

How can we do it? By limiting our lines to only safe tires, we have made huge savings on handling costs.

Fina tires were compared with original equipment tires by a scientifically-engineered test used by the government to determine carcass strength—the most important factor in tire safety. Results proved that our premium tire, the Fina Executive, is 70% stronger than most original equipment tires. Our near-premium tire, the Fina Flyer, is 50% stronger, and our first line tire, the Fina Superline, is 20% stronger.

In addition to the superior strength, safety and realistic prices of our tires, every one of them comes complete with whitewalls—at no extra cost!

From now on, you can stop worrying about car tire safety. Because Fina now offers you the assurance and peace-of-mind you've been looking for: honestly good value in three honestly safe tires. Remember, even if you buy our lowest-priced tire, you'll be able to bet your life on it.

Fina Executive ...the hand-crafted premium tire. World's only tire with double-ring whitewall on one side...double on the other.

Girls Facing Motherhood In N. England Without Marriage Getting Break

By HOWARD H. MUSON

BOSTON (AP)—School girls facing motherhood without marriage get a break in New England when it comes to their studies.

But an Associated Press survey of high school principals in the region pr. luced disagreement over the causes and cure of the problem.

A Boston school official's estimate indicates that during 1965, one out of every 20 girls in the city's junior and senior high schools was illegitimately pregnant.

The numbers don't appear to be rising in the three states north of Massachusetts—Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. A principal in Maine says it may be because of better contraceptives and ease in obtaining them.

Maynard Robinson, principal of Rutland, Vt., high school, said Vermont teen-agers are more independent than other youngsters and there is less pressure from "the crowd" to relax their morals.

GIVE DAUGHTERS PILLS

But Glenn Fay, principal of Burlington, Vt., high school, said he has heard "of mothers providing their daughters with birth control pills. . . . They realize the girl has to be 'popular,'" Fay said. "I don't know what this says for the adult."

J. Weldon Russell, superintendent of schools in Lewiston, Me., says pregnancies among the city's 800 teen-age girls are running well below normal. But he said the girls "are either good or smart."

"Until 1961, the girls were simply dropped from school and never permitted to return," said Mrs. Julia Sears, a Boston social worker who heads a school for unwed mothers.

Most schools in New England now encourage the girls to return to their studies after giving birth, and in many cases give them home courses during their confinement.

In Massachusetts, a policy change began in 1961 when the state education department decided the girls were entitled to the same instructional privileges as the physically handicapped.

School districts are required to treat them as home students during their confinement and provide four hours of instruction a week. The state reimburses 50 per cent of the costs.

In Vermont, Fay explained Burlington's policy this way:

"We usually hear about the pregnancy when the girl's mother calls in tears. We try to work it out so the girl can get the most education possible. We get her to stay in school until it's uncomfortable because of her physical condition. We then try to get her back to graduate after she has her baby."

Joseph Bronstein, principal of Manchester, N.H., Memorial High School, said the girl is allowed to remain in school until her pregnancy begins to show.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT C. JEFFERY

Jeffery – Bandy

Bloomfield United Church was the scene of the marriage on Saturday, May 7, 1966 at 12 noon, of Diane Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson R. Bandy of R.R. 2, Bloomfield and Robert Charles Jeffery of Belleville, son of Mrs. Reginald Welnwright of Belleville and the late Mr. Thomas Jeffery. Rev. Nathan Bowering performed the ceremony; the organist was Mrs. Harold Cleave and the soloist Mrs. Irene Hagerman.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a long white Empire styled gown with crepe skirt, scalloped lace bodice, scooped neckline, short scalloped bell sleeves and a lace chapel train. Her bouffant shoulder-length veil was held by a headpiece of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of pink delight roses, white stephanotis and ivy.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Marymarie Sweete, and the bridesmaids, Miss Marilyn Whitten and Miss Carol Closson wore attired identically in chaty pink gowns similarly to that of the bride. Their headdresses were of pink roses and tulle and they carried bouquets of white Shasta daisies and fern.

Miss Bonnie Hawley, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a long dress of dusty pink crepe with gathered yoke and puffed sleeves and carried Shasta daisies in a gathering basket.

Mr. Graydon Scott of Belleville was groomsman and the ushers were Ronald Collins and David Chalmers, both of Belleville.

At the reception in Bloomfield Church Hall the bride's mother received the guests, wearing a pale pink crepe dress with pink, white and black accessories and a corsage of deep rose-colored carnations. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing an aqua crepe dress with aqua, pink and white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

For her wedding trip to Vineland, the bride chose an off-white semi-fitted wool coat and dress ensemble with yellow and black accessories and a corsage of sweet carnations.

On their return, the couple's address will be Box. 691, Campbellford.

Ann Landers

Love, Sex Go Together Neither Is Good Alone

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd like to comment on your advice to the college girl who wanted an open-dorm policy so that campus people could deal more realistically with sex. Several of us read it during lunch and we broke up. It was hilarious.

This is not the 17th century, Geraldine. Fear of pregnancy is no longer necessary. The modern female is free to enjoy sex on the campus — or anywhere else. Birth control pills are readily available, and if a girl becomes confused and doesn't count the days correctly, she can always get the name of a good abortionist who will help her out for a few hundred ANN LANDERS dollars.

If the newspapers must print an advice column, they should give the job to someone who is living in the twentieth century. College students want an open-dorm policy and if we raise enough hell we will get what we want eventually. So why don't you crawl back into your cave, Annie? — GERONIMO.

DEAR GERONIMO: You don't speedily whether you are male or female but your cavalier attitude toward pregnancy leaves no doubt. I've never yet heard of a male who became sterile, crippled, or died at the hands of an abortionist.

I've received thousands of letters on this subject and this may come as a jolt to you, Buddy-Boy, but the vast majority of college kids who wrote said something like this: "That first-twisted dame who would like stuck-up privileges in the dorms is not speaking for me!"

One of the best letters was from a 17-year-old and he it is:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 17-year-old girl who plans to enter a university in the fall. Naturally, I was interested in the letter from the college sophomore who wanted complete sexual freedom for girls. I feel that the answer is no.

She stated her point of view and now I would like to state mine. I'm not condemning the girl. I have no right to condemn anyone. But I do feel that at least one statement I would endorse. She is correct when she says some attitudes and rules about sex are unrealistic and hypocritical. Many adults who wish to impose rigid rules for sexual conduct on college students have a vastly different set of rules for themselves.

On the other hand, her letter implied a depressing lack of respect for sex. This was evident in one question on the form she circulated through her dorm: "Are you a make-out or a hold-out?" I would have replied, "None of your business."

I am sure if all my feelings about sex but I am sure of this: Sex and love should not be separated. Love without sex would be lifeless. And sex without love would be cheap and empty.

Too many people have destroyed a beautiful thing by jumping in and out of beds with anyone who is available. How can they possibly have respect for sex — or even inside marriage? It has no significance, no purpose, no beauty. It is just something to do. It's like using a diamond brooch to open a can of beans. — OAK PARK, ILLINOIS.

DEAR OAK PARK: You are wise far beyond your years. When you graduate from college, if you want a good job, get in touch with me.

Confidential to NEEDING AN EXPLANATION: A "Hollywood invitation" is a casual suggestion that you drop by sometime — carefully avoiding a specified time. It's called a "Hollywood invitation" because Tinseland is reputed to have more phoney people per square mile than any other city in the world. I don't buy the bit, however. Insincerity is not a matter of geography.

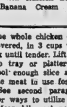
INEXPENSIVE MACARONI DISH

Since macaroni was such a good extender in the Mac and Cheese recipe I gave you last week I decided to go along further with combining macaroni and products with inexpensive meat. Today's Noodles Parmigiana combines noodles and chicken and Parmesan cheese and is a triumph. It is a gourmet dish that still adheres to my inexpensive line.



Please pay attention to this next idea: If you double the recipe you can use the dark chicken meat in a second medium-sized freezerproof casserole and freeze it. Otherwise use the leftover dark meat for sandwiches, salad or sliced cold. I would suggest that you make a topping of half and half fine crumbs and Parmesan cheese for the freezer casserole for it makes a durable top coating and changes the appearance.

NOODLES PARMIGIANA
(serves 4 generously)

sliced white meat from one 3½ pound boiled chicken,
½ pound egg noodles,
½ teaspoon salt,
¼ cup butter or margarine,
2 tablespoons flour,
1 teaspoon salt,
1½ cups chicken broth (from boiling the chicken),
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Pan Fried Sausages; Cinnamon Apple Rings; Hash Brown Potatoes; Shredded Spinach and Cauliflower Salad with Russian Dressing; Banana Cream Pie; Tea.

Put the whole chicken on to cook, covered, in 2 cups water and cook until tender. Lift from broth to tray or platter and when cool enough slice all of the white meat to use for this dish. (See second paragraph for ways to utilize dark meat.) Meanwhile cook noodles in 7 cups boiling water with the ½ teaspoon salt about 12 to 15 minutes. Drain through colander.

Make a sauce by melting the butter; stirring in flour and 1 teaspoon salt until blended, then chicken broth until thick. Add ¼ cup Parmesan cheese.

Into a large casserole turn half of the noodles. Cover with half of the sliced chicken. Pour over half of the sauce. Repeat these three layers. Sprinkle remaining Parmesan cheese on top. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes turning top burner on during last 3 or 3 minutes until top is bubbly and golden.

Only Woman Mayor In South Viet Nam Has Many Problems

By BOB GASSAWAY

DALAT, South Viet Nam (AP)—Nguyen Thi Hau, 47, a tiny Vietnamese woman, has problems that would make many men pull their hair. She deals with riots, war, a town's food supply and her law practice.

Mrs. Hau is the only woman mayor in South Viet Nam. Her domain is this mountain resort, 125 miles northeast of Saigon, which it is linked only by air. The Viet Cong has cut off the only road.

The mayor was born in North Viet Nam, but has adopted Dalat, a town of 5,000 people. She moved here in 1954 after the Geneva Agreement divided Viet Nam.

"I came with my own parents, my husband and my children," she said in an interview. "My parents died here and are buried here in Dalat, so Dalat is my hometown."

She has two sons, both studying engineering in Canada at the University of Montreal.

NAMED IN MARCH

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky appointed Mrs. Hau March 18. Since then, student riots have resulted in seven deaths, the burning of the Hotel Dalat, and the burning of the town's only radio station.

"I couldn't have guessed I would have to deal with such a political situation," she said in an interview. "Now we are trying to do our best to bring Dalat to a normal situation . . ."

Regrets Angry Words Directed to Mother

DEAR DORIS: Over a year ago this guy and I tried to make a go of things but it didn't work out teh well and we ended up fighting. When I was angry with him I said things to my Mom which I now regret. When I am mad no one should believe what I say, but my Mother took it to heart.

DORIS CLARK

We have been going around together for over a month now and my mother is making it worse. She is a little mad I guess because I threw up a chance to go around, seriously, with a university student! Oh, I like Jim, but only as a friend, but my Mom had her hopes.

I really can't say as I blame her because I realize that mothers want the best for their daughters. I can't get my mother to say why she doesn't like this other guy but I don't really know that she doesn't like him.

How can I make her see that he is my boy friend and for the time being or for my life is the one for me? If I can't it won't be long till I'm 18 and I'll be out working and, if necessary, if I find that my guy and I want to be married, I'll get married without their blessing, although I want it. — MOTHER TROUBLE.

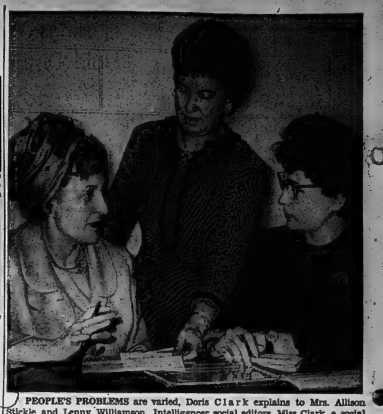
DEAR M.T.: From where I sit, Mother is having Daughter Trouble. How is she to know what you think when you don't even back yourself up? Would you describe yourself as unreliable-when-angry?



Better show a little poise. Mothers do want the best for their daughters, but what is best? Your task now is to decide nothing at all until your loyalty to a boy friend can survive a tantrum.

Confidential to CANDY-COLORED FLAKE: Tell him the engagement is off and that you agree he should have his fling. Make it plain that you will be flinging too. After six months, if you both decide you want to be married — to each other, that is — go ahead.

PEOPLE'S PROBLEMS are varied, Doris Clark explains to Mrs. Allison Sickle and Lenny Williamson, Intelligencer social editors. Miss Clark, a social worker whose column appears daily in The Intelligencer was in Belleville Friday while on a tour of newspapers that subscribe to the feature column.

Well Known Columnist Visits City

A social worker with a country-wide practice and a clientele in 86 towns and cities from Vancouver to Halifax visited Belleville last Friday. Between a conference with fellow social workers and a tour of the Intelligencer, she took time to share some of her views on manners and morals with this newspaper's readers.

She is Doris Clark, whose advice column, "Successful Living" has appeared daily in the Intelligencer for the past five years. Miss Clark has a special reason for giving Belleville a prime place in the itinerary of her tours of cities where her column is published. The Intelligencer was the first newspaper to carry her column after she decided she could reach more troubled people through writing than she could as a social worker.

Miss Clark's daily column appears in newspapers in 21 Canadian cities. She also writes a weekly column for readers of 45 weekly newspapers in smaller centres. Of the 300 to 500 letters she receives each week, about 25 come from Belleville readers. All her correspondents are sincere, she says. She gets no phony letters and few critical ones.

Miss Clark is a small, energetic woman in her fifties, whose blond hair was an almost exact match for the chic golden beige suit she was wearing. She had just completed a trip through the west and was on her way home to Hamilton. There, she also shares a house with her sister Pearl, until recently a health and beauty columnist for the "Farmer's Advocate". Her sister, Mary Moore, whose cooking column also appears in the Intelligencer, lives two blocks away.

All three sisters are avid football fans. "After all, we live in the right city for it," Miss Clark says. Her other hobbies are homemaking and playing the guitar. To keep in touch with young people, she teaches a Hi-C group of teenagers at her church.

Miss Clark has a special interest in young people. Thirty per cent of the letters she gets are from troubled adolescents. Her third largest group of correspondents are parents who complain they "just can't understand why their children act that way." Her second largest volumne of mail comes from women who have been married several years and find they no longer have anything in common with their husbands — each partner going a separate way. Fourth in volume are etiquette queries — especially those about weddings.

Miss Clark's qualifications for handling all these requests for advice include a B.A. from McGill, a Master of Social Work degree from the University of Toronto and a vocational guidance diploma from McMaster. She has worked on the staff of several welfare and social agencies.

Besides, she says, "I have a lot of decided opinions on things I have to know my own mind before I can hope to counsel others."

Here are some of Miss Clark's opinions:

On vocational guidance — "Teenagers haven't enough insight into themselves to be able to choose wisely a lifetime career. They need guidance from counsellors who are not also part-time teachers. Now, counsellors haven't time to properly assess each child."

On sex education — "Children are not told enough about the emotional repercussions of sex and the personality involvement. They need to understand what is this electricity that passes between two people. Sex education, if taught in the schools, should begin in the lower grades, with the basic physical facts. It's easiest to teach the basics before children are old enough to be emotionally involved with sex."

MORALITY LOOSER

On the new morality — "It's looser than it used to be. That there is more illicit sex now is borne out by statistics on the increase in unmarried mothers. Teen-agers need to know that learning to control the sexual impulses is a part of the process of growing up, just as is learning to control temper and appetite. They need to understand the reason, I tell them that, at its best, a physical relation between a man and woman is an expression of mature love which can be developed in the most lasting way within marriage."

On successful marriage — "It is not so much a matter of maturity as it is a matter of each partner answering the other's needs."

On pre-school children — "They are demanding, challenging, our three-and four-year-olds enough. Most children profit greatly from nursery schools. They develop initiative and creativity."

To working mothers: "After her baby is born a woman should take a five year hiatus from work until the child is in school. Then, if she wants to, I'm in favor of her going to work. Why should all women be forced into the same mold — that of housewife? I believe in women getting self-expression in some way."

On the status of women — "In the estimation of a section of the population, we are second class citizens."

On her work — "My greatest frustration is having no one in her community to which to refer a reader who needs help. That's why I visit the cities where my column is read — to keep in touch with the helping agencies an afford out what facilities are available. The most encouraging thing is the increase in such facilities since I began the column. I'm very pleased to find that since my last visit, Belleville has got its own mental health clinic, a family counselling service and is starting a nursery school for children of working mothers."

On herself — "I'm no saffron. I try to do what I can to fulfill myself and to help others."

U.C.W. Meetings

RYLSTONE U.C.W.

RYLSTONE — The May meeting of Rylstone United Church Women, was held at the home of Mrs. Wilfred Spencer, on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Ross Dickie president, was in charge of the devotional. She was assisted by Mrs. James Legge and Mrs. Lindsay Finch, who read Scripture passages. Bible study was conducted by Mrs. Lloyd Anderson, closing with a short prayer. She also read a poem.

Invitations were received from Stanwood U.C.W. to attend their annual missionary meeting to be held at their church on May 18th and from Hoards U.C.W. to attend their spring tea and bazaar on May 21st.

Arrangements are under way for the annual tea and bazaar to be held in Rylstone United Church, in June. Special speaker for the day, will be Mrs. Maurice Clancy of Holloway.

A letter of thanks was received and read for bales of used clothing, sent to a missionary donor in Toronto recently.

Mrs. Ellis Jones was convener for the short program. Mrs. Lindsay Finch gave a reading and Mrs. Jones played a piano medley. Mrs. Raymond Stewart also gave a reading.

During the latter part of 1965, a travelling basket, made the rounds among all the members, each member buying an article and replacing it with another. The proceeds from this were to be used to buy additional cups and saucers for the church and U.C.W.

Mrs. Gordon Apps will entertain the Rylstone U.C.W. at the Manse in Springbrook, for their regular monthly meeting in July.

Setting Up Schools For Unwed Mothers

By HAL R. COOPER

Only a few years ago a school girl who became pregnant was likely to vanish from the U.S. educational scene forever.

If she did not drop out of school, voluntarily, she was expelled.

Her schooldays ended at the age of perhaps 15 or 16. The girl joined the ranks of the unskilled workers, with a fatherless child to support and little prospect of improving her lot in life.

In the more tolerant atmosphere of 1966, a sweeping change is developing in the approach by schools to the problem of unwed student mother-hood.

Major cities, accepting schoolgirl pregnancy as a fact of life, are embarking on salvage programs.

Some cities have already set up special schools where the entire student body consists of young mothers-to-be. In other cities, pregnant students continue their studies in their homes under the tutelage of visiting teachers, receive home instruction by telephone networks, or attend classes in community centres.

ENCOURAGEMENT GIVEN

When they have had their babies, the young mothers are encouraged to go back to regular schools and earn their diplomas.

Statistics from the U.S. department of health, education and welfare do not show much recent change in birth rates of illegitimate children. The rate for girls under 18 was less than one in 1,000 in 1964, virtually unchanged since the 1940s. The rate for girls in the 15 to 19 group was 16.5 in 1,000, about the same as in 1956.

The majority of the pregnant schoolgirls came from low-income families which could not afford to send them to private schools. So their only hope of continuing their educations lies with the public schools.

A pioneer in the field of special schools for the girls was Washington, D.C. Washington opened Webster School with 150 pregnant students in 1963. The school expects to enroll 400 next term.

"It was a pretty bold move," said John D. Koontz, assistant superintendent of District of Columbia schools.

"Originally we met a great deal of hostility from conservative school people. Some said we were condoning immorality. But now there's a pretty good acceptance of the idea."

Chicago opened a similar school this year with an enrolment of 300.

SET UP CENTRE

Syracuse, N.Y., set up last October a centre providing an educational curriculum, health care and social counseling for an initial enrolment of 60.

Detroit obtained a $150,000 federal grant to open three centres with enrolment of 20 each last month for girls who dropped out of city schools because of pregnancy.

Los Angeles, with an annual federal grant of $220,000, has opened two 30-girl classrooms in city health centres and hopes to have five more operating by September. The girls receive four hours of schooling a day and are given expert prenatal care.

Buffalo, N.Y., opened a three-teacher centre in January for 45 pregnant pupils who will return to regular schools after having their babies.

One of the cities with plans for a special unwed - mother school is Baltimore, where many pregnancies recently have occurred in the 15 to 19-year-age group. Dr. Arthur Lichtenstein, director of special services in the Baltimore public schools, said:

"It will have a nurse on duty and a doctor on call. The girls will be taught the regular school curriculum, and will be given instruction on pre - natal and child care."

COVERED BY LAW

Until recently, pregnant girls in most Massachusetts cities, including Boston, were expelled from school. But in 1961 the state department of education decided the girls were covered by a state law guaranteeing home schooling for the physically handicapped. Now they receive home teaching and the state pays half the cost.

School systems in the state of Oregon offer pregnant students night school, home tutoring or correspondence courses and take them back into regular classes after their confinement.

"These girls are the home-makers of the future," comments Elliott Secken, superintendent of schools at Medford, Ore. "we must help them."

HOME CARE OF FURS

Now that the "mink" fur has become so very "chic", it is not uncommon for a woman to find herself trying to provide loving, year-round, at-home care for one type of fur or another . . . while wondering just what that care should be!

Here then, are a number of important guide lines for keeping a girl's "second best friend" glossy, fresh and attractive from January to December.

Always keep fur garments hanging on wide, well-constructed hangers that conform with shape of neck and shoulders. There is a plastic one available that is about two inches wide at the tips — this is ideal.

Hang freely in cool closet, never jammed in with other clothes and never in a trunk or box.

In steam heated apartments, where air is particularly dry, and furs are cold when first going for a long time, place a small dish of water in the corner of the closet.

Never hang in sunlight, or bright light, for any length of time — this will fade fur.

Never leave furs hanging in a closet where sun strikes the door at any time of the day. The sun will cause the temperature of the air in the cupboard to rise, which, in turn has a detrimental effect on the garments.

BEST LOCATION

Somewhere in the middle of your home is the best place to hang your furs. The attic may be too hot, and the basement may be damp enough to cause mildew.

If fur becomes wet, dry in cool, well-ventilated room. Always keep furs away from heaters and radiators as heat will dry the oil out of the leather. Moisture won't hurt furs, but a soaking can ruin them.

Get in the habit of shaking your furs — this is what is called "fluffing them" — almost never comb or brush them.

However, in the event that the fur has become badly crushed, it is permissible to very gently comb it in the direction of the hair — then take a soft brush, wet it, and shake out all the moisture until it is only faintly damp, and then brush the fur lightly again in the direction the hair has grow. This process is similar to a cat washing itself and leaves the fur quite glossy. Here again, to finish off and make the fur look its best, give it a good shake.

Never cover with plastic, as this can cause shrinking, and inhibits circulation. White sheeting is permissible, although cheesecloth is ideal. It keeps out the dust and oily substances in the air but at the same time allows circulation.

REGULAR CLEANING

Regular cleaning is essential in prolonging the life of your lovely furs — but do take them to your furrier if a special process is necessary.

Actually, the best deterrent against moths is to have the garment cleaned at least once a year — this almost assures you of a moth-free article. An additional deterrent is to clean, then spray an empty closet well with moth mist and leave sealed overnight — or 6 to 8 hours before hanging up any articles of clothing. This allows spray to settle so furs will not pick up smell of moth preventative.

If moths have infested your fur, take it to a reputable furrier at once. He will estimate the damage and see if the garment can be restored.

When not in use for fairly long periods, have your furs stored. Many good furriers give year-round storage for the one charge so that you can have the item picked up and returned to the vault more than once).

To summarize, it's mostly a matter of learning to recognize the enemy . . . and the main enemies of your furs are these, heat, strong light, anything that crushes or rubs against the hairs, moths, dirt, dryness and stagnant air.

After that, it's up to us!

Flawless Emeralds Are Impossible to Obtain

By MARGARET NESS

NEW YORK (CP) — One of the discouragings of being born in May is that emeralds, birthstone of the month, are so expensive.

Absolutely flawless emeralds are impossible to obtain. And less than 10 per cent of uncut emerald crystal is of fine quality and good colour. It is unusual that a really good natural one-carat stone sells for as much as $1,000.

However, good synthetic emeralds now are on the market. Linde Stars in New York, besides creating star sapphires and star rubies, produces manmade emeralds, used in making fine costume jewelry.

And there are many imitation emeralds in the cheaper range, used for rings, bracelets and necklaces.

This spring a combination of emeralds and pearls is popular. Richelieu Pearls introduced a two - strand short pearl necklace with a synthetic emerald schoolgirl sealers bgt clasp, an oval emerald ring outlined in small pearls and matching earrings.

If you happen to be wealthy enough to give—or lucky enough to receive—real emeralds, you'll do good company.

The emerald has been known for about 4,000 years and, according to legend, was the favorite of Venus, goddess of love.

In early days emeralds came from mines in Egypt near the Red Sea and in 1020 the Queen of Sheba brought some as a gift to King Solomon.

OWNED THE MINES

It wasn't until Queen Isabella of Spain financed Christopher Columbus that the richest sources of emeralds was found in South America. The queen had struck a good bargain with Columbus, who was to get one-fifth of all the jewels and gold he obtained from his discoveries. Many of the emeralds she received were emeralds.

When the Spaniards discovered Peru, the Incas gave emeralds to the soldiers as a token of friendship, believing them to be white gods. Later, of course the Spaniards seized every emerald in sight. However, one huge emerald, considered to be a goddess by the Peruvians, was so well hidden from the Spaniards that it was never found.

One of the most interesting pieces of emerald jewelry is the Crown of the Andes. A small Spanish settlement in the Andes mountains escaped the plague in 1580 and, in thanksgiving, made a crown for the statue of Our Lady of the Andes.

The crown included a 45-carat emerald, 17 large pearl-shaped emeralds, and many smaller ones. It was bought in 1936 by a syndicate of American jewelers.

USED IN NECKLACE

Another famous piece of emerald jewelry is the Dudley necklace. The emeralds were brought back to Spain by early explorers and made into a necklace. Included are several large pear-shaped stones and large square - cuts, surrounded and connected together by diamonds.

The necklace changed hands many times. It was worn by the royal family of Spain, came into English possession and then passed on to India. Ten years ago it was bought by a New York jeweler.

One of the largest emeralds in the world today is over the throne of Ahmet I in the Seraglio, the group of palace buildings of the sultans of Turkey that now are a museum.

In early times, gems were supposed to possess certain powers which they transferred to the wearer. Because of its green color the emerald was thought to be good for the eyesight. When worn, it was said to be a protection against epilepsy, a cure for dysentery and an aid to a woman in childbirth.

It was also believed to be an indication of faithfulness. Worn by a faithful lover, it glowed green; worn by the faithless, it lost much of its color.

An emerald was supposed to help you become eloquent or improve your memory.

And one early Greek writer suggested that by placing an emerald under your tongue, you automatically obtained prophetic second sight.

Color Film Of Robbery Turned Over

LONDON (CP) — A tourist from Montreal turned over a 2½-minute color film to Scotland Yard Saturday after spotting four masked bandits being attacked by bystanders when they attempted a daylight break-in of a smart Bond Street jewelry store.

Police officials said the film cannot be developed until today because it requires processing by the manufacturer, but they regard it as a valuable clue in their hunt for the bandits.

The men escaped with an estimated £15,000 ($45,000) in jewelry despite the spirited intervention of passers-by.

Claude Payette, 55, in London on holidary, said he was taking a film of Bond Street's expensive shops.

"Suddenly I saw the masked bandits smashing at the windows of the jewellers, and a large crowd trying to fight them," he said later. "I got some marvellous action pictures of the whole thing, including their getaway and the number of their car."

Research Council Will Launch Two Space Rockets in Arctic

By ALLEN SACKMANN

FORT CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—New clues to the history and nature of the universe will be sought this summer when Canadian space research moves in to the Arctic for the first time.

From a temporary launch site at Resolute, 1,065 miles north of Winnipeg, the National Research Council will fire two Black Brant III rockets into space where the earth's radiation belt does not exist to study astronomical phenomena unknown a few years ago.

W. R. Haney of Ottawa, head of the NRC's space electronics section, says scientists from the council and the University of Alberta, Calgary, will be looking for galactic x-rays which may help to determine how the universe was formed and whether it is expanding or contracting.

The x-rays are believed to have some bearing on the origin of the universe and their study is attracting increasingly everyone off guard, incasting U.S. officials.

As the military junta pressed ahead with efforts to reassert its authority in the north, the United States was reported to have warned the ruling generals that further turmoil and strife could only help the Communists.

Saigon remained outwardly calm, but thousands of workers went on strike, slowing down the unloading of vital military cargo in the congested port.

CHARGE TREASON

A Buddhist spokesman and former cabinet minister, Tran Quang Thuan, repeated Buddhist charges that the Ky government had committed treason and violated its pledge of a political truce until fall elections by sending marines and paratroops north. However, he said the Buddhist leaders had issued orders to their followers to remain calm until the monks issue instructions.

In a special broadcast, Chief of State Lt.-Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu defended the seizure of key military installations in Da Nang as a blow against "Communist - infiltrated" Buddhist rebels. Thieu, a Roman Catholic, called on "every citizen to be aware of the danger to the nation."

U.S. troops kept cautiously in the background, lest the disturbances again take an anti-American tone. But American officials got orders from President Johnson "to make every effort" to use his bonding South Vietnamese to settle the quarrel before it erupts into widescale civil war and brings a total collapse of the war against the Viet Cong.

American diplomats appealed to the Ky government to do everything to prevent such disaster, sources said.

The political-civil strife completely overshadowed the war effort. Although the Viet Cong shipped in by air transport with the development of the site under the direction of the Space Research Facilities section of the NRC and Bristol Aerospace Ltd. of Winnipeg, manufacturers of the Black Brant rockets.

The rockets will carry payloads of about 35 pounds to a height of 100 to 125 miles. Dr. Brian Currie, professor of physics at the University of Alberta, Calgary, is expected to be in charge of the experiments.

Hynek questioned why a physicist and a chemist from Hillsdale College were not called upon for the investigation.

Van Horn said he was called to a dormitory at the college the night of March 21 where he and 17 girls watched "the object from the northeast, flashing by their window," disappearing to the south of them and then reappearing over the area and descending to where we observed it."

Hynek was informed by myself," Van Horn said, "that at one time I could make out a recessed surface between the two lights which I estimated at 25 feet between."

Hynek in his report had said "they have not described an object," only "lights that seemed to move."

A major portion of Van Horn's report covered results of tests the day after the sighting by Kipling Vandenberg, 13, and Jerry Wilson, 16, of Bay City, amateur chemists and biologists. They said they tested for radiation and checked soil, plants, animals, minerals and water in the area.

Using a geiger counter and a radiological survey meter, the boys reported "the area contained an abnormally high amount of radiation from some unknown source. The area also strangely contained boron which was found in both water and soil. These two facts are the only ones which would substantiate the presence of a UFO."

Radiation checks were taken over a period of three hours at the location, he said, and the radiation was gradually decreasing.

"There's not to be a reason for that boron to be there (in the soil) and also for the increased radioactivity," said Van Horn.

Van Horn said Hynek "never divulged his feelings into" the area of the sighting.

"We spent seven weeks investigating this thing. He spent two hours and 45 minutes."

planned to sail for New York aboard the 23,000 - ton liner Thursday. Arrangements were made for them to travel in other ships or fly.

The Queen Mary, now in mid-Atlantic on her way to the United States, is expected to be immobilized when she returns May 23.

The strike only affects British vessels. Passengers on cross - channel ferries to the continent are not hindered. They are run by Belgian and French crews.

MOST AT SEA

Most of the seamen involved in the dispute were still at sea when the stoppage began. But 20,000 were expected to be ashore by the end of the month as merchant ships returned home to tie up for weeks.

Food supplies, particularly fruit, vegetables and meat, were expected to dwindle after about 10 days and importers predicted soaring prices before the seamen themselves rushed to buy up stocks.

The government is not expected to seek emergency powers until the impact of the strike can be assessed.

Wilson is reluctant to use troops or naval forces for fear it might provoke other groups of workers—such as the dockers—to act in sympathy with the seamen.

2,500 marines and paratroops from Saigon and Quang Ngai base Da Nang in the morning hours, quickly quelling what nearly everyone off guard, incasting U.S. officials.

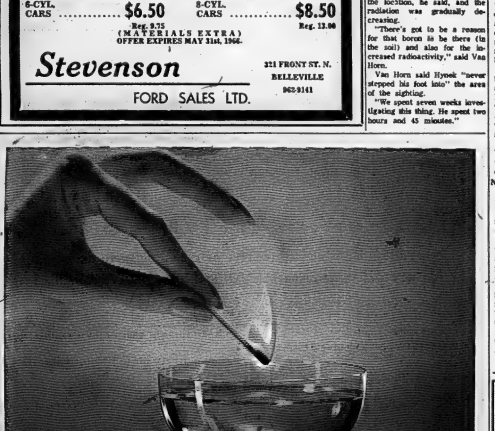
The political-civil strife completely overshadowed the war effort. Although the Viet Cong made no immediate military moves in the northern provinces, there were fears they might strike to take advantage of the disorders.

DENOUNCED AIRLIFT



Ky dismissed Maj.-Gen. Tran That Dinh, one of the young military men who took part in the 1963 coup against president Ngo Dinh Diem, after he denounced the secrecy - shrouded dawn airlift to Da Nang in a broadcast from Hue.

Dinh coupled an appeal for calm among the people of the five provinces under the jurisdiction of the 1st Corps with a declaration that the sudden troop movement was carried out without his knowledge and in "violation of Ky's promises." He urged the junta "not to divide the nation."

The broadcast said Dinh had the backing of two division commanders in the Hue - Da Nang area. The number of troops was not specified.

The reshuffle came as reports from Hue said the insurgents had moved troops, tanks and artillery to the airfield to block any attempt by Ky to seize the old imperial capital 400 miles northeast of Saigon in a repetition of the weekend strike against Da Nang. Hue is 30 miles north of Da Nang.

SAFE

UNQUESTIONABLY! OIL HEAT

Fuel oil is non-explosive.

You could actually extinguish a lighted match in it with complete safety.

And this is only one of the reassuring advantages of oil heating.

Non-explosive heating oil burns only when atomized and ignited inside the sealed combustion chamber of your furnace. You have no worries about safety, or about interruptions in your fuel supply. Safely stored within your home you have your own oil supply, automatically maintained by the oil dealer of your choice, who gives you personalized, po-cost service. All modern fuels are safe, of course, if handled with proper care. Oil, however, is safe under all conditions.

Clean—extraordinarily! Dark streaks above vents and radiators occur with all systems—oil, gas, electricity—but not because of the heating fuel. The cause is dust and grime entering the house and circulating in heated air.

Less cost—continuously! Depending on where you live, you can save $50 or more every year on fuel bills by choosing oil instead of gas—and save much, much more by choosing oil instead of electricity.

A home with safe, clean, dependable oil heat is a more valuable home. Insist on oil heat when you buy or build.

Will Open Opportunity Classes in Fall

NAPANEE — If all goes well, this area will see three more opportunity classes opened next fall. Donald Malden, special education inspector for the Department of Education, visited the Napanee area last week to assist Inspector Paul Anderson in making the arrangements.

Classrooms are now ready for such classes in Richmond Township at the Selby School and in Camden Township, in Centreville and the Desmarais Public School Board hopes to have such a room by mid-October. The boards concerned are seeking teachers specially trained for these special classes.

The area already has three opportunity classes, two in Napanee in charge of Jean Pratt, and Miss Marguerite Way and the other in the Quinte-Mohawk School taught by Mrs. H. M. Rathbun. All are excellent teachers and are very enthusiastic about the type of work, Inspector Anderson says.

Opportunity classes provide teaching for those children who are just a little different from most other children. Each is taught in the classroom of his learning ability and is much happier than when he constantly lags behind in the school with children taking regular work. Many of them would be early dropouts but with the chance they have in the opportunity classes, many will go on to high schools where they will be fitted into classrooms where they can be trained according to their special abilities. Thomas Edison and Sir Winston Churchill are given as men who were not considered good students because they could not conform to the pattern of education. In an opportunity class, their special talents would have been recognized.

Not many children in opportunity classes are geniuses like this, but all of them are better in some subjects than in others. The happy feature is that they will not be kept back just because they are not up to the normal standard in everything and the opportunity for special training will fit them to become useful members of society.

Five Baby Elephants Featured in Circus Here

Of all the animals one sees at the circus, elephants are probably the most liked and petted of all. Certainly no circus would be complete without them. And of all the elephants at the circus, a baby elephant draws the most 'ohs' and 'ahs' from the audience, and an irresistible desire to feed peanuts to her.

Few circuses nowadays can afford the large expenses of maintaining a big herd of elephants, so to see a baby elephant is a rare experience indeed. But when the Clyde Bros. Circus is here Wednesday for one day at the Arena, a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity will present itself for this year's Circus has not just one, or two baby elephants, but five.

The five baby elephants of Clyde Bros. Circus constitute the largest single group. They were brought to this continent three years ago by circus owner Howard Sweet, and turned over to famed animal trainer Karlie Fisher to train and work into an act.

Each elephant was captured in the jungles of Thailand and flown immediately on capture to San Francisco. Then, after quarantine and health inspection, they were again loaded on a plane and flown to Dallas, Texas, where Mr. Fisher and his assistants met them and took them by truck to the circus winterquarters near Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. They did not all arrive at the same time, as it was necessary to send each one as soon as she had been captured. A sixth was sent, and was gratefully donated by Mr. Sweet to the Oklahoma City Zoo.

Now came the long and exhausting days of training. Each baby was then approximately 18 months old and had to be taught first the fundamentals of circus life. Then, after they were sure of their surroundings, work on the individual tricks was begun. Now, after three years' of patient work, the act is winning high praise at every performance.

School Grants Help Lower Marmora's 1966 Mill Rate

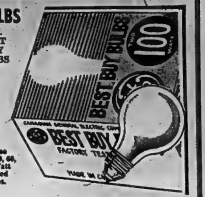
MARMORA — Third reading was given to the budget by-law at Marmora Village Council Meeting held last week with Reeve William Shannon presiding. Confirmation has been received from the Department of Municipal Affairs of approval of the 1966 mill rate. The Council was pleased to note that this year's tax levy will be lowered even though another small truck has been purchased, a new furnace installed in the Memorial Building and repairs made to the roof of the Arena. Council members recognize the fact that high provincial High Schools grants is one reason for the decrease in taxation.

Confirmation was given to the appointment of Gordon Bennett as chairman of the local centennial Committee, and Rev. Maurice McLeod as honorary chairman. With regard to centennial programming in the community it was reported that the official centennial project of renovating the Memorial Building, work on the individual tracks was begun. Now, after three years' of patient work, the act is winning high praise at every performance.

In reviewing the project, the councils of Marmora, and Marmora and Lake Township realizing that the centennial grants, although generous, would limit the size of the project of either community if carried out separately, requested authorization of the Town Hall as a joint project. It should be pointed out that although the Town Hall is owned by the village, the township was granted certain joint use considerations for a period of 100 years at the time it was built in 1913. The only other area of common interest to the two municipalities would be at Booster Club Park on Crowe Lake.

CENTENNIAL DEBUT MET

Under the authorization of the Federal-Provincial Centennial Committee, the project will qualify for grants of $1 from the Federal and $1 from the Provincial Governments for each dollar provided by the village and township on a per capita basis in the two municipalities. Although the grants will fall short of meeting the needs for the project, the shortfall will be covered by winter works subsidies and especially by a most generous offer by the Marmoraton Mining Co. Ltd.



The councils of the two communities are pleased by the co-operation of all concerned and are confident that with the interest of the citizens and the centennial committee, that the Village, Township, and Deloro, may properly join with the rest of Canada in celebrating its 100th anniversary.

In other business dealt with at the meeting, the Council will advertise for a caretaker for Booster Club Park at Crowe Lake.

It was reported that septic service is being provided by Wells Brothers at the Memorial Building.

Appointment was made of Fred Johnson as local By-law Enforcement Officer.

Consideration was given, but no decision reached, to an application from Marmora Public Library Association for use of the north side of the Memorial Building to provide more adequate library facilities in the village.

Boarded Window Is Blamed

SQUAMISH, B.C. (CP) — A grief-stricken mother blamed a boarded window for the deaths of three of her four children early Sunday, trapped in a blazing bedroom as fire spread through a house here.

Mrs. Marilyn Bulmer, 25, told the story in hospital here, where she is recovering from injuries suffered when her husband Lloyd forcibly threw her from the second storey of the blazing building.

Five persons were killed in the fire. The dead children were identified as Breton, 4, Barion, 3 and Bevon, 18 months. The names of Mr. Bulmer's 25-year-old partner and a 28 - year - old New Zealander were being withheld.

Mr. Bulmer, 28, his wife and eldest son Byron, 5, and mill worker William Perry escaped the fire. The house was owned by McGee Wood Shingle Mill, and was located on the outskirts of this timber industry community 30 miles north of Vancouver.

SMOKE WOKE

Mrs. Bulmer said she was awakened by smoke and intense heat an hour after she and her husband and the three boarders had retired for the night.

"The only window in the room was covered by a piece of wallboard and it was pitch black," said the 25 year-old mother. "I got the children together, took them to the window, then awakened my husband.

"The smoke and heat were intense. We took turns at the children while we were tearing the wallboard from the window."

Mr. Bulmer climbed through the window and had to wrestle with his wife to get her out of the building. He grabbed Byron and jumped out the window with his wife in his arms, and didn't let her go until she let her head on an oil drum outside.

Police later recovered the five bodies in the ashes. As the quest was opened and adjourned to May 24.

Deck Finish On Skyway To Be Changed

PICTON (STAFF) — Much concern has been expressed by county residents that construction of the new Quinte Skyway bridge, linking Prince Edward County with Demorestc, may be slowed down if not stopped altogether until next year.

Despite the rumors that the bridge may not be ready this year, resident engineer J. Reid Griffin has stated last week that the work is still scheduled to be completed this fall. He said the contract for the concrete slabbing is expected to be let in the next week or two. There is no delay as far as we know, he said, iron workers are adding finger plates and steel expansion plates and their work should soon be completed. The contract for decking will then be let. A spokesman at the information office of the Department of Highways in Toronto said there have been a few minor changes in final plans - one of these is from pavement deck finish to concrete decking. Its expected contracts would be called anytime within the next four to six weeks.

100,000 HOMELESS

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda reported Saturday that 35,000 families — counted 100 people — have been made homeless by earthquakes in the central Asian city of Tashkent. It said shocks still are rocking the city and the atmosphere is "uneasy and tense." The organ of the Communist party claimed, however, that only 10 persons have been killed and 100 injured by the quakes, the worst of which occurred April 26 and May 10.

Intersection Collision Injures One

PICTON (STAFF) — A two-car accident, near midnight Saturday, sent one man to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital. Injured was Howard Leavitt age 67, of R. R. 3, Picton. Leavitt was alone in his car proceeding towards Bloomfield, when the accident occurred on Highway 33 at the Intersection of Scoharie Road. The driver of the other car, Terry Fellow of Scarborough, and his passenger, Noble Young of Wellington, were not injured. It is assumed that both cars were travelling in the same direction, toward Bloomfield, Pellow attempted to pass the Leavitt car as it was making a left turn on to the Scoharie Road. Both cars were considered write - offs. Leavitt was taken to county hospital by Bond's Ambulance of Picton suffering from shock and severe injuries to one leg.

Ills Besetting PC Party Are Outlined

MONTREAL (CP) — Three Progressive Conservative members of Parliament from Quebec sounded off Saturday on ills that beset the party.

The three MPs were speaking at a convention in Montreal of the Young Progressive Conservatives of Quebec.

Georges Valade, MP for Montreal Ste. Marie, blamed newspapers for causing one ill in "prejudicing French - Canadians from voting for our party."

Mr. Valade said newspapers in Quebec always refer to the Tory party, which carries the connotation of Anglo-Saxon associations. This was malicious.

"Ours is not a party of old men.

"It's a scandal that we have no leader of the French-Canadian wing in Ottawa. We must have a dual leadership in the Macdonald-Cartier tradition."

Theogene Richard, member for St. Hyacinthe-Bagot, criticized the former leader of the Quebec wing, Leon Balcer, who currently is a Liberal candidate in the June 5 provincial election.

"If Balcer had tried to build instead of destroy we wouldn't be where we are today."

The third, Martial Asselin, who sits for Charlevoix, said: "We must become more progressive than conservative. I have never seen an organization so engulfed in lethargy as ours is. We must create a cadre, formulate definite policies and win the confidence of the French-Canadian."

Albert College Capital Funds Appeal Is Launched at Dinner

The alumni and friends of Albert College were urged Saturday to assist the church-affiliated institution to continue its type of all-encompassing education by lending their support to the current Capital Funds Campaign.

These sentiments were reiterated by several speakers at the campaign 'kick-off' dinner in Ackerman Hall at the College on Saturday afternoon.

Guests at the banquet included Mr. Lorne McDougall, chairman of the Board of Governors, Mayor Jack Ellis and Alderman John Deacon of the city of Belleville and a number of members of the board of governors, staff, and alumni of Albert College.

A presentation of initial gifts towards the campaign's objective of $300,000 to be used for renovation and expansion of existing college facilities was made by Dr. Thomas C. McMullen, Honorary vice-chairman of the Board of Governors. The gifts were accepted by Mr. McDougall.

Hubby Not Seen in 35 Years, B. C. Woman Not Interested Now

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—A Nanaimo woman has turned thumbs down on a husband she hasn't seen for 35 years who popped up recently in Wisbech, England.

"I'm not the least bit interested," said Mrs. Florence Plunkett, who lives here with her daughter and son-in-law.

"He married me—I didn't marry him."

James Plunkett first heard of his wife and daughter when he saw a missing persons advertisement in a British weekly newspaper. His daughter had decided to try and find out if her father was still alive.

Mr. Plunkett was very much alive and expressed an interest in travelling to Canada to see his wife and daughter—but said he doesn't have the cash to cover the trip.

"There's no bad feeling, but I'm just not interested," Mrs. Plunkett said Sunday. "I haven't seen him for 35 years and as far as I'm concerned he's dead and I'm very happy now."

Mrs. Plunkett met her husband in 1927 while travelling from the United Kingdom to Canada. They were married the following year in Toronto.

HAD CHILD IN 1929

She said Mr. Plunkett left her shortly after they were wed and she gave birth to her daughter Patricia in 1929.

"He kept following me everywhere I went and said he wouldn't go away until he married me," said Mrs. Plunkett.

"Finally, I just gave up and married him."

She said she saw her husband for short periods of time during the next few years but he disappeared for good in the early 1930s after serving in the U.S. Army Air Corps for a year.

Mr. Plunkett returned to Wisbech and remarried. His second wife died three years ago.

"I got a job and worked to support myself and my daughter," said Mrs. Plunkett. "I gave her a good education and she is happily married with five children and is expecting a set of twins."

A blase British boxing fan mumbling over a pewter of mild-and-bitter in the "Ball and the Beatle", a not too exclusive pub in London's North Pitchley, dubbed the upcoming Cassius Clay — Henry Cooper embroglio the "Ballet of Britain".

"Listen 'ere, mytes" he announced, wiping off the starboard spear of a sergeant-major mouthcheese, "I'm just one of these long-'air coves, but this bloody de 'as all the earmarks of the 'Dyin' Swan" with this bloke Clay as the ballerina, or whatever they call the top tip-toe Yessie of the 'dawnce' ".

"They tell me this Arabian Knight or whatever they call this bloke, Muhammid Ali over 'ome is as light on his feet as a dandelion fluff tossing his way across the lawn. Our 'Enery picks 'em and puts 'em down like a bed-carrier with a double load o' bricks".

"And" he went on (C'ar, I'll 'ave another') "I've told that the Wembley left jab keeps 'is head with 'is twinklin' toes. That don't sound good for 'Enery unless he wears cast-iron blinkers to protect 'is thin-skinned eyebrows".

"But" he said "don't you blokes go and sell 'Enery short, 'E 'as a left 'ook that can pole-axe a bull, provided' it lands in the right spot. Remember 'Enery conked that cove when they met the last time, and decked him for the count of eight".

"Nah then, I'm not sayin' 'Enery is gointa win, nor do I announce he's gointa lose. But if 'e can blink 'is way through the combo of left jabs that Ali will toss his way and bounce a coupla 'oaks off Clay's jaw, I say 'e's gotta chance".

And so on into the night.

Meanwhile over 'ome Clay is proving that silence is golden. The colorful prophetic esterwritings that preceded his previous fights have been missing. Well, almost. He says "I've gotta talk with my fists for this fight — not my mouth."

In London a report says, the fight has whipped up something close to hysteria in the sports-mad city. Famous Highbury Park the home of the famous "Gunners" (Arsenal) soccer club has been sold out to its 46,000 capacity. Another 40,000 are expected to watch a closed circuit television relay. Thousands will watch the fight by pay TV.

Millions will see the fight in the United States, Canada, Mexico and other countries via the Early Bird Satellite. I understand the CBC will carry it here.

The famous British bookies, it is reported are going through some strange and colorful antics odd-wise. Clay it seems is a more or less solid favorite and the B-B's are desperately trying to whip up betting interest.

You figure this out. You've got to lay out $11 to win $10 on Clay. A $2.50 bet on Cooper will get you $11 if he pulls off the great upset. You can have 7-1 against the Briton winning inside the first three rounds, 8-1 against him winning in four or five. You get 12-1 if he wins between the 9th and 12th rounds.

It's 3-1 against Clay winning in the first three rounds and 4-1 against him winning between the fourth and seventh. And remember you've got no Clay predictions to fall back on.

Ticket prices range from $58.80 ringside to $3.88 for standing room.

Most British fight fans have never seen a heavy weight championship staged at home. The last title fight was Feb. 10, 1908 when Canada's Tommy Burns knocked out Jack Palmer in the fourth round to defend his title.

As I mentioned before silence has proven golden for the Muhammid Ali and his colorful Black Muslim entourage. He is reported to be receiving a $750,000 guarantee with Cooper assured of $112,000. Both will collect money from ancillary rights.

And don't worry about split decisions. It will be a victory for either Clay or Cooper — or a draw. Under British rules there will be no outside judges. The referee's verdict is final. He is George Smith, a 55-year-old Scot who will be the sole person in charge.

Win Five-Pins Titles

Trenton's Mary Fox chalked up her third consecutive women's open five-pin bowling championship while a Belleville youth, Bob Stirling, won the men's "B" title in a combined tournament at the Bowl-O-Drome Friday and Saturday.

Mary Fox, who rolled her 2385 ten-game score on Friday, saw it stand up against Saturday's challengers. Peg Ronsky, who also bowled Friday, held on to second place with 2256.

Marlene Henderson had the high single of the tourney, a big 352, while other scores over 300 went to Jean Arbuckle, with 318, and Peg Ronsky, with 333 and 316.

Bob Stirling, a student at BCIVS, nosed out Pete Roy by a s'x ten-pins for the men's "B" title. (For men bowlers with under 210 averages).

Stirling had 2194 and Roy carried 2184. Both bowled Saturday.

Friday night's leader, Brian Shearer, of Campbellford, finished fifth with his 2082.

In third spot was Moe Stoisebury, with 2154, while Frank Duclos was fourth with 2097. Then came Shearer and in sixth position was Rose Mc-Coy with 2057.

Pete Roy rolled the tournament's top single, a 385.

This was the second year in a row that the tournament was won by a youth. Stephen Lee, also of BCIVS, was last year's winner.

Milt Pappas continued proving his worth to Cincinnati Reds Sunday, gaining his third straight complete-game victory as the Reds whipped Chicago Cubs 9-2.

Pappas and Frank Robinson were the primary players in the winter deal between the Reds and Baltimore Orioles, and everyone conceded the better of the trade to Baltimore when Robinson was batting .400 before Pappas even had won a game for Cincinnati.

But now the 27-year-old right-hander has won three games in 10 days, and he's helped pull the Reds to within three games of .500 after they had been eight games under.

Pappas, however, isn't interested in discussing the merits of the trade.

"It'll take three years before anyone can decide what's what in a deal like this," he said Sunday, adding:

"The Reds got me to pitch, and I can do that."

RECOVERED WELL

Since being battered in his first three starts for an average of five runs a game, he has reduced his earned run average to 2.00 and increased his record to 3-2.

Elsewhere in the National League Sunday, New York Mets whipped San Francisco Giants 6-1, Los Angeles Dodgers trimmed Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1, Philadelphia Phillies stopped Houston Astros 5-2, and St. Louis Cardinals downed Atlanta Braves 3-3.

Saturday, the Dodgers thumped the Pirates 4-1, the Astros stopped the Phillies 6-5, the Mets bombed the Giants 11-4, the Braves blanked the Cards 5-1 and the Reds shaded the Cubs 2-1.

Pappas received solid support from Pete Rose, who rapped three hits, including a three-run double in the fourth inning, and Deron Johnson, Don Pavletich and Art Shamsky contributed homers to the Reds' attack while Ron Santo connected for the Cubs.

Rod Gardner stopped San Francisco on four hits, one of them Jim Hart's homer. Ron Swoboda drove in three New York rallies, singling and scoring in the first and singling at the start of a four-run outburst in the third.

Don Sutton and Phil Regan combined for a six-hitter over Pittsburgh. John Roseboro and Maury Wills each tripled in a run, and Wills scored on Willie Davis' single.

Philadelphia defeated Houston as Harvey Kuenn singled in the sixth inning and scored the tying run, then singled across the lead run in the seventh. Richie Rojas added a two-run double in the eighth, inserting Larry Jackson's first victory as a Phillie.

The Cardinals scored two runs in the third inning when Joe Torre drove and Frank Bolling's throw at the plate, allowing Orlando Cepeda to score and Tim McCarver to reach third from where he came across on Julian Javier's sacrifice fly.

Sets Outdoor Vault Record

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Bob Seagren sailed over the bar at 17 feet 3½ inches in the West Coast relays Saturday night to add the world's outdoor pole vault record to his indoor mark.

After clearing a height one half inch above 17 feet, Seagren, 19, asked that the bar be raised well above the 17-foot four-inch record set by Fred Hansen of Rice in the United States-Russia meet of 1964.

Seagren missed twice but cleared the bar the third time with at least two inches to spare.

Whip Generals 4-2

Goalie Leads Oil Kings To Cup

TORONTO (CP) — Don McLeod, Edmonton Oil Kings goaltender accused of selling his team down after the third game of the Memorial Cup final, recovered to lead his teammates to the Canadian junior hockey championship during the weekend.

The Oil Kings wrapped up their best - of - seven series against Oshawa Generals with a 2-1 victory before 5,018 fans Sunday to win the series 4-2 after winning 7-4 Saturday before 8,802 at Maple Leaf Gardens, scene of the entire series.

The title was the second in four seasons for the Kings, who don't play in a regular junior league but have represented the West in the national final for the last seven years. They defeated Niagara Falls Flyers in the 1963 final.

It was also the first time a western team has won the Cup while playing on an eastern rink since Port Arthur Bruins did it in 1948.

McLeod came in for sharp criticism before the fourth game of the series and was almost benched.

"They owe it all to the goalie who they said choked," said Bep Guidolin, Oshawa coach. "What are they saying about him now?"

They were saying plenty.

KINAWEWICH EXPANSIVE

"You are looking at the finest goalie in junior hockey," said Edmonton coach Ray Kinawewich in the Oil Kings dressing room after Sunday's victory.

Edmonton manager Bill Hunter was at his vocal best Sunday.

"When he gets that look in his eye," he said of McLeod, "you just know that nobody's gonna beat him."

The only one who did beat him Sunday was Billy Heindl, who opened the scoring by batting in a rebound mid - way through the first period.

Harrison, whose rock-ribbed body checks put Heindl and Oshawa defenceman Paul Cadieux out of the game with injuries, got the tying goal late in the second period.

Hodgson scored the winner in the third period on a blistering slap shot.

Everton Nips Sheffield For 'T'Coop'

100,000 At Wembley

WEMBLEY (CP)—Down 2-0 after 17 minutes, Everton's soccer team suddenly found its touch and defeated Sheffield Wednesday 3-2 in the English Football Association cup final Saturday.

A sell-out crowd of 100,000 saw the thriller at Wembley Stadium, in which Everton scored three times in 17 minutes to grab the victory.

Not since 1953, when Blackpool with Stanley Matthews beat Bolton Wanderers 4-3 after being down 3-1 in the second half, has there been such a trans formation in a cup final.

Sheffield, the underdog, outplayed Everton in the first half the game. Sheffield led 1-0 at half time and made it 2-0 in the 57th minute.

Everton rocketed back into the game with two goals by Mike Trebilcock, a 19-year-old added to the Everton team at the last minute. Trebilcock replaced World Cup forward Fred Pickering, dropped by Everton manager Harry Catterick in a sensational decision just before the game.

Then Derek Temple, England's left winger, scored the Everton winner in the 74th minute.

SCORES PENING GOAL

The opening goal came in the fourth minute when Jim McCalliog scored with a left-footed shot that went into the net off Everton left-back Ray Wilson. It was the first goal scored against Everton in this year's cup competition.

In the 57th minute, inside left David Ford fired a rebound past Everton goalkeeper Gordon West, to put Sheffield two goals up.

With former England goalkeeper Ron Springett displaying brilliant form, it appeared Everton would never crack Sheffield's defence. But the tide turned suddenly.

Trebilcock scored in the 58th and 63rd minutes from his inside-right spot and a bad defensive lapse let Temple in to score the winner in the 74th minute.

The victory by Everton, which had previously won the cup in 1906 and 1933, completed a great cup and league double for the city of Liverpool. Everton's neighbor, Liverpool, won the league championship this season. It is the first time in 45 years that the cup and league championships have both gone to the same city.

Bert Marshall Runner-Up

Brit Selby, Rookie Of Year

MONTREAL (CP) — Left-winger Brit Selby, 21, of Toronto Maple Leafs has been chosen rookie-of-the-year for the National Hockey League's 1965-66 season, the NHL announced Sunday.

BRIT SELBY

The trophy is decided by a poll of sportswriters and broadcasters in the six NHL cities. Selby drew 19 points after the first half of the season and an other 39 in the second-half poll to finish with 58 points.

The runner-up was Detroit Red Wings defenceman Bert Marshall, 22, who was given 90 points, 48 in the first-half poll and 42 in the second half.

Third place went to Gilles Marotte, a 20-year-old defenceman for Boston Bruins with 65 points, five in the first half and 60 in the second half.

Selby, who was born in Kingston, Ont., March 27, 1945, becomes the ninth Toronto player to win the trophy since it was first given after the 1937-38 season. The award has gone six times to New York Rangers, five times to Montreal Canadiens, four times to Detroit players and three times each to Chicago Black Hawks and Boston.

In his final junior season in 1964-65 Selby scored 45 goals and 43 assists while playing for Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association.

During the 1965-66 regular NHL season he scored 14 goals and 13 assists in 61 games while receiving only 26 minutes in penalties.

As winner of the rookie-of-the-year trophy, Selby will receive $1,000 plus $250 for leading the first-half vote. Marotte will be awarded $500 as runner-up for the trophy and Marotta will collect $250 as leader in the second-half poll.

Leafs, Jets Split Pair, Wings Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs, who won the Governor's Cup in the International League playoffs last season, just don't do anything right this year.

The Leafs, after losing 5-1 to Columbus Jets Saturday, grouped three hits — the only ones of the game — in the fourth inning of the first game of a doubleheader against the Jets Sunday.

But Russ Gibson failed to lag up while rounding third base for the third out, and Columbus went on to a 1-0 victory.

The Leafs did come back to shutout the Jets 4-0 in the seven-inning nightcap.

Elsewhere Sunday, Buffalo Bisons defeated Toledo Mud Hens 4-3 before losing the second game 6-3, Syracuse Chiefs defeated Richmond Braves 2-1 and 3-0, and Rochester Red Wings downed Jacksonville Suns 8-1.

DIE IN LANDSLIDE

SONDRIO, Italy (Reuters) — Three mountain climbers, two girls and a man, were killed Sunday when a landslide crashed down on about 40 students and guides of a mountaineering school in the Alps near here.

Drago allowed only two players to reach first base, both by walks, in winning the opener. A double play cut down one runner. Drago struck out four in winning his fifth game against one loss.

Clark issued five bases on balls in his victory. Two players reached second.

Yankees Win Pair

Tribe Holds Lead; Splits With Orioles

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleveland Indians have a starting pitcher for every day of the week. One of them, however, is unlucky for the Birds.

Lee Stange, an odd man in Cleveland's powerful pitching rotation, made his first start of the season Sunday and clipped Baltimore Orioles' wings for the 11th time in 13 lifetime decisions as the Indians salvaged the second game of a doubleheader 3-1.

The Orioles took the 12-inning opener 1-0, ending a four-game skid, before Stange's complete-game victory gave Cleveland a 3-1 edge in the weekend series and r-established their two-game American League lead.

Stange had pitched only two-thirds of an inning in three relief appearances—twice against Baltimore — before Tobbetts called on him Sunday.

The 28-year-old right-hander set the Orioles down in one hour and 31 minutes—second fastest game in the majors this year. He scattered eight hits, walked none and struck out four.

FRANK FORGOT JINX

Frank Robinson had three of the Orioles' hits, including a fourth inning homer. "Maybe somebody better tell him about the jinx," Stange cracked.

Elsewhere Sunday, New York Yankees swept a double-header from Kansas City Athletics 5-2 and 3-1; Detroit Tigers outscored Chicago White Sox 8-6; Minnesota Twins stopped Washington Senators 6-2 and Boston Red Sox snapped a six-game losing string by thumping California 6-3 after the Angels took the first game of the doubleheader 5-4.

In Saturday action, New York dropped a 4-2 decision to Kansas City, Chicago whitewashed Detroit 13-3, California defeated Boston 6-4, Washington edged Minnesota 5-4 and Cleveland shaded Baltimore 3-1.

The Orioles broke up a scoreless duel in the first game on Russ Snyder's leadoff single in the 12th, a sacrifice and Brooks Robinson's RBI single. John Miller, Stu Miller and winner Eddie Watt combined to blank Cleveland.

Al Downing, Bob Friend and Fred Ramos pitched the Yankees to their victories. Ramos balled Downing out of a ninth-inning jam in the first game and protected Friend's first league victory with 2 2-3 innings of shutout relief in the second.

Roger Maris and Bobby Richardson paced New York's 13-hit attack in the opener with three hits apiece. Two unearned runs in the first inning—result of a throwing error by Kansas City third baseman Wayne Comer—proved the difference in the nightcap.

Shade Beavers 3-2

Miners Game From Allan Cup

CALGARY (CP) — M Drumheller Miners needed further issues to wrap up their Allan Cup final series quickly, Edmonton Oil Kings probably provided it Sunday afternoon.

They tied for the regular-season championship of the Alberta Senior Hockey League and failed to reach a decision in a seven-game playoff final.

The Kings set a standard for the Miners Sunday when they won the Memorial Cup. No league ever has produced senior and junior champions in the same season.

The Miners moved within one victory of the championship Saturday when they held off Sherbrooke Beavers for a 3-2 victory and a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven final.

All others used speed, experience and finesse.

Foremost among the clever operators were four Vancouver boys — Frank Scott at 112 pounds, Jimmy Mann at 119, Fred Fuller at 132 and Dick Findlay at 139.

BEAT FIVE TIMES

Scott defeated Walter Henry of Orillia, Ont., who had won the Canadian title five times previously; MacMillan outhooed hard-punching Harold Handlie of Prince Rupert; Fuller held off Tommy Boyce of Vancouver and Findlay was too busy for Jim Hall of Blairsville, Ont.

Other champions were Art Jones of Montreal at 147 pounds, Ray Kabanyshyn of Bonnyville, Alta., at 156, Donato Padasono of Montreal at 165, and heavyweight Earl McLeay of Calgary.

Ron, Leopold, Bill Voss and Tony Kollman did the scoring for the Miners, who won the first game of the series and dropped the next two before evening the series in the fourth game.

The high-powered Drumheller forwards United Sherbrooke goaltender Serge Aubry almost constantly but the nimbo young men of Detroit Red Wings, wound up with 41 saves.

Yves Cossette and Rejean Richer replied for the Beavers before 1,630 fans in the 2,200-seat Foothills Arena. Drumheller led 3-0 after the first period and Sherbrooke scored once each in the last two periods.

The sixth game is scheduled tonight.

Canadian Boxing Team

BC Places 4 Champions

By JOHN SHORT

CALGARY (CP)—Boxers won over punchers Saturday as four British Columbia representatives won Canadian boxing titles and spearheaded an eight-man team selected to compete in the British Empire Games this summer.

Only one knockout highlighted the 10 final bouts before about 2,000 fans. Heinz Koppe of Toronto punched his way onto the team by registering a technical knockout over Marijan Kotar of Prince George, B.C., at 178 pounds.

Kolar was stopped at 2:34 of the second round after three knockdowns.

Only one other B.E.G. hopeful, 25-pounder Wally Johnson of Calgary, won a berth on the basis of his hard punching, pummelling Gaston Pelletier of St. Laurent, Que., in the final.

400 Hurt In Welcome To Everton

LIVERPOOL (AP) — A huge crowd welcoming Liverpool's victorious Everton soccer team, winner of the English Football Association Cup, turned into a wild, shoving mob Sunday night and more than 400 persons were reported injured.

The St. John's Ambulance Brigade said it treated more than 400 persons hurt in the turmoil.

Police were helpless to control a crowd that swelled to about 100,000 greeting the triumphant team's return from the cup final at London's Wembley Stadium.

Everton won the soccer cup Saturday by defeating Sheffield Wednesday 3-2.

Davis Team Ousted

PARIS (CP)—Canada's Davis Cup team, encouraged by an easy 4-1 first-round victory over Finland, had its hopes tackled against France, which completed a 5-0 sweep Sunday of the second-round series in the European zone of Davis competition.

Francois Jaubfret and Pierre Darmon, veteran members of the French team, defeated Harry Fancutt, 26, of Toronto and Mike Belkin, 20, of Montreal, respectively, in Sunday's final singles matches.

The Canadians each managed to take two sets from their opponents, but the experienced French players managed to take both matches.

Jaubfret defeated Fancutt 6-2, 6-2, 1-6, 6-4, 6-0 and Darmon downed Belkin 6-8, 1-6, 7-5, 6-0, 6-1.

Jaubfret, playing with badly-blistered feet, took advantage of the mistakes by Fancutt in the first set. But the Frenchman made many faults himself in the next two sets and Fancquier, who began playing tennis in Vancouver at 15, tied the match going into the fifth set. In the fifth, however, Jaubfret dominated the Canadian from the back of the court.

Group Will Visit Ottawa To Discuss New Bridge

CAMPBELLFORD — A delegation from Campbellford Municipal Council will visit Ottawa this week and interview Hon. J. Pickersgill about a new bridge in Campbellford. Mr. Pickersgill has said it is up to the municipality to choose the type of bridge to be built. The more favorable financial assistance from the Department of Transport is for a high level bridge. For a bridge such as Campbellford would require the government grant would be $180,000, or approximately 80 per cent of the cost.

The delegation hopes to show the Department that a high level bridge a short distance would not be feasible as the six or one half per cent grade necessary would cause interference with the stores in the immediate area.

Some years ago discussion took place about a new high level bridge a short distance north of the present structure, where a natural grade from either banks along the river are more favorable to the construction of a high level bridge. Since then a new building has been erected on the location.

The interview was arranged by Russell Rowe, M.P.P. and George Hees, M.P.

The condition of the bridge demands that action of some kind be taken in the near future.

Wilson Warned Not to Use Navy To Break Strike

LONDON (CP)—The National Union of Seamen warned Prime Minister Wilson today it will take counter-action if he uses the Royal Navy to break the two-day-long seamen's strike.

As ships piled up in British ports, Bill Hogarth, general secretary of the 85,000 - member union, said the seamen would let the Royal Navy move vessels from congested berths to "parking" areas.

But he added:

"If the government tries to use the navy to move ships to another port for loading or for anything else which looks like strike breaking, we will immediately ask the dockers to black (blacklist) those ships."

Wilson said in a television broadcast monday night the government is ready to call on the royal navy if the strike produces a national emergency.

The seamen began their walkout for a shorter working week at the same pay at midnight Sunday night, immobilizing ships at ports throughout Britain. If the strike continues, British ships will become strikebound as they reach home ports at the rate of about 300 a week.

The crew of the 85,000-ton Queen Elizabeth in New York joined the walkout after she arrived at Southampton Monday from the port of New York.

"LIGHTS GOING OUT"

The liner's captain, Commodore Geoffrey Marr, said: "I fear the lights are going out throughout Britain's merchant shipping tonight—and some of them will never come on again.

"This strike has been particularly tragic for the two Queen ships. The only ships to carry enough passengers to tide us over the bad times in during the peak summer months."

With the docking of the Queen Elizabeth at Southampton, the number of seafarers swelled to 300 to a total of 6,500. The union said 123 ships were made idle in the first 24 hours of the strike.

The strike has hit coastal ferries. Firefighters used unmanned other kinds of ships as well as the transatlantic passenger liners.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson went on a national television broadcast Monday night to tell the seamen that, although he sympathized with their grievances, the walkout was unofficial and will only make a solution more difficult.

The government his offer to set up a court of inquiry to look into the wages-and-hours structure for the week and to remold antiquated shipping legislation. The offer had been rejected last week by the seamen's union.

Both Bill Hogarth, the union's general secretary, and Sid Ford Geddes, chairman of the ship-

Will Back Military Regime

By SPENCER DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Johnson administration leaders, after two days of intensive consultations on the current Viet Nam crisis, have agreed to support a strong South Vietnamese military rule in any future Saigon government.

A high official explained the administration's decision to support a military regime in Saigon this way:

It is necessary to build a nation and fight a war at the same time. The current appraisal here is that the political disturbances in South Viet Nam will fall short of a civil war, but may involve bloodshed.

Evolution—but not stability—will be predominant in the weeks and months ahead. The army is the only nation-building influence in a country so divided among conflicting groups and without any political parties with a proper base.

The United States recognizes Ky as the head of the established government of South Viet Nam but this does not mean he would be given U.S. support over someone else in an election.

It is felt here that Ky decided he couldn't tolerate a situation where the Saigon government had no control over one of its most important military and political areas. But the wisdom of taking the action he did in setting the city—a move the administration says was done without U.S. consultation — is questioned.

Many experts here contend that Ky's action will do more harm than good by stimulating the Buddhists to all-out opposition. Others say that if Premier Ky an opportunity to re-establish law and order before elections are held in mid-September for a constitution-making body.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: This will be one of the warmest days so far this spring with 76-degree temperatures expected over most of southern Ontario and Quebec.

A new disturbance extending from the eastern Prairies southward as Texas has produced a large area of showers and thundershowers which will reach western Ontario tonight. It will take most of Wednesday to move this large area of showers and thundershowers across Ontario.

Housing Problems Attacked

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP) — Insurance companies came under fire Monday as a two-day Commons supply debate turned into a broad discussion of housing problems.

Members of the Liberal, Conservative and New Democratic parties made private lenders a villain in the shortage of mortgage money for home-building.

A Liberal MP suggested insurance companies have deliberately withdrawn from the field to force the government to increase the interest rate of National Housing Act mortgages, now at 6¾ per cent.

Joe Macaluso (Hamilton West) said private lenders are "trying to pressure the government" into the increase.

Alfred Hales (Prince Wellington South) said private sources of mortgage money are drying up because of a government tight-money policy.

The debate began with a Conservative non-confidence motion charging the Pearson administration with impeding development through a tight - money policy and denying builders and would - be home - owners mortgage funds.

VOTE TONIGHT?

A vote will come tonight but the fate of the minority Liberal government appeared to be little danger.

Attendance was sparse in the House Monday and tension absent as members of all parties aired their views on the housing situation.

A common theme was more federal direction.

Georges Hees (Northumberland), Conservative financial critic, moved the motion, said insurance companies should be required to invest mortgage funds in small towns and rural areas.

NDP critic Colin Cameron (Nanaimo - Cowichan - The Islands) suggested abolition of insurance companies. It was nonsense to allow "private racketeers" to collect savings and invest them wherever they wanted.

Mr. Cameron booted the proposed Canada Development Corporation would be formed to pool and invest these savings. Hees said the recent increase in the NHA mortgage rate to 6¾ per cent and federal flexibility to keep insurance and trust companies interested in housing loans have created a tight-money situation.

Mortgages under the NHA should be redirected to average rather than higher-cost homes, he said.

Liberal MPs said more single dwellings are being built this year than last. They also expressed there is no lack of money for urban renewal and public housing projects.

A federal fund of $200,000,000 set aside in 1965 had hardly been dented, they said.

Gemini Launching Postponed As Satellite Fails To Orbit

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY (AP) — The launching of the Gemini 9 astronauts on a rendezvous and space-walk mission was postponed today for at least two weeks when their Agena target satellite failed to achieve orbit.

An Atlas rocket blasted away from Cape Kennedy at 11.15 a.m. EDT to propel the Agena into space. But eight minutes later, mission director William C. Schneider reported:

"We have lost the Agena bird. We don't know exactly what happened to it. The Gemini will not fly today."

He then scrubbed the launch of Gemini 9 pilots Thomas P. Stafford and Eugene A. Cernan, who were to have spent three days in space practising manoeuvres essential to Apollo moon-to-Earth journey trips.

MISSED AGAIN

For Stafford, it was the second time disappointment. He and U.S. Navy Cdr. Walter M. Schirra were in the Gemini 6 spacecraft Oct. 25 last and had their mission postponed when their Agena target satellite exploded six minutes after lift-off.

There was no immediate reaction from the astronauts on the scrubbing of the space flight—one of the most daring and difficult ever attempted.

Strapped in their three-man spacecraft, they were to have practised several rendezvous and docking manoeuvres with the Agena, attempted space rescue missions, fired the Agena engine to boost it into a higher orbit and then, in the most dangerous phase of the mission, were to have made a record two-hour, 25-minute space walk.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Monday that if Agena failed to achieve orbit, Stafford and Cernan would have to wait at least two weeks until an alternate satellite could be placed on the launch pad.

This satellite, called an akenatite target docking adapter (ATDA) is the same as scheduled as the Agena. It has no propulsion system. It was built after the Gemini 6 failure for just such an emergency.

LIFTOFF LATE

The Atlas had lifted off 15 minutes late because of a radio ing problem with the Agena. Pressure apparently dropped in a nitric acid tank and there was unable to load as quickly as planned.

The Atlas launch appeared to be normal as the silvery propulsion system of the Agena left Antic Ocean, spewing a long trail of red-orange flame.

About two minutes into the flight, mission control at Houston, Tex., reported it had temporary loss of radio contact with Agena and then had regained it.

A minute later, the control centre reported all contact lost.

A later announcement said the trouble appeared to occur "at staging." This would have been at the time when the Agena was to have separated from the Atlas.

In this period, there was a report from the range safety

HOW CERNAN WILL WALK IN SPACE — This artist's conception shows how Navy Lt. Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan plans to perform man's longest walk in space when he leaves Gemini 9 spacecraft and manoeuvres about the spacecraft as 16 orbits the earth. The Gemini takeoff, scheduled for today, was postponed when an Agena satellite, its target, failed to go into orbit. Cernan will use a 166-pound back pack, called the AMU, developed by Ling-Temco-Vought for the Air Force which is equipped with 12 tiny rockets to propel him where he wants to go. Cernan's life will depend on the pack for about an hour. It feeds him with oxygen. (AP Wirephoto).

CBC Executive Panics When Heat Is on, Claim

OTTAWA (CP)—One of the CBC's "middle - management" men says the corporation chiefs defend their employees well—if you don't look too closely.

When the heat is on, the real reaction among CBC executives is panic, Marc Thibault told the Commons broadcasting committee Monday night.

"What is important is what happens inside. Here there is disquiet.

"We have the impression there is panic with each political protest. We feel we are put at fault each time. . . . It is just as if we had signed against dogma."

Mr. Thibault, public affairs supervisor of the French-language network with more than a decade of experience with some of Canada's first television experiments, was the second witness in the committee's study of the French side of the CBC.

English network problems of the kind evident in the country were very surrounding the program This Hour Has Seven Days, required the committee until late last week.

Mr. Thibault said the CBC has almost always given "the impression it defends itself well."

But panic had existed during this period, and even the public defence of producers and key public affairs personnel had been cast aside with dismissal of co-hosts Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre from Seven Days.

The CBC should not object to politicians' frank reactions to television programs they do not like, Mr. Thibault said.

As for "clandestine political interference," he had only hearsay evidence and did not want to discuss this before the committee.

In reply to Marcel Prud'homme (L — Montreal St. James), Mr. Thibault denied that Premier Lesage had refused Monday to appear on two French-network programs. But the CBC supervisor would not be drawn into a discussion about Mr. Lesage's views on network programming.

Mr. Prud'homme asked about pressure behind the scenes. Separatists work in the public affairs Department. Mr. Thibault said if they do, he doesn't allow it to affect their approach to program material.

Giller Gregoire (Creditiste—Lotbinière) said a CBC official told him the network spends 72 per cent of its budget on administration, 28 per cent on programming. Was this logical?

Mr Thibault told Mr. Gregoire to ask the CBC vice-president in charge of organization.

Viet Cong Strikes At Saigon

From Reuters-AP

SAIGON (CP) — The South Vietnamese government today moved a division of troops from the Mekong Delta to the Saigon area following a series of savage Viet Cong attacks on the capital's outskirts Monday night.

A defence ministry spokesman said the move was "to ensure the security of the capital" after the attacks.

The political crisis deepened. Buddhist leaders threatened a confrontation with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime, pledging to give their lives if necessary to force the government to end its crackdown in the northern part of the coupe country.

As the junta faced the political peril of a new round of fiery protests by monks, disbanded troops of the army's 1st Corps also kept up their resistance to the government.

FIRE AT HELICOPTER

A soldier in Hoa fired two pistol shots at a U.S. helicopter-carrying the new Vietnamese commander of the 1st corps, Maj.-Gen. Huynh Van Cao, and the U.S. marine chief of staff Viet Nam, Brig.-Gen. Jonas M. Platt.

Only one aboard the helicopter was hurt, but a gunner returned the fire and killed the soldier.

While the Hoa radio continued its anti-government broadcasts, only an occasional shot was heard in Da Nang, 70 miles to the south, where 2,500 soldiers sent north by Ky Sunday tried to establish their hold on the main northern trouble spot.

Government marines controlled most of the city, but anti-government leaders and into a third Buddhist pagoda and blocked traffic in the area. The two pagodas they already held were being used as rallying points.

CN To Run New Turbine-Power Trains Through Belleville In '67

Next summer will mark another milestone in Belleville's history as a railroad town.

Sleek, new, turbine-powered passenger trains, the first of their kind, will speed back between Toronto and Montreal. Their top speed potential will be 100 miles an hour.

They will not stop at Belleville, but their acquisition by the CNR will result in improved service for Belleville and other intermediate points between Toronto and Montreal, relaxing a better equipment for this service.

The new trains will make return trips each day, between Toronto and Montreal and between Montreal and Toronto, while morning and afternoon trains, in each direction, will serve the intermediate points.

Four of the new turbotrains will be used on the Montreal-Toronto runs with a fifth to be used as a standby.

There will also be some Belleville railroaders who will share the proud distinction of being the first to operate the new turbine-powered trains. These crews will need some special training because the new trains will be much lighter and will also have an electric braking system, in addition to a backup pneumatic system of the type now used.

The drastic reduction in weight of the new trains will make them cheaper, not only to build but also to operate. They will weigh 800 pounds per passenger seat, approximately half the weight of a rail iner per passenger seat, and only a fourth of the weight of the Rapido, which weighs 3,800 pounds per passenger seat.

While no trains of the new type are now operating, the U.S. Government has ordered similar trains for tests in the Chicago and New York-Washington areas.

Eventually, if the turbine-powered trains prove as efficient and economical as hoped, their use will spread and Belleville will be served by them.

The CNR plans were announced by President Donald Gordon at a press conference at Montreal this morning.

Details applicable to Belleville were explained to The Intelligencer by Harry J. Fast, manager of the Rideau Area of the CNR.

The equipment was designed by United Aircraft Corporation and is being obtained on a lease-maintenance arrangement with that company. The cars will be built by Montreal Locomotive Works, under contract to United Aircraft of Canada Limited and the turbines will be built at the Longueuil, Que. plant of UAC.

"It is most appropriate," Mr. Gordon said, "that the introduction of CN's new turbotrain service, the most significant innovation in the technology of railway passenger service in the last hundred years, is being aimed to coincide with Canada's centennial year and the expected simulated by such events as Expo 67. The operation of this new passenger service in the heavily travelled Montreal-Toronto route will be of tremendous assistance to the transportation problems of that year as well as in the years to come."

The new equipment will consist of five sets of seven cars, each set having two dome cars, one at each end, containing the turbine power units. They will be operated in tandem sets of 14 cars and will be able to reduce considerably the present running times between the two cities, besides offering the latest in passenger comforts. Two sets, each of seven cars, will be delivered in April 1967, two in May and one in June.

The design of the cars includes a new type of suspension system which, combined with single axles, in place of the two axle trucks of conventional equipment, permits higher speeds over existing tracks and provides smoother riding qualities. The turbotrains will also feature lighter weight, faster acceleration and deceleration and improved braking systems for faster and smoother stops.

Maintenance of the trains will be greatly simplified. All wearing components — turbines, axle sets, air conditioners — can be removed in units, making it not only no longer be necessary to hold cars out of service for long periods for on-train repairs or shopping.

The new passenger traffic in the Toronto-Montreal service is growing rapidly and exceeds 6,000 passengers in both directions in each direction, CN officers revealed. In ten years they expect that will double. CN's capacity in this traffic is increasing very rapidly and the service is currently operating at more than capacity is required and this cannot be provided by withdrawing equipment from other routes since many of those are also enjoying a growth rate. The choice was between conventional type equipment of basically outmoded design or an advancement into a new age using available technology. CN concluded that the turbotrain developed by UAC offered the best answer.

Motive power for the turbotrain will be cost a load by a domed, passenger-carrying car, of which there are two to each train set or power unit. The load car pulls the train while the rear one pushes. In the Montreal-Toronto service each train will be made up of two train sets coupled together, making in all four domed cars — one at each end and two in the middle — together with ten intermediate cars.

The power plants will be modified version of the Pratt and Whitney PT6 free-turbine aircraft engine. Weighing only 220 pounds each, the turbines will be five feet long, and one-and-a-half feet in diameter. They will burn conventional diesel fuel and will be capable of developing up to 400 h.p. each.

The turbines do not require warm-ups as diesels do, can be started quickly at temperatures as cold as 60 below zero, and reach full power in less than 30 seconds. They are virtually noiseless and vibrationless.

Acceleration rate of the turbotrain will be faster than diesel locomotives: about 100 miles per hour within five minutes of starting.

Mr. W. J. Harper of Cobourg, Provincial Field Executive for the Quinte Region, spoke briefly on some of the new changes for Scouts that are being tried in the "Peterborough Project", the pilot area for the proposed new concepts for Scout Troops. Fire Truck Starts Self And Takes Off

DESCHENES, Que. (CP)— Fire Chief Leonard Fortin, the mayor and several councillors were having a meeting Monday night in a garage when they heard the sound of a truck engine next door in the fire hall.

The chief rushed over and just missed being run down by the community's fire truck as it crashed through the hall's closed doors. Outside, the runaway truck made a sharp turn and crashed into the chief's parked car. Total damage was $800.

"It must have been a short of some kind that started it," Chief Fortin said. "It's the first day of the month we have had a call. Maybe she was just edgy and decided she just had to go."

Deschenes is just west of Ottawa, across the Ottawa River.

Wilson

ping federation, said Monday night they are willing to have further talks with Wilson.

But Gordon said the talks owners are operating on a low profit margin already and can't afford the union's demands. Hargarth said that only an improved offer from the shipping federation would end the strike.

The union has called for a reduction to 40 hours from 56 in the work week, without loss of pay. The ship owners want the reduction spread over two years, saying the union demand represents a 17 - per - cent increase in wages. The basic wage now is $42 for a 56-hour week.

The prime minister said on television that the 17-per-cent increase would "breach the dikes" of the government's prices-and-incomes policy, and he indicated his government would have to oppose it.

NAVY'S REASON

The Royal Navy is ready to carry supplies to isolated communities, Wilson said, and the government will impose a state of emergency "if this becomes necessary."

Within hours of the strike Monday, there were reports of rising food prices. The main producer markets reported sharp increases in such items as potatoes and apples, largely imported by sea, as a result of speculation and panic buying.

Wilson warned that fresh food may quickly become scarce and spoke out against those who would try to make a profit from the situation.

The union has said it is ready to stay on strike for three months, and both sides talk of it as being almost certain that the strike will last for at least three weeks.

Housing

ricipalities are not taking advantage of this money, Bryce Mackasey (L — Montreal Verdun) said.

Mr. Mackasey is parliamentary secretary to labor Minister Nicholson, who is responsible for Central Mortgage and Housing Corp.

Mr. Mackasey suggested more central direction was needed for private builders.

Mr. Cameron wondered whether home ownership is going to be feasible much longer. He said Canadians might follow the pattern in Europe, where people lived their whole lives in apartments.

Mr. Rock party's chief financial critic, said the Liberals are failing into the same trap as they had in 1956 and 1957, Economist O. J. Firestone had warned then there would be a recession unless they did away with their tight-money policy.

The warning had been ignored and it had taken the Diefenbaker government three years of hard work to put Canada back on the rails.

Now Mr. Firestone had issued a similar warning. And again the Liberals were ignoring it.

Mr. Hales asked how tight can money be when a government member wants to spend $6,000,000 for a painting—a reference to Secretary of State Judy LaMarsh's remark she would like to have a painting of Riel value in the National Gallery.

Mr. Hales, a Guelph member, said 600 homes valued at $10,000 each could be provided for that sum.

Jack Gray (L—Essex West) said any shortage of mortgage funds for homes must fall on the private lenders. They were failing to carry out their social responsibilities.

Rotarians Plan To Expand Science Fair

Belleville Rotary's Science Fair and Hobby Show hopes to go forward to even bigger and better things.

Planning for next year's event will start much earlier — probably in the fall — and it is expected that in both numbers and quality it will set new standards.

Bob Lanning will be in charge of the organizing committee, a position filled this year by J. (Pat) Reaume.

Bill Mackay, vice-principal of Belleville Collegiate, took yesterday's meeting that 36 of the 32 science exhibits were entered by the three local secondary schools. Next year it was hoped there would be at least many as 26 from each of them, as well as from the new Centennial High School. A greater response from other area high schools was also anticipated.

Doug Grant and Dr. J. F. (Corky) McCorquodale, incoming president of the club, reported on the hobby show and special exhibits respectively. The club is looking forward to a stepped-up efforts in these spheres also when next year's event is presented.

HAVE $700 SURPLUS

David Duffy reported a total revenue from the event of $2,686.30, which after expenses left a surplus of $700.80. He handed over a cheque for this amount to president Ernest Burnham.

The president observed that the club would have to look for other ways to augment this surplus. While acknowledging that the event was a community effort, Mr. Burnham singled out Mr. Houston for his work as chairman of the organizing committee.

Mr. Houston said the surplus was an improvement on last year's and he hoped it was. The prolme objective had not been to make money, and he reminded his audience that four winners had been sent to the national science fair in Windsor, compared with only two last year. The club had also spent more this year on prizes.

The club also heard reports from Joe Demeza, who was in charge of publicity, and Fred Stan Reston, in charge of refreshments.

Head table guests reflected the efforts of many other organizations in making the Science Fair and Hobby Show a community effort. They included Dr. (Gerald Morton, publisher of The Intelligencer; Frank Murray, manager of Radio Station CJBQ, Bob Pope of Bellevood Lumber and Building Supplies, Fire Chief Ted Poste, L. Colonel Kenneth Willcocks of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Inspector Harold Reid of Belleville police department, Group-Captain Robert Thompson of the RCAF and Mr. MacKay, vice-principal of Belleville Collegiate Thanks were expressed to the Hotel Quinte for its assistance and to local firms for donations of soft drinks, coffee and cream. Also present were the young people who carried off the prizes in the Science Fair and took part in the national event in Windsor at the weekend.

They were Brian Downey and Brian Phillips, the Trenton pair who took frist prize at Belleville Gail Nichols of Trenton, Robert Reid and Peter Brickwood, both of Belleville.

Brian Downey, representing himself as well as his partner, in order to come within the single entry limitation of the Windsor event, received a certificate for general proficiency, and Bob Reid received an honorable mention.

The letter described the students' experiences in Windsor and thanked the club for making possible their participation in the national event.

Nursery Schools

Support for our contention that nursery schools benefit small children, and consequently are a good investment in the community, comes from Doris Clark, whose advice column on day-to-day problems is a regular feature of this newspaper.

"We are not stimulating and challenging the three and four year olds," Miss Clark said in a recent interview in Belleville. She said that most children profit from nursery schools. "They develop initiative and creativity."

The city of Hamilton is active in this sphere, and recently it brought along some teenage musicians to entertain the toddlers. No fewer than 400 nursery school youngsters assembled at Huntingdon Park Community Centre to hear the Hill Park secondary school senior band.

Reactions of the small fry were varied, judging by pictures of the event, and one evidently were not music lovers. But the point is they were being exposed to new experiences and likely were having fun just getting acquainted. One young beau was asking a little girl for a dance.

The Little Mountaineers Co-op Nursery School sponsored the Hamilton event and children from all 15 co-operative nursery schools in the city (with their parents) attended.

Nursery schools can contribute much to developing a child's intellectual potential. According to an article in Reader's Digest, psychologists believe they can raise the average level of intelligence during the next generation by two by 30 points of IQ (intelligence quotient).

In this quest, the first four or five years of a child's life are vital. It is then that children should be given as much rein as possible in developing their curiosity and learning potential. Parents, naturally, have a prime responsibility here, an opportunity which of course is lost if both father and mother are working.

This is where the nursery schools can do and perform a vital function, by stimulating the natural curiosity of the youngsters and giving them, in the words of a well-known book on the subject, "more for the mind."

Lack of Direction

One of the reasons for the dispute between CBC producers and management is the lack of direction from the top. Nobody seems to know what the other fellow is doing, or who is in charge, and this stems from the fact that there are too many people around the organization whose duties are clearly defined.

This state of affairs has also penetrated the structure of the French-language network. Producers Claude Desorcy and Marc Thibault have told the Commons broadcasting committee that without immediate, clear-cut control over public affairs broadcasting, the creative people of the CBC will be stifled and discouraged.

Mr. Desorcy says producers want greater authority, with efficient grievance procedures and assurance of "complete confidence" from management in carrying out their jobs. Producers now feel they are alone in taking the steps they feel are needed to win viewers.

Clearly, the CBC needs further streamlining, even beyond the recent recommendations of the Fowler committee. It will not be surprising this is the effect of any suggestions of Vancouver publisher Stuart Keate, mediator in the current dispute.

Self Expression

We hear a great deal these days about the importance of communications, not only in the sphere of electronics but human communication. In the film The King and I, Deborah Kerr expressed it another way, when she sang about "Getting to Know You, Getting to Know All About You . . ."

We hear about teenage problems, not to mention those of adults. It is claimed that many, young and old, have difficulty communicating with each other. Usually this means that the quality of empathy has been lost, so that the person involved no longer have much to say to each other. In other words the relationship has broken down.

But human personality is like the proverbial iceberg. Only a fraction of a person's real self presents itself to the world. The rest is largely submerged, scarcely known or understood even by the person himself.

Often, though, we are afforded glimpses of the inner self through the medium of art. In Belleville a recent example of this was the exhibition of art at the library by students of the Collegiate. Here was the variety of mood and expression that seldom are revealed in day-to-day relationships.

Here was everything from the sombre and stark medium of chalk, which lends itself to sombre illustrations of the outdoors, like a tumble-down home in the country, to the colorful splash and verve of oils and the educated hands of young sculptors.

"Know Thyself" is the eternal but elusive exhortation. Through art, many people go at least part of the distance to discovering new depths of personality.

Ottawa Offbeat

Mr. Lamoureux Creates New Image of Life In Ottawa

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Parliament, which spends multi-millions on culture for others — a mere $110,000,000 this year for the CBC, to film, among other elevating events, those three engaging teenagers in bed together — went a bit cultural itself the other night.

It was quite a switch, too, for many of the MPs.

Infatuated, even intoxicated as some of them were by their giddily intimate rubbing of shoulders with those television "personalities," they had become fed up to here with the unbouncing of "Seven Days" into crime, sex, perversion and similar sick areas that CBC insists on exploring in its quest for the "switched-on" crowd's favorite beatnik brand of culture.

So they were more than ready for a change of scene, pace and tone when Mr. Speaker Lucien Lamoureux, as Parliament Hill's very first impresario, announced that he would be presenting contralto Maureen Forrester in a gala night of music.

Miss Forrester, singing in the grand chandeliered Confederation Room of the West Block, had some unexpected crowd competition over in the Centre Block.

GERDA AGAIN

There, blonde German playgirl Gerda Munsinger's past locally compromising life and times held the fascinated attention of the Commons.

And there, of necessity, was where half Miss Forrester's audience, the MPs, had to be for a vote scheduled only two days previously — but long after the charming contralto, Mr. Speaker's invitation, had agreed to come to the Capital to sing at a Parliamentary benefit for the National Youth Orchestra.

The "benefit" turned out to be quite considerable and should take the orchestra a good distance on its late Summer tour of Europe, for Miss Forrester was making a gift of her time and talent.

While the MPs reluctantly sat out an extra hour with Madame Munsinger in the Centre Block, their wives and other guests socialized away the same hour over cocktails in the West Block.

It was after 10 p.m. and the Commons night adjournment, when Miss Forrester, a sensuous fair-haired beauty with laughing eyes that could melt a frozen Justice Minister, began her long-awaited rendezvous of the 400 or so Parliamentary people who each had dropped $5 into Mr. Speaker's Youth Orchestra travel fund for the privilege.

They gave her a standing ovation and would have kept it up singing there for hours, except it was getting on for midnight and Mr. Speaker Lamoureux was anxious to play the gracious host at a post-musicale reception.

So back everybody trooped across Parliament's lawns in the Spring moonlight to the Centre Block's Railway Committee Room.

A GOOD TIME

Mr. Speaker Lamoureux saw to it that everybody met Miss Forrester who turned out to be as delightful in her backstage manner had indicated she would.

For old friends she brought out pictures of the kids (violinist conductor husband Eugene Kash just happened to have them with him) . . . she located away the embarrassment of the gentleman who spilled punch on her gown (their stole by telling him it would come out in the wash) . . . she chattered happily about La Jeunesse Musicale (the famous Summer music school camp near Mount Orford, Quebec, of which she's probably the most distinguished graduate) . . . she was pleased when someone remembered her stepping in at the last minute (right after a bout of concert of her own) to substitute for a performer taken suddenly ill in Winnipeg some 10 years ago. In truth to tell, she really seemed to be having herself a happy time . . . and so did everyone else.

Mr. Speaker Lamoureux, although he left Miss Forrester for four months in the chair to be the ablest the Commons has seen in years of filibustering memory, was creating a new image, perhaps even a new tradition at Heads-of-State.

It was all so offbike this or any Parliament of recent years.

But perhaps Mr. Speaker was showing the Honourable Members a new way of National Capital life at which most of them were quite frank to say they hoped to become happily accustomed.

Soo Benefits From Merger

North Bay Nugget

Sault Ste. Marie is a city which not long ago merged with neighboring townships in an amalgamation which seems to have been of benefit to the entire area.

Fears of amalgamation seem unwarranted in the wake of the dozens of mergers which have taken place in Ontario over the past 10 years.

And they continue—either as amalgamations or annexations. Just this past week Orillia announced intentions of seeking permission from the Ontario Municipal Board to annex some 2,000 adjoining acres of property.

In hindsight it is quite possible North Bay's biggest mistake was not in applying for annexation at least 15 years ago.

Now the city and its neighboring townships are faced with the continuous struggle toward amalgamation.

Strictly Personal

If Only Boss Would Listen

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I took the same airline down to Florida and back last month. On both trips, the meals were the best the coffee was terrible. On the way back, I mentioned to the stewardess that the airline ought to try another brand of instant coffee.

"It's not the brand of coffee," she said. "I could serve them what I tried it, and it's quite good. It's our coffee-makers on the plane. They're old and bad, and they'd ruin any coffee we might use."

"Have you complained about them?" I asked.

"Oh, sure," she said. "But they don't listen to us, because we work for the company. If a passenger like yourself complained, though, they'd listen and maybe even do something about it."

This, in my view, is a big problem in our airline. It should not have to wait for passengers to complain — for most people will not bother to do so, and will simply shift to another line if dissatisfied.

One of the most important attributes any company can have is a good "feed-back" system from its employees. If the employees feel free to tell the management what is wrong, and also feel that they will be listened to, the service will never get to the "complaining customer" stage.

Yet many large companies make a sharp, and artificial, distinction between their executives and the public at large. They ignore the fact that their own employees are people, with the same attitudes and needs as customers in general.

When an employee argues his shoulders at some complaint, he is not the infuriating reply, "I only work here," it can mean one of two things. First, that the employee doesn't care how sloppy the service is; but second, that he has given up caring, because his protests are ignored at the top.

An organization, like a personality, is only as intelligent as it is central nervous system is able to communicate messages to the rest of the body, to the outside world, but within the organization itself. And it is the lack of this kind of communication — both external and internal — that is responsible for more miscalculations and breakdowns than any other process.

Indeed, the lower echelon employees often know what is wrong with a company's operation long before the message drifts up to the front office. Each level in the hierarchy tends to act more or less as a filter, as a transmitter of such warning signals, and the larger the organization, the longer it takes the message to get from the extremities to the "brain." The best brand of instant coffee is worthless without an "instant complaint" system to warn management when trouble, not coffee, is brewing.

"Music Ride" Will Remain

Montreal Gazette

Change may have to come. Yet it seems too bad that the Royal Canadian Mounted Police will give up horsemanship ("equitation"). It will be replaced by physical training of other kinds, and by extra academic instruction.

It is quite true, of course, that many a Mountie, after his graduation, might scarcely see a horse again, and never again ride one. But it was not only that equitation was an admirable form of physical training; it was character training' as well. As one of the old-timers of the force said: "If a chap has any yellow in him, it'll show up in equitation."

More than this, it was a link with the past and the traditions of the original mounted force.

Something of all this has survived in the celebrated "Tack Room" of the RCMP headquarters in Regina. On the walls are the saddles and lances, and in the little museum the first saddles are on exhibition, together with the attestation of the first men enlisted in the force. To see these things is to feel how the past can live and inspire the present.

It is good news that at least the Musical Ride will be kept safe, and enough men trained for it.

It is because of the Musical Ride that the word "Mounted" is to be kept in the official name of the force. Because of the basic training of recruits, the horses will be given up, but at least the Musical Ride will keep the old traditions of horsemanship alive, and keep it a tradition brilliant visible.

Says Ottawa Is In "Vacuum"

Montreal Star

If we wonder sometimes about the growing divergence between the attitudes of Ottawa and Canada, Mr. John Turner had at least a partial explanation in his Montreal speech. We are governed by Victorians. The Opposition is led by a victorian. In a country whose "average" age is 25 the Ottawa House contains only 45 members in the under 40 group. The battles which are being fought across the floor are the battles of old campaigns, and to a great part of the population have no more meaning than any other piece of ancient history.

The contrast with most provincial administrations is marked. Provincial leaders are for the most part younger men, liere the legislatures are dealing in the world of today. The problems which are being handled are immediate and of day-to-day importance, but in Ottawa the atmosphere is very different Mr. Turner described the House as "parasytic" and operating "in a vacuum" and engaging in a debate not of issues but of personalities.

No Reason to Refuse To Take Cortisone

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My doctor wanted me to take a cortisone drug but I refused. I am concerned about its side effects because I want to have another baby in the near future and for other obvious reasons. Could you recommend some other drug? — L. C.

I think you are confusing what may happen when cortisone is used for long periods with what will or won't happen from moderate use.

You can be sure that your doctor is perfectly aware of what side effects to guard against. I cannot see that moderate use of it has anything to do with another baby, and I don't know any other obvious reasons.

Cortisone with proper medical supervision, is a beneficial medication. It can do things which other drugs cannot do. I hope that you follow your doctor's advice, and leave it to him to see that you suffer no harmful side effects.

You are worrying without a good reason.

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter who is 43, had a plantar wart on her foot. The doctor cut it out. Later she went to a skin specialist. He burned it out. On her last visit he said she has to go through the same thing again.

No, a plantar wart is not cancer, but it can be one of the stubborn enemies of comfort. It is called a plantar wart because of its location on the plantar portion of the foot or the sole.

Sometimes these warts can be subdued readily, but the opposite is often true and when one it takes repeated treatment before you get rid of the trouble entirely.

Reason: The wart, due to a virus, tends to reinfect, or a new one appears, until the virus has been thrown off.

Removal by surgery, or electrocautery (burning the wart out electrically) is the most effective form of treatment, so your daughter might best do as the specialist suggested.

My one word of caution is to take some simple measures to prevent spreading the virus. Careful hand washing, clean hose, and being careful not to walk around barefoot are the best rules.

Dear Dr. Molner: The water here tastes so terrible that I (age 73) have been drinking a lot of tasteless coffee, with meals and at bedtime. This doesn't seem to bother my nowquiet nerves. I also have smoked four or five cigars a day for 50 years. What is your opinion? — W. F. S.

Continue as you are and enjoy it.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a woman of 57. About nine months ago one of my breasts began to grow. X-rays showed nothing. What is your opinion? — Mrs. M. W.

It is not easy to give an opinion because this is an unusual occurrence and I do not have a specific description of the enlargement.

Evidently your physician did not discover a lump and the X-ray was normal. You can take comfort in the knowledge that mammography (X-ray of the breast) is 85 percent accurate in detecting any malignant disease.

The enlargement could be from some unusual hormonal changes at your age. Obviously you should have a periodic checkup by your doctor.

The Laugh Is on Us

The Trentonian

Nothing in a long time has so tickled Trenton residents as that Belleville fishing contest which got exactly one entry, weighing a gigantic 12 ounces, and that a fish from the Trent River.

We have always known that this town's pickerel fishing was second to none, and we are very glad to share our waters with the poor fellows from our eastern suburb, who apparently have no good pickerel waters in their immediate environs. In addition, the Bay of Quinte, Belleville's quite well supplied with pike, and we are quite happy to have the Belleville's to come along and catch a few of these.

In fact, if they would like some advice from our Royal Canadian Legion on how to get more than one ounce of comfort, I'est, we are sure the boys here would generously contribute of their know-how, and some suitable credit were given to Trenton.

Quietly, the pickerel season opens in'and. At that time the Trent River above No. 1 dam will be crowded, there will be even more room for visitors. We think that the river has many more pickerel in it, and that while our well-trained fish are no patriotic to allow a Belleville resident to catch anything big during a Trenton contest weekend, since there is no contest next weekend, they will probably relent, and the bigger ones may even surrender to visitors.

Quebec Votes On a Sunday

Globe and Mail, Toronto

The first provincial general election over to take place in Quebec on a Sunday will be held in Quebec on June 5. The experiment will be observed with interest throughout the country. At the very mention of a possible Sunday election in Ontario, movie house managers, the organizers of sports events, performers in burlesque theatre and many others would rise in wrath and demand whether there was no depth to which Queen's Park would not sink in the vile business of politics.

It is comforting to know that there are those who are ready to defend the old values when danger threatens.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

CLEANING FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS.

20 YEARS AGO

A new and attractive tourist booklet displaying in picture and story the holiday attractions of Hastings county, is off the press and is now in the hands of Chamber of Commerce secretary, Miss Helen Pralock. The booklet is a result of the joint efforts of the Tourist and Publicity Committee of the City of Belleville and the County of Hastings.

Apparently the result of considerable winter killing of old meadows and the fact that cold weather of past weeks has retarded normal development of pastures and meadows, district farmers this season will be planting more than the usual acreage of corn, it is reported.

30 YEARS AGO

May 17th, 1936

Dr. James H. Forrester, Victoria Ave., will leave this week for the city for the next two weeks.

Miss Ann Quigley of Elgin is spending a few days here with Mrs. E. B. Lally.

The new footbridge which replaces the bridge which was swept away by the spring flood, was officially opened yesterday afternoon by His Worship Mayor Harry Hill, who, after a few remarks cut the ribbon and declared the bridge open to traffic. The bridge spans a distance of 180 feet and is slightly less than 6 feet wide and is in the centre than the old wooden bridge.

40 YEARS AGO

May 17th, 1926

Mrs. Jack McCullough of St. Catharines is visiting for a few days at his home here.

Capt. Allan D. Harper, M.C., of the Bank of Montreal staff here, is spending a few days in Toronto.

Dr. Louise Tower, Queen St., is doing post graduate work in Toronto.

Belleville will remember the Syndicate Store. From our file copy at this time in 1886: Messrs. Patterson Bros., proprietors of the Syndicate Store, have been awarded the contract to supply the summer uniforms for the members of the city police force.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

May 17, 1966

The world's first daylight saving clock was banned 50 years ago today—in 1916—in Britain and clocks were put forward by one hour the following Sunday.

The British child of William Willett, who was deeply concerned with allowing working people more daylight hours for recreation after work, the measure was first adopted as a war economy measure. The period of farmers turned out to be exaggerated and many other countries followed Britain's lead. However in the United States and Canada, except in wartime, daylight time has been dependent on local or provincial governments.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1916—the Prime Minister Borden requested Sir Douglas Haig, British commander-in-chief, to have the Ross rifle, with which Canadian troops were armed, properly evaluated; British Prime Minister Asquith was sworn into the Irish Privy Council.

India Fears China Plans Attack Soon

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Defence Minister Y. B. Chavan told Parliament today the threat of an attack by China against India is real and immediate.

"I do not think any country has started making use of any tactical nuclear weapons at present," he said in answer to questions to the upper house. "The real and immediate threat is conventional."

Chavan last week estimated the strength of Chinese forces on India's northern borders at up to 150,000 men.

A. M. Thomas, minister of defence production, told the House China also has sizable forces deployed in three provinces bordering Tibet from which they could move troops to forward areas within a few days.

Chavan did not explain what he meant by "immediate," but he said: "We should not create panic by saying an attack is likely before the monsoon season."

The monsoon season begins in about four weeks.

India to Get Uranium From America

NEW DELHI (AP) — The United States will sell India up to $100,000,000 worth of enriched uranium for India's atomic power system, an informed American source said today.

This is the first time the United States has agreed to sell uranium for peaceful purposes in Asia, although some sales have been made in Europe.

The U.S. - Indian agreement calls for sales over a 25-year period. India will pay in U.S. dollars and has agreed to stand-ard U.S. Atomic Energy Commission safeguards to ensure the uranium is used only for peaceful purposes.

The sales agreement comes at a time when nuclear policy is being debated throughout India in the wake of reportedly China's third explosion of a nuclear device.

There is much pressure on Prime Minister Indira Gandhi to turn India's nuclear program to manufacturing weapons, but so far she has insisted that India's nuclear development will be for peaceful purposes only.

officer at Cape Kennedy that the rocket may have been flying lower than normal.

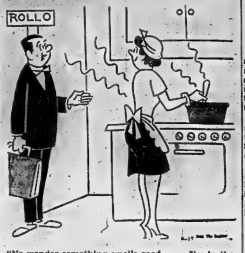
A mission control spokesman said:

"It appears it (the Agena) has come in or is on its way in somewhere. We have lost the bird."

He obviously meant that the Agena was plunging back toward earth, to a crash into the Atlantic southeast of here.

The astronauts were removed from the cramped cabin of their spacecraft. They had been sealed into the capsule 13 minutes before the Atlas blasted away from another launch pad 6,000 feet away.

The control centre said it had no idea what went wrong and that a thorough review of the radio data will be made.



It was the second straight time something had gone wrong with a Gemini shot.

On the Gemini 8 flight March 16 last, astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and David R. Scott successfully caught and docked up with an Agena in the first docking of two orbiting objects in space.

Several minutes later, however, a jet thruster stuck open and sent their spacecraft whirling wildly out of control. They came down to an emergency landing in the western Pacific.

U.S. Firms Must Change Attitude--Montreal Mayor

DETROIT (CP) — United States business interests in Canada must change their attitudes or face the accusation that they are attempting economic domination, Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau said Monday night.

In Detroit to promote Expo 67, Mr. Drapeau told an Economic Club audience:

"We are justifiably concerned over the growing control of large areas of our economy which is being exerted by your country."

Introduced by Michigan Gov. George Romney, Mr. Drapeau suggested that U.S. investment be directed more toward the purchase of bonds rather than acquisition or control of Canada's industries or natural resources: that U.S. corporations, when they establish subsidiaries in Canada, should attempt to attract Canadian capital and that Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. corporations should at all times conform to policies which the Canadian government deems necessary to Canada's basic economic and social requirements.

Mr. Drapeau said that in Canada, "there is a fear of some sort of ideological and cultural domination—some people call it colonization — which is being brought about by the enormous American influence exerted daily on Canadian lives by U.S. television, radio and its publications which, in the opinion of some, is a hindrance to the development of a strong Canadian entity."

France Will Conduct Atomic Tests

PARIS (AP) — France gave notice today she soon will conduct atomic tests on Mururoa Atoll in the South Pacific.

Mururoa Atoll is in the Tuamoto archipegago, which lies between Tahiti and the Marquesas Islands.

Notices to shipping companies and airlines said the tests will take place at a date to be announced later.

Generally such notices are given about 45 days prior to tests.

Pound Sinks To New Low

LONDON (CP) — The pound sterling sank to a new eight-month low today and the Bank of England was believed to have moved in again to buy pounds in the forward market to steady the rate.

Brokers said there was heavy selling at the opening of the market. The rate dropped to $2.7807, then held. The pound closed Monday at $2.7874.

The Bank of England spent millions Monday to bolster sterling in foreign exchange markets after British seamen called a general strike, dealing a critical blow to Britain's economy.

Better to Pamper Than Pester Eater

DEAR DORIS: My six-year-old son is an unbelievably poor eater, which really riles his dad. He would far sooner eat dry bread than one bite of the myriad things he hates, which is all we require if he wants dessert.

He sat an hour one night with three kernels of corn, and absolutely gagged them down at last, and this happens with nearly every vegetable and all meat but weiners and bologna.

This enraged Dad, who grew up in the Dirty Thirties and eats everything, and leans towards the belief that this is good for the soul, and I'm a sucker if I cook the boy an egg rather than insisting the beef be eaten. BAFFLED.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR BAFFLED: The more of an issue you make, the more Sonny gets his back up. There is nothing happy in his mind now about eating.

Food should be associated with loving service. When you make what he likes this proves to him you care about him. Far better to pamper him than to engage in a contest of wills, with something so elementary.

I'm sending you the Canadian Government pamphlet, of the Child Training Series, on "Feeding Habits" which suggests ways of making mealtime happy times. Your own health department has copies of this.

Confidential to JOYE: I'm betting the teacher in the case knows right now who the letter came from: If it sounds hostile, then it came from a book. And who is that? Your persistent enboy friend? Forget it — and him.

National Film Board Movies Are Appreciated In Moscow Says Expert

By MARILYN ARGUE

OTTAWA (CP)—The Russians probably wouldn't be too impressed with Canada's space program but they were impressed with a National Film Board movie about bicycle racing.

"The Soviet press was enraptured," says Dorothy MacPherson, who represented Canada at the Moscow Film Festival last summer. The film 60 Cycle was a prize at the festival.

Trips to Rome, Paris and Berlin were just part of Mrs. MacPherson's job as liaison officer with NFB. She was the first woman to hold the position when she was appointed about 13 years ago.

Recently retired, she has returned to her Ottawa office on contract as executive director of the Canadian Centre for Films on Art, a sort of lending and cataloguing service which she helped set up after a UNESCO conference here in 1963.

Mrs. MacPherson is a small brown - haired English woman with hazel eyes and horn rimmed spectacles. Her English accent remains intact, though she has been in Canada since the end of the war.

A native of Jersey in the Channel Islands, she first worked in London, England, as an MP's secretary. After her marriage, she began working for several art shops, organizing exhibitions at the Royal Academy of Art, and meeting people like Henry Moore and Jacob Epstein.

SAW USES FOR FILM

"It was the kind of thing I could combine with my family interests. I was only away from home when the exhibitions were on."

Her daughter, Dr. Jay MacPherson, now is a well-known Canadian poet and professor of English at the University of Toronto. A son, Andrew, works for the Canadian Wildlife Service in Ottawa.

Mrs. MacPherson kept on organizing exhibits in her first NFB graphics department job. "We did documentary displays of still photos for libraries, art and health centres, dealing with the problems of the people coming back from the war."

But she was more interested in film, especially the pioneer documentary work of John Grierson. "It could be used in so many areas—schools, health, education—it was a marvellous tool for doing so many of the things that needed to be done after the war."

As a liaison officer, she studied the film requirements of assigned government departments—"sort of like an account executive in advertising."

She still does some liaison work with the diplomatic missions in Ottawa, advising them how to make the best use of their films in Canada. One of her co-workers has said of her, "She knows everyone and anyone in the city."

HANDLES MOVIES ON ART

Her diplomatic work lies in with her position with the Films on Art Institute, because she must try to build up a collection of movies made in other countries, as well as encourage Canadian production.

Films on Canadian painters Borduas, Milne and Kriegoff have been made through the co-operation of the National Gallery, a sponsor of the institute. These and movies on art made in about 20 other countries are available to study groups through the centre.

"We can't lend them to schools because the demand would be too great—we have only one copy of some of them. But we hope teachers will be among the people who see them, and that they will try to have their libraries acquire films like these."

The series has been so popular that a centre for films on ballet and opera is being planned.

Mrs. MacPherson sees a lot of commercial movies too. "There aren't enough nights to see all the ones I'd like to."

But she says she finds herself out of sympathy with the typical Hollywood product.

TAKE MORE JOBS

Women made up 27 per cent of the Canadian labor force in 1961, compared with 13 per cent in 1901.

SOMETHING SIMPLE FOR LUNCH

A dear friend from out-of-town phoned saying she was in our town attending a convention and could skip one of the lunches and slip up and see us for an hour or so. "Don't fuss over lunch for we've been wined and dined to exhaustion. Make something simple."

The "something simple" turned out to be cream of asparagus soup and date muffins, for when I opened the refrigerator door the first thing I saw was a fresh bunch of asparagus. When I opened the cupboard door I saw in the front row a package of dates. That was enough to start me off.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

1 green onion chopped finely
1¼ cups water
3 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
¼ to ¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon accent
3 cups milk
paprika

Cook the cleaned and chopped asparagus and onion in the water until barely tender and retaining some crispness. Meanwhile melt the butter, blend in flour, salt and accent, then stir in milk until thick. Add the cooked asparagus and onion and water in which they were cooked and reheat to just below boiling. Serve in warmed cream soup bowls, sprinkled lightly with paprika.

DATE MUFFINS

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
3 teaspoons single - acting baking powder,
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons sugar
1 egg, well beaten
3 tablespoons melted shortening (or cooking oil)
1 cup milk
½ cup chopped dates (or ¼ cup chopped dates and ¼ cup of dice cherries)

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Combine egg, shortening and milk. Make a well in centre of dry ingredients and add wet ingredients and barely mix. Reserve nuts in dates or dates and cherries. Turn into buttered 12-cup muffin pan filling them ⅔ full. (I used my lovely new 'extra muffin pan.) Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. 20 minutes.

Note: You could use ½ to ¾ cup of any dried fruits you have on hand instead of dates or cherries, such as raisins, currants or chopped prunes or figs or apricots.

This makes a luncheon that is satisfying to guests and gratifying to particular cooks.

Ladies' Club Entertains at Social Event

On Tuesday evening the Prince Edward Belleville Ladies' Club entertained friends and families at the annual dinner and social evening with 72 in attendance. Centre UCW catered for the meal.

The tables were attractively arranged with centre displays of daffodils and a lovely floral arrangement at the head table. Tickets for this particular item were sold and the draw was made by Miss K. McCullough with Miss Annabelle Docter, the lucky winner.

The president, Mrs. Baird, welcomed everyone and following the dinner community singing was enjoyed with Miss McCullough as accompanist.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Redner were introduced by Mrs. F. Bedell and they showed pictures of their recent trip to the British Isles and Europe which were most interesting.

Mrs. F. Bedell also expressed thanks to the guests and the secretary, Mrs. Arnold Mitchell closed the meeting.

Australian Birthrate Said Slumping Rapidly Despite Need for People

-By VINCENT MATTHEWS
Canadian Press Correspondent

Here is the world's most underpopulated continent, crying out for people, but the birthrate is slumping at an alarming rate.

From the post-war peak of 25.6 per thousand of the population, Australia's birth rate has fallen steadily until in the last three months of last year it was 19.41.

(The Canadian birth-rate has fallen from a post-war high of 28.7 in 1947 to an estimated 21.4 last year.)

Only immigration is keeping the Australian population—11,320,000 at last estimate—going up at anything like the rate the government wants. But it is getting harder to find migrants in affluent Europe. Hence the alarm over the falling birthrate.

The federal government has announced it is investigating the problem, but Ian Sinclair, minister for social services, admitted he didn't know what to do to persuade Australians to have bigger families.

"We are seriously concerned at the drift in the birth-rate and we are looking at it closely," he said. "But the government is not convinced there is any financial scheme that will correct the drift.

"In other countries financial incentives for people to have more babies don't seem to work."

Sinclair said he did not think moral encouragement were the main factor for the birth-rate fall. "I think the pill is an incidental, not a primary cause," he added.

"I believe we have to look at the community itself, the society we live in. It is not coincidence that as we have become more affluent as the birth-rate has gone down.

"People are marrying later. There is more emphasis on material things, on keeping up with the Joneses and less on family values. The pill enables people to do this."

Sinclair said that in Canada the birth-rate is apparently high in the remote and isolated areas such as the Yukon (36.5) and the Northwest Territories (47.3).

SEEK BALANCE

"Family life is still strong in such areas. There are less pressures and influences from outside. It seems that affluence and a rising standard of living go hand in hand with a lower birth-rate. How to balance them is the problem."

Sinclair said he does not think Canada's generous family allowance payments have anything to do with the higher birth - rate there because the United States, which has no such scheme, has about the same rate.

Other Australian politicians are attaching great significance to the birth-rate decline. Senator Neil McManus warned in Parliament that fi would have a serious effect on Australia's future and he urged the government to give more family aid and use every possible means of counteracting the decline.

Senator Norman Henty, the government leader in the Senate, agreed that "the latest figures on the birth-rate must be of concern to every Australian."

"The country needs population," Senator Henty said, "and the best population, of course, must be our own."

He promised that the federal cabinet would urgently consider increasing family allowances in the next budget.

At present, Australian parents get a government allowance of $1.75 (Canadian) a month for the first child, $3.90 for the second and $2.85 for each succeeding child.

(In Canada, the government pays $6 a month for children under 10 and $8 for those over 10.)

COMMITTING SUICIDE

Giving the woman's viewpoint, Lady Cilento, a noted Brisbane doctor, authority on mothercraft and herself the mother of five, said Australians as a people are committing suicide.

"If Australians don't want to survive they are going the right way about it," she said.

"They are thinking of themselves, their own convenience and pleasures. Surely this is a matter of pride in race and pride of family."

The most frightening aspect, she said, is the birth-rate decline in country areas.

"Maternity hospitals in the country are half empty," she said. "If we don't breed enough little girls to become mothers where will the nation be?"

Women were using the pill as a means to an end, said Lady Cilento. They did not want to have children and found it "so marvellously easy" to avoid having them.

On the industrial side, many companies making nursery goods are feeling the pinch.

One big Sydney firm that manufactures baby carriages, high chairs and bassinettes has had to lay off workers.

The manager said: "It's not our fault. If people don't have babies they don't want to buy prams do they?"

Ann Landers' Likes to Lunch Alone Finds It Is Difficult

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd like to know whether you think I am anti-social, abnormal or just plain nuts.

To put it simply, I'm one of those people who does not need people — at least I don't need them every minute of the day. I work in a busy office and my job requires that I talk constantly — either on the phone or face to face.

I feel I need to lunch — alone — so I can reflect on some quiet thoughts and relax. But eight times out of ten I cannot get away with it. Somebody always finds me in the corner of the cafeteria or restaurant and sits down. Usually the opener is, "I see you are alone ....." as if this is the worst thing that can happen to a person.

Why don't folks realize that when they see a gal eating solo, it's a safe bet she wants it that way? Please print my letter. It might help others who feel as I do. — LIKE MY OWN COMPANY.

DEAR LIKE: If you really want to be left alone, sit with your face to the wall and prop up this newspaper in front of your eyes.

Then if some clod tries to sit down in the face of such obvious discouragement, hold up your notebook and pencil (which you should keep handy for the purpose) and say, "Sorry ..... work to do. I can't afford the luxury of a visit today."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have just about decided that most of the people in the world are imbeciles. Please tell me how to deal with them.

Our daughter, Sarah, married at the age of 28. For at least five years before she married all I heard from friends and family and neighbors, (even our family doctor) was, "Why don't you tell Sarah to hurry up and get herself married?"

You know very well, Ann Landers, a mother can't say to her daughter, "Get married." Why don't people realize this?

Sarah has been married four years now and I'm getting some foolish chatter from friends, relatives and neighbors. First they ask, "Is Sarah still working?"

When I reply, "Yes, she is," they say, "Why don't you tell her to quit work and have a grandbaby for you?"

Isn't that the dumbest thing yet? Please give me an Ann Landers - type comeback for these donkeys. — FED UP.

DEAR FED: Tell the donkeys straight away that no girl ever got married or had a baby because her mother suggested it. If they look surprised suggest that they try it on their own daughters and see what happens.

Children Learning Read Better

OTTAWA (CP) — Some Ottawa-area children are encouragingly responding to their better reading a method developed by an Ottawa teacher.

Dr. John Linn, director of special services for the Ottawa separate schools, developed the technique, now in use at two schools.

The Linn method is basically phonetic, using the sound of letters and words to keep them in the child's memory.

Children learn unconsciously by using the "kinesthetic method" — the feeling of using part of the body without seeing or feeling it being used. In this way the child uses his larynx to speak the word.

Dr. Linn, who has been working with the method in remedial reading classes since 1962, says he isn't sure yet but he thinks his method produces better readers than conventional.

He says his students pick up 1,000 words in the first four months of Grade 1, compared with 400 words in conventional classes. At the end of Grade 1, average students under the Linn method know 1,000 words as do students who have had seven months of Grade 2.

After three years they are reading, on the average, as well as students in Grade 3.

Canadian Radar Could Track Basketball 1,000 Miles Away

By ALLEN BACKMANN

FORT CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—Radar so sensitive it can track a basketball-sized target 1,000 miles away is a $3,000,000 eye for scientists studying the atmosphere above Northern Canada.

Its capabilities are unique in the world and resulted from two years of design and modification to enable it to track the relatively small and incredibly fast rockets fired from the Churchill Research Range.

It has been modified twice since it was installed in December and T. R. Rabe, the radar superintendent, says it now meets the objectives sought in range, accuracy and percentage of contacts made with the supersonic targets.

Rockets are fired from the range, which is owned by the National Research Council, throughout the year by scientific groups studying the aurora borealis and upper atmosphere.

Mr. Rabe says the new radar system replaces a makeshift unit which had been designed to fit on the back of a 2½-ton truck.

"The old system was set up for slower and bigger rockets which are easier to track.

"Everyone has problems locking on to a target—even at Cape Kennedy where the rockets they are looking for are much bigger—but the new unit we've installed is designed to make it much easier."

KEEP CONSTANT WATCH

Among the aids provided for the technician trying to establish contact with the rocket is an optical gunsight which enables him to "zero in" on the rocket during the visible stage at takeoff which is reinforced with a closed circuit television camera mounted on the radar antenna.

In addition, he has an infra-red tracker which senses the heat of the rocket's exhaust and an auxiliary tracker that can be fixed on the proposed rocket trajectory. Mr. Rabe says the infra-red device is the first ever employed on a sounding rocket range.

Radar transponders, which pick up a radio signal from the range and amplify it before returning it, are used on the smaller rockets to make certain that tracking is continuous throughout the flight.

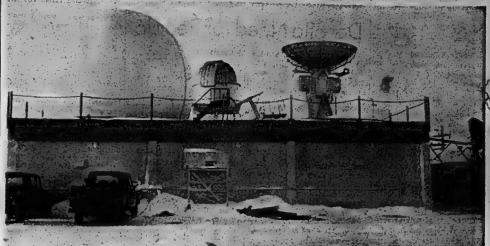
Mr. Rabe says the problem of making contact with the old unit was primarily the result of the rocket's speed. If contact was not made within 2.5 seconds from takeoff on small rockets, the odds were 10 to 1 against locking on during the rest of the flight which usually lasted six to seven minutes.

The range was increased to 150 miles in height and 1,000 miles. Most of the rockets the old unit's range of 100 miles. most of the rockets have a ceiling of over 100 miles and at least one reached its zenith at 650 miles.

'CAN TRACK ANYTHING'

Plotting of the rocket's course has also improved with the introduction of the new equipment, says Mr. Rabe. The margin of error was cut by more than 50 per cent and the exact position of the rocket at any stage in its flight, can be determined within 15 feet.

Tracking ability was increased to 40,000 yards a second from 12,000 yards a second.



"We can track anything that's made today. Our fastest rockets travel at 12,000 yards a second which was the maximum capability of the old unit," says Mr. Rabe.

Computers attached to the radar system provide detailed data on the rocket's progress and position, in digital form, to both the technician and project engineers several miles away.

Besides designing the unit to meet the technical requirements of the scientists at the range, it was also tailored to withstand the deep - freeze temperatures to which it is subjected six months a year.

The precision-driven pedestal, weighing 13,000 pounds, and other exposed sections of the system are heated while covers were designed to protect other sections against the winter temperatures that often drop to 50 below zero or colder.

School Trustees Zone 13 Pass Two Resolutions

PICTON (Staff) — Two resolutions were passed at the annual Ontario School Trustees Zone 13 conference held here Saturday with 40 trustees representing 30 public school boards.

These resolutions are to be sent on to the Ontario School Trustees Association to the department of education.

The conference provides an opportunity for trustees to discuss mutual problems and see how difficulties have been overcome by other boards. The first recommended the department of education prepare standard building plans for schools. This the delegates hoped would eliminate part of the high cost of building.

The other resolutions suggested the standardization of teachers' salaries with the only difference in scale being in accordance with the area in which the school is situated, to allow for cost of living differences.

A department of education official was present to explain to the delegates the methods of determining public school grants by the department to the public schools.

The conference convened at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute for the morning session. The delegates were given the opportunity of examining the school's closed circuit television system.

At a luncheon at Prince Edward Yacht Club Mayor H. J. McFarland welcomed the delegates on behalf of the town of Picton. For the afternoon session at Queen Elizabeth Public School the delegates broke into discussion groups.

Some of the school boards represented at the conference were: Trenton, Belleville, Napanee, South Marysburgh, Kingston, Ernestown, Amelisburg and Hallowell.

'I Would Not Kill Anyone' Says Accused in Own Defence

SAULT STE. MARIE (CP) — The capital murder trial of William Dalton Barber, 35, entered final stages today with summations by the prosecution and defence.

Chief Justice G. A. Gale of the Ontario Supreme Court told the 12-man jury Monday that final arguments are expected to take all day and the case will probably go before them Wednesday.

Barber, staff-assistant to the vice-president of operations at Algoma Steel Corp., is charged with murder in the death Dec. 3, 1965, of his wife Marjorie, 33. Doctors testified earlier she died of carbon mdnoxide poisoning.

The accused, testifying in his own defence Monday, told the packed court, "I did not kill my wife. . . . I would not kill anyone."

Barber repudiated a signed statement he gave police Feb. 12, the night of his arrest. He said he lied when he admitted killing his wife, because he wanted to protect Mrs. Irene Chapman of Toronto, his mistress.

SOUGHT PROTECTION

"My whole purpose in giving this statement was so she would not be involved. . . . It was the only way I could protect her from the scandal and publicity," he testified.

Barber said inspector Robert McEwen of the Sault police department told him the only way to keep Mrs. Chapman out of the investigation was to give police a statement.

He said the inspector did not keep a promise to let him see Mrs. Chapman alone for two hours after he made the statement. Instead, Barber said he only saw her for a few minutes.

Describing his relations with his wife before her death, Barber said they got along well until three or four years ago and then began quarrelling.

He said he tried to commit suicide by swallowing sleeping pills in July, 1964, but his wife called a doctor.

Despite his "very deep love" for Mrs. Chapman, Barber testified, he was prepared to end their year-long relationship last August because rumors of the affair were circulating in Sault Ste. Marie.

RECALLS QUARREL

On Dec. 2, the evening before his wife died, Barber said they quarrelled. He said he got drunk and decided again to take his life by swallowing sleeping pills.

Barber said he fell asleep and when he awoke his wife was in their bedroom dressing. He said he fell asleep again and the next time he awoke, the room was full of fumes.

After groping his way from the bedroom, Barber said he rescued the garage and found it full of fumes. He said he could not remember whether his wife was in the garage.

Barber said he then fainted, but managed to call a doctor before he passed out. He also said he managed to unlock the front door.

Under cross - examination, Barber said he lied when he told friends that his superior at Algoma, Doug Joyce, had forbidden him to take Mrs. Barber on business trips.

"It was leading a double life and lied to every person necessary," he said. "I may be called a liar but I did not kill my wife."

Prosecutor Samuel Caldbick of Timmins asked whether there was another man in Mrs. Barber's life.

ASKED FOR DIVORCE

"Oh no," Barber said, adding he had asked his wife for a divorce. Although she did not refuse, she also did not agree to it.

Mr. Caldbick said Barber would not have been able to pay the alimony Mrs Barber would have demanded.

"I would have paid whatever alimony the court would have assessed," Barber said. But he said most of his money was tied up in his $45,000 home.

Mr. Caldbick asked for details of what happened in the Barber home early Dec. 3, but Barber said he was unable to remember whether he saw his wife in the garage.

He said he also couldn't remember what he told police the following morning in hospital.

Insp. McEwen denied telling Barber that Mrs. Chapman would not become involved if he gave a statement. He said there had never been any thought of charging her with the offence

The inspector also denied telling Barber he could see Mrs. Chapman for two hours if he gave a statement.

WILL VISIT MOSCOW

MONTREAL (CP)—Scott Carpenter, the American astronaut who made a three-orbit flight around the earth in May, 1962, will attend an oceanographic conference in Moscow next month at the invitation of the government of the Soviet Union, his wife said Monday. She said that her husband is the first person from the United States ever to receive a direct invitation from the Soviet Union to address such a scientific conference.

Seamen's Strike Indicates Price Line Can't Be Held Without Govt. Restraint

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Whatever the result of the British seamen's strike, it seems to indicate the British price line cannot be held without some form of government-imposed restraint.

The problem probably is more crucial for Britain than for most Western countries. Britain seems unlikely to be able to balance its trade account this year and its creditors, the international bankers, are giving it close scrutiny.

For a country that seems periodically to teeter at the economic brink, Britain shows a lot of throbbing strength. British tentacles reach mysteriously into many atmospheres in international financial centres.

NOW IN DEBT

Yet Britain is heavily in debt. Its scarcity is foreign exchange. It must earn its way through world trade and money transactions.

As one British financial newspaper notes, the government appears to be trying to extract some extra leverage in world competition through what may be described as secret export subsidies. But sooner or later, as these subsidies increase, that competitor countries will yelp with pain. The final test will be Britain's ability to compete against other producers, in terms of production costs, wages and distribution charges.

The seamen are just one part in the great marketing machine, but they form an important segment. The 17 - per - cent wage boost they demand would mean higher transport costs, higher market prices and lower production returns, or even market losses.

Britain is in the grip of rising expectations and the seamen are demanding their share. Political strategy has forced the Labor administration to accept a temporary retreat in the wage-price battle. Higher wages for one group of unions have led to increased demands by others.

DOCTORS WON HIKE

The government has a policy of trying to keep wage demands in line with increased productivity, about three or four per cent a year. But doctors enrolled in the national health service recently got a pay boost of some 9 per cent. The end of the demands is not in sight.

The government also has been trying to control price and wage boosts by a combination of public declamation and official wrangs. These methods have not been successful.

Failure of voluntary methods could, under conditions of financial crisis, lead to compulsion. Most democracies have found that in peacetime producers don't easily respond to price and wage controls.

Of major issue to all competitors, therefore, is the question of how long any price spiral will be allowed to continue before the British government is forced to call a halt.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

"I see by the papers" said the man" that Madre's three community-minded musketeers Cal. Kincaid, Gen Nickle and Harry Brown, aided and abetted by burghers and the Elwards Club are staging a sports celebrities spectacular on June 1st."

"I also note by the public prints that the National Hockey League; the Hockey News and other organizations, not forgetting the hundreds of private 'experts' have chosen their all-star squads," he added.

"Did it ever occur to anybody that this Hastings county and Bay of Quinte area could get its own 'all-star' team of National Leaguers. Not all-stars perhaps but the record books show we have a pretty fair representation up there in the play-for-pay ranks."

"Let's see what we've got. Point Anne has the Hall brothers Bobby and Deanie. Bancroft has the now famous "Hall Shadow" Bryan Watson who has been the brightest thing out of Bancroft since uranium."

"McArthur's Mills folks are holding their heads high. The Dillabaughs and Prentices, household names in that community have sent two native sons — well, one is almost a native — in Bob Dillabaugh of the Boston Bruins and Dean Prentice of the Red Wings. Prentice, I'm told, was smuggled out of the Mills, being born two weeks after his folks moved north."

"Ed Westfall of the Bruins another shadow of Bobby Hull was born in this city, the record shows but little has been heard about him since he left city."

"You can add a couple of imports to the team in Brit Selby, the NHL rookie of the year who was born in Kingston and Jim Roberts, the sturdy backfielder of the Montreal Canadiens who hails from Port Hope."

Cal Kincaid tells me that three of the district stars will be at the Celebrities Dinner. These are Bobby Hull, Bryan Watson and Bob Dillabaugh.

He says the tickets are going like hot cakes and the sponsors are looking for a sellout crowd. All the net proceeds will go to the Artificial Ice Fund of the arena.

Rudy Pilous, former manager-coach of the Hamilton Red Wings Senior "A" team, said to be slated for an NHL berth in the expansion set-up, will be the master-of-ceremonies and there are few better qualified than the former Chicago coach. Rudy is a natural humorist and has a wealth of anecdotes and stories.

My old wrestling buddy Lord Athol Layton, TV commentator and still doing mat action will represent his sport while football will present Billy Shipp Toronto Argonauts stalwart defensive halfback and himself a gifted speaker with John W. O'Quinn, top executive of the Ottawa Rough Riders.

The Kincaid-Nickie-Brown combo has arranged for an illustrious array of National Hockey Leaguers headed by the ebullient manager-coach of the Toronto Maple Leafs, Punch Imlach.

Punch is bringing a body guard of the Leafs in Bob Pulford, Johnny Bower and the one and only Eddie Shack while Harry Watson, formerly of the Red Wings and ex-Bruin Murray Henderson will also represent the puck-chasing brigade.

Hal. Kelly, well-known Toronto sports commentator will be on hand and if is expected Canada's top distance runner Bill Crothers will be there, injuries permitting.

Rounding out the celebrities are Dr. William Dafoe of British Colombia and member of the Lacrosse Hall of Fame and Garry Kearns, head hockey coach of the Rensselaur Polytechnic Institute of Troy, New York.

Several municipal and political dignitaries will be in attendance. The dinner is being held in the arena with some 400 expected to attend.

Three-Year Contract ★★★★★ ★★★★★ Jack Riley Is GM

Red Sullivan Will Coach Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP)—George (Red) Sullivan, a battler through nine years as a player in the National Hockey League, doesn't intend to change that approach in his new job as coach of Pittsburgh's team in the expanded league.

Sullivan indicated he would start immediately to round up a "representative team" after signing a three-year contract as Pittsburgh's coach Monday.

"We intend to select in the league's special expansion draft the best 20 players we can get, regardless of position, and build from there," Sullivan said.

Both Sullivan and Jack Riley, who was named Monday as general manager of the new team, feel the NHL is giving them a better break than football and baseball gave their expansion teams.

Sullivan, who played two years with Boston Bruins, two with Chicago Black Hawks and five with New York Rangers, has been coaching almost continuously since he finished his playing days in 1961.

RELEASED BY RANGERS

He was a player-coach in the minors for two seasons and coached New York for three years before being released last December.

The 36-year-old coach said he feels next season will be almost as vital to the new teams as the 1967 - 68 campaign, when they will begin play.

"We will spend the year scouting and setting up our farm system," he said.

Riley, signed to a four-year contract as general manager, said tentative plans call for each of the six present NHL teams to protect 10 players plus one goalie from their roster.

Since each club has between 50 and 70 players, including those in the minors, under contract, that would leave about 300 players in the expansion pool.

As each team has a player drafted, it would be allowed to freeze another, so that no club could have more than four from its 18 - man regular - season roster.

Trots Championship

Armbro Flight Entered

CAMPBELLVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Armbro Flight, the Canadian - owned trotter which has excelled against United States trotters, will run in the $7,500 Canadian trotting championship at Garden City raceway in Buffalo, N.Y., on May 1, it was announced Monday.

The four-year-old, owned by the Armstrong Brothers—Ted, Elgin and Charles—of Brampton, Ont., finished second in the 1965 Search for a Million Classic and has won all but two trips to the post this year.

Her 10 victories in 18 attempts last season netted $107,425—the first trotting filly to net more than $100,000 in a single season.

She recently became the richest trotting female in the history of harness racing when she boosted her lifetime bank account over the $361,000 breached.

Armbro Flight has not made an appearance in Canada since signed.

She captured the 1964 edition of the Canadian standard-bred, Futurity at Toronto's Greenwood raceway.

Voted Canadian Horse of the Year in 1964 and again in 1965, the sturdy daughter of Star's Pride was named three-year-old Trotter of the Year in the U.S. in 1965.

Trained and driven by Joe O'Brien, a native of Atherton, P.E.I., Armbro Flight established a world record April 1 when she won the $15,000 Los Angeles Trot in 1:59, a record for four-year-old trotting mares over a mile track.

Pascual Has 6-1 Record

Cuban Ace Is Twins' Sparkplug

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Camilo Pascual is back on the beam, and Minnesota manager Sam Mele thinks his Cuban ace has had a string to a second straight American League pennant.

Pascual, the forgotten man of Minnesota's 1965 pennant season when arm trouble and surgery sheltered him over two months, has that big, sweeping curve and his control again this year.

He scattered seven hits Monday to pitch the Twins to a 2-1 victory over Washington Senators, and become the first American League pitcher to win six games. He has lost once.

"I see no reason why Camilo shouldn't win 20 games this year, the way he's been throwing," said Mele. "He definitely looks like the Camilo of old. "His curve may not be quite as overpowering as it once was, and he may not strike out as many as he used to, but he's winning again for us and that's the big thing."

IT'S THIRD TIME

Monday, Pascual struck out three and didn't walk a man for the third time this season.

"Yes, I'm pitching differently this year," Pascual said Monday.

"I'm trying to make the batter hit the ball, not strike him out.

"Strikeouts look fine in the paper, but what do they mean if you don't win?"

Pascual bested Phil Ortega in a mound duel Monday. Ortega allowed only eight spaced hits, but got into trouble in the ninth when the Twins loaded the bases on singles by Harmon Killebrew and Bernie Allen, plus an intentional walk to pinch-hitter Don Mincher.

Cesar Tovar drove in Minnesota's first run with a sacrifice fly following Zoilo Versailles' triple in the third inning. Washington tied it in the fourth on Jim King's first home run of the season.

DRESSEN SICK

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Tigers manager Charlie Dressen was admitted to hospital here Monday for a possible heart attack. A Tiger spokesman said Bob Swift, third base coach, has been appointed acting manager of the American League baseball club.

Drumheller Miners Win Allan Cup

Blank Beavers 5-0

CALGARY (CP) — Goaltender Al Rollins had two milestones to celebrate Monday, as Drumheller Miners won the 1966 Allan Cup hockey championship with a 5-0 victory over Sherbrooke Beavers.

The triumph, Rollins' second shutout of the six-game series, coincided with his 19th wedding anniversary and marked his second Allan Cup championship in 16 years.

Rollins played goal when Edmonton Flyers, last Alberta club to win the Canadian senior hockey championship, did the job in 1948.

"I don't know whether I'll play again next year" he said at an after-game party. "But it's good to know you can come back five years after retirement and still play a bit."

Rollins, 39, played in the National Hockey League with Toronto Maple Leafs, Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers. He came out of retirement late in the season to support regular goaltender Ron Mathers but played so well that coach Roy Kelly asked him to take over as first-stringer.

ALL FORMER PROS

The victory was built on two goals by Bill Voss and singles by Ron Lecyckl, Bob Sollinger and Bill McColley—all former professionals.

High - powered Drumheller forwards forced Sherbrooks goaltender Serge Aubey to block 41 shots as they led 3-0 after the first period and scored once in each of the next two periods. Rollins, who blocked 25 shots, forced his toughest tests midway through the third period.

Sherbrooke dropped the first game of the series but won the next two before dropping three in a row as the hard-checking Miner defence took its toll.

The Beavers represented Canada in the Ahearne Cup international competition this season. Drumheller will apply to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association for consideration for a European junket next winter.

HAS TWO CHAMPIONS

Drumheller's victory marked the first time one league has produced Canadian senior and junior champions in the same season. Edmonton Oil Kings, who tied Drumheller for the league and playoff championship in the Alberta Senior Hockey League, won the Memorial Cup Sunday in Toronto.

Sherbrooke played the final game without forward Claude Cardin, who suffered broken ribs in Drumheller's 3-2 victory Saturday night. His injury was not discovered until Monday afternoon. He had experienced difficulty breathing but believed the problem might have been caused by his broken nose, suffered in the first game of the series.

Winnipeg Pan-American Games

Feature 1st Artificial Track Surface

WINNIPEG (CP)—An artificial surface will be used for the first time in major international track and field competition when the fifth Pan-American Games are held here July 22 to Aug. 7, 1967.

James Daly, executive director of the Games, said Tuesday the all - weather surface should make Winnipeg an international centre for outdoor track and field.

The surface, originally developed for harness racing tracks, will be laid on the 400-metre running track and the runways and aprons for the field events at the new 30,000-seat stadium being constructed for the Games.

Track experts claim the material is impervious to spikes and cleats as well as to snow, ice and water.

Daly said the former track great, Jesse Owens, who won four gold medals in the 1936 Olympics, ranks composition track surfacing as one of the greatest developments in modern competition.

SHOW ADVANTAGE

At a press conference, Daly quoted Owens:

"... Runners prefer to run on the boards here and by the end of the day the normal track is all chewed up. With a composition surface track, you are not running in anyone else's footsteps."

Use of the synthetic surface has been sanctioned by the International Amateur Athletic Federation and all times, heights and distances recorded on it will be eligible for record ratification.

Another feature of the 1967 Games unveiled at the press conference here is the rowing course. A straight, three-mile section of the $67,000,000 floodway, a canal designed to carry flood waters of the Red River around the City of Winnipeg, will be filled with 700,000,000 gallons of water to a uniform depth of 10 feet.

New facilities for the Games are expected to cost approximately $3,500,000 and will include Canada's largest indoor swimming pool and a cycle track that will be used after the Games as a football stadium, Daly said.

"We are determined to provide the best possible facilities, not only for the more than 3,000 Western Hemisphere athletes who will be competing in the Games, but also which will be of lasting benefit to the people of Winnipeg and Manitoba."

Wins New Orleans Open

Beard Beats Nicklaus, Lema

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—This city, which prides itself on its hospitality, has been trying since 1964 to make up for the trouble which befell Frank Beard here when he came to play golf.

He made no money and went away with encephalitis—a killer disease sometimes called sleeping sickness.

Beard almost died. He was administered the final rites by a Roman Catholic priest. But he recovered to return to New Orleans Monday and beat Jack Nicklaus and Tony Lema for the $20,000 first-prize money in the Greater New Orleans Open.

It was Beard's biggest cheque in a four-year pro career.

Nicklaus scored a birdie putt on the first hole at the Lakewood Country Club, and appeared ready to walk away with the title.

Beard said an eagle at No. 5 gave him a lift. But the biggest one came on the ninth green where Nicklaus knocked in a birdie putt to tie "and I managed to get a birdie too and play ahead."

Beard fired a sizzling 67 for a 72-hole score of 278. Gardner Dickinson finished second, two strokes behind. Nicklaus had to settle for a third-place tie with Lema, Miller Barber and Bob Goalby.

The victory pushed Beard's 1966 earnings to $45,903—more than he made officially for all of 1965.

National Football League

Extends 'Golden' Posts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Football League discussed a central scouting system and voted to extend the goal posts 20 feet above the cross bar Monday in the opening session of its spring meeting.

Although the main business of this session will be hear representatives of seven cities make a presentation in a bid for the 16th league franchise in 1967, commissioner Pete Rozelle again said no final decision will be made here.

Rozelle said the 16th club would be expected to put a team on the field in 1967.

Rozelle said the central scouting plan will be discussed again today. This suggestion to pool information obviously was an answer to the new stepped-up recruiting drive expected from the rival American Football League under commissioner Al Davis.

The rule change to extend the goal posts and paint them gold was designed to ease the task of officials in calls on field goals.

RESUMES PLAY

Titled Hero was a 4-to-3 winter-book favorite and remained the top pick despite a loss to Stevie B Good this season at Fort Erie, Ont. Stevie B Good, owned by E. C. Pasquale of Toronto, is not entered in the race.

And it came through with flying colours for brewing methods . . . quality . . . purity . . . and taste.

Ask our competitors

Sure they're proud of their own products. And rightly so. But even they can tell you that Dow has always met the highest industry standards for quality of ingredients, processes, and the care with which Dow products are brewed.

As far as we're concerned the headline says it all: You just can't buy a better beer, so next time, make yours Dow. There couldn't be a better time for you to swing to Dow. It'll pay off in pleasure and satisfaction for you. We promise.

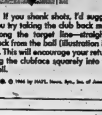
A CURE FOR THE 'SHANKS'



When you hit your iron shots on the hosel of the club (illustration No. 1) and they shoot off to the right, you are a victim of shanked shots. Shanked shots are bad enough in themselves, but even worse when the shanks lead to the "shakes."

There are several reasons why golfers shank shots, but a very common cause occurs on the backswing. If you take your club back too much "inside" the target line, around your body (illustration No. 2) you will be likely to return it along a path that forces the clubhead "outside" the ball (illustration No. 3). The result will be that the club's shaft, instead of its face, strikes the ball.

If your shank shots, I'd suggest you try taking the club back more along the target line—straighter back from the ball (illustration No. 4). This will encourage your returning the clubface squarely into the ball.

Cassius Digs Cricket

LONDON (AP)—Cassius Clay watched his first game of cricket Monday and decided it would be good training for boxing.

The heavyweight champion went to Lord's, headquarters of cricket, to watch the West Indians play the Marylebone Cricket Club.

After watching West Indian fast bowler Wes Hall in action against some of England's star batsmen, Clay said:

"Running up to the wicket as fast as Wes Hall did, when he bowled, would be good training for me."

Clay had his longest gymnasium workout, including five rounds with sparring partner Jimmy Ellis, before going to the cricket match.

Cooper made no secret of the tactics he is planning to use against Clay.

The left hook was the punch that floored Clay when they met in London in 1963. Clay recovered to win in the fifth round.

Liston Comes Back

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Sonny Liston, former heavyweight boxing champion, has scheduled his first fight since Cassius Clay knocked him out a year ago in Lewiston, Maine.

Liston's new trainer, Paul Kurlyias of Las Vegas, said Monday Liston will meet Germany's top contender, Karl Mildenberger, in a 10-round heavyweight championship.

Liston plans to leave for Europe Wednesday with a stopover in London to watch the Clay-Henry Cooper title fight May 31.

Suns Nip Wings 5-4

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Knoxville Suns journey to Toledo tonight with hopes of another victory to keep them on top of the International Baseball League standings.

The Suns, with the help of home runs by rookie Greg Goosen and Danny Napoleon, scored a 5-4 victory Monday night over Rochester Red Wings in the only game scheduled.

A ninth-inning rally by the Red Wings, when Mike Epstein singled home two runners and relief pitcher Bob Johnson, was too little and too late to salvage the game for Rochester.

BIKE HITS COW

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — A young man and his date were killed early Monday when their motorcycle collided with a cow which had wandered onto a rural road outside Jackson. They were Dean W. Gardner, 21, and Della Maxton, also 21. The cow suffered a broken leg and was destroyed.

'Best on Record' Proved To Be Tuneful Hour

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Best on Record, seen Monday night on NBC, is the one awards show of the year that skips the velvelope-opening, statue - presenting and speeches.

The performers were winners of Grammy Awards of the recording industry weeks ago. Thus the program was mainly the conveyance of a prize program of popular music performed by assorted stars of the record business.

The program was taped in bits and pieces in New York and Hollywood to meet the convenience of the performers, and when put together proved to be a massively tuneful hour.

NBC, which has been struggling valiantly to overtake CBS' commanding lead in the popularity of daytime programs, will drop two morning soap operas—Morning Star and Paradise Bay—at the end of June. They will be replaced by two more game shows, joining the network's heavy lineup of morning games July 4.

One, Chain Letter, at 11 a.m. EDT, will star comedian Jan Murray, who once had an NBC game show called Treasure Hunt. It will be followed by a show called Word Down, involving questions and answers.

At the same time, NBC will drop Let's Play Post Office, which had a rather short existence. It will be replaced by a country music show at 12:30 p.m. starring Rusty Draper with Molly Bee and Roy Clark as regular performers.

Producers of Be Slitched, ABC's popular comedy, have signed Sandra Gould to play the role created by the late Alice Pearce in the series. Miss Pearce died three months ago. George Tobias and Miss Gould will play the neighbors named Kravitz.

Recommended tonight:

CBS Reports, 10-11 EDT, LSD: The Spring Grove Experiment, a report on the effects of the drug in an experiment on two patients at a state hospital in Maryland.

SMALLPOX HITS

BIRMINGHAM, England (CP)—Thirty persons have been hit by the current outbreak of smallpox in this industrial heart of England but Dr. Ernest Miller, Birmingham health officer, says the outbreak "may be under control." He said the "source of the infection" remains a mystery.

WontCut Cooper ... Clay

LONDON (AP) — World heavyweight champion Cassius Clay says he will knock out Henry Cooper, in their May 21 title fight at London's Arsenal soccer stadium.

"I will knock Cooper cold with a good, clean punch," he said Monday.

Clay stopped Cooper with cuts eyes in the fifth round of their previous London fight in 1963. Asked if he planned to cut up Cooper again, Clay retorted:

"I do not deliberately cut people. Cooper is too nice a man for me even to think of such a thing."

Ellis tried a fast left hook—Cooper's best punch—on Clay, but the champion steered it off target with his own left and cracked a right on Ellis' jaw.

Later Clay's entourage descended on the sedate Lord's Cricket Ground to watch the West Indian tourists play Marylebone Cricket Club.

Clay, who had never seen cricket before, declared: "I like it. It's not too slow for me."

'The Knack' Draws Praise Of Adjudicator

By JACK BRAUCKMANN

VICTORIA (CP) — The Dominion Drama Festival had its one night of comedy Monday, a pleasing presentation by the MAC Theatre Society of Calgary, and some saddles back into heavier fare for five more days.

Tonight the festival will offer Arthur Miller's Death of a Salesman, presented by the University of New Brunswick Drama Society.

The Knack, Monday night's fast-moving comedy by Ann Jellicoe, drew high praise from adjudicator Marian Gorling, the second night in a row that the noted British actor - director found almost-faultless productions.

"The Knack is an enchanting play. I'm glad it was written in Britain. it makes me think there is a bit of life in old England yet," Mr. Gorling said.

He said acting, directing, sets and costumes "were done absolutely beautifully," as an altogether delightful and charming presentation.

"I find it very hard to find fault with this group—but it is an adjudicator's job to seek out shortcomings.

"There was a small set change I would like to have seen altered. I also, in the third act, the players seemed to be consciously trying, for a short time, to be funny."

He said Sharon Pollack "should have burst into tears in front of the audience—she didn't," as she played Nancy, a sweet and simple girl lured to the bachelors' apartment in London to be seduced.

Mr. Gorling said Michael Ball as a "real gentleman" who has "the knack" of attracting females gave a "marvellous performance—detailed, exactly as it should be."

Tuesday night Sunday the adjudicator praised Vancouver Little Theatre Association for its production of August Strindberg's The Father.

Regional festival adjudicator Jacques Auger said the regional the UNB group gave him "one of the most enjoyable evenings of the festival so far." He praised director Alvin Shaw for his "beautiful handling of the play — dramatic, yet down to earth."

David Aitis, a young law student at Laval, was the regional best actor award for his portrayal of Willie Loman, the failed salesman in Miller's play.

Kate Lewis, who plays Loman's wife, was a regional best actress winner as was Stephen Finch, who played Loman's son, Biff.

U.S. to Persist in Peaceful Overtures to Red China

--Goldberg

OTTAWA (CP) — Arthur J. Goldberg, American ambassador to the United Nations, said Monday the United States will persist in peaceful overtures to Communist China.

He said at a press conference that, regrettably, China is "self-isolated" and that the U.S. hopes China will abandon its policy "that political power grows out of the barrel of a gun."

Mr. Goldberg also said the U.S. doesn't want to widen the war in Viet Nam. But it would pursue its military effort "with restraint and carefulness" so that it would not be dislodged and at the same time seek a peaceful solution.

Asked whether the U.S. would be prepared, if necessary, to put 1,000,000 men in Viet Nam—it now has some 250,000 there—Mr. Goldberg said: "We're not playing the numbers game."

"You would have to tell me how many troops the other side is going to put in."

Mr. Goldberg said Rhodesia is the most immediate and difficult problem for the UN.

It would be tragic if a racial war broke out in Africa. "Everything in our power" must be done to settle the Rhodesian question peacefully.

Mr. Goldberg, who flew back to New York Monday night, conferred for several hours with External Affairs Minister Martin and briefly met Prime Minister Pearson.

Mr. Goldberg described his talks on common UN problems as "very worthwhile" and added that the U.S. and Canada were the principal architects of the UN.

He said he said Mr. Martin canvassed very frankly the question of Red Chinese membership in the UN. They had not attempted to come to a common understanding on the issue, however. This didn't mean there had been any misunderstanding.

He said he "fervently" hopes Canada won't reduce its UN peacekeeping activities.

FUNERAL HELD

TORONTO (CP) — A private funeral was held Monday for Maj.-Gen. John A. Gunn, 83, a former commanding officer of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, who died Sunday. He was officer commanding the 24th Battalion in France from 1915 to 1918. He received the Distinguished Service Order in 1918.

Ship Missing With 262 Passengers

The 740-ton Pioneer Cebu was reported driven aground by a typhoon on Malapascua or Taplon islands but her sister ship, the Pioneer Tacloban, found no trace of her there.

Both the Pioneer Cebu and the Pioneer Tacloban are owned by Filipinas Pioneer Lines, which said earlier it had a report that the Pioneer Cebu was intact and her passengers apparently safe after she was pounded against a reef.

Radio contact with the Pioneer Cebu was lost Monday after a radio message reported the ship in distress with passengers and crew on dock in life jackets.

Gemini May Fly Shortly

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) Wallo an investigation board studied the moth-eaiiion-dollar failure of Gemini 9's Atlas-Agena target rocket, ground crews pushed ahead today in hopes of launching astronauts Thomas Stafford and Eugene Cernan in two or three weeks.

When Stafford and Cernan can make another stab at their rendezvous and space-walk mission will depend on the precise cause of Tuesday's failure.

The results could affect not only the Gemini 9 date, but also several other Atlas - boosted space launchings scheduled here and at Vandenberg Air Force Base in California in the next two months.

Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said they were confident that a quick rescheduling of Gemini 9—plus the launching of the three remaining Gemini 8-day flights at two-month intervals—would provide all the data necessary to proceed to the three-man Apollo moon project.

The air force, which is responsible for the Gemini launch vehicles, reported after Tuesday's failure that one of the three engines in the Atlas booster had swivelled, wildly to one side and sent the Atlas-Agena combination tumbling out of control.

DIVES BACK

The other two Atlas engines continued to burn, but the vehicle was driving back toward earth instead of into space. It plunged into the Atlantic about 180 miles southeast of Cape Kennedy, near Grand Bahama Island.

The failure was only the third in the 14 at launchings in which the Atlas has served as a booster.

BEAUTY SPOTS SMUDGED—Paris and Vancouver, normally two of the world's most beautiful cities, are having their reputations smudged. In Paris (above) a pedestrian hurdles litter on sidewalks Tuesday as garbage cans overflowing during a one-day general strike by civic workers. Below, an amateur trashman reloads garbage on police car after the officers gave him a ticket for dumping rubbish on a roadside near Vancouver. A strike by civic workers there is nearly two weeks old. (CP Wirephoto).

Clamp Food Prices

LONDON (CP) — A cabinet emergency committee today prepared to consider demands for an official clamp on rising food prices resulting from Britain's merchant seamen's strike, now in its third day.

Some 10,000 crew members have left 300 British ships immobilized in ports around the nation with the tie-up growing hourly.

To safeguard food supplies the government took its first crisis measure in the strike by banning, from Saturday, the export of meat and non-pedigree livestock.

The 65,000-member National Union of Seamen is striking for an immediate reduction in the present work week from 56 hours to 40 hours for the same pay, a demand that the shipowners contend would amount to a pay increase of 17 per cent. The shipowners have offered a reduction over two years to a 40-hour week, which they say would amount to a 13-per-cent increase.

A British able seaman earns, including some and other payments, an average of £20 ($80) a week. Basic pay is £14 ($42).

Prime Minister Wilson, who wants to keep his government's prices - and - incomes policy intact, has urged the seamen to accept an immediate three-per-cent increase and full inquiry into pay and working conditions.

COMMITTEE MEETS

The cabinet committee watching economic effects of the strike met several times Tuesday as Agriculture Minister Fred Peart told traders the government will act if the cur-

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — A U.S. Air Force spotter plane carrying an American Army pilot and a U.S. Marine Corps observer was shot down over Da Nang today by anti-government soldiers.

The plane was hit seven times but the pilot managed a crash-landing on a nearby beach and the two Americans aboard were rescued unharmed by a helicopter.

Ontario Citizens Will Pay Share Even if Uncovered

OTTAWA (CP)—The government promised Tuesday to be in the medical care insurance business by July 1, 1967, whether all provinces are ready to join or not.

Health Minister MacEachen told the Commons several provinces have already indicated they are ready to join the federal-provincial program.

But in any case the federal government would be ready to start payments July 1, 1967, to any province setting up a medical care insurance program meeting four main standards set by Ottawa.

Newfoundland, New Brunswick, Quebec and Saskatchewan, which already has its own provincial plan, have announced they will participate in the federal program. Federal officials say they expect Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, Manitoba and British Columbia to join before the 1967 target date.

Ontario membership is considered probable but Alberta has opposed any plan entailing compulsory insurance premiums.

DYMOND COMMENTS

In Toronto, Health Minister Matthew Dymond of Ontario said the announcement represents no change in attitude.

"They have always said they would go ahead at that time," Mr. Dymond said he wanted to see and study the federal legislation before he made further comment.

He said the Ontario Medical Services Insurance Plan is not static, and will be changed as necessity dictates.

The four requirements the federal government has set are:

—Coverage of 90 per cent of the province's population from the start of the program, with an increase to at least 95 per cent after three operating years.

—Benefits to cover the full range of medical care by general practitioners and specialists.

—Full portability of benefits from province to province.

Legislation will be introduced in Parliament to authorize the government to contribute payments to participating provinces in time to meet the 1967 deadline, Mr. MacEachen said.

Another Lease On Life

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP)—The minority Liberal government survived the closest non-confidence vote of the session Tuesday night.

The count was 118 to 111 on a Conservative motion charging the government with a negative approach in imposing a "tight money policy" and denying home builders mortgage funds.

The 115 Liberals present would have carried the vote without the three Social Credit MPs who supported them.

The two-day money supply debate revolved around the non-confidence motion but little tension was generated.

The vote was the closest since the minority Liberal government weathered a Conservative non-confidence motion by eight votes during the throne speech debate.

OPPOSE GOVERNMENT

Eighty-five Conservatives, 15 New Democrats and nine Creditistes and the two independents voted against the government.

The Commons returns to begin its Tuesday with extension of an $8,000,000 annual grant to Newfoundland the first subject.

Labor Minister Nicholson, who reports to Parliament on housing, said a government that believes in the free enterprise system could hardly be expected "to tell any house builderer when they were feeling a little pressure in the summer months that the fun time since 1963.

He suggested they "try their luck" with insurance companies, mortgage companies and others who poured $1,500,000,000 into housing last year.

"In all my private labor expansion programs we are now engaged in are completed," there will be plenty of houses," Mr. Nicholson said.

"However, there may be some inconvenience to some people during the next year."

He suggested figures for 1966 would be within 10 per cent of the record 153,000 houses built in 1965.

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Matthew Dymond says Ontario's medical services plan can be incorporated into a national medical care scheme "without any upheaval."

His statement to a meeting of about 200 Italian - Canadians here Tuesday night accompanied speculation at the legislature that the Ontario government is prepared to join the federal scheme but wants to bargain over details.

Premier Robarts said in an interview Tuesday that Ontario taxpayers probably will pay half the cost of the federal plan even if the province doesn't join it.

Premier Robarts declined to say whether Ontario will join the federal scheme.

Health Minister MacEachen said Tuesday in the Commons the plan will go ahead regardless of how many provinces participate.

Asked whether he would permit a situation to develop in which Ontario would pay most of the scheme's cost if it was of no benefit to the people of the province, Mr. Robarts replied:

"I suppose that would be the result if we didn't go in."

There is nothing to prevent the Ontario Medical Services Insurance Plan from being converted to match the federal criteria for participation in the national plan, he said.

Fulton in Agreement
Diefenbaker Boycotts Munsinger Probe

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker today withdrew from the Munsinger inquiry, charging that it is an instrument of political assassination.

Mr. Diefenbaker announced his boycott just prior to the inquiry's mid - morning hearing, and explained his reasons at noon before a crowded press conference in his Commons office.

He said publication by the inquiry of a "handy document" on the Gerda Munsinger affair violated the fundamental rights of an ordinary criminal.

He called the statement "a sordid, libellous document" and "a McCarthy smear." The statement was obviously intended to destroy his reputation and was not in evidence. Many points in it were contradicted by the evidence.

Withdrawing with Mr. Diefenbaker was his former justice minister, E. Davie Fulton.

When the hearing began, their lawyer, C. F. H. Carson, advised Mr. Justice Wishart Spence, who is conducting the inquiry, of the decision. Mr. Carson and his colleagues then left the inquiry room.

Text of Mr. Diefenbaker's statement, issued to reporters:

"The Hon. Mr. E. Davie Fulton and I have decided not to participate further in the Spence inquiry. We have accordingly instructed our counsel not to attend any further hearings before the commission.

"Pursuant to those instructions, our counsel will appear at the reopening of the hearing of the commission today only for the purpose of formally withdrawing."

Hear 130 On Ship Reach Isle

MANILA (AP)—Rescue officials received an unconfirmed report today that 130 of the 200 persons aboard the missing Philippine steamer Pioneer Cebu have reached safety on the small island of Bantayan.

The rescue co - ordinating centre said the report came from the Cebu agent of the Philippine Pioneer Lines, owners of the ship. It said the survivors included 107 passengers and 23 crew members.

The report did not indicate how the 130 made it to shore in the stormy wake of typhoon Irma, which drove the Pioneer Cebu aground Monday. Nor did it explain how the information reached Cebu, which has no direct communications with Bantayan.

Bryden Says Americans Buying Us With Our Money

TORONTO (CP) — Kenneth Bryden, New Democratic financial critic, told the legislature Tuesday it is nonsense to believe United States control of the Canadian economy is the price that must be paid for U.S. investment. He claimed American "are buying us out with our own money."

In other legislature business:

—Donald C. Dawn Gun Battle
Girl Rescued; Kidnapper Killed

SHADE GAP, Pa. (AP)—The phantom sniper who kidnapped a 17-year-old girl and shot and killed an FBI agent was shot and killed himself today in a dawn gun battle with hundreds of police and FBI agents in the mountains that had hid him from the law for almost a week.

The gunfight climaxed the week - long massive manhunt started when the sniper walked out of the woods into Shade Gap last Wednesday and snatched pretty Peggy Ann Brad nick. She was rescued today.

Described during the search as the mountain man who has terrorized this rural central Pennsylvania community for almost two years, the sniper and the girl had disappeared into the woods and mountains that make up the area.

With the aid of police dogs, lawmen closed the jaws of their trap and flushed William Diller Holl enbaugh, 44, out of his rock strewn hiding place.

The ex-convict, however, refused to go down without a fight. Hopelessly outnumbered, he fired his rifle at the oncoming police and FBI agents before being felled by a bullet in the head.

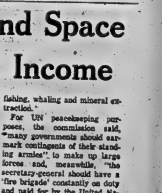
The girl, who was taken while walking home from school with five brothers and sisters, was reported in good health at the hospital.



Ky Claims Da Nang His Affair

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

SAIGON (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky said today his surprise seizure of Da Nang underscored the internal question for his military junta and not something he had to tell the United States about.

"The American government and the Vietnamese government are close, perhaps closer than ever before, but it does not mean that we have to discuss everything," Ky said in an interview at Da Nang Air Base.

Would Give UN Rule Over High Seas And Space To Be Used As Source Of Independent Income

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—A private commission proposed Tuesday night that the United Nations take over ownership of the high seas and outer space and use them as independent sources of income.

In its 17th annual report, the Commission to Study the Organization of Peace also said UN Secretary - General U Thant should recruit and pay his own permanent, trouble - shooting force of 6,000 soldiers.

The same body also suggested that while the 117-nation General Assembly should keep its rule of one vote to each country, it should have year-round working committees of limited membership weighed in favor of the countries with the greatest power, interest or responsibility.

The report said the assembly should take to the high seas and outer space to avoid conflicts between nations, to keep their resources from being wasted, to prevent their military use, to head off their contamination, to ensure all nations benefit from their resources and "to provide the United Nations with an independent source of income."

The commission recommended the United Nations take title to the high seas and seabeds "beyond the 12-mile limit for fish (and) beyond the continental shelf for minerals" and that a special "United Nations marine resources agency" grant, lease or use rights to fishing, whaling and mineral extraction.

For UN peacekeeping purposes, the commission said, "many governments should earmark contingents of their standing armies", to make up large forces and, meanwhile, "the secretary-general should have a 'fire brigade' constantly on duty and paid for by the United Nations."

Belleville Musicians Boost Heart Fund At Quinte Showcase

The B.C.I. Auditorium last night reverberated to the sounds of everything from a rousing march by John Philip Sousa to "Walk That Walk" by a local "beat" group.

The occasion was "Quinte Showcase" — a concert variety presented by the Belleville Federation of Musicians with all proceeds going to the work of the Ontario Heart Foundation, through the Belleville chapter.

The program was intended to showcase the variety of musical talent available to people in this area, as well as to stimulate the musical interest of any young or aspiring musicians. In both these aspects, the concert must be accorded a resounding success, a fact to which the small, but enthusiastic audience on hand last night will attest.

The program was divided into two segments, the first one, consisting of a variety of musical idioms, was broadcast over CJBQ and was co-hosted by Lee Journet and Norm Charles of the local radio station.

The 30-piece Belleville Federation of Musicians' Concert Band treated the audience to a medley from "My Fair Lady" in this portion of the program, and demonstrated the high standard of musicianship that conductor Douglas Aselstine (president of the Belleville Musicians' Federation, had described as a goal of the federation.

The theme from "The Pink Panther" was a highlight of the performance by Melgee Stage Band, which specialized in what was known a decade or so ago as "the band sound."

The program really became varied at this point, with the introduction of the Ted Smith Trio, a country and western group that appealed to the audience; the Frank Howard Quartet, playing two of the current popular Herb Alpert arrangements; The Ladybirds Three, a piano, bass, and vocal group; and two student offerings — renditions of "mod music" — Little Dee and the Capitals, and Thomas Williams and the Potentials.

The second part of the program was not broadcast over CJBQ, and consisted of a half-hour long concert of diverse selections by the Concert Band, including the overture from the Broadway hit "Guys and Dolls."

If last night's concert is any indication, the Belleville Federation of Musicians will more than justify the recent granting to them of an official charter by maintaining similar high standards in their musical presentations.

The current president, Ken Pinder, will also go on the executive as past president. He was chairman for last night's meeting.

Fire Damages Freight Train Diesel Engine

TRENTON — With smoke and flames pouring from the diesel engine unit, an 8-car eastbound freight came to a halt just east of Trenton CNR station at dusk Tuesday evening. The engineer had radioed that his engine was on fire between Brighton and Trenton. Immediately the train crew tried to put out the fire aboard the train. The diesel extinguishers they had were not effective.

Trenton Fire Department was called and 2 units under Fire Chief Cecil Ellis quickly quelled the blaze on the train.

The train was stopped over the underpass over the Weller Road on the north end of Trenton. No one was injured but damage to the diesel unit was extensive.

The Toronto-Montreal Rapido and another freight were held up behind the burning train until a shunter moved it off the track and later hauled it to Belleville yards.

I.A.P.A. Meet

False Sense of Security Lulls Workmen Into Danger

TRENTON — Because the Quinte area has such a good record for industrial safety, this may be a "bad" year for industrial accidents here, Joseph Connell of Kitchener told the Industrial Accident Prevention association meeting in Trenton last night.

Mr. Connell, general secretary of the Kitchener-Waterloo Y.M.C.A. told the 100 I.A.P.A. members from the Kingston-Belleville section that a false sense of security lulls workmen into carelessness and ignoring the "little things" while looking after the "important ones."

Mr. Connell warned those present to see that their children are not "conditioned" by T.V. x-rays, as he said a lethargic attitude had developed towards tuberculosis in this country. He forecast there would soon be an epidemic of this disease, "because our children don't have the same immunity we did from time to time exposure to T.B."

Increasing death on the highways was another "epidemic" Mr. Connell warned his listeners.

"Our quiet Sunday afternoons are gone forever," he said. "And the more people we have, the more accidents we're going to have."

The representatives of the 23 plants in this area were warned to go back to their shops and homes and look around for accident hazards.

Mr. Connell, who was introduced by Les Sharpe, I.A.P.A. school inspector for this area and chairman from the Trenton Co-op, was given a standing ovation.

Elected section chairman for 1966-67 was Howard Graham of the Northern Electric plant at Belleville; vice chairmen, James Sault of the Proctor - Silex plant at Picton and Rodney Mott of Corby Distillery at Corbyville. Past chairman is Jack Austin of the Downs - Colver plant at Trenton and the secretary is Mrs. K. M. (Peggy) Kerr of Belleville.

For the second year in a row, Trenton - Belleville radio station CJBQ was given a citation for reporting on safety programs. The award was accepted by announcer Al Hall on behalf of CJBQ's general manager, Frank C. Murray.

Awards for outstanding safety reporting were given to Dave Taylor from the Picton "Gazette" and John Defosse from the "Trentonian."

A civic welcome was given to the guests by Jim Utley, in the absence of Mayor James McDonald. Mr. Utley said this was probably the first time in history a Belleville resident acted on behalf of a Trenton mayor.

Donald Ireland, the manager of public relations for the I.A.P.A. in Ontario, asked the men present to see that student workmen were given adequate training and supervision this summer. Mr. Ireland said 10 student workers were injured in Ontario last summer. Four of these received hand injuries . . . three had to have their hands amputated.

Remanded Week on Fraud Charge

TRENTON — A man with a record stretching back to 1936, asked Magistrate T. Y. Wills in Trenton court yesterday, for a probationary sentence on a fraud add theft charge, "because I'm not getting any younger and I'd like to make restitution."

"With a record like that you must realize I can't see fit to give you a probationary sentence," the magistrate said.

All things are possible," said Joseph Demonda, alias Joseph Leo Chetmore, charged with passing a worthless cheque in Trenton in 1964 and stealing $40 in 50 cent pieces in Hospeler the next year.

Legal Quandry Over Radar Pre-Warnings

TRENTON — Does warning on-coming motorists about radar speed trap set up constitute an offence against the law?

Trenton lawyer Wm. G. Weston referred to an English book of case histories in an attempt to prove his client, Rodney Nelson of Frankford had not "obstructed" police, in magistrate's court at Trenton yesterday. The English book cited cases which had been tried in 1907 and 1910.

"I didn't realize speed checks took place that early," said Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Prosecutor and Acting Crown Attorney Thomas Lally will try to find Canadian references or a later English one.

Chief Constable Wm. Hockley of Frankford said Nelson had spent the greater part of the afternoon of April 18 warning motorists that the police radar unit was in the vicinity. Nelson said to have reduced traffic on Frankford's main street to a crawl by shouting "Radar ahead." Towards the end of the afternoon, Nelson, who has originally operated his "early warning system" from his motorcycle, led a "procession" of the moving cars through the village.

GYMNASIUM TAKES SHAPE—Work is progressing rapidly on this portion of the new Centennial Secondary School on the Palmer Road. The huge 77-foot-long concrete "T" slabs that can be seen for ming the roof of the gymnasium wing each weigh 23 tons.

Construction Round-Up

Floor of New High School Will Be Finished This Week

By the end of this week, the entire concrete floor level of Belleville's newest high school will have been poured.

During the next several days, the concrete for the floor of Centennial Secondary School's gymnasium wing will be poured, and the completion of the pouring of the second storey roof level will take place. The excavation for the spacious auditorium at the school's east side will begin within the next week.

The structural shell has been erected for the third floor penthouse, mechanical tradesmen are at present working on the boilers, heating, and air conditioning systems that this structure will house.

Perhaps the most readily visible progress has been made on the gymnasium, which now has its entire roof in place. Massive 77 foot-long 23-ton prestressed concrete "T" slabs form the gym roof, lowered into place by Wilson Concrete's 100-ton capacity crane.

Work is proceeding close to schedule on the Palmer Road site, and it is felt that the September deadline set for completion of some classroom teaching facilities will be met.

Belleville's other large-scale construction project, the new addition to Belleville General Hospital, is also the scene of much current activity.

Reinforced steel has been placed, and concrete has been poured, for 20 columns from the second to the third floor level in the larger Block "A" of the new wing, and in Block "B", similar preparation has been made for 170 linear feet of wall, from the basement to the first floor level.

The waterproofing of the interior basement walls is underway, and the "roughing-in" by mechanical sub-contractors in the structure's interior continues.

Progress is being made as well on the erection of formwork and steel to the third floor level of Block "A".

The frame-work hoisting tower recently erected at the north side of the construction site towers more than 100 feet in the air and is being used for getting concrete up to any level of the addition where it is needed.

Representatives of seven housing authorities from Australia are currently on a 14 - day tour studying Canadian timber - frame methods of construction. The trade mission is being sponsored by the Department of Trade and Commerce as part of its program to promote sales of Canadian products in Australia.

The visitors will be shown the advantages of Canadian building systems and encouraged to design more lumber into their buildings.

Canada's present lumber exports to Australia are valued at almost $10 million annually. Australia's domestic lumber supply is primarily hardwood, not suited to extensive use in the construction of houses.

During their visit, members of the mission will see Canadian logging operations, lumber mills, and housing developments, and will take part in seminars and discussions with builders and exporters of Canadian building materials.

Wieger DeJong Contractors of Stirling have the footings in and are working on the basement level and the erection of walls on the new Sidney Township Centennial Hall and Municipal Offices, located on the Wallbridge Road.

Wilson Concrete of Belleville is at present providing precast concrete for a two family "Y" in west-end Ottawa, as well as for highway bridges in Oshawa, Kingston and Orillia.

Wilson has almost completed its contract at Centennial Secondary School in the city, and will soon begin work at the new addition to Belleville General Hospital.

Plans are on display at the Quinte Construction Association office on Pinnacle Street for Belleville School No. 15 (tenders due May 25), for alterations to Belleville Collegiate Institute, (due May 30), and for additions and alterations to the Post Office Building in Brighton for the Department of Public Works, (tenders due June 1).

There were 60 dwellings completed in Belleville during the first three months of 1966, as against 57 a year ago in the same period.

Figures released by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation also show a rise in the number of housing starts in the first quarter of the year over 1965, with 79 starts this year, compared with 73 for the first three months of 1965.

However, the number of dwellings under construction in Belleville as of March 31st, 1966, was 58, considerably lower than the figure of 80 of a year ago.

Local Man Finds Old Half Penny

Intelligencer Linotype operator Bob Dunkle of 133 Chatham Street arrived at work a half penny richer this morning. Last night his wife, Juanita, increased the family fortune by this amount while digging in the garden, when she uncovered an 1852 half penny token about eight inches below the surface.

The coin was issued by the Bank of Upper Canada 15 years before Confederation and bears a relief of St. George and the dragon on one side. The other side shows a device consisting of two horns of plenty and a crossed anchor and sword surmounted by a crown. As yet, no idea of the present value of the coin is available.

Ontario Grant Made to Print Hastings Story

Publication of the county of Hastings historical book, now being written by Belleville high school teacher Gerald Boyce, has been approved by the Province of Ontario for a centennial grant.

Clarke T. Rollins, MLA for Hastings East, reported yesterday that the province would pay $5,000 of the estimated $15,000 cost of the history. The county's application has been forwarded for approval to the Centennial Commission in Ottawa.

Subject to approval by the Centennial Commission, the federal government will pay $5,000 with the remaining $5,000 to be paid by the county.

Provincial approval has also been given for a centennial grant to the township of Huntingdon for an addition to its township hall at a cost of $6,000.

The cost would be divided, $2,500 by the township, and $1,500 each from the province and federal government.

Birds Set Up Light Housekeeping

Do you think redevelopment of Pinnacle Street is for the birds?

If so, you have company.

The hollow concrete poles for traffic lights erected at the intersection of Pinnacle and Bridge Streets have little square holes in them, near the top.

At least one of these holes is the doorway to a swallow's castle.

Today the bird was busily making trips between the pole hole and the Armouries lawn, where it was gathering the materials for a nest.

Three-Car Crash Injures Three Persons

Driver of the third car was John Stanley Down, 44, R R 3, Trenton. He was not injured.

Belleville O.P.P. are investigating.

Accident Forces Early CN Retirement

A fractured neck sustained in an accident last December forced Everett Windover, 58 Northwood Crescent into early retirement from his position as yard foreman with Canadian National Railways here. But he and his wife Etta intend to make the most of the circumstances by spending much of their spare time at their favorite hobby.

There are many forms of exercise and recreation that are now listed as off limits for Mr. Windover. Square dancing is not one of these and that pastime is fitting in perfectly with their plans for "quiet retirement." They may begin instructing at classes for square dancers in Napanee, this fall.

Mr. Windover was a CNR employee for 39 years, spending all but a short period of that time in Belleville. He was with the CNR at Trenton briefly.

The couple has a son, Ron, who is a Squadron Leader at RCAF Headquarters in Ottawa. Granddaughter JoAnne is a nurse-in-training at Ottawa Civic Hospital and grandson Roderick is a student.

Since Mr. Windover's retirement, he has received two presentations from fellow workers. Yesterday, he was presented with a purse of money and a lifetime CNR pass. Making the presentation on behalf of the yardmen, was Harry Thibault, a yard foreman who is local chairman of Lodge 108. Also present were general yardmaster Harold Denike, yard foreman Arthur Dickens and Harold Clarke, and yardmen Charlie Edgar, Earlier, Hanley Cottam, stores supervisor, made a presentation on behalf of that department.

Playground Supervisors Hired, Still Need Program Specialist

A full staff of playground supervisors has been hired for the coming holiday season, but the Belleville Recreation Commission is still looking for a program specialist for full-time duties with the city's recreational program.

Recreation Commission director Lloyd Doran reports that 26 playground supervisors, including three boys, have been hired for the city's 22 playgrounds. This is the same number of supervisors as last year and the number of playgrounds also remains the same.

The supervisors will take the playground leadership training course at Moira Lake where approximately 180 playground leaders, the largest number on record, will attend a five-day school.

The city playground will open July 4th and will continue for eight full weeks until August 28th.

But the recreation commission is experiencing difficulty in hiring a full-time female program specialist for the commission's recreational program.

Advertisements were placed earlier in the year and a college graduate specialist was tentatively hired. The specialist was to commence duties May 1st but a week before that date, the applicants advised that she had accepted another position.

Mr. Doran said the commission will now repeat advertisements for a specialist.

Fish and Game Winds Up 1965-66 Season

The Belleville and District Fish and Game Club wound up its 1965 - 66 season with its final meeting at Cloh Canara last night.

"Most of the members must be taking to the outdoors, as usual at this time of year, and we had a small turnout", said club spokesman this morning.

The next regular meeting will be held on the third Tuesday in September.

President Fred Fisher was in charge of the meeting last night.

Prizes were awarded to the top four entries in the recent pickerel fishing derby.

While the fish were not in the "giant size class", Fred Polesky won first prize, Vern McDonald second, Robert Buckman third and Eddie Hall fourth.

A tangle in attendance sajoyed outdoor films.

Two members will be using new fishing rod and reel outfits this season, thanks to the luck of the club draw. Stuart Martin and Charlie Stiles were the lucky winners.

Quiet Russians

It might be supposed from the recent travels of Soviet Premier Kosygin that Russia poses less threat to world peace these days than any other country.

First, there were the Soviet leader's efforts in achieving a cease-fire between India and Pakistan. This was embodied in the Tashkent Agreement, named after the city in Soviet Central Asia where the late Premier Shastri of India and President Ayub Khan of Pakistan met.

Last week Kosygin was in the United Arab Republic for ceremonies connected with the opening of Egypt's Aswan Dam, which was built largely with Soviet financial and technical aid.

Otherwise, Russia is more passive on the world scene than it has been for years. Gone are the nerve-racking days of Premier Khrushchev. True, Mr. Khrushchev mellowed considerably as time past and often was no more than a paper-tiger. Nevertheless, he did contrive to keep east-west relations in a state of constant uncertainty.

Kosygin by comparison is much more level-headed, and it is difficult to imagine any government under his jurisdiction unleashing a major conflict with the West. That is, so long as he retains the premiership and does not run foul of the other members of the Kremlin hierarchy.

There is no sign either that the Soviets are paying any more than lip service to the communist cause in Viet Nam. The Viet Cong rebels and North Vietnamese regular forces who are seeking to subjugate South Viet Nam are likely receiving more aid from China than from Russia.

Indeed, China is reported to have made it difficult for the Russians to send supplies overland to North Viet Nam, which in turn is not entirely enamoured of the Peking government.

So far as the suffering because of world peace is concerned, the Soviet Union seems to be neither for nor against such a proposition. Thus we have the spectacle of Soviet mediation of the India-Pakistani dispute, and technical aid for the United Arab Republic and other countries, including Cuba, but no great effort to bring about a settlement of the appalling Viet Nam war. Yet it is believed to be still on relatively friendly terms with the United States and would welcome an end to that conflict, though not necessarily on American terms.

Meanwhile, it is sad to reflect that the recent 40-day lull in U.S. bombing of North-Viet Nam, the efforts of the Pope, dramatized by his visit to the United States, and more recently the unprecedented discussions between His Holiness and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, have all come to nought.

Peace is not the way of the modern world. Man's warlike nature is never satiated. True, mankind cannot live in a vacuum, but must all the vacuums of the world be filled with wars and rumors of wars? There is so much to be done in other spheres, at least we can be thankful for the fact that the major powers are all sufficiently afraid of a nuclear holocaust to keep their fingers off the ultimate button. But how long can it last?

Stocks Hit

In a parody of an advertisement which lauds the quietness of Rolls Royce cars, a current cartoon observes, "The Loudest Noise You Hear Is . . ." As the chauffeur opens a rear door, it comes off in his hand; and below is the sounds of a newspaper report in which lawyer Ralph Nader, scourge of the auto industry, criticizes door latches on the luxury British car.

Rolls Royce of course is not alone. Nader's critical gaze has fallen on a wide range of European and North American models. Faults have been found that have resulted in the recall of certain models for modification. Both General Motors and Ford have announced cutbacks in production and days on assembly lines as the activity on United States and Canadian stock markets.

Just how vital is the car industry to the economic health of the continent may be gauged from these recent trends, among which most emphasis has been laid on car safety.

From the public's point of view, or viewed simply on humanitarian grounds, the lives of human beings are more important than the health of the auto industry. Yet the two go together. If the current investigations into car safety result in a safer vehicle and the reduction of accidents, not only the general public, but the car industry itself, so vital to the economic health of this continent, will benefit.

Rescue Boat

The unseasonable weather may be regarded as beneficial in at least one way, in that the risk ob boating and bathing accidents is reduced. Ordinarily beaches would be crowded on weekends at this time.

Nevertheless, it is better to be prepared, and the news that Prince Edward County is urging provision of a rescue boat for the provincial police in Picton makes sense.

Rescue work has been hampered in the past by the absence of readily - available craft. Provision of a trailer-mounted boat in Picton would be a wise move.

Child's IQ Can Be Raised

Oshawa Times

Psychologists believe they can raise the average level of intelligence during the next generation or two by 20 points of I.Q. (intelligence quotient) — provided they reach the children early enough. But to make computers more intelligent, speedy action is required.

Contrary to the old view that intelligence is fixed at conception, we now know that a child is endowed with an intellectual potential. He has to make it learn, according to an article in the current Reader's Digest.

This process usually takes place during the first four or five years of life. Environment plays a leading role. Children brought up in homes where they are played with and exposed to a wide variety of sights and sounds develop more fully than children brought up in institutions where they are deprived of these advantages. To provide the advantages, parents should give their infants a wide variety of things to hear, see and handle. Simple devices—boxes, pots and other household objects—are just as good as expensive toys for the purpose.

Motivation plays an equally vital role. Children should be free to try out the world, to walk, climb, jump, manipulate and throw things.

They also need affectionate, adults who will give encouragement, answer their endless questions, serve as models for imitation and ask them questions that they must use language to answer.

By providing the opportunities for children to learn, parents can help raise the child's intelligence and contribute toward a society in which intelligence is higher than any of us may think possible.

Strictly Personal
Love and the Hidden Self

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The two young people assured me that they understood each other "perfectly and completely," and no doubt they thought me cynical or even slightly senile when I shrugged and expressed skepticism at their words.

But the fact is that, much as they are in love, no person can wholly see another person — and what we cannot wholly see, we cannot wholly understand. We can only have faith, which is quite another matter.

We cannot even see a whole apple, much less a person. Every apple has its obverse and reverse sides; yet who can see them at once, to capture the totality of the apple? In a mirror, all one sees is only a reflection, and not the substance itself.

At each given moment, we see merely a part of the apple and build up the rest in our minds from the part we see. But in its fullness, in its third-dimensionality, the apple remains unknown to us. Every object that has depth withholds some secret from us.

And how much more so a person. Himmler rebuked his false friends for trying to pluck out the heart of his mystery: but the mystery was, quite simply, himself — that part unknown to everyone, even to his dearest friend, Horatio, even to Hamlet himself at the end.

Gabriel Marcel, many years ago, wrote a fine book called "The Mystery of the Person." It is a theme not worth remembering, because in modern times the mystery tends, like all proper mysteries, has a sacred origin) runs the risk of being dissolved into its lifeless components.

There are many today who would consider the person chiefly as Economic Man. There are those, equally prevalent, who would reduce him to Psychological Man. There are the positivists and super-scientists who would reduce him to Physiological and Chemical Man, as if two dollars' worth of phosphates explained love and honor and self-sacrifice.

The whole person cannot be known by human science, and he is in danger of being violated when it is tried: his private reserve, his personality, his unanalomized, his needs prescribed and proscribed, his reactions tabulated on a curve, his climate identity reduced to Personnel, Patient, Consumer, Citizen, Interview, Statistic, Passenger, and, finally, Casualty.

It was sweet and touching that the young couple thought they understood each other "perfectly and completely." Ten years from now, they will not be so sure; and 20 years from now, if they stay together and gain in wisdom, they may have the courage and honesty to admit that they do not, and never did. Nor do they need to: love was devised to carry the current from mystery to mystery, from a current so shallow and yet so heavy that no wires of understanding or reason can support it.

Career Wife Quite Happy

Brockville Recorder and Times

Because it has been a theory expounded in many, many articles in women's magazines, the so - called "trapped wife syndrom" may have been accepted as a truism by the more - gullible housewives in Canada and the United States. The "syndrome theory" never did catch on in Europe and for the same reason it does not have in this country: it's a myth.

The words are supposed to be full of trained university women, trapped in utter despair, in their role as housewife because they have to stay home and mind their families instead of using their talents in a career." A Columbia university research team has exploded the myth. Over 300 of the university's top female graduates between 1945 and 1951 were interviewed. They weren't miserable. They weren't frustrated. They hadn't lost their identity. And 97 per cent per cent of them had been "fulfilled," 75 per cent of them were "perfectly satisfied with all aspects of their lives," and 34 per cent of housewife and child - rearing duties and most of the marriages had been blessed with children.

And 97 per cent said they were able to harmoniously combine career and family. Nearly every married woman who wanted to work in her chosen occupation was working. In other words the average university trained woman has emerged from this study as a reasonably happy, fulfilled person.

This is a far cry from the female pictured as the "trapped housewife," but then, the angle did sell stories.

Rubbish Hits Building Site

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

A property on the corner of John and Victoria is being cleared for the building of an apartment. I believe it is to be ready for occupation in October.

At the moment the hedge surrounding the property is full of paper rubbish that is blowing onto the lawns of other Street residents. The new owners would make a favorable impression in the neighborhood if they cleared this accumulation out now.

A Short Course In Moral Philosophy

Bathroom Hazards

Peterborough Examiner

Bathroom users the world over will thrill to the news that a five-year study of bathroom fixtures has concluded that they are a disgrace to a civilized society. The study, conducted by a Cornell team, says that the bath tub is uncomfortable and unsafe, the washbasin is too low and the shower cramped. Moreover, the washbasin and, as they politely refer to the lavatory, should be redesigned with closer attention to "body dynamics' (what do they mean by that masterly piece of evasion?).

Bathers have no doubt been well aware of the shortcomings in bathroom design, but they have been exceptionally passive about it. Some people even sit in the bath with their back to the taps, a posture which prevents them from lying down and subjects them to discomfort from hot or cold drips. But now they have a new champion and we expect the campaign for the safer bath to begin.

One of the manufacturers will say that accidents are caused by human error rather than design and that the bath tub is not buy safe bath tubs. The critics will counter by saying that the manufacturers have a responsibility to minimize physical danger by safer design. There will be demands for non-slip surfaces, the removal of sharp protruding objects, and sliding doors to permit easy entry. Then one day the new safety bath tub will be unveiled at a plumbing exhibition in New York and a new vista of comfort, safety and cleanliness will open up for all North American bathers.

Television And Leisure

St. Catharines Standard

A journalist friend commented that 15 years ago he had more time to do some writing in the evening, and that sometimes he wrote something pretty good. At least, he says, evenings gave him time for reading and reflection. Nowadays, he complains, the TV screen gobbles up a lot of the leisure time that once was put to better use.

Of course he is 15 years older and perhaps no longer has the fire to try to write something of consequence. But it is true that pre-TV a person had to do a certain amount of arranging to be entertained, while now a man has to be a lot of arranging to have free time for something other than being entertained. Have we settled, at too great a cost, for our TV entertainment?

All Very Well

Winnipeg Tribune

Federal government spokesman are quick these days to lecture citizens about the need to save. They say Canadians should get in there and provide capital for industrial exansion and resource development. That's good stuff to give the troops and has a fine nationalistic ring to it, but it would be helpful if Ottawa made it a little easier for Canadians to save.

To Your Good Health
Alcoholic Wants Help But Would Shun AA

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a woman of 40 and desperately seeking help. I am an alcoholic. Don't tell me to go to AA because that would mean exposing myself to my family. I would rather die.

I have tried many times on my own, but to no avail. I have heard there is a potent drug that can help if the patient is willing and really wants to stop. Is this true. — Mrs. M.

"AA" means Alcoholics Anonymous, and the "Anonymous" means just what it says, so I do not see why going to AA would expose your problem to your family.

I have discussed this with AA members, and one of the penetrating replies was, "And just how is she going to explain it to her family, anyway, when she is sober all the time?"

You see, secret alcoholics characteristically think they have everybody fooled. Drinkers who have been through the mill tell me this is very seldom true. Almost always it is a case of friends and family pretending they don't know, when they do.

Therefore it may well be, Mrs. M., that exposing your problem to the family would be no surprise at all, and you would find only understanding and support in your determination to quit.

AA achieves its finest results with people who voluntarily and sincerely seek its help, and I think you genuinely want help. Why not try it?

However, in cities as big as yours, there are advanced clinics doing excellent work. There is one where you live. It is also possible that the doctor could refer you to a private physician specializing in your problem.

Yes, there are potent drugs which make a person violently ill if alcohol is consumed. This is certainly not all I don't. This flaw is that if a person really wants another drink, he always can find some way or another to stop taking the drug. The real cure lies deeper: Helping the patient overcome the pathological desire to quit.

The drug, however, is useful in some cases, but it needs close supervision by a physician or clinic.

Dear Dr. Molner: I've been told that once a woman stops taking hormones, she has to continue them. Is this so? Will they make hair grow, or make her masculine? I enclose 25 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed, "Make Menopause Easier." — D. pf

You have been misinformed. Hormones are helpful in getting a woman past the more annoying aspects of menopause, but there is no reason why they have to be continued indefinitely.

In the amounts prescribed for this purpose, as well as in the type of hormones used (largely estrogens, or the "female hormone") There is no acceleration of hair growth and certainly no masculinization. You'll find more information on this in the booklet.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a low white blood count—3,500 instead of 7,000. It is checked every month but it never gets any higher. Could you account for this? —Mrs. W.

The white cell count normally ranges from 5,000 to 10,000. A persistently low count may be due to a blood disorder or to a chronic toxic condition. Only a complete blood study can tell the story. Certain drugs, such as sedatives and tranquilizers, can suppress the white count.

United Empire Loyalists from New York landed at the mouth of the St. John River 183 years ago today in 1783—and founded Portstown, two years later renamed Saint John, N.B. and the first Canadian city to be incorporated. About 3,000 loyalists left the United States after the end of the War of Independence and migrated to the Maritimes while 5,000 more went straight to Upper Canada. Until their arrival French was the language of almost all Canada, but the United Empire Loyalists laid the foundations of English settlement.

Forum for The Public

Sherbrooke Record

From the time the first newspaper made its appearance over 200 years ago, the letter-to-the-editor column has been one of the most fascinating features of the editorial page.

Even today it is one of the best-read sections of any newspaper.

For the newspaperman it is somewhat of a barometer of his popularity in the community. If everybody hates him, he's probably doing a very bad job. But if everybody loves him the situation is really grim. For one of the prime purposes of a newspaper, especially a community publication, is to present the problems the people it serves And it it does so adequately it is bound to make some enemies but it should also make many friends.

Many contributors to the letter-to-the-editor column are willing to express their opinions over their own names.

But many, for various and valid reasons, prefer to use pseudonyms.

Many of more than passing interest, perhaps doing more to explain the writers' personalities than the texts of the letters themselves.

There are he old standbys: Concerned, Disgusted, Agitated, Canadian, Veteran, Mother of Eight Fedup and the old reliable Pro Bono Publico.

But how do you explain the energy displayed by one contributor to the Edmonton Journal who signed himself "Slightly Disgusted"?

Maybe he almost did not write at all.

Stock Market Plans Move From Wall St.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Post today quotes the president of the New York Stock Exchange as saying the exchange has definite plans to move part of its activities out of New York City, regardless of whether a tax on stock transfers is increased.

At the same time, exchange President Keith Funston acknowledged in an interview that the Big Board, as the exchange is known, could not and would not move out of New York City entirely, the newspaper says in a story by Business Editor Hobart Rowen.

The article adds:

"Funston's thinking at the moment, which he says is fully supported by the governing board of the exchange, is to open two new stock exchange branches.

"One, which might be in New Jersey, would provide additional trading floor for large blocs of securities. But it might also include facilities for the sale and purchase of 'round lot'—that is, typical 100-share unit transactions.

"The other branch, which might be in a neighboring state such as Connecticut, would house the growing computer system of the exchange. This might incorporate the possibility of odd-lot (less than 100 share) transactions outside of New York."

Funston had threatened to move the exchange out of New York if a proposal by Mayor John V. Lindsay to double the stock transfer tax is enacted.

Ameliasburg Has Centennial Project About Half Finished

AMELIASBURG — Outside centres may have good reason to envy Ameliasburg Township's centennial effort.

With better than a year remaining before the celebration goes underway officially, Ameliasburg has already shown leadership in this endeavor and by this weekend a major portion of its undertaking will be completed.

The township's centennial committee includes the building of a $12,000 addition to the community hall in the centre of the village and extensive improvements in the park behind it. The centennial committee is spending more than $20,000 on the entire project.

This weekend the contractor winds up work on the addition to the township hall. The new part makes available 768 square feet of additional floor space. It contains the municipal offices, a vault for township records, a spacious community kitchen and two bathrooms. The municipal office will be opened and staffed by June 1.

Costing almost as much money, the program for park improvements calls for levelling and sanding 600 feet of beach frontage on Roblin Lake and the installation of lights on the softball diamond for night games, as well as providing needle playground equipment, picnic tables, change houses and outside toilets. A new fence is being erected along the east and north side of the park while the grounds around the hall will be landscaped in keeping with the approved plan.

The total expenditure on the township's centennial project is made up of park, centennial and community centre grants.

Those responsible for the township centennial effort are councillor Russell Thompson (chairman); William Nightingale, secretary; Klause Werkheven, Jack Jones, Norman Post, Mrs. Harman Montgomery, Mrs. Graydon Calnan, Mrs. Allan Walbridge, Harold Canfield and Mrs. Art Adams. County warden and township councillor Alister Bonesteel is honorary chairman of the committee.

Prince Edward Plans Apple Bloom Festival

AMELIASBURG — The Warden of Prince Edward County has called on the citizens of Ameliasburg township in particular to co - operate in the promotion of the first annual Apple Blossom Festival the end of this month. Next year the event will be expanded as part of the township's centennial project.

On Sunday May 29 commencing at 2.30 p.m., Warden and Mrs. Harold Ketcher will host the inaugural ceremony on the farm of their residence on the Redmerville road. Families within a radius of 100 miles are encouraged to make the drive to and enjoy the natural beauty of the fruit growing countryside which turns into one giant flower garden at that time of year.

Those people who have planned to visit the county at bloom time this year are being urged to bring cameras and lunches with them in the event they decide to stop at the picnic area on the Bonter farm at the west end of the scenic route. Tables similar to those located in provincial parks are being provided for the occasion by the township entertainment committee.

Actually all of Prince Edward County's varied fruit trees bloom in the month of May.

Due to the cool spring, however, the blossoms are - two weeks late this year. Blooming of the apple trees follow sweet and sour cherries, pears and plums in that order.

In the county there are numerous blossom routes. Still the Redmerville road continues as a favorite drive because of the proximity of orchards along the 12 miles of paved highway between Rossmore and Carrying Place providing more blossoms per mile.

As a convenience for the visitors, hot and cold refreshments will be available at a booth in the picnic area staffed by members of the township Homeowners' association and the Albury choir.

Especially of interest to the younger women from the township will be applications for the Ameliasburg Centennial Princess contest that can be obtained at the booth on the premises. Later on, a queen, to represent Prince Edward County during centennial year, will be selected from the county's seven township princesses.

Fifteen Cattle Lost in Rawdon Barn Blaze

A herd of 15 Holstein cattle, together with a quantity of hay and some grain, was destroyed in an early morning fire today which burned the barn of Gordon Lake in Rawdon township.

The fire occurred about 2:00 a.m. and was first seen from the village of Stirling three miles away as the flames lit up the night sky.

The Rawdon township volunteer fire department under Mac Mason was called, but by the time the fire truck arrived the barn was nearly burned down. Firemen concentrated their efforts on protecting the nearby Lake home and other buildings.

City Engineer W. Purcell Stresses Publicity's Value

There are more reasons than one for promoting understanding of the importance of public works activities in community life. Some of the reasons were stressed yesterday by City Engineer Wilbur Purcell in an address to the Belleville Kiwanis Club.

Noting that the Belleville service club is sponsoring National Public Works Week, a program which began seven years ago in the United States and is now spreading to Canada, Mr. Purcell urged club members to keep their public works week committees functioning in years to come and endeavor to improve the program on the whole community.

"The attracting and retaining of qualified and dedicated personnel to staff public works departments is influenced by the people's attitude and understanding of the importance of the work performed by such employees," he observed.

"An attitude of support and understanding on the part of public works employees to perform to the best of their ability, and with encouragement, tends to enter the field. On the other hand, an attitude of ridicule and disrespect will have the opposite effect and will in time turn away the bright young people so desperately needed in the public works field.

"Your club is in an excellent position to support the challenge presented to you by Kiwanis International, to annually sponsor and public works week and to help and thereby carry out a continuing educational program a program designed to enable citizens of the community with the functions, purpose and worth of public works operations.

"The kind of community we will have in the future will be influenced to a large degree by the type of young people attracted to executive positions in the public works field. Numerous career opportunities in public works await our bright young people in all areas, both in and out of government.

ARE INDISPENSABLE

"It is readily apparent that public works not only serve as an indispensable part of our daily lives but will be equally important in the lives of our children and grandchildren. They will not only derive benefits from public works but must, like you and me, assume responsibility for the development, operation and maintenance of such facilities and services. Public works are everybody's business."

Mr. Purcell described public works as an intricate, vital complex. He suggested that lack of general knowledge as to how a public work is initiated and the problems and costs connected with its proper maintenance is the reason the general public so often asks "Why don't they do something about it?"

He went on to explain that projects in Belleville, administered by the public works department, such as street reconstruction, bridges, storm sewers, sanitary sewers and sidewalks, are all initiated and carried out as capital works.

"This means that the cost of the work is to be financed over a period of years and not out of the current year's budget. The major works, those that tend to benefit all or a large part of the community, such as the reconstruction of Pinnacle St. and the Front St. subway and the construction of new bridges, are normally carried out as City capital works, as they are needed, or can be afforded.

LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS

"Other works, those that are of a more local nature, can be initiated by the citizens fronting on the works as a local improvement by the City Council. The important point here is that people should realize that if they sign the petition for say one reconstructed to a higher standard, or a sanitary sewer, or a sidewalk, they should circulate a petition to see if their neighbors are of the same opinion. If a majority of the owners on the street want the work done, the Council will generally schedule the project, provided the capital funds are available."

Mr. Purcell stated that it's city's capital works quota approved by the Ontario Municipal Board for 1966 is $2,100,000. Of this amount, $280,000 is earmarked for roads; $240,000 for the College Street bridge; $185,000 for local improvement to streets, sewers and sidewalks, and $220,000 for water mains, making a total of $888,000 for public works facilities, not including the water. The $888,000 represents about $1,330,000 of actual work. The difference is the subsidy to be received from the Ontario Department of Highways and is not part of the city's capital requirements.

Promises in Advance Spell Problems Now

DEAR DORIS: My fiances and I are to be married next summer.

My mother remarried last year and I now have a stepfather. Some years ago I promised my grandfather that he could take me down to the altar. Now, I don't know which one it should be. I don't want to hurt my stepfather nor my grandfather. I would like your opinion as to who is going to give me away.—ENGAGED.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR ENGAGED: This quandary comes of making promises too far ahead. A more common one is the sworn allegiance of a teen-age pal which brings about an understanding that each is to be the other's maid of honor; only to find with the lapse of a couple of years that someone else has usurped the affection of one or the other.

In your case, to avoid hurt feelings, why not ask both? One bride who was the fortunate possessor of twin brothers —though no father—marched down the aisle on an arm of each!

At that point where your clergyman says: "Who gives this woman away?" the reply would then be: "Her stepfather and I", or "Her grandfather and I"—depending on whom you delegate to speak.

DEAR DORIS: A letter in your column prompts me to write of my experience with jealousy.

I have had two severely jealous women in my life. My mother drove two husbands from her with her conduct, also me. Why I came back no one knows.

She warned me of my wife before we were married, although she had never met her. After 21 years married I had to leave my house because of my wife's jealous nature. I dispute your advice of forgiveness. Continuous forgiveness wears out and loses its purpose.

Doris, I never touched another woman while I was living with my wife but the accusations went on just the same. I had to forego gatherings and socials to avoid scenes. I know it is a mental disease, as my wife was in the mental hospital twice.

She just couldn't stand to see me in mixed company. My mother was the same.—TOM.

DEAR TOM: There's a difference between forgiveness and submission. You avoided scenes at a cost to you of all freedom. Isn't it possible your wife might have retained her balance if you had insisted on maintaining yours?

An inadequate person (and jealousy is a symptom of inadequacy) will cling to an upright character like ivy to a rock.

DEAR DORIS: I hope you can help settle an argument between my husband and me.

Several times a year he goes out with "the boys" and doesn't return home until about five o'clock in the morning filled with alcohol. He doesn't do this often, but I really get furious when he does because I maintain any activity carried out until that hour should include me.

He says I do him a great injustice to carry on so because it's all perfectly harmless. I have no objection to him bowling once a week with the fellows and getting a few beers after, which is what he did until this year.

Do you think I'm just being a nag or do most wives get good and angry when their husbands do something like this? — DREADING NEXT TIME.

DEAR DREADING: I'm with you. Here's hoping that one of these days your spouse will himself realize that he has sown enough wild oats.

* * *

(Do you wonder why the people you care about act as they do? Let Doris shed light on your particular human problem. And remember that stamped envelope!)

Veteran of Two Wars And '16 Bride Celebrate

A Belleville veteran of two world wars who achieved some kind of record for rapid promotion in this week with his wife, observing 38 years of married life.

Tuesday was the actual anniversary date for Mr. and Mrs. John M McClelland, 42 Boswell Street, but Saturday evening a family dinner party will be staged at a local hotel.

Military weddings were the order of the day back in 1916 when Mr. McClelland and his bride, the former Marguerite Sinclair, were married at Fort Erie.

Later came overseas service for the young army man who was to be wounded in action before returning to Canada.

The couple have lived in Belleville for the past 25 years. Mr. McClelland having been transferred here as district sales agent for the coal company for which he worked. He has been retired for the past eight years.

But back to World War I and Mr. McClelland's rapid promotion.

He enlisted as a private at Welland and spent one night on guard duty at the Welland Canal. The next morning he was given the rank of sergeant and became "sort of private secretary" to the army unit colonel.

He went overseas with the 76th Battalion in July of 1916, applied for his commission, attended officers training school in England and went on active duty on the continent.

In World War II, Mr. McClelland joined the veterans guard and served out the war years in charge of various prison camps across Canada.

But he has spent most of his life as a coal sales agent. First he was in the soft coal field with Ontario, and parts of Quebec and New York State as his territory.

He switched to anthracite and for many years worked out of Belleville for the Weaver Coal Company.

Mr. and Mrs. McClelland are active members of Tabernacle United Church. The groom of 50 years is an avid gardener, hockey and baseball fan.

Politically they are on good terms with both major parties and received anniversary congratulations from both Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson and John G. Diefenbaker, leader of the Conservative opposition.

They also received congratulations from federal member Lee Grills and from West Hastings MLA Elmer Sandercock. The latter called personally to present a scroll from Ontario Premier John Robarts.

The couple have six children, four sons, Malcolm of Belleville, Gordon of Halifax, Ramsay of Aylmer and Craig, at home, and two daughters, Mrs. Mel (Ruth) Garlow and Mrs. John (Joyce) Babiak, both of Belleville. There are 17 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Predict Shortage of Costumes For Many Centennial Events

By MARILYN ARGUE

OTTAWA (CP) — Forget about high-high skirts and see-through vinyl dresses if you want to be in fashion in 1967.

Floor - length crinolines and sprigged dimity are what is slated in centennial year, the centennial planning branch of the Ontario department of tourism says.

Fashion co - ordinators on the women's activities committee predict a shortage of period costumes for the hundreds of centennial events planned unless women start designing and sewing right now.

For a start, they have turned out a 30-page booklet full of Confederation fashions for everything from a barn-raising to a ball.

They've also sewed up a packaged-period fashion show, available to women's groups in the province.

The booklet, A Century of Fashion, has already been sent out in thousands of libraries, women's and theatre groups in the hopes of starting swarms of sewing bees.

Based on six commercially-available patterns, plus details researched out of archives, libraries and family portraits, it covers the clothes picture for the whole family.

The planners also tell you how to keep costs down by trimming bonnets with paper lace doilies and plumes made out of drinking straws instead of the real antique article.

SAVE ON CLOTH

"Use unbleached cotton or cheesecloth instead of voile or mull," they say. "Buy up clearance drapery material—remember that the dress Scarlet O'Hara made out of curtains was potent enough to capture Rhett Butler."

To combat needle fatigue and centennial spunk, they recommend positioning hemlines along the finished edges of the material, then forget the hem. Some of these full-skirted fashions could involve 16 feet of hemming.

Extra inspiration for the back-to-Confederation look is provided by the wardrobe of period pieces they have available. This package fashion show, sewn by volunteer seamstresses from material donated by a Montreal firm, is available for modelling at local style shows held by Ontario women's groups.

The costumes come in their own station wagon to groups who have first guaranteed an audience of at least 300. Dresses, complete with accessories, are included for female little girls.

Laura Secord, Sir John A. Macdonald's wife and Queen Victoria are among historical figures whose favorite outfits have been copied for the show, which also has examples of pioneer, Quaker and Indian dress.

There is only one of each outfit and sizes range from 9 to 18 depending on the character depicted.

The show went on the road for the first time May 12, travelling from its Bloor Street headquarters in Toronto to Brockville.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple now quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoonfuls full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if pounds of unsightly fat and inches fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blood disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

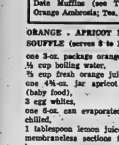
SOUFFLE MADE IN ADVANCE



Orange-Apricot Party Soufflé is a dessert, not a savory, serves as the word soufflé might suggest to you. And, praise be, it may be made in advance.

The hostesses I have in mind today are secretaries who want to have a shower for one of their girl friends at the office.

Now this is a comparatively low-calorie dessert, for young girls watch calories like detective to keep those trim little figures of theirs. Surprisingly it is low in cost and easy to make and I will tell you how. If you wish, make it on the evening before the party and apply the decorations just before serving.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu by Mary Moore

Cream of Asparagus Soup (see Tues.); Chicken Liver Omelette; Tossed Greens; Date Muffins (see Tues.); Orange Ambrosia; Tea.

ORANGE - APRICOT PARTY SOUFFLE (serves 8 to 10)

one 3-oz. package orange jello,
½ cup boiling water,
⅔ cup fresh orange juice,
one 4¾-oz. jar apricot puree (baby food),
3 egg whites,
one 5-oz. can evaporated milk, chilled,
1 tablespoon lemon juice,
wmbraneless sections from 1 large orange,
chocolate shot (for decorating) optional,
"silvers" (for decorating) optional),
chopped nuts (for decorating) optional.

In a large bowl stir the jello into the boiling water until it is thoroughly dissolved. Add the orange juice and apricot puree. Stand the bowl in a large pan of ice water to chill until it begins to set, stirring occasionally. While jelly is chilling whip the egg whites until stiff and when jelly begins to set fold egg whites in until smoothly mixed. Whip the chilled evaporated milk with the lemon juice until stiff and fold it in smoothly.

Line a straight-sided 7 or 8 inch souffle dish (or any pudding dish) on the sides with a double thickness of foil, which extends 1 inch above rim. Turn souffle into it and chill thoroughly until set. At serving time, with the help of, scissors, cut away the extending collar of foil. Tip dish and sprinkle chocolate shot (or finely chopped nuts) around bare extending sides. Arrange orange sections like spokes of a wheel on top and sprinkle "silvers" between orange sections.

Note: 1) Do not apply decorations very long in advance for the chocolate shot and silvers have a tendency to dissolve after a couple of so. 3) This is such a pretty and delicate dish you could easily type the above on a recipe card and give it to the bride-to-be for her future entertaining.

McIntosh – McLauchlan

MR. AND MRS. STEWART R. McINTOSH

Marsha Lillian McLauchlan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McLauchlan of Belleville and Stewart Roger McIntosh, son of Mr. and Mrs. George McIntosh of Belleville were united in marriage by Rev. H. M. Davis in the Bridge United Church recently. Mr. S. Alan Gordon played the wedding music and Mrs. Robert Flowers sang.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white satin peau de soie with neckline and sleeves along the neckline and down the front of the jacket. Her dress featured long lily-point sleeves and a train sweeping out from the bridge. She wore a bow at the waistline. Her four-tier elbow-length tulle veil was held with a satin pearl and lace headdress and she carried a bouquet of large yellow 'mums.

As maid of honor, Miss Judy Lee of Belleville, wore a floor-length dress of green with an Empire waistline, puffed sleeves and a lace bodice. Her headpiece was of white flowers and she carried a bouquet of Asiatic Shasta 'mums. Miss Beverly Jennings of Peterborough, was the senior bridesmaid and was gowned identically to the maid of honor. Brenda, Sheila and Sandra McLauchlan, sisters of the bride, were junior bridesmaids. They wore white floor-length dresses similar to those of the other two attendants.

Mr. John Morton of Belleville was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. Ole Hansen of Belleville and three brothers of the bride: Mr. David McLauchlan of Cobourg, Mr. Carson McLauchlan and Mr. John Mc-Lauchlan, both of Belleville.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh will live at 484 Church Street, Toronto.

College Guild Hears Talk By Minister

Last Thursday, the Albert College Women's Guild met at the Manse, R.C.W. Sanford welcomed the members and visitors who had braved the inclement weather. Bryden presided.

After a short business session, Mrs. Packman took charge of the devotional period during which she gave a most inspiring talk on Climbing to Higher Levels.

Rev. Paul Packman was the guest speaker. He referred to a teenage rally at which the theme was creative rebellion: "Everyone rebels against something at some time in his life. In order to grow in function, must keep together. Before we can help anyone we must grow in height. It is our responsibility to help our fellowmen and to pray. Older people must think in order to listen to and understand teenagers," Mr. Packman said.

Sister Cecilia Marie favored with three solos.

Mrs. C. May thanked the soloist and the speaker for their kindness in bringing such pleasure and inspiration to the members.

Following the meeting tea was served by the social committee with Mrs. F. Pringle and Mrs. Ivan Young presiding at the tea table.

Want Bacon Graded for Fat Content

TORONTO (CP)—The wife of the principal of Scarborough College, a new branch of the University of Toronto, is also a lobbyist on a national scale for fairness to housewives.

She is Mrs. A. F. W. Plumptre, national president of the Consumer's Association of Canada, a 25,000-member organization whose aim is to protect, educate and represent today's buyers.

Asked what projects CAC has on the mill at present, she replied in an interview:

"We want to have bacon graded for fat content and also checks to prevent salmonella infection and revision in the labeling of fruit juices."

She explained that some tinned fruit juices are really a percentage of fruit juice plus water and may vary from five per cent to 30 per cent pure juice.

She said she would like to see the pure juice content listed on the label. She would also like to see labels that say whether vitamin C has been added.

"Housewives take it for granted that there is enough vitamin C in a serving of juice to do a person for the day," she said. "This is not always the case."

SPEAKS FOR BUYERS

Dorothy Plumptre, 56, is thus continuing the sharp outlook she has kept for shoppers' interests since taking over the CAC presidency in January, 1965.

In her role as spokesman for women buyers, she has testified at federal inquiries and at other representations CAC has made to authorities in the interests of the home's economy.

With her husband Wynne she lives in a rambling fieldstone bungalow in suburban east Toronto with a swimming pool, set in acres of well-kept college grounds.

Mrs. Plumptre, who was appointed to the Ontario Economic Council in 1963, once lectured on economic history at Carleton University in Ottawa.

She is a trained economist with a bachelor of commerce degree from the University of Melbourne, Australia.

U.C.W. Meetings

EASTMINSTER U.C.W.

The members of Eastminster U.C.W. met at present monthly meeting recently in the church.

The meeting was opened with the worship service held in the sanctuary. Mrs. E. Wormald, and Mrs. L. Read led the service with Mrs. R. Ellis at the organ. The theme was, "Women's Place in Society."

Mrs. W. Linsett, leader of the Blue Group, in charge of the evening, introduced the speaker, Mr. A. McDowell, also of Eastminster United Church.

He chose as his topic, "Symbols in Our Church" which was most informative. He went into some detail, explaining that the Latin Cross used by the United Church is best known in the Western World. The fish, the earliest symbol of the Christian Church, was originally used as a secret sign.

The United Church oval shaped crest is taken from the oval fish shape. The seals of the three main churches in unity are worked into the United Church crest.

The communion table came into being, resulting from the table used for the meal.

Flowers represent Resurrection. A minister's familiar collar is a Roman collar, the style coming down through the ages.

Mr. McDowell closed his address, by answering many questions.

The group proceeded downstairs, where the business meeting was held with the president, Mrs. A. Glover in the chair.

Recommendations from the executive meeting were read and accepted. The method decided this year not to plan a church services during the summer months.

A motion regarding a memorial fund, was tabled, to be discussed again next meeting.

The annual barbecue date was set for June 19th.

The Y.O.N. spring tea announced for May 18th and donations requested for the bake table.

The evening closed with a friendly social hour.

A CENTREPIECE WORTH TALKING ABOUT

Dear Susanna: Don't be sad if you don't have flowers on hand every time you would like them.

Try something different.

A lovely, durable green and bronze centrepiece can be arranged in moments by combining artichokes, a pineapple, Brazil nuts and avocados.—Miss Mary Evans

A bonus idea if I ever saw one. The first time I saw this Mary, I wound up with not only a magnificent centrepiece, but a lovely conversation piece as well. — Susanna

Dear Susanna: When company comes, are you plagued with a household but drippy cream jug?

A smidgen of butter or margarine spread on the spout will usually eliminate the trouble. — How About That?

Dear Susanna: A light coating of one of the new tarnish-resistant silver polishes, followed by a good buffing, gives remarkably new life and lustre to chrome kitchen appliances such as toasters and electric kettles. — S. M.

If you have any hints for running a successful household or any problems — write to Susanne, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self - addressed envelope when requesting pamphlets.

WEDDING

ALLPORT — O'CONNOR

DESERONTO — Pink and white carnations graced the Deseronto United Church, Saturday, May 14, when Muriel Frances O'Connor and Rodney Frederick Allport exchanged marriage vows before Rev. Russell Finley.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morley O'Connor of Deseronto, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Allport, Sr., of R. R. 1, Marysville.

Mrs. H. T. Stimpson of Napanee played traditional wedding organ music, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Linda Lot.

Given in marriage by her brancle, Gordon Howes, the bride wore a floor - length satin gown, the neckline softly rounded, the sleeves pointed over the hands. The back featured a large bouffant bow. Her shoulder length veil was attached to a rhinestone circlet. She carried a nosegay of white baby 'mums and Sweetheart roses.

Attending was her sister, Mrs. Douglas Thompson of Shannonville (Barbara) whose three - year - old daughter Lori Lynn and her brother Steven, a year older, were the flower-girl and ring-bearer.

Mrs. Thompson wore white lace over pink silk, street length, with rounded neckline lower in the front, and three quarter length sleeves. The gown was styled with a wide cummerbund of pink chiffon, with bow at the front, white accessories. Her nosegay was of white baby 'mums and pink carnations.

The flower girl wore a frock which was a miniature reproduction of that worn by her mother. Her hat was white and trimmed with pink rosebuds, and her basket contained white 'mums and pink carnations.

The bridegroom was attended by Patrick Franklin O'Connor, elder brother of the bride, and the ushers were her youngest brother Brad and the bridegroom's brother Dwight Allport.

The reception was held in the church hall, with Mrs. O'Connor receiving the guests wearing a dress of navy sheer with matching hat, other accessories in white, and a corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by the mother of the bridegroom in a floor - length print jersey dress, with brown and beige accessories and a corsage of white carnations and snapdragonis.

The ladies of the church prepared and served the luncheon for 75 guests.

For the wedding trip along the shores of the St. Lawrence River, the bride changed to a pink dress, topped by a navy coat, with hat which matched her dress, and a white carnation corsage.

LOCAL ARTISTS,-Dawn McRae Strathy, seated, and Philippa Faulkner prepare paintings to be exhibited at Bridge Street U.C.W. May Time Tea. Mrs. Strathy is putting the finishing touches on a spring scene of Thrasher's woods, near Belleville, which she hopes to have completed for the showing.

Local Artists to Display Paintings at U.C.W. Tea

A splendid exhibit of paintings and crafts will highlight the May Time Tea to be held at Bridge Street United Church next Wednesday under the sponsorship of the United Church Women.

Well - known local artist Philippa Faulkner who has won the top picture award in East Central Ontario for the past two years will exhibit a number of paintings. Mrs. Faulkner has a wide background of experience having graduated from Parsons School, New York in advertising and design. She was awarded a scholarship at the Institute Allende in Mexico and there she won an award at the annual exhibition of the institute. Mrs. Faulkner who is also a member of the Canadian Society of Painters in water color and the Canadian Color and Form Society plans to open a paint gallery at her home on Bridge St. East in the near future to be known as "The Glanmore Gallery".

A display of paintings will also be shown by a relative newcomer to Belleville, Dawn McRae Strathy who has studied in Montreal at the Valentine School of Commercial Art, Sir George Williams College, Montreal Museum of Fine Arts and the Ecole des Beaux Arts. For the past four years Mrs. Strathy has been living and working in France, Belgium, Germany and Spain.

Along with these, local artists Margaret E. Robbins, Bea Williamson, Dorothy Brown and Dorothy Lochiel who paint primarily as a hobby will have paintings on display.

Included in the showings at this event will be a number of antiques and the committee in charge of the antique booth has already collected many attractive items for sale. These include a silver cruet, a large silver tankard, Canadiana pieces, crystal, silver, a majolica cheese tray, ironstone; also some good modern pieces. Sale of these items will not commence till after 2.30 on that day.

There will also be a crafts display with numerous items including rug hooking articles, ceramics, colorful spring hats and leather handicraft work. A number of these endeavors are centennial projects and will be on display only.

Ann Landers

Future Father Voices Strong Desire for Son

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I are expecting our first child in about eight weeks. We've been married seven years and had almost given up hope, so of course this child means a great deal to us.

I can truthfully say I don't care if it's a boy or a girl, and at first my husband didn't care either. But these past couple of months he has been making some very unsettling remarks to friends, relatives — anyone who will listen. Last night he told my mother, "If it isn't a boy, it's for sale."

I laughed it off when he first began to say such things, but it's no longer funny. I'm beginning to think he actually has his heart set on a boy and if it's a girl he will be terribly disappointed.

We live in a small town, and everyone has heard about my husband's remarks. I've had a difficult pregnancy and this isn't making it any easier. Please give me some help. — WEARY.

DEAR WEARY: The King of Sweden has a throne problem. What's your knucklehead's excuse?

Expectant fathers who voice a preference for either a boy or a girl baby cause their wives embarrassment and anxiety. Moreover they look like fools because invariably, the ones who scream the loudest for boys end up so good about their daughters that they are positively obnoxious. Show this column to your husband and let's hope it will persuade him to keep his mouth shut.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Eight years ago our daughter Melanie married a young man who was notably lacking in ambition. Her father and I tried to discourage the match but she married the young man she might have to do without many of the things she took for granted.

The day before Melanie eloped she screamed at us, "I don't care if we never have a dime. All I want is him!" So now she has "him" (who prefers to work a eight shift so he can play golf during the day) plus five children and plenty of unpaid bills.

Last night Melanie said it would be very nice if her father and I gave them $3,000 so they could get out of debt and take a trip. "We've never been anywhere since our honeymoon," she complained, which is, of course, true.

When her father failed to show much enthusiasm for Melanie's suggestion, both she and her husband became hostile. They called us "Tightwads, selfish and ashamed." — They claim that parents who can afford to help their children out with money gifts have a moral obligation to do so. "Why wait until you die?" Melanie shouted. "If you give us money now we won't have to pay inheritance taxes!"

Will you comment, please? — THE R's.

DEAR R's.: Parents have moral obligations to raise their children to be independent and self-reliant. They do not owe their children gifts and continued financial support after maturity. Nor will they owe them an inheritance either.

Giving can be a joy, but your children are trying to chisel money from you — and that takes it out of the gift class.

Your daughter is employing emotional blackmail. Don't let her ugly remarks push you into giving her or her golf-playing husband one dime more than you want to give them.

Engagement Notice

MR. NORMAN G. SHARP — MISS NANCY CARTER

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Carter of R.R. 3 Belleville announce the engagement of their only daughter, Nancy Jane, to Mr. Norman George Sharp, only son of Mr. and Mrs. George Sharp, 127 Argyle Ave., Toronto. Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 8

A friend of mine has three delightful small children who are the most amazing eaters imaginable. They eat everything! Without fuss . . . and have since they were one years. Seems the mother's secret is this: the children's meal is a wonderful adventure. He led the little ones into good eating habits by using the positive approach . . . making eating fun. Everything was luscious, delicious, great! He tasted everything they ate and literally lip-smacked them into enjoying their food.

Enjoyment of food comes naturally when you serve Gerber Junior Foods. And small wonder! They're specially prepared by specialists with special know-how on what older tykes and toddlers will like. They abound in appealing colours and tempting flavours. And they're seasoned with a knowing hand to suit the small grown-up tastes of toddlers. Like all Gerber Baby Foods, each one is "nutrient-checked" to preserve precious food values to a high degree.

Toddlers, tykes and tiny ones, all need vitamin C (ascorbic acid) . . . a factor in building sound gums and other body tissues. There's a wealth of vitamin C in every can of Gerber Fruit Juice and Juice Drink. As for sipping pleasure, they're filled to the brim with true-fruit flavors. Six happy choices . . . including the new Apple-Cherry Juice . . . all calculated to summon up a smile. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

Neve you trusted your baby to this delicious new duet: Junior Vegetables and Ham with Bacon and Apple-Cherry Juice?

Prefeeding starving pieces. Luncheon should not be a warp of brightening an appetite. If your toddler's a selffeeder, why not do a snack for yourself and sit down to enjoy it with him (or her) occasionally? You might even snitch a dab or two of his food and let him see how much you enjoy it. P.S. The Most Dinners, Fruits and Custards are great for this.

Not Healthy Enough to Enjoy Sex

GUELPH (CP)—North Americans aren't healthy enough even to enjoy sex and middle age begins for most of them at 25, a physical fitness expert said in a public lecture Thursday at the University of Guelph.

The most widespread disease today is physical deterioration and exercise is "the No. 1 protector of the human heart," said Dr. T. K. Cureton, professor of physical education at the University of Illinois.

Lack of physical fitness contributes to heart diseases and circulatory ailments, and "people aren't even healthy enough to enjoy sex."

Dr. Cureton, who will be in this summer and can still "run 10 miles down the road," said physical fitness can only be achieved through an intensely regular program of rhythmic exercises.

He cited running, walking, swimming and skating. Golf, bowling, volleyball and dancing "are of little real benefit."

Stirling Moss Claims Nadar Twists Facts

WINNIPEG (CP) — Retired racing driver Stirling Moss says auto critic Ralph Nadar has distorted facts to blow up a sensational storm in his criticisms of the lack of safety features in automobiles.

"He has taken what are basically facts, distorted and enlarged upon them, and blown up a tremendous storm. It is sensational and dangerous," says Moss, who retired from

UN Children's Fund May Aid Birth Control Program

ADDIS ABABA (CP)—A Canadian has the task of trying to maintain harmony as policy makers of the United Nations children's fund begin a debate in this Ethiopian capital Thursday on how far the fund should go to endorse birth control.

The 30-country executive board of UNICEF, which shovled the birth-control issue a year ago, is committed to reach a firm decision at the current session. Majority approval is anticipated.

As UNICEF board chairman, Joseph Willard, Canada's deputy welfare minister has the job of steering the debate in a manner assuring that no one is seriously affronted. Some governments oppose artificial birth control on religious grounds.

UNICEF, trying to meet needs in maternal and child health on a stringent annual budget of about $37,000,000, can ill afford to antagonize a donor government to the point where a contribution is withdrawn.

A report prepared by UNICEF's American executive director, Henry Labouisse, recommends approval of assisting family planning programs, in conjunction with UNICEF-aided services in maternal and child health and welfare.

A pre-conference survey suggests that six of the 30 countries may oppose the proposed policy, with 12 in support. Remaining delegations appear uncommitted.

Willard, 48, of Hamilton, is also Canada's chief delegate. He will vote only in the unlikely event that the chairman will have to cast a tie - breaking ballot.

The family-planning decision, he said, will be the most important undertaken by UNICEF in many years.

The Labouisse report says family planning would promote the basic UNICEF aim of child health and welfare, and it can be related to existing projects.

UNICEF would be able to consider requests from member governments for assistance in training, education, transport and maintenance in connection with national family - planning programs. But it would refrain from attempting to persuade governments to adopt birth-control programs and from supplying contraceptive devices.

Requests for assistance in family-planning programs become from India and Pakistan. The executive proposes allocating $810,000 for family planning in the first year if the policy is approved.

The current UNICEF budget of $37,600,000 a year includes Canadian government contribution of $1,000,000, and some $800,000 donated by Canadians through UNICEF Christmas card sales and collections. The United States provides almost one-half the total budget.

Says United Church Viewpoints Fall Harshly on Anglican Ears

HAMILTON (CP) — Anglicans must feel free to speak their minds on the principles of union with the United Church of Canada, Rt. Rev. Walter E. Bagnall said Tuesday in his charge to the Synod of Niagara.

But the Anglican Bishop of Niagara emphasized that what is said must be said with love, silence and understanding.

"It falls harshly upon Anglican ears," said Bishop Bagnall. "To hear the former moderator of the United Church (Dr. J. R. Mutchmor of Toronto), refer to the episcopal system as an 'outmoded status - ridden ladder which should be reverently stored in some ecclesiastical museum.

"I suspect that what Dr. Mutchmor is really saying is that he has serious reservations about bishops.

"When I listen to him speak on this subject, or read what he has to say about it, I cannot escape the conviction that his knowledge of the episcopal system is based on what he has read about the system in another land and as it functioned hundreds of years ago.

DOESN'T LIKE SYSTEM

"But he just expresses emphatically the fact that he does not love bishops, and he does not love the episcopal system.

"It is not easy for Anglicans to understand the statement of the present moderator (Rt. Rev. E. M. Howse of Toronto) about one of the Gospel sacraments, baptism, in which he refers to baptism as the entrance to church membership as a narrow and bigoted outlook which would cleanly exclude the Salvation Army and the Quakers, and all others who do not practise the specific ritual of baptism.

"But it would undoubtedly take in the semi-pagan and sometimes depraved villages of Brazil or Sicily.

THEY SHUDDER

"The first reaction of Anglicans to such a statement would be to shudder and to think in meditativ of their firm belief that Our Lord died for the habitual inhabitants of our penitentiaries and for those who live in semi-pagan and depraved villages of Brazil or Sicily, just as truly as He did for the highly educated or deeply cultured people who live in the newest and most expensive subdivision of the most fashionable suburb.

"But probably the moderator is only emphasizing his own desire to broaden the base of Christian operations so that the name of Christ may be made known to all men, and he expressed this conviction in his own way.

"And let us not forget that Anglicans, too, have made some pretty strong statements, which went fall harshly on the ears of members of the United Church."

The general council of the United Church of Canada is to vote on the principles of union at a meeting in Waterloo, Ont., next September.

The general synod of the Anglican Church of Canada voted in favor of the principles at Vancouver last August.

Higher Wheat Prices Sought

LONDON (CP) — A call for higher world wheat prices — exactly in line with Canadian views — was formally endorsed by the International Federation of Agricultural Producers in closing session today.

Jim Bentley, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and an Alberta farmer, said the international federation's policy statement on wheat "reflects our views and is one with which we can live."

Bill Parker, president of the Manitoba wheat pool and a member of the Canadian delegation, said higher world prices are essential in view of mounting production costs and a greater need to encourage a moderate increase in wheat output.

rent increase in meat, vegetable and fruit prices becomes rampant.

Government ministers were chiefly concerned about the sudden jump in prices of such daily purchases as New Zealand lamb, Argentine beef, and South African and Australian apples.

The government appealed to traders to keep prices reasonable, saying that present stocks in the country are ample.

The price of sterling dipped on world money markets Tuesday and the Bank of England intervened with purchases for the second day to bolster the pound.

A danger of the strike spreading from the seamen to dock workers developed at the Port of London.

The port authorities expect the government to call in the Royal Navy soon to start moving the strikebound vessels.

But the movement of two ships from berth to berth already has been challenged by Jack Dash, unofficial dockers' leader, and the local seamen's strike committee.

If the ships are moved the dockers are expected to refuse to unload cargoes from incoming ships which need the berths.

Bryden

Freeway and Highway 400 may be increased to 70 from 60 miles per hour.

AMOUNT IS SMALL

Mr. Bryden said the plain fact is that "only a very small and declining amount of U.S. investment funds," is associated with U.S. corporate control in Canada.

To illustrate his statement that Americans "are buying us out with our own money" he said in 1964 about $764,000,000 or 40 per cent of the total net U.S. financing in Canada, came from the depreciation and depletion reserves of Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. corporations.

He said an additional $644,000,000 came from undistributed profits of these subsidiaries and the remaining $423,000,000 came from stocks and bonds sold outside the U.S.

Mr. Bryden said these, undoubtedly, were sold mainly to Canadians.

He said U.S. corporations "are re-investing funds generated in Canada which they have captured by depreciation allowances and undistributed funds."

As a solution to U.S. control Mr. Bryden suggested reform of provincial and federal corporation tax structures to tighten up provisions regarding depreciation and depletion allowances.

Hees Queries Winters About Trade Problems

OTTAWA (CP) — There still are not enough Canadian businessmen showing up in world markets to develop good export opportunities for export sales, Trade Minister Winters said Tuesday.

He told the Commons finance and trade committee that the individual businessman remains the key to increased exports. Canadian firms must devote more time and energy to exports as a permanent policy.

George Hees, former Conservative trade minister, questioned whether the trade department is supplying Canadian manufacturers with information about potential world markets.

Mr. Hees recalled the sales information a mission conducted in 1961 when he headed the department. He demanded assurances that the flow of information to private firms in Canada is continuing.

At one point during a long exchange between Mr. Winters and Mr. Hees on this point, Deputy Trade Minister J. H. Warren told the committee that the "shotgun approach" to trade development is no longer sufficient.

Mr. Hees said government policy was discouraging an increase in productive capacity. It had introduced a tight money situation, curbing the credit needed to finance new plants.

He said the shortage of skilled labor should have been foreseen by the government. Greater promotion of immigration during the last two years would have done much to meet the problem.

Says Accused 'A Liar Who Killed Wife'

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont (CP) — An Ontario Supreme Court jury heard final arguments Tuesday in the capital murder trial of William Dalton Barber, and was scheduled to be charged today after 14 days of testimony.

Crown prosecutor S. A. Caldbick suggested in his summation that Barber was a liar who killed his wife.

Defence counsel Terrence Murphy suggested Mrs. Barber committed suicide.

Barber, 53, staff assistant to the vice-president of operations at Algoma Steel Corp., is charged with slaying his wife, Marjorie, 53, Dec. 8, 1965. Doctors testified she died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Mr. Caldbick said Barber's testimony that he confessed to his wife's death to shield his mistress, Mrs. Irene Chapman of Toronto, from scandal and publicity was "just another one of his lies."

He said Barber knew full well when he admitted Feb. 12 to Sault Ste. Marie police inspector Robert McEwen—"I killed her, Bob"—that his 114-year-old love affair with Mrs. Chapman would be exposed.

People don't go around saying, "I killed her," just for the fun of it, Mr. Caldbick said.

SAYS SHE DEPRESSED

Mr. Murphy told the jury earlier that Mrs. Barber was depressed about her husband's affair with Mrs. Chapman and could have impulsively decided to take her own life.

He suggested that on the evening of Dec. 2 after an argument with her husband, Mrs. Barber left their house boat on a late night sortie alone in one of their two station wagons.

She returned later after eating in a restaurant and while undressing in their bedroom, the sight of her husband on the bed, reeking of whisky, so depressed her she decided to kill herself, he said. Wearing only a coat, she went to the garage, started the station wagon driven earlier by Barber, knelt beside the exhaust pipe and inhaled, he told the jury in describing how she must have killed herself.

U.S. Editors Hear Canadians Talk on China

By HARRY KNOWLES

MONTREAL (CP) — The American Society of Newspaper editors, holding its annual convention here for the first time outside the United States, listened Wednesday to Canadian views on subjects ranging from bicculturalism in Canada to what is happening in Communist China.

Three Canadians told of their impressions on recent visits to China.

Introducing the three, J. Edward Murray of the Arizona Republic said there is a "dearth of Chinese study" in the United States today because China is closed to United States newspaper men, and that as a result papers in the United States have to depend on Canadian, British and sometimes French journalists for information.

ARE PROUD

Roy Kellash of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. who spent two months in China making a film, said the Chinese have a tremendous nationalist pride in their country and what it has achieved since 1949, and this nationalism takes priority over Marxism.

Charles Taylor, former Peking correspondent of the Toronto Globe and Mail, said his impression of 18 months in China was that the Chinese have a sober realization of their problems.

"It will take China 30 to 50 years to become an industrial power and they are very realistic about it. They say it will take five to 10, or more, generations, to create a truly Communist society."

He said he is not optimistic about a rapprochement between China and the United States.

James S. Duncan, former chairman and president of Massey-Harris Co and author of A Businessman Looks at Red China, said he had a favorable impression of the Chinese people in general.

"They are intelligent, hard-working and have a dedication to personal sacrifice. However, I can't say as much for the government—though they are leaders of undoubted integrity who have never made use of their unchallengable positions for personal gain."

There's a rose for every purpose — climbers to beautify a fence; floribundas for rose hedges; hybrid tea roses for quality blooms; tree roses to dignify a garden. Insist on ever-blooming varieties.

Everblooming Roses Here To Serve Every Purpose

There are roses for every purpose — from the "living fence" to the lowly exhibition roses and climbers that beautify porches, garages and arbors.

All modern roses are "ever-blooming," that is, they have a burst of bloom in spring, quite a few blooms all summer and then a big bursting of bloom again in the fall until heavy frost.

The different types of roses include:

1. Hybrid teas: These generally offer the most perfectly-formed blooms for the formal garden or for cut flowers to decorate the home. The colors are magnificent.

2. Floribunda roses offer many blooms on a single plant. If you are most interested in the quantity of blooms, rather than which also are of good quality, where needed.

these plants are for you. They are excellent as living fences and landscape decoration.

3. Climbing roses grow vigorously against a post, fence, arbor, porch, garage, and similar supporting structures.

4. Polyanthas are known as ramblers. They bear clusters of small flowers and they bloom profusely. They are colorful when massed in beds.

5. Tree roses are usually specimen plants used to set off a walk, porch, or pass particular spot on the home grounds that may need a little "dressing up." They usually are around four to five feet in height, giving the effect of bouquets of lovely roses as guests walk between them.

6. Grandiflora rose is named because of its large size and wealth of blooms. It makes a fine accent plant, either in garden or singly to add color

Readying Spring Change-Over? Some Cold Facts on Laundering

This is the season when draperies, curtains, slipcovers, and rugs are due for a complete change-over or a thorough cleaning.

Today, many of these items are washable — a fact which gives the homemaker considerable satisfaction, especially with the help of a new detergent product designed for both cold- and hot-water laundering. A file of manufacturers' instruction tags should be your specific guide in cleaning them. And here are some general suggestions — and short cuts.

1) When in doubt about fabric or color fastness of washables, use cold water. A detergent which works in all water temperatures, is ideal for pre-spotting and for the actual laundering. Use a short cool cycle on your machine unless you are absolutely certain of fabric reaction. If results are not all that you desire, repeat the process. Two shorts are easier on the fabric than one long.

2) Curtains, draperies, and slipcovers should be given a good shaking first to remove smoke, surface dust and grime. Small washable rugs should be pre-cleaned, too.

3) Use of the tumble cycle on your dryer can save ironing.

4) If you are going to put slipcovers back on, do it when they are slightly damp. They will "give" to fit the furniture. (The exception is with completely shrinkproof and stretch fabrics which should be bone-dry).

5) Items to be stored should not be ironed. It's a waste of time, and pressed-in folds are hard to remove. But do wrap and label them.

6) A fabric softener and a gentle shaking will do wonders for a fluffy bathroom rug.

7) Launder shower curtains and their liners at a cool setting. Air dry.

8) Don't damage straw rugs with hot water. Do them with a solution of the cold-water detergent. Sponge side on, in, and off.

9) Pre-spot and clean upholstery with a dry foam of detergent and cool water. Remove suds with a dry sponge. Avoid below-surface dampness. It can produce stains.

10) Send for a copy of "Household Hints" to learn more practical tips on caring for and cleaning everything from candelabra to cutlery. It's free from the Homemaking Centre, Lever Brothers, 390 Park Avenue, New York, New York 10022.

Front View Is Starting Point For Landscaping

What does your home look like to your neighbors? In a recent survey of areas where homes are well landscaped, most residents felt that even one neglected home could spoil a whole neighborhood.

It is not difficult to landscape the entrance to a home, providing the homeowner will continuously look at it from the curb and see what needs be done. Then, in accordance with his own creative instincts, or what other neighbors have done in the area.

In some areas, a homeowner will have a lawn facing the street, perhaps a few hedge along the sidewalk and a driveway to the garage.

PLANTING TREES

In such an "average planting" one should stand on the sidewalk in the exact middle of the property and face his house.

All large trees should be planted outside of imaginary lines to the corners of the house. This prevents the house from being dwarfed or obscured by large trees.

Smaller trees such as dogwood or myrtle may be planted inside such lines, close to the house.

Shrubs usually are planted in curved beds close to the house, with taller shrubs at house corners. Flowering and evergreen shrubs should be intermingled to provide contrast.

Foliage likewise should provide contrast. Taxus, or yew, is the deepest green of all coniferous evergreen shrubs; junipers may have a bluish cast; while arbor vitae may be lighter green or golden.

ANNUALS USED

Some excellent flowering evergreens for entrance plantings include the rhododendron and azalea, although there are many more such as the hollies and pyracantha of coloneasters.

Beds of annual plants often are used near entrances. These include the petargonium, or geranium, petunias, dwarf numerous other plants.

DIGGERS HARDLY BEGAN

Work first started on a tunnel under the English Channel in 1878 but was stopped after one mile had been dug on each side.

Building Your Own House Requires Careful Planning

There are several important reasons why a prospective home-owner might choose to build rather than buy. He may, for example, have difficulty in finding a ready-built house that fits his needs and tastes. Perhaps there are some special features he would like to have incorporated in his new house and by building he can have the house tailored exactly to his needs. In addition, the location of available houses for sale might not be satisfactory for his family or he may already own a choice lot in a desirable neighborhood.

The ideal procedure, of course, would be to engage an architect to plan your house for you. With his experience, he would not only design a house to fit your family's needs but would ensure that the price would be within the amount you wish to invest in the property. He would prepare the necessary specifications and could also select the contractor and supervise the construction of the house for you. There are, however, other ways of getting a house built. One method is to purchase stock plans of a house, such as those available from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, and have a contractor build from these plans. In this case it would be necessary to select a suitable building site and ensure that the design chosen is adaptable to the location.

Some people do their own contracting. This is possible under the National Housing Act, but the borrower would have to satisfy the NHA lender concerned of his ability to complete the transaction properly. This method calls for a lot of hard work, time and a good knowledge of the building industry. You must, for example, have to make your own arrangements for the purchase and delivery of all materials and equipment required and the hiring of subcontractors. You would also be responsible for having the sewer water and hydro connected and for your own accounting. It can be a very complicated undertaking and unless you are entirely satisfied you can handle him.

If, however, you decide to employ a contractor and let him build for you:

You can, with an acre of ground on the house yourself when you use a contractor, if you come to an agreement with him whereby you would be given credit for any work you are able to do. This matter should be taken up with the contractor by your initial discussions with him.

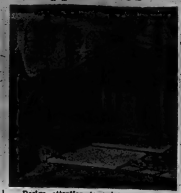
Entrance Design Changes House Appearance

Why settle for an ordinary looking house when landscaping, lumber, labor and ingenuity can transform it into an exciting beauty?

The entrance area is the key, and generally it's easy to redesign. For example, a start could be made by dramatizing the doorway with double doors, using glass panels on either side and above.

Then a pitched or flat canopy could be brought out over the porch area, leaving supporting Douglas fir beams and posts exposed for decorative impact. Construction of a canopy is not difficult and it can be built either independently of the house roof or tied into the roofline.

The porch and front walk can become something out of the ordinary if stepped up to the doorsill in a triplet of broad pads of paving or wood decking, each slipping over the next like steps.



For more design excitement, build the porch and walk as a bridge, running a reflection pool underneath and to either side. Water in the pool can be kept flowing by means of a circulating pump.

The pool's construction usually calls for professional help, but the stepped porch area can be built by an amateur if wood decking is used.

Evergreen shrubbery, flowering fruit trees, rock and a ground cover of mulch and crushed rock work well in nearly any area.

Drama and dignity for the entrance of the home can be created by proper planting. The homeowner can start with a few plants, tastefully arranged, and add to them as necessary.

Design attention to entrance area transforms a ranch-style house. Here, canopy with Douglas fir beams exposed, a walk that bridges reflection pool, natural landscaping and, at left, "privacy" screen of rosawa fir boards.

Tools Wander? Personalize 'Em ...Avoid Hassles

Want to avoid "civil war" with the neighbors when those tools you lent out somehow "forget" to be returned?

Use a small brush and a bottle of enamels to paint your name, initials, or address on the handles of implements, and save those back fence arguments.

You may wish to start by applying a coat of spray enamel to the entire handle of the tool. A bright orange or yellow will help prevent garden tools from being lost in the grass of among plants.

Then apply your name — and address if space permits — in a contrasting color on rakes, hoes, spades, snow shovels, ice choppers, hammers, trowels and other tools that have a tendency of being "found" in a neighbor's garage.

You'll also be able to keep a better eye on your tools if they are displayed properly. There's nothing new about pounding some nails into garage or basement wallboard on which to hang your tools. But many handymen can go a step further by outlining the tools' shape in pencil on the wallboard surface. Next fill in the outline with enamel so the colored shape leaves no doubt where the tool belongs — or which tool is missing.

While working with enamels, the garage is the perfect place to continue a general spruce-up job. Here are some of the things you can do with the spray and brush-on enamels:

Add "life" to the shelves in the garage with a coat of spray enamel.

Make cardboard or wooden boxes to store accessories by spraying the box with one color, then brushing on the names of the articles inside. Automobile accessories such as cleaners and polishes need only be placed in a box with a free-hand sketch of an automobile brushed on the side.

Fruit and coffee cans can be used to hold nuts and bolts, screws and nails. A little color not only would perk-up the appearance, but could be coded to indicate the types of items inside.

If there is a stall of the garage that isn't occupied by an automobile, turn the space into a game area for the children, and perhaps even the adults. With the aid of masking tape, spray a bosscotch or shuffleboard outline on the concrete floor. If the garage isn't suitable, try the driveway.

Items outside the garage, such as flower boxes and flower pots bordering steps and walkways, will be that much more decorative with a coat of fresh color.

Those other items often stored in the garage, such as the children's bicycles and wagons, will look like new and have a longer life after a fresh coat of enamel.

The lawn furniture that took a beating last year can be rejuvenated when the metal or wooden parts receive the healing touch of new enamel.

Housing Hints

RING WASHERS

Keep washers and nuts neatly organized on an ordinary spring-type shower curtain ring which swings open or closed like a key ring. Ring can be hung wherever handy.

SIMPLIFY SANDING

Sand hard - to - reach corners and inside of curved moldings or edges with a sanding stick made by wrapping sandpaper around a dowel or other stick of appropriate size and shape.

SMALL PARTS

When cleaning a number of small parts in solvent, keep them from getting lost by first putting them inside a scrap piece of wire or screening bent into a bowl shape which can be lowered into solvent.

PRINT BOOK FOR FARM

WINNIPEG (CP)—The University of Manitoba's agricultural department has spent 20 months preparing a farmers' handbook "as useful as Dr. Spock is to mothers." For $3, the book discusses soil, crops, weeds, livestock, breeding and diseases, farm equipment, credit, insurance, and legal matters. It is the first such handbook published by a Canadian university.

Old Friend Bleach Has Many Liquid Assets

What better way to start "fixing up the house" than by getting it sparkling clean? Between equinoxes, a house tends to collect — everything from mothpacked snow on kitchen floors to mildew and rust on patios and garden furniture. When crocuses bloom, it's time to start chasing away drab signs of winter.

A little organization and wise use of liquid chlorine bleach can work wonders. Let's tackle the vinyl floor in the kitchen first. A half cup of bleach mixed with detergent in a gallon of water is the simple solution to this problem. After applying with a mop or scrub brush, rinse it off, and your kitchen will gleam — until the baseball season opens, that is.

Out on the patio, mildew may have left its mark on brick, stucco, or slate. Don't fret. The same solution that brightens vinyl floors will put your porch in shape. Keep surfaces wet with this mixture for 5 to 15 minutes, then rinse.

As for reed and wicker furniture, wash it first with a brush and then wipe with a cloth saturated in a quart of water to which 3 tablespoons of liquid chlorine bleach have been added. After rinsing, dry thoroughly. (You may want to check this suggestion first on an inconspicuous portion to be sure that the recommended treatment doesn't discolor finishes).

Don't forget the outdoor barbecue. Accumulated grease and soot (which should have been removed in the Fall) may have made the brickwork unsightly. A scrub with a small brush, dipped in a solution of one cup of bleach and a half-cup of detergent or all-purpose cleaner to a gallon of water not only removes black streaks but also brightens brick.

Frozen food to pick up dirt that stains picture margins. You can remove the blemishes from prints by gently wiping with a cloth dampened in this solution: 2 tablespoons of liquid chlorine bleach in a quart of clear water. Rinse off with a cloth dipped in clear water and then wipe dry. Key word in the operation, recommended only for inexpensive prints, is: Gentleness.

For those who like to collect driftwood, here's one way to convert an appropriately shaped piece into a holder for flower arrangements. After brushing the wood until it is clean, soak it briefly in a strong solution (one cup of liquid chlorine bleach per gallon of water) to lighten it — then rinse, dry thoroughly and put on a coat of clear varnish.

How and When to Plan Landscaping

How does one know when he should remove the landscaping around his home? When the leaves of shrubs or trees start to touch each other, unless it happens to be a hedge, it is "time for a change."

Aged shrubs and trees plant bags usually look the part—they may be unkempt, diseased, or simply "too large for the space available."

In re-landscaping, unless the shrubs and trees are past redemption, many may be saved, thus cutting down on re-planting costs.

In past years, many shrubs have been planted that were entirely unsuitable for foundation plantings. The consequences are evident in large trees and shrubs too close to houses so that windows and light are blocked off.

Recently-developed low-growing shrubs should be planted under windows so views will never be blocked off.

Where trees have been planted too closely in the past, grass sometimes will not grow, leaving bare ground for a yard.

Removal of landscaping, if carefully done, need not be costly. It should, however, be done according to a plan which provides pleasant living and natural beauty for the family.

Sometimes shrubs can be divided and pruned in order to make them smaller. Often overgrown shrubs can be pruned back. The pruning should be done by an experienced nurseryman. Different shrubs need to be cut back in different ways.

Certain shrubs that are overgrown cannot simply be cut back, but have to be carefully pruned. Trees should not interfere with power and phone lines to the house.

Good advice is necessary. Some homeowners unwittingly will cut down beautiful and valuable trees such as Japanese Maple, for example, while a good nurseryman or landscape architect may build the whole plan around such an "accent" tree.

When the average couple buys a new home, there is only token landscaping. Perhaps there is a front lawn, a tree or two and a few shrubs. The bulk of the landscaping still needs to be done.

The best thing any new homeowner can do is to have a complete landscape plan drawn. In this way he can proceed to plant the property as he feels the need, or can afford it.

The goal of the new homeowner is to "tie" the house to its surrounding environment, to provide a "picture of natural beauty." House, grounds and sky, are accented in any good landscape plan.

Good drainage and conservation of the soil is necessary. A good builder will have saved the topsoil when building and replaced it when the home is completed.

If the topsoil has not been saved the new homeowner may purchase it; or, in some cases, he may be able to plant a coarse grass like rye, then plow it under.

Grass usually will grow in poor soil — for example, a mixture of Kentucky blue, fescues and rye. The latter is called a "nurse" grass.

If one is willing to wait for trees and shrubs to grow, he can purchase the smaller sizes. For more immediate effect, the larger trees and shrubs are the better.

The Nurserymen's Association has a "standard" for landscaping which includes many things that new home owners should be aware of. It provides for drainage, and sound horticultural practices, including good soils in which to plant.

In selecting shrubs and trees, many of the more common species will prove easy to grow and still be beautiful, such as pines, maples, linden, coniferous evergreens.

Evergreen shrubs provide year-round color.

Prospects Poor

ROME (AP)—World food production apparently failed to keep up with population growth last year and the prospect for this year is no better, the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) reported Monday. The group noted that vital crops of wheat and rice were down, with only a slight increase in coarse grains. North America saw a large increase in agricultural production.

Watch What Goes in Sink to Avoid Plugged Drain

A stopped-up drain need never be reason for an S.O.S. to the plumber, say experts. What is needed is preventative maintenance on the part of the homeowner.

The busiest drain in most homes, where clogging most often occurs, is in the kitchen sink. Watching what goes into the drain and simply pouring hot water down the drain daily are two ways to reduce trouble.

Pour excess grease into a container to be thrown out. Liquid fats are the biggest offenders in drain clogging. They congeal when they contact cool pipes and form a film. Bits of food add to the accumulation until the pipe closes.

A kettle full of hot water poured down the drain once a day, preferably after the supper dishes are done, will dissolve greasy film and remove food particles carried into the drain.

Basementless Houses

The basementless house is more popular in the warmer sections of Canada where there is no severe or prolonged freezing period. But basementless houses can also be designed for colder climates. With edges of the house at ground level, they can be kept warm and comfortable. A low-lying, basementless house may have greater eye-appeal than the home with foundation walls projecting above ground. The sleek flowing lines of the single level home without a basement provide the architect with greater freedom of design. The distinctive ranch style homes that we find in some of our better subdivisions are often of the basementless type. With proper footings, basementless houses need not be limited to one storey houses. There are some attractive two-storey homes built without excavation. Project homes have also been built without basements permitting a measurable economy in coal. The use of compact heating units has assisted in the mass design of such homes. Storage space normally provided in the basement is located in a separate closet or in a closed-in space attached to the garage or carport.

Building a Ventilated Patio Roof

Building a patio roof, to add beauty and comfort to the home can be fun and easy to do. All it requires is ordinary hand tools — and thorough planning before you begin!

The first and most important consideration is assuring maximum comfort. Any single layer roof needs proper ventilation to provide coolness and control condensation.

Constructing a translucent patio or porch can be mostly a one-man job, completed in a weekend. A wife's helping hand is valued at some pages of the project, and certainly it helps make the work go faster.

Considering how to properly ventilate any roof, first review the basic steps in construction the roof.

First step is to install the front header support posts. The average patio needs but two. These can be secured with angle irons or a rod in the cement footing. Atop these, a four by four, used as the front header, is secured with framing anchors.

Two workers together is an ideal number for installing the headers, is better than one. The length of the headers makes it unwieldy for one man alone. The back header is a two by six, and is fastened to the house wall.

As a first step in insuring proper ventilation, both headers should be raised to the greatest height possible while allowing for recommended pitch.

Once the headers are installed, the man of the house can start putting in the two by fours as rafters. Meanwhile, the lady of the house can (if she will) be roofing panels to size. This material is available in sheets and in rolls, and is easily cut with an ordinary hand saw.

Casual, cool outdoor living means a well-ventilated patio. Tests have shown that a patio which is open on three sides and has roof ventilation as well, is cooler than its surrounding area.

Plastic, cross braces and moulding strips, which also serve to provide a handsome lattice effect, complete the installation of supporting lumber. All lumber may be purchased precut, if desired, to speed the job and eliminate much of the sawing and cutting.

At this point, you are ready to install the fiberglass or roof panels. These are lapped over the rafters — but note that it is here that you take the important step for ventilation in a normal installation.

Allow from four to six feet of space between the house wall and the roof panels. The panels should be that distance from the building and from six to eight feet below the roof overhang. It is this separation that makes for the air sweep from under the patio roof.

Panels, overlapped one corrugation where they meet, should be nailed to the framework with aluminum weather-proof nails having a built-in Neoprene washer.

Holes for nails should be pre-drilled in panels to avoid shock marks around each nail. An ordinary drill with a one-eighth inch bit is used.

And so, with a hammer, saw, drill, and nails, the patio roof is completed. For a final professional and decorative touch, nail a valance or fascia board to the front end of the rafters.

'Save Face', Preserve a Good Front . . Disguise Addition With New Siding

A house divided may be able to stand, but it cannot stand close inspection. It is far better to give it unity of appearance.

The divided — or added on — look can result when adding a room or a wing or enclosing a carport or patio.

One way to avoid this is to re-side the entire house with a low-maintenance material that will not only disguise the seam-gery but also improve the overall appearance. Mineral fibre siding, for example, can generally be used for the new section and spotted directly over the old siding of the rest of the house.

Then the old sections will not suffer by comparison with the new, and the entire house will be given a new look. The use of mineral fibre, which is pre-finished with an extremely durable acrylic plastic color coating, eliminates the need for primer and finish coats of paint for the new section and repainting the old section.

The material can also be supplied over insulating backer boards to provide an extra measure of insulation for the walls. This is particularly important in older homes built before wall insulation was standard practice.

Re-siding with mineral fibre offers the homemaker the opportunity to introduce a textured finish to the exterior of his home that will improve its appearance. Among those available are striated, wood-grained and saw-kerf textures.

The non-organic material is impervious to dirt and weather, and will not warp, dent, shrink, burn or rot. In addition, it cannot be affected by termites.

Specifying the tough color coating is bonded to the shingles and will retain its fresh look if it is merely sprayed occasionally with water from the garden hose, it does away with the trouble and expense of repainting every three to five years.

Mineral fibre also can be obtained in 4-by-8-foot flat sheets for board-and-batten application.

Improvements Boost Comfort and Values

"Repair, renovate, remodel — and expand!" In more and more homes, that's the slogan nowadays, as homeowners prepare to embark on some improvement activities that range from modernizing the kitchen and bath to adding a bedroom or a family room, from replacing the lawn and garden to reroofing and re-siding the house.

Naturally enough, the first goal of all these projects is to enhance family comfort, convenience and pleasure. But increasingly, a bonus benefit is getting attention: the boost in property values that stems from home improvement.

"SHOULD WE MOVE — OR IMPROVE?"

For owners of older homes, this increased value may well be the deciding factor when the question is, "Should we move or should we improve?" To families cramped for space or impatient with antiquated facilities, moving often seems the only solution. Yet in many instances they would really prefer to remain in their present homes and neighborhoods. When, by improving comfort, they can also improve the ultimate resale value of the property, investment in improvement becomes an attractive alternative.

Even relatively new homes are candidates for improvement too. Living in a new home, for a few months or years, often reveals family needs that were not apparent at the time of purchase. Changing trends in home life are another factor. The more elegant family room, for instance, is gaining in importance and often calls for additional space. Growing use of king-size or queen-size beds points up the need for larger bedrooms or more bedrooms. Out-door improvements, from patios to swimming pools, attract the interest of many homeowners, whether the home be almost-ancient or almost-new.

INCREASING SPACE IS IMMEDIATE OBJECTIVE

In both newer and older homes, more space is likely to be the immediate improvement objective, to be achieved in one — or both — of two ways: remodeling and modernizing existing space, or expanding space with room additions. A survey reveals that, among homeowners intending to solve their space problems with additions, family rooms and bedrooms are first on the "most wanted" list. For those who plan to remodel existing space, kitchens and bathrooms take priority, the same survey shows.

Better storage facilities are stated as specific space needs for kitchens and bathrooms, and new appliances and plumbing fixtures play a significant role in expanding both the space and the convenience of these rooms.

As indoor family rooms grow more elegant, so does the outdoor, or garden, living room. Homeowners surveyed include a high proportion who intend to build a patio, for informal entertaining and to provide a play area for the children.

Comfort and practicality play a strong role in home improvement plans, as evidenced by the Council survey. Some features preferred by 60 percent of the responders were: insulation added to walls, sound-conditioned ceilings in the recreation room and wall-to-wall carpeting over wood floors.

INTEREST COVERS ALL AREAS

Man-made and other materials still face strong competition from wood, the survey shows. Sixty percent preferred wood panelling, as opposed to plastic and other types of wall coverings for interior walls, while 86 percent voted for wood as the favorite material for kitchen cabinets. And local craftsmen can have cause for pride, since the survey indicates that 59 percent of those questioned choose locally-built wood cabinets over the factory-built variety.

While interiors to be remodelled and additions to be built seem to get the most attention, the present great interest in home improvement covers virtually every area. Along with landscaping the lawn and garden, improving the home's exterior appeals to pride of ownership.

"Best face forward" is not the only objective for exterior improvements, however. Protection as well as increasing the value of the property is a powerful motive for the many siding, roofing, painting, guttering and related projects.

Clean-Up Aids Can Be Dangerous, Too

Take a careful look at some of the harmless looking containers on your kitchen and bath-room shelves. They can contain killers!

Some 250,000 common household products are harmful — even deadly — poisons, when used improperly. Commonplace detergents, furniture polish — even certain houseplants — can cause severe illness or death when swallowed. Other household products, including paints, insecticides and garden chemicals can be harmful when inhaled. For even young visitors have a way of finding the harmless looking cans and bottles where danger lurks. Here are the safety measures:

—Keep high out of reach or lock up all medicines, paints, cleaning agents, chemicals, furniture polishes and other potential poisons.

—Read the label before using the product properly.

—Post physician's name prominently near telephone.

—If the possibility of poisoning has occurred, call your physician immediately.

Prospective Home Owners Should Consult Experts

Who are the people with professional experience who can be of greatest help to the future home-owner?

They are the lawyer, the realtor, the architect and the builder, not to mention the lender who can also offer professional advice in his own field. Obviously, the person who wishes to buy a ready-built house won't require the services of an architect or a builder. Likewise, the one who wants to have a house built for himself may not need to deal with a realtor, if he already owns the property on which he intends to build.

None of these experts, of course is altogether indispensable. But it would be foolhardy to think that we can do better than the professionals. Even in the purchase of a lot, for example, unless you're quite familiar with values of properties and with the procedures, you may be losing more than you gain by ignoring the services of the realtor. His knowledge can save you time, trouble and very often money as well. He has a listing or properties and knows all about the actual market values. He may also in some cases be able to point out why the particular property you have in mind is not suitable for your purpose. Or he may be informed of impending or transactions which could permanently affect the value of the lot you intend to buy.

We're all tempted to try to do things for ourselves until we realize that we've slipped somewhere, either through lack of precaution or lack of experience. Most of us over estimate our knowledge and our capacities, and this is never more true than when buying or building a house. Take the legal aspect, for instance. A lawyer who spends years learning all about the intricacies of the law will usually act with much greater prudence than the layman who is often carried away by his enthusiasm and is unaware of the pitfalls that await him. Handling legal formalities should be left to someone experienced in this field. Processing a mortgage, for example, is a complicated business, beyond the scope of the untrained person. The man in any business deal who deprives himself of legal advice is placing himself at a serious disadvantage.

Most houses built from ready-made plans, but the architect's services are also available on an individual basis. Those who want something special in the way of design or who feel that stock plans do not altogether meet their needs can hire an architect to design a house to their own specifications. The house can then be tailored to fit the lot and to incorporate those distinctive features suggested by the owner.

An architect can also help with the supervision of construction. That side of his training is not used as often as it should. On a large building, no one would dream of going ahead with construction without architectural supervision. But when it comes to a house we often think we can do without. Yet a lot of difficulties and regrets could be avoided simply by hiring an architect to oversee the job.

The builder is one expert we can't easily do without. Very few of us are either capable or willing to put up a house ourselves. Finding a reliable builder is usually not a problem. House builders are a conscientious group whose very livelihood is based on honest service. When possible, it is always better to examine a few of the houses already put up by a particular builder. If you're favorably impressed by his past work you can be fairly well assured he will give you equal satisfaction.

Paint-Brush Tips

For painting large areas, a brush that is 4½ to 5 inches wide will speed your work and produce good results.

For narrow strips, such as those on windows, use a round one-inch sash brush.

For trim and most woodwork you'll find a 1½ to 2-inch brush handiest.

Do not wax painted walls.

MEASURING METHOD

The easiest way to measure the total length of an appliance or power tool \Cbelt that needs replacing is to use a flexible steel tape. Measure around the outside of the old belt while it is still in place.

Mineral Ceilings Are Safe, Smart

Mineral ceiling products once available only through special construction, can now be purchased by homeowners from their local lumber dealers.

The principal feature of mineral ceilings is that they are incombustible and comply with building codes, when such products are required in hazardous occupancies or cailways.

In appearance, mineral ceilings have distinctive beauty that as made them a favorite for years in prestige office buildings, schools, hospitals, as well as homes. Surfaces are textile-smooth. Patterns, such as fissured design, are sharp and rich - looking.

By adding new appliances with a built-in look, you can modernize a kitchen in stages and be sure everything will "fit" when the modernization program has been completed. This 30-inch electric range and double oven can be pushed flush against the wall in the opening between two counters. It features two thermostatically controlled ovens, one at eye-level and the other at a easier oven with variable broiler heat control. In addition to combining the advantages of separate range and wall oven into one compact unit, it has its own power ventilating system.

Outdoor Furniture Gets New Life With Paint

Lawn furniture that has taken a beating from exposure to the elements last summer can be re-italized with a little paint and a minimum of elbow grease, says the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association.

According to the association, there are three very important things to remember to restore a sparkling look to weather-beaten outdoor furniture. These are proper surface preparation; good application of a quality coating and effective color timing.

In preparing the surface, be sure it is completely clean, scrubbing it thoroughly to remove all dirt. All loose or blistering paint from previous coats must be sanded away. Any glossy areas should be sanded to provide "toothing" for the new paint. All rust must be removed from metal furniture or wooden furniture with metal attachments.

When the furniture is ready to be painted, a quality enamel may be brushed or sprayed on. With the brush method, allow the paint to flow on generously, cross-stroking to spread coating evenly and catch any excess.

The spray method is most recommended for wicker furniture, but remember to cover the surrounding area with drop cloths or newspapers. It is a good idea to choose a calm day if the job is to be done outdoors, to make sure the least dust will be blown onto the wet paint.

While is the traditional color for outdoor furniture, because it hides freshness and in the case of metal furniture stays the coolest under long exposure to the sun.

Insulation Adds to Living Ease, Cuts Cost of Heating, Cooling

A recent government report published by the U.S. Department of the Interior has recommended insulation as the solution to the high operating costs of home heating and cooling.

While insulation cannot eliminate the costs of home heating and cooling, it will certainly help to make the most use of fuel by keeping heat in the home and not letting it seep through to the outdoors. And cooling costs can be reduced by insulation that helps keep hot air out.

New research on the part of home insulation manufacturers has gone far to produce insulation that can be installed in most homes fairly easily and without large expense.

There are many types of insulation materials. They include: mineral wool, rock, glass, slag, paper pulp, gypsum, asbestos, cork, aluminum foil, vermiculite, cotton and other mineral and vegetable materials. Two forms of insulating materials commonly used are batts and blankets. They come with what is known as a vapor barrier on one side of the material and are vapor-permeable on the other.

For a long time it was thought that the effectiveness of insulation should be judged by the thickness of the material. This has, however, been found to be untrue. The factors which determine the effect of insulation, besides thickness are density and conductivity.

CONSULT DEALER

Any local home insulation dealer should be able to help in finding the proper type and thickness of insulation needed in a particular home, and it does vary.

The tools needed for the installation of insulation are simply a sharp knife for cutting and fitting, and a good, heavy-duty staple gun for solid attachment. The latter can usually be rented at any hardware store.

In hart-to-get-to corners, or ceilings, particularly in attics where joists are exposed, there is insulation which can be poured from a bag into any crevice.

In this case, it is best to call in professional help, as it entails the use of pneumatic hose. This type of insulation is also used in homes where studs for stapling are not readily available.

HINTS TO HELP

Here are some hints which should be helpful in the installation of insulating materials:

The vapor barrier of the batts or blankets of insulation should face the heated side of any room.

The insulation, whatever material, must be butted tightly — gaps will let the heat escape.

Eaves, vents, attic louvres, should not be covered as they are important to air circulation.

The staples holding the insulation should be no more than six inches apart.

Insulation, for complete effectiveness, should be packed tightly around windows, door framing and other such spaces. This can be achieved by cutting a piece of vapor barrier to cover the area and form unbroken protection.

Pipes should be protected from winter freezing by insulating between them and the wall. For this separate pieces of vapor barrier can also be used.

Wallpaper Offers Aid to Remodelers on a Budget

Ready to remodel — but the budget isn't? Wallpaper can be the answer.

Quality colors and patterns are now available for as low as 10 cents a roll, and many patterns are factory trimmed and pasted for quick, easy "do - it - yourself" application.

For those who have never put up wallpaper before, local dealers will be happy to give simple directions. However, many wallpapers on the market today include hanging instructions in each roll.

There's variety, too, in the ways to remodel with wallpaper. For instance, many older homes and some newer ones have bad walls. No amount of plastering will hide cracks, and with dry wall construction, seams are bound to show.

Wallpaper is one way to disguise these faults.

Since most modern wallpapers are washable, and colors won't fade, the decorating is done for as long as the family likes to keep a pattern.

When plaster walls are rough and uneven, one solution is to use a paper-backed vinyl or a plastic - coated paper.

These papers come in a wide variety of patterns especially designed for bathrooms and kitchens. In a bath, the choice might be a design with butterflies, fish, mermaids; and in a sign or even one with noodles.

For a kitchen, there are herb patterns, and others with tiles, trivets, stained glass motifs and spice shelves.

Florals this year come in provincial patterns.

If walls of living or dining room have a one-color effect consider a complete change of tone effects that can be used in any room in the house. They are found in modern, traditional or wallpaper to give added dimension to one of these rooms.

Finished Basement Can Add Extra Living, Extra Value

A finished basement can do much more than merely furnish you with extra living space. Depending on how well you've planned your basement improvement project, it can add thousands of dollars to the value of your home.

Homeowners pondering the feasibility of finishing their basements should take into account the experience of builders who provide finished basements in new homes.

Many builders are now including a finished basement as an option in the sale of new homes. One builder reports that for a home with a basic basement recreation room that includes a bath and finished nail he was able to charge $2,000 more. And for a recreation room with additional luxury features, including built-ins, refrigerator and sauna bath, he could charge another $1,500. The immediate result was a big improvement in sales.

When intelligently remodelled, dark and dingy basements in many older homes can provide bonus living space for the family. In addition to increasing the value of the house.

How much you want to spend for a finished basement is up to you, but it is advisable to keep in mind local real estate values and the price and style of your home. You can't reasonably expect to recoup a $30,000 investment in a home located in an $18,000 neighborhood. Also, costs for both materials and labor will vary according to location.

A "minimum" basement improvement project which calls for painted walls, tiled floor, finished ceiling and a minimum number of light fixtures, will cost from $600 to $900. Before the time comes to sell your house, you undoubtedly will consider this investment worthwhile.

After this "minimum" project, however, the possibilities are almost endless — panelling, built-ins, exterior access, heating, refrigeration, cooking, bathrooms, fireplace and so forth.

Wall panelling, including furring and labor, can replace painted walls for from $130 to $400 extra. Costs vary greatly because of the many types of panelling available, from low-cost economy panels to fine, prefinished styles. In some areas, extra work such as waterproofing and vapor barriers is required.

Cabinets, or built-in-storage units cost from $400 to $800 depending on the number installed and whether a counter or refreshment bar is added. Cooking and refrigeration facilities, if included, will increase the cost.

Direct access to the outside can be a safety as well as a convenience feature. Providing exterior access will cost from $100 to $425, depending on the location, shape and type of entryway selected.

Bathroom facilities — either full or half-bath, is a much desired feature. A half-bath with toilet and lavatory costs about $300. A full bath including a shower stall ranges from $600 to $800.

A fireplace can be built in the basement for $500 to $700.

To make basement space more useful and valuable, a well-lighted workshop is suggested, combining both artificial and natural light, sufficient electrical power and outlets, maximum use of "wasted" space such as space under a stairway which can be converted into a closet or cabinet, and built-in furniture around the walls which can double as furniture and storage space.

Enhance your home's value!

Finishing the basement can add to the value of your home. Here is a basement recreation room that promises fun for all ages. Children's soda fountain on the left features a cheery color scheme. The section on the right was fashioned as an adult night club, and features more subdued colors and sophisticated wallpaper. A key item in the design is the restaurant-type refrigerators which open in both directions.

Plan Ideal Kitchen in Easy Stages

The ideal way to modernize a kitchen, most home owners would agree, is to get the whole job done at one time — new cabinets, new appliances, new wiring, everything. But it can't always be done that way.

If you've thought of modernizing in stages, you need not put off acquiring new appliances just because you're not ready to put in new cabinets for $1,500 or more. Several things you can do to take advantage of the work-saving features of modern appliances now and be sure the units will "fit" into your new kitchen later.

For example, you can get an electric range with a built-in, square-cut look that blends right into modern kitchens. Free-standing electric ranges today are normally 36 inches high — right at countertop level, so they will look "built-in" when your new cabinets and counters are to have been installed.

Some ranges have work surfaces set at a lower height, but are built up at the sides to line up with the countertop. You may also want to consider a console electric range with an eye-level oven — a natural for modern kitchens with the built-in look.

The new refrigerator-freezers also have that built-in-squared-off look, thanks to more efficient thin-wall insulation and greater compactness of operating parts. Unlike older models, they fit flush against the wall, so they look like they "belong."

Manufacturers of automatic dishwashers have gone one step further. In addition to built-in, free-standing and portable dishwashers, they produce "convertibles" models which can be used as portables now and with the side and back panels removed, as built-ins later.

When the day comes that you will be able to add cabinets too, your friends will never be able to tell you didn't plan your kitchen remodeling all at one time.

A basement ceiling has many advantages. It acts as a fire-retardant, protecting joists and woodwork for sufficient time for possible control of a fire. It keeps dust and drafts from sifting up through floors. It improves the appearance of the cellar and therefore the value of the house.

ICE-BOAT CAME FIRST

The first vehicle to travel at more than 100 m.p.h. was an ice - yacht piloted by James Weaver in 1885.

Brighten, Organize Those Dull, Uninteresting Closets

Closets are indispensable, sometimes too dark, never quite big enough, too often a little cluttered. And, because they're so easy to hide from view, closets are usually the last spot to get a home "beauty treatment."

But, with a little time, some spray enamel, and a few imaginative touches of your own, no more drab closets!

Wooden or wire coat hangers can be transformed. Use a different color for each room's closet — and you'll always know where hangers belong.

Give closet shelves a coat of color, then use spray-enameled boxes to organize shoes, sweaters, other accessories. You may want to use different colors for "His" and "Her" boxes, for "Teen-Ager" and "Little Sister."

For quick identification, plastic, wooden, or cardboard boxes can be labelled with a brush-on enamel. An extra-clever touch is a simple drawing of the box's contents.

Perfect perches for your hats can be quickly and easily made by spray-enamelling two-pound coffee cans.

If you use the cans with plastic lids, you can enclose gloves, scarfs or other small accessories, so they'll be right at hand when you need them. Cheerful faces brushed on your hat stands will give you a smile every time you open the closet door!

For a final touch, spray the inside of the closet door the same gay color. Then put this valuable space to work for you.

Brush on a design — a giant flower, an abstract pattern, a bunch of balloons for the youngsters' room. Mount hooks here and there on the door, making them part of the design, for robes, pajamas, belts, clothes brush.

You'll have a cheerful, colorful closet that's organized too!

Shade, Fruits, Flowers— Trees, Shrubs Give Much

Different trees and shrubs have different purposes, and the homeowner always should take this into consideration when purchasing them.

The principal reasons for planting trees are for beauty and function. Trees for shade include the maples, oaks, liquidamber, pecan, plane trees and hundreds of others.

Trees for flowers include the crabapples, camellia, cherries, magnolias, albizzia, catalpa.

Trees for windbreaks and green color in winter are the coniferous evergreens, such as pines, spruces, hemlocks, arbor vitae.

Trees with interesting barks are the beeches, birches, walnuts, maadronas.

Trees for edible fruits and nuts also provide attractive flowers (and sometimes shade) — apples, cherries, pears, plums, citrous, pecans, walnuts, to name only a few.

Trees for ornamental fruits are winterberry, mountain ash, hawthorne, hollies and others.

Shrubs for flowers are numerous — roses, azaleas, rhododendrons, hydrangeas, stewartia, hibiscus, oleanders, forsythias, spireas, many more.

Almost any shrub can be used for hedges. Selected should be those which reach the height the homeowner wishes when the shrubs are mature.

A hedge can be anywhere from a foot or two, up to 20 feet high or more, depending on the species and whether one wishes flowers, screening, evergreen or other characteristics.

Plants which never grow high enough to block views from first floor windows, should be planted around the foundations of the home.

The darkest green of all shrubs is taxus, or yew, which gives excellent winter color, as do juniper and arbor vitae.

How to Check Storm-Screen Combinations

One home improvement that adds considerably to both living comfort and the sales potential of a house is the installation of self-storing combination storm and-screen windows and doors.

Since aluminum storm-and-screen windows and doors should be capable of withstanding all kinds of weather for many years with little or no maintenance, they should be chosen with care. The Insect Wire Screen Bureau suggests that home owners use the following checklist when choosing storms-and-screens.

1. Examine outaway sections of the frames in the dealer's showroom to be sure construction is sturdy.

2. Look out for poor fits, open miters and dirt-catching corners. Glass in storm panels should seal tightly all around, and should be heavy, with no distorting flaws.

3. Since the screenings must stand up for years in all kinds of weather, choose it carefully.

4. Choose a design and color frame that blends well with the exterior of the house.

5. Test display models to make sure self-storing panels open and close easily.

Time was when homeowners had to devote a major part of their weekends to keeping their lawns healthy and well manicured.

But today gardening is easier, less time-consuming and more fun than ever for homeowners, thanks to the many new lawn, gardening and outdoor living aids now available. Whether you have a "green thumb" or are a novice the new gardening products can help make you a "complete gardener" with a minimum of effort.

Survey reports indicate that the number and variety of lawn and garden products have mushroomed, and that building a supply centres anticipate a record sales year in this category.

Sales of power mowers which rose by 7 percent in 1965, are expected to rise another 5 percent in 1966. There are now an estimated 22 million power mowers in use. Suburban tractor-type units are expected to gain 25 percent.

Many mowers do more than just cut grass. They also bag clippings and leaves and trim along walks, curbs and patios. Many riding tractor mowers will also double as graders and snow removers.

The publication states other gardening aids growing in popularity include underground and travelling sprinkling systems, spreaders, lawn carts, soil aerators, hose reels, sprayers and sprayers, tillers, reel feeders, lawn sweepers, trash toters and power rakes. Most power equipment can be rented as well as purchased.

In addition, building supply centres are stocked with a wide variety of basic hand tools for every gardening task. These tools include rakes, spades, hoes cultivators, grass cutters, hedge and pruning shears and many others.

New developments and improvements in organic and chemical products make these gardening aids easier to handle and use. They are also more effective.

You can even garden at night if you wish. Improved outdoor lighting systems make this possible.

And for the more exotic-minded gardeners, some manufacturers are producing waterfall kits and underwater weed mowers — perhaps for gilding the lily.

YES, HE'D TAKE NO BANANAS — Jean Grenasow seems to be getting a bit discouraged by the lack of co-operation from Joe, a two-year-old monkey who was found clinging to a hydro pole guy wire in Vancouver recently. Joe, who ran away from his owner after being scared by some children, eluded the banana bait and SPCA trap and was loose for three days before being caught. (CP Wirephoto).

MAN DIGS DEEP

The deepest hole in the world is the East Rand mine in South Africa, which is more than two miles deep.

Right Color on Walls Will Show Faces in a Flattering Light

When it's tooth-brushing time in the morning, will the face in the bathroom mirror look cheery and bright or haggard and wan?

A lot depends on the color of the bathroom walls and trim. The right choice of hues in repainting the bathroom can make a big difference.

Walls painted in some yellows and greens reflect a most unflattering light. Pink, rose, coral and peach tones reflect a warm, healthful glow that starts the day off right. Pure green and gold are good choices. Blues with a touch of red are warmer and more flattering than pure blue or greenish blues.

Experts recommend semi-gloss or gloss enamel when painting bathroom walls for many reasons. Enamels keep out moisture vapor from entering walls and causing aging plaster. Enamels are also easy to keep clean, can be scrubbed often and are more mildew-resistant. Before applying enamel, dirt should be washed away to insure adhesion of the paint and prevent peeling. Glossy areas should be dulled with sandpaper or steel wool.

If you take a bathroom 14 by 8 larger, walls and wood trim should be painted the same colors. More than two accent colors in an average sized bathroom are distracting — accents should be picked up in towels or curtains.

General Motors Said Nursing A Few Wounds

By CHARLES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors, giant of the U.S. auto industry, is nursing a few wounds these days.

The biz lackeder a decline in car sales, a cutback in production, a drop in first - quarter profits and considerable unfavorable publicity on the auto-safety issue.

None appears too serious, but they have caused a bit of concern at GM headquarters.

Latest sales reports showed GM got more than 50 per cent of auto sales in early May, as it did outsold Ford, Chrysler and American Motors combined.

To any other auto firm, GM's 56.6 sales May 1-10 would have been a cause for rejoicing; at GM the figure represented a five-per-cent drop from last year.

EARNINGS DOWN

The No. 1 auto maker's first-quarter earnings were down, and this was reflected in a slight drop in dividends. Its six-month figures showed dividend payments of $2.30 a share, down five cents from the opening six months a year ago.

That dividend drop expected by most of the topics discussed next Friday when an estimated 3,200 GM stockholders gather in Detroit for the firm's annual meeting.

It also seems a safe bet that auto safety will be a key topic from the floor, with the name of Ralph Nader almost certain to pop up.

Nader is the David in the GM Goliath story. Armed with a book he wrote, Nader has jabbed auto makers on the safety issue, with GM and its Chevrolet Corvair his favorite target.

Mention of Nader's name around GM headquarters in Detroit draws a frown. A GM public relations man, asked last week for comment on a Nader interview, flared up and asked a reporter: "Why do you guys write about Nader? He is not worth that much attention."

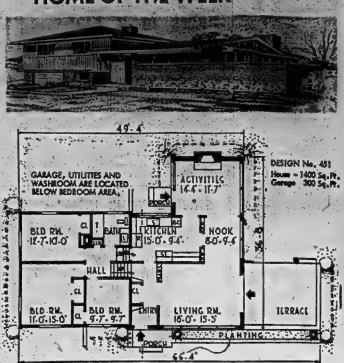
ALLEGATION DENIED

GM has denied every allegation made against the Corvair, and it has won four law suits, including a Milton, Ont., lawsuit Wednesday, exonerating the Corvair in accidents.

Corvair sales, however, have dropped since Nader pinpointed the car in his book, Unsafe at Any Speed.

Recent GM production cutbacks put the spotlight on Corvair. Only 46,731 of the cars have been built since Jan. 1, compared with 106,645 in the same period last year.

Corvair sales in the calendar year through May 10 stood at 90,407, less than half the 84,702 sold in the same period the previous year. GM officials have insisted Corvair will be in Chevrolet's 1967 lineup.



FORD DIDN'T HELP

Ford Motor Co. did little to make GM feel better this week when it announced that early May sales of its Ford division were ahead of Chevrolet for the first time in quite a while.

Chevrolet had outsold Ford in all but three years since 1930.

The general feeling at GM seemed to be one of irritation at the series of misadventures which has kept it on page one in recent months. GM, unlike Ford and American Motors, did not specifically blame the auto safety hearings for its troubles. GM officials, none of whom would permit use of his name, said off the record that all the publicity about car defects, which was compiled for Senator Abraham Ribicoff's U.S. Senate subcommittee, did little to help GM.

HOME OF THE WEEK

DESIGN No. 451
House = 1400 Sq. Ft.
Garage 300 Sq. Ft.

Split levels make for spacious living and here's a plan that has all the advantages of this type of construction and could be built on a 65 foot lot. It contains only two stairways: A 7-riser stair to the sleeping area off entry hall and a 5-riser stair to the basement from the kitchen. The drop beam between living room and nook, sliding glass wall between nook and the Activities Room gives you a huge "U" shaped social centre for easy entertaining. The Living room has access to the walled-in terrace — an ideal spot for relaxing. Three bedrooms and bath comprise the upper level sleeping wing. Basement level has separate laundry room; a lavatory; a store room and a self closing fireplace in the garage. Of frame and brick veneer construction, the design could also be built in solid brick. For a slightly additional cost a full or partial basement could be included beneath the Living-Kitchen area. Standard Blueprints for this Design No. 451 cost $30.00 for the first set, and $5.00 for additional sets. Blueprints comply with the National Building Code of Canada, and are obtainable by return mail. (Ontario residents must remit 5% sales tax). The new 1966 Design Book entitled "101" Selected Suburban and Country Homes" published by Home Planners, price $1.00 tax free is now available at this Newspaper Office. This edition includes information on the Cost of Building in Canada, Financing, Heating Insulation, Constructional Details, etc., plus many outstanding new Ranch, One and Half Storey, Split Level, Two Storey Colonial and Duplex Designs. Wife of Candy Firm Heir Decides To Stop Stripping at Parties

LONDON (AP) — Gordon MacKintoshtays he sees nothing wrong about it, but his vivacious wife Hazel has decided to lame down her temptation to liven up parties by stripping.

MacKintosh, grandson of the founder of a British candy fortune, is proud of his trim wife, whom he calls "a real ball of fire."

They are leaders in society in Devon where they live in a 13th century manor house in the heart of the English tweed-set country.

There's nothing ancient or tweedy about 30 - year - old Hazel, however.

But in the interest of keeping harmony she told a British reporter she has decided to stop stripping.

She says the party trick is creating tension with their more sedate society friends and her husband's family, too.

Then a guest objected she poured champagne over him.

AND THE BAND PLAYED ON

Two weeks ago she did another strip-dance at the club after the other guests had left, but the band stayed to play and cheer.

"There was nothing wrong," said MacKintosh. "It was just Hazel's way of saying 'thank you' to the band, who work while everyone else is playing."

Hazel, in giving her pledge to change her ways to a reporter for The People Saturday, summed up her philosophy:

"Life is meant to be lived and, particularly after a few drinks, I enjoy undressing. A woman's body is beautiful, so what's wrong with showing it off."

"The trouble, is that my husband's family do not seem to agree with me and word has come that his allowance could be affected."

VIRUS KILLS BABIES

FREEHOLD, N.J. (AP)—An unidentified virus has taken the lives of 40 infants in Monmouth County, New Jersey, an area of 340,000 persons, during the last year. Dr. Malcolm Gilman, county physician, said Monday the state health department is investigating to determine whether it can identify the virus.

Homeowners Want Bigger Kitchen Area

Home owners are getting ready to launch their own space program — and the favored site is the kitchen.

A recent survey reveals that the kitchen is the centre of attraction for most families planning home improvements. It's the room they would most like to do something about — and "more space" is at the head of the most-wanted list.

NEED APPLIANCES

While the survey brings out the need for more electrical outlets, better lighting, new sinks and new floor coverings, greater priority goes to improvements aimed at providing more cabinet and counter space, more space for better working arrangements, more space for bulk-ins, more space for eating, more space for activities such as kitchen deskwork and ironing.

When the kitchen space program calls for an all out, all-over remodeling job or step-by-step changes within the framework of the existing floor plan, major appliances are likely to play a large part in the modernization.

Logically, kitchen remodelling time is an appropriate time to make needed replacements of major appliances — and to take advantage of some of the new developments in major appliances. Even though appliances are not outworn, they may be outdated.

New developments include, for space-eager home owners, space-saving designs.

SAVE SPACE

Refrigerator - freezers, now frost-free for "no defrosting ever" combinations, provide increased food storage capacity yet take up less floor space.

Ranges, along with self-cleaning features and more automatic cooking controls, offer flexibility in cooking aimed at solving space problems. There are new few examples, range that provide a built-in look without the cost of installing built-ins. For flexibility, too, are built-in wall ovens and separate surface cooking units.

Dishwashers come in a wide range of designs calculated to fit in with any space - making kitchen plan ever - counter, under-counter, under-sink, free-standing, portable.

Antiquated kitchen (left) demanded many wasted steps in meal preparations, offered little storage space.

Remodelling (above) arranges work centre in compact area behind counter, uses free space for snack area.

New flooring of vinly asbestos tile covers up defects of the old, badly worn floor, is easy to clean and maintain.

Set of Coins Will Cost $35 To Produce

OTTAWA (CP)—The centennial commemorative sets of 1967 coins the government expects to sell at $40 could cost as much as $35 to produce, a finance department official said Monday.

The coins will be worth $26.96 at face value, but they will include a $20 gold coin that is intended to be a collector's item. Though it will be legal tender, it is expected to be used rarely if ever in normal transactions.

New Method Brings More Home Quiet

New idea in remodeling offers a priceless feature for better family living — more quiet in the home.

There are now steps which can be taken to control irritating sounds within a room or between rooms, by existing homes or apartments, according to Robert A. Costa president, Insulation Board Institute, Chicago, Ill

These steps utilize just two IBI standard industry products — acoustical ceiling tile and sound-deadening insulation board.

To control noise between rooms, a plan has been developed for an auxiliary wall of sound deadening insulation board and gypsum wallboard, which can be placed next to the existing wall.

The sound-stopping auxiliary wall uses two-by three foot wood studs placed 24 inches apart, on two-by-three-foot wood floor and ceiling plates. Between is 3½-inch space between the new wall and the existing wall.

The new studs are faced with ½-inch sound deadening insulation board with the nail heads dimpled. Half-inch gypsum wallboard is then applied vertically with the joints offset 12 inches with respect to the sound deadening board joints by installing with drywall laminating compound.

The gypsum wallboard is temporarily blocked around the perimeter until the laminating compound has adequate bond. The gypsum wallboard joints are then taped and finished and the entire perimeter of the new wall is sealed in place.

As a final step, noise is more effectively confined in a room if the door is of the solid core type with vinyl gasketing and a snug-up threshold.

To control noise within rooms, consider insulation board acoustical ceiling tile. Soft surfaces absorb noise; hard surfaces reflect it Acoustical ceiling tile is essentially a "soft" material which absorbs up to 70 percent of the excess noise striking its surfaces.

Sound enters the tiny openings in the surface of the tile, and the sound energy waves are reduced or eliminated by the soft porous fibres.

TV COMES ALIVE

NORWICH, England (CP)—A London real - estate firm, 100 miles away, was thrown into chaos when Anglia Television broadcast its number in a play. The next day 220 people rang up, asking to speak to the player characters. An official explained the post office — which operates Britain's telephone system—gives TV companies unused numbers for use in plays, but someone must have made a mistake.

Good landscaping for more enjoyable outdoor living begins with a plan — and then can be added to as time and money permit. Tasteful arrangements of low-cost plants, combined with chairs and grills, offer outdoor pleasure for family and friends. Landscaping not only increases home beauty and comfort, but also, it often adds considerably to home value.

For "garden living rooms" are ideas like this attractive polyangular deck of California redwood, designed and built by a do-it-yourselfer for approximately $100.

Fireplace Fires

A large brisk wood fire in a fireplace is better for the chimney than a small smoky fire. Volatile resins, sap and gums, vaporized in burning wood, condense in a cold chimney and form a smoke-like tars on the sides of the flue. These can soon brought masonry cracks and stain the chimney. A hot, leaping fire will heat the flue enough to carry such tars off in the smoke.

Foil the Family Moth With Chemicals, Clean-Up

The voracious appetite of the lowly moth has spoiled many a family's wardrobe. To foil the family moth a chemical expert offers its easy guide to closet planning and suggests a housewife be aware of the ingredients in a moth's menu.

A moth has specific tastes. Th ostree is fur and the word of warning is that the moth likes an early ostree, beginning in late May if the weather is warm enough. For main course, which is a feast of wool, the moth waits for the first sultry June day. And for dessert, there are always a variety of items left unaired in crowded drawers.

Clothing damage can be avoided by following a few simple steps in preparing it for storage. First, make a checklist of every item that is open to attack and that includes sometimes forgotten small items such as men's ties and woolen socks and winter hats.

All clothing should be clean before it is stored, washable items washed, and others dry cleaned. With the availability of the neighborhood cleaning coops, a home manager can clean practically a whole wardrobe for a few dollars.

To guarantee complete clothing protection, moth crystals should be placed in perforated containers to hang in the garment closets! The chemical used in most moth preventives is one which is a big name with powerful meaning to moths. Para (for short) is a volatile chemical substance that can be purchased under a variety of trade names. It is available in cake, nugget, or crystal form. As it physically changes from a solid to a vapor, it emits a pungent vapor far heavier than air.

This potent chemical is also extremely effective in preventing mildew. Coolers might be wise to place some crystals in the club locker room or in the basement locker at home. For this use, one advantage of this chemical is that it does not have an objectionable or unpleasant odor and odors do not cling to clothing. They disappear almost instantly after closing to fasten from the locker.

One final tip, if a family plans to be away for a month or more in the summer, it is a good idea to sprinkle a layer of crystals underneath or on top of carpeting. Since there is no disturbance of air in a closed house and since many houses have wool carpeting, it is quick and ready source for moths.

Foiling the appetite of the family moth takes a little time but always pays dividends when fall clothing is taken out of storage.

New Siding Perks Up Old Houses

If you think a new dress can do wonders for a woman who feels she's growing older, you'd be amazed what it can do for a middle-aged house.

A woman dressed by 1926 standards would look drab today — just as many fine and structurally sound houses built just a few decades ago look drab now.

Many owners of older homes have turned to re-siding as the surest way to strip years from their homes' appearance. In the process, they're eliminated become maintenance chores.

A new exterior of mineral fiber siding, for example, will add a bright, fresh appearance to a dull - looking home that will last many years.

Mineral fiber's textured surface is pre-finished with a long-lasting plastic acrylic color coating that can be restored periodically simply by washing it down.

Mineral fiber is a tough, permanent - type material, like brick or marble, that will not rot, deet or burn and can not provide food for termites.

When installed over an insulating backer, it provides an extra bonky shadowline and additional insulation for exterior walls — especially important for homes built before wall insulation was standard practice.

Re-siding makes real economic sense for many home-owners. By adding up the estimated cost for painting (most houses need repainting every three to five years), and comparing the cost of residing, it can be shown that the "expense" is a savings.

FINDS ONE BLUE DOLLAR

WEYBURN, Sask. (CP)—Ken Lee of the Club Cafe found a dollar bill by his cash register with the reverse side colored the blue of the $5 bill. A local bank told him it is authentic and probably very valuable.

They Go Together—Home, Insurance Improvements

Like love and marriage, home improvements and insurance improvements go together.

In other words, if you're increasing the value of your home you should increase the insurance on it.

Even without improvements, many homes are underinsured simply because increased costs have raised their value.

How much insurance do you need on your home?

Suppose that an appraisal shows that your house would cost $20,000 to replace at today's prices. Under a homeowners policy — a "package" of coverages that is becoming increasingly popular — you should insure your dwelling for at least 80 percent of its replacement value, $16,000 in this case.

The homeowners policy provides various types of coverages with the convenience of just one policy and one premium to pay. Still more important, the homeowner saves from 20 to 30 percent of what it would cost for separately purchased coverages.

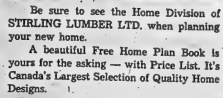
There's a choice of three forms of the homeowners package policy — the Standard, Broad and comprehensive forms.

The Standard form protects owner against 11 perils, from fire and lightning, windstorm or hail, and explosion to theft, vandalism and malicious mischief, aircraft, and smoke — smoke caused by sudden, unusual and faulty operations of a cooking or heating unit.

The Broad form, which is the most popular, increases to 19 the number of perils against which the homeowner is insured. The additional coverages include such things as falling objects, weight of ice, snow or sleet, and freezing of plumbing, heating and air-conditioning systems.

The Comprehensive form is sometimes called an "all-risks" policy because it lists the perils the homeowner is not insured against, rather than those he is insured against.

For more detailed information on types and costs of homeowners policies available, homeowners should get in touch with their local insurance agents or brokers.



REDUCING NOISE

Adding a room? Finishing an attic? Noise through floors can be reduced by installing a sound deadening insulation board below the rough or sub-flooring, prior to the tile installation.

This product absorbs noise and results in a much quieter floor.

A secluded courtyard dominates the interior layout of this three bedroom bungalow designed by architect J. Bryan Crawley of Winnipeg.

Full length windows and a sliding glass door divide the court from the main hall while the living room is also well lighted by large window areas in the courtyard wall. A wrought iron gate opening from the courtyard gives access to the rear garden area. Other features are the inclusion of a separate washroom off the master bedroom and the provision of an eating bar between the kitchen and the family-dining room. For best lighting, the courtyard wall should face south.

The floor area is 1,342 square feet and the exterior dimensions are 50 feet three inches, including the carport, by 43 feet. Working drawings for this house, known as Design 2335, can be obtained from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at a moderate cost.

Name Ways To Beautify Community

How does one go about making a home, a neighborhood or a community more beautiful?

A beautification expert makes the following suggestions:

"Beautification, to be most valuable, should be planned. Whether you are beautifying your home grounds, neighborhood, a street, or a whole community, the best thingto do is to make a preliminary survey. "Where, for example, are your home grounds or community ugly? They actually may not be exceptionally ugly. Your goal may simply be to make the area more beautiful."

The steps to achieve this include:

1. A survey of the area. Check locations where a flowering tree or shrub that has lovely flowers may "set fit" the location and help to beautify the whole area. Not only flowers but leaves, barks and berries are beautiful at various times of the year.

Plantings should provide for an attractive effect at all seasons.

2. Select the best sites to be beautified, especially those that will attract attention from the largest audience.

3. Try to have all local groups concerned by contacting service clubs, garden clubs, others.

4. Once a site is beautified, make sure that it remains so through adequate maintenance. Proper planting of trees and shrubs at the start will help.

After planting, the most important thing is regular watering and annual fertilization.

"Don't Do-It-Yourself" Is Sound Advice for Some

It's home improvement season, and projects ranging from painting to plastering are claiming the attention of growing numbers of some handymen. For do-it-yourself improvements alone, the expenditure this year will be, it is estimated, two billion dollars.

All of which is fine — when the do-it-yourself jobs turn out to be real improvements. But there are many projects which should be clearly labeled "don't-do-it-yourself," cautions a nationwide home improvement finance specialists.

In addition to installing roofing and siding, jobs whose sheer size should discourage most do-it-yourselfers, there are several other projects that should be done only by an expert.

As a general rule, homeowners should avoid tampering with the home's electrical system. Unless he is fully qualified to do electrical work, a homeowner runs the risk of serious electric shock or burn and may create a fire hazard if improperly installed wiring is put into use.

Another area in which the expert should reign is in the matter of plumbing and installation of bathroom and kitchen fixtures. New pipes must integrate well with the rest of the plumbing system. If they do not, it can affect the entire system.

Even some seemingly simple remodeling jobs can have serious consequences. For instance widening an archway or removing a wall between two rooms could significantly weaken the entire structure of the house if improperly done.

The do-it-yourself aspect of jobs like these should be restricted to the proper choice of a contractor to do the work. Here are some guidelines on selecting and working with a good contractor.

Friends and neighbors who have had experience with contractors will often supply the best leads. It is a wise practice to deal only with established firms in the community. If there is any question about a contractor's reliability, check with the local Chamber of Commerce, Better Business Bureau, or trade organization.

Hearing Aids Cure Babies

TORONTO (CP)—Some deaf babies have apparently had their hearing restored after a few weeks of using hearing aids, a California professor said here Monday night.

Prof. C. E. Meyers, chairman of the division of educational psychology, guidance and exceptional children at the University of Southern California, reported on the findings in a lecture on new trends in child study.

Prof. Meyers said the report on the apparently deaf babies was highly controversial but the Hearing Foundation of Los Angeles, which carried out the tests, handled at least "a couple of dozen in the last 11 years."

He said that after hearing aids were put on them they began to pay attention to things. "After a while they have the aids taken off because they appear to be normal."

Utilize Existing Space to Install That Extra Bathroom

Looking for space to put in that much-needed second bath or powder room?

How about under the staircase or perhaps in that large hallway walk-in closet or even in part of the dining room. These are just a few places where you can build convenient and attractive bathroom facilities at minimum cost.

By using existing space and new compact plumbing fixtures now available, you can often cut costs considerably and end up with a more efficient living plan."

For example, one young couple decided the only way to eliminate family line-ups outside the bathroom was to build on a room for a downstairs bath. A builder, however, recommended scaling-off a six by eight-foot section in their 13 by 18-foot dining room.

He also suggested using porcelain on steel fixtures, which would give them the decorative and space-saving features they wanted and eliminate the need for special floor supports.

The result: They gained a centrally located bathroom and still have a comfortable dining room — all at one-third the original estimated cost of the project.

Conversion of a walk-in closet to a bath or powder room often requires a minimum of decorating and installation of the plumbing fixtures.

Usually the only barrier to an attractive under-the-staircase powder room is the lack of a doorway, which can be easily and inexpensively installed.

Many plumbing fixture manufacturers are producing bathtubs and lavatories designed for space-saving installations. There are new porcelain on steel recessed tubs in full five - foot lengths, 32 inches across.

Because they weigh one-third as much as other fixtures, and are equipped with self-leveling underframes, installation time is reduced and the need for costly floor supports is eliminated.

There is added protection against water damage because all porcelain on steel tubs are manufactured with a special leak-guard wall flange on the three sides of the tub that adjoin the wall.

The tube feature square corners and straight sides to simplify fitting of tile and other floor and wall coverings.

Annual Home "Check-Ups" Are in Order

Paint-up, fix - up, clean - up time again looms large on homeowners' agendas. Many may be found making notes on what points to and around the house should receive a check-up for annual care.

Authorities on the subject list areas in which homes most likely requires attention. Careful, over-all inspection should be a matter of policy.

OUTDOORS

Foundations may show cracks as a result of a year's weather damage, especially through ground holes at the foundation line. Masonry cracks are best filled with a pitch-based waterproofing cement.

The ground holes should be filled with sand or gravel and topped with soil or sod, as protection against future rains and more cracks in the foundations.

Siding should be scrutinized for peeling paint, splitting, and general decay. A complete re-siding job may be indicated. In some cases, however, alternatives of re-painting, touch - up painting and replacement of damaged portions of siding will be adequate.

Roofing inspection may sow loose or warped panels or shingles, which should be replaced or re-nailed.

Chimney mortar should be filled in where necessary. Loose bricks or stones should be secured. Flashing around chimney may need replacement, if cracked or corroded.

Gutters and downspouts may easily become loose and weather worn in a year's time. Re-nail loose parts and repaint where indicated. Clogged pas sages should be cleared.

Windows, doors — frames should be checked for possible air leakage. Re-caulking will keep weather out.

GROUNDS

Lawn, garden inspection and care may vary with individual taste and the green thumb talent available. In general holes may be filled in with sand or gravel and covered with turf.

Fill may be laid for reseeding, fertilizing lawns, replanting gardens.

Driveways may reveal cracks in paving to be filled or replacement of lost gravel.

In new paving, thought should be given to conveying the driveway surface for drainage, to permit water to drain onto the lawn, rather than the street.

Trees, shrubs are sure to need a tidying trim. Check dead tree branches, withering shrubbery and hedges.

INDOORS

Heating equipment should be cleaned, adjusted and, if necessary, repaired by an experienced serviceman, at least once a year. If yours is an old furnace or burner, remodeling, updating or complete replacement may be in order.

Walls, ceilings may show cracks or bulges which may call for professional attention. If these ills are not too extensive, they can be cured by the enterprising amateur with plaster, polishing tool and paint.

Floors may need partial replacement or complete room re-flooring. Refinishing, in some rooms at least, is usually in order.

Floors Come Into View

With the return of the area rug to home decorating popularity, wood floors are coming into view again. As a result, an important home improvement project on the agenda for many households is the refinishing of wood floors.

"Improved wood stains add a touch of floor color and bring out the grain, texture and natural beauty of the wood," points out a color consultant.

It takes little difference how old the wood is. When unsightly scuff marks, scars or layers of paint are sanded off, the original personality of the wood will reappear.

Every species of wood takes a stain in a different manner. The finished look depends on the color of the stain, how much is applied, the type of wood, its grain and texture.

Oak is the most popular flooring because of its durability, rich warm color, and countless combinations of grain and texture. However, many people prefer the softer, more uniform texture of maple floors. Older homes will often have pine floors.

Any of the three flooring styles — strip, random-width plank or parquet — can be personalized through the application of liquid wood stains.

Make Garden Into Outdoor Living Room

Most families take pride in living in beautiful natural surroundings. More and more families are developing the grounds around their homes into inviting, beautiful "outdoor living rooms.

These "outdoor living" rooms furnish restful retreats for adults, places for teenagers to entertain and for the smaller children to play safely, and to learn about growing things.

Landscaping can accomplish the beauty; each family member can enjoy it. Seventy - two percent of home owners are critical of neighbors with poorly kept grounds — they think of them as too poor to do anything about beautifying, or lazy and shiftless.

On the other hand, they think of families living more beautifully as good citizens, refined and educated.

For individual members of the family good landscaping can accomplish a great deal.

It is wholesome and educational for children. One industrialist planted a tree for each of his seven children, who watched the trees grow. They experienced the natural flowering and fruiting of the trees, the beneficial shade, the foliage color changes with the seasons, the nesting of birds and many other natural phenomena that helped to enrich their minds, while tree climbing helped strengthen their muscles.

So valuable did these trees become to the family that they spent thousands of dollars just to transplant them when they moved to new homes.

With a beautiful property teenagers are encouraged to entertain at home on terraces and in "outdoor garden living" rooms.

Parents living on beautifully planted properties have much pleasure in putting their "own mark" on the property in the form of trees and shrubs and better living. Young trees, planted when families are young, mature with the family and represent close family ties.

Pebble Gardens Are Answer for Problem Yards

The shrubs shade it, it's too close to a walk, too near a tree, and the grass either won't grow well or can't be cut conveniently. A problem area like this is really no problem at all, and can be the most striking area around the home with the help of pebbles and clay potted plants.

Once it is decided that the area is just too difficult to handle as a lawn, clear it of weeds and other debris. Shovel and hoe the soil one foot deep, and rake it level.

Next, border the area with old bricks, new bricks, Belgian blocks or aluminum garden edging. Then, add two inches of uniform size pebbles or crushed rock to cover the soil completely.

Set plants in porous clay pots on top of the pebble layer. But be certain that the plants you selected are those suitable for the prevailing light conditions in that spot.

If the pebble garden gets a lot of open sunlight, then the plants should be double potted.

This involves placing them in clay pots one size larger and filling the space between the two pots with sphagnum or peat moss and keeping it damp.

When selecting plants for your pebble garden, it's wise to seek the advice of a local florist or garden centre.

LBJ Calls His Critics 'Nervous Nellies'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has challenged his Viet Nam critics to stop being "Nervous nellies" and stand united until the gallant people of South Viet Nam have their own choice of their own government.

"I want the killing to stop," he told a Democratic fund-raising dinner Tuesday night in Chicago. But he added, in one of his sharpest attacks on his critics:

"I do not think that those men who are out there fighting for us tonight think that we should enjoy the luxury of fighter each other back home."

Earlier, State Secretary Dean Rusk told a news conference that the Johnson administration is using all its influence to get the South Vietnamese to put aside "secondary issues and unite in the main tasks of fighter the war and building a new political system."

Rusk said the United States has warned the quarrelling political leaders of South Viet Nam that civil strife there is endangering U.S. support for defence of their county against the Viet Cong insurgency.

DISCUSSES HOME FRONT

Johnson's theme, however, was political strife in the United States.

"There will be nervous nellies and some who become frustrated and bothered, and break ranks under the strain, and turn on their own leaders, their own country and their own men fighting men," he told the Democrats.

But he said he had no doubt the American people ultimately will stand united until every step is brought home safely, until the gallant people of South Viet Nam have their own choice of their own government."

The president conceded he is troubled and frustrated about the Vietnamese solution and said: "We are seeking a way out. We are trying to find a solution."

Asserting that no one wants peace as much as he does, Johnson repeated anew his pledge of readiness to sit at the negotiating table "with any government who genuinely and sincerely seeks to halt the hatred of fight."

CITES 'RESTIVENESS'

At his news conference, Rusk said it should be obvious to the rival factions in South Viet Nam that "there is restiveness here" over their civil strife.

Rusk said that President Johnson had appealed Tuesday to one of the top Buddhist leaders opposing the Ky government, Thich Tri Quang, to settle his differences with the Saigon regime and allow work on creating a new constitutional government to go forward.

The presidential message, a reply to an earlier appeal from Tri Quang to Johnson, was delivered by the U.S. consul in Hue. Tri Quang had asked Johnson to intervene with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky in the interest of putting an end to the civil strife in the Da Nang-Hue region.

Rusk said in response to questions that despite the violence which broke out during the weekend when Ky sent troops to counter dissident forces in Da Nang, he did not believe the present trouble would lead to civil war.

He based his hope for achieving unity on what he argued is a broad unwillingness in South Viet Nam to let the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, take over the south.

WILL HONOR ARTIST

TORONTO (CP)—Artist Hac-old Town is to receive one of six honorary doctorates to be conferred June 1 at York University's first convocation. Other recipients will be:Jacks J. Deutsch, chairman of the Canadian Economic Council; R. S. McLaughlin, chairman, General Motors of Canada Ltd.; George Catherool, chairman, Ontario Hydro, and Ruth Atkinson Hindmarsh, president, Atkinson Charitable Foundation.

U.S. Is Given Hirshhorn's Art Collection

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Joseph Hirshhorn, a Latvian-born American who amassed a large fortune in Canadian uranium, turned over one of the world's largest private art collections to the United States Tuesday.

President Johnson, who had lobbied for the plum sought by other countries, praised Hirshhorn's "patriotism and generosity" at a noon ceremony at the White House.

"I'm an American," Hirshhorn, 67, told a small press conference later. "I couldn't do what I did for any other country in the world."

Asked whether any Canadian ever made a bid for the 5,000-piece collection, valued at more than $25,000,000, Hirshhorn replied emphatically: "No, never."

FINAL VISIT — As troops of the 2nd Battalion Canadian Guards prepare to leave Cyprus after six months with the UN peace-keeping force, 2nd Lieut. Barry Worth of Picton, Ont., makes one of his final visits to the village of Temblos. The poverty-stricken village of about 80 dilapidated houses holds 600 Turkish Cypriots, most of them refugees. Turkish Village Proves Trouble Spot on Cyprus

By DON LeBLANC

TEMBLOS, Cyprus (CP) — Shots rang out on EOKA Day near this poverty - stricken, unarmed Turkish-Cypriot village at the base of the Kyrenia Mountains, about 20 miles north of Nicosia.

There were no injuries but a bullet came close to a Canadian soldier at a United Nations outpost situated between the village and the position of the firing Greek-Cypriot National Guard.

It was April 1 and the guardsmen were marking the anniversary of EOKA, Greek-Cypriot terrorist organization which overran this eastern Mediterranean island in 1950. Cyprus became an independent republic within the Commonwealth the following year through an agreement signed by Britain, Greece, Turkey and the Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots.

This area of Kyrenia district has posed one of many problems for the Canadian contingent in the UN peace-keeping force during its two years on the island. Less than a mile from the Mediterranean, the community is the closest point to the sea in the Turkish-Cypriot enclave.

WEAPONS FORBIDDEN

Under an agreement, no weapons are allowed in the village although they could easily be brought in from positions in the Kyrenian and farther inland. If they are secretly armed, villagers held their fire on EOKA day, and wisely so. The brisk action by the National Guard was probably intended as a test, defying Turkish-Cypriots to return the shots.

Temblos, a dirty, dilapidated community of 80 overcrowded homes, is made almost beautiful by the surrounding landscape. Peaks of the Kyrenia's tower over the village, as does the silhouette of ancient St. Hilarion Castle which now serves as a well - fortified Turkish - Cypriot stronghold.

After fighting broke out on Cyprus in late December, 1963, refugees began flowing into the village, swelling its population of 150 to 600. Now every home, most of which are one-room structures with dirt floors, contains two families and often Turkish-Cypriot fighters come down from the hills to spend short leaves in the village.

Ali, interpreter for the self-appointed "mukhtar" or mayor of Temblos, says that in many cases a dozen men, women and children live in one room.

The role of Canadian troops in the area does not end with peace - keeping. They supply villagers with any necessary medical aid and are even the source of their water supply.

Troops of the 2nd Battalion Canadian guards of camp Petawawa, Ont., offered to repair a pump with the community only well broken down, but the plan hit a snag. When told that Greek-Cyprists demanded an observer to ensure work was being carried out on the pump and not on a Turkish-Cypriot road up the mountain side, villagers said no.

They would rather go without water—or accept a limited supply from the Canadians.

Tomorrow: Canadians in UN force keep close eye on Greeks and Turks.

Malaysia, Indonesia Talk Peace

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (Reuters)—Deputy Premier Tun Abdul Razak will meet with Indonesian Foreign Minister Adam Malik for immediate peace talks to end Indonesia's three-year-old confrontation policy against Malaysia, it was announced today.

The announcement was made by the senior minister powerful in Kuala Lumpur, Home Affairs Minister Tun Ismail, following a meeting of the Malaysian cabinet.

Cartoon Shows Grinning Queen Selling Britain

LONDON (AP)—A cartoon of the Queen grinning toothily with the words "Britain for Sale" emblazoned across her chest appeared today in the mass circulation London Daily Mirror.

The Queen is drawn astride a moth-eaten horse whose hide is split open to show a stuffing of miniature Prime Minister Wilsons. Clinging to the rear of the horse is Prince Philip, a luggage sticker on his uniformed sleeve and a polo mallet dangling from his side in place of a sword.

The whole idea of the drawing is to indicate the disintegration of the Empire," said its creator, Gerald Scarfe, one of Britain's leading satirists.

"The 'Britain for Sale' sign is merely to show that the Queen is sort of dusted off and brought out when Britain needs selling abroad," Scarfe told a reporter.

Areas Policy Criticized by Alkenbrack

OTTAWA (CP)—The government's policy of designated areas is "a policy of sheer desperation" and should be abolished, Douglas Alkenbrack (PC —Prince Edward-Lennox) said in the Commons Tuesday.

Speaking in the supply debate, he said industries could not afford to pass up federal government tax benefits offered in areas locating in specified depressed areas.

It was almost impossible to maintain industrial growth in non-designated areas when the government lured these industries elsewhere.

Some industries, he added, may discover they have established in the wrong areas for future development.

Political Poker Game Starts Between W. Germany, France

By CARL HARTMAN

BONN (AP) — A political poker game of bluff and counter-bluff has started over President de Gaulle's removal of French troops in West Germany from the NATO command.

The showdown is set for July 1, when his order goes into effect.

At stake are the efficiency of West European defence under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the future for French influence in Germany and perhaps the career of West Germany's foreign minister, Gerhard Schroeder.

The French, West German and U.S. governments say they don't want to see the French army and air force actually leave Germany.

But Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's government, pressed by the Americans and backed more or less by the other 13 NATO members, is taking what is meant to look like a strong stand.

CREATE IMPRESSION

It is trying to give the impression, without actually saying so, it will ask the French to pull out unless they make a new agreement on military cooperation.

The French are expected to reply this week.

They can be counted on to say the West Germans are demanding too high a price. They may even threaten, or at least imply, they will start withdrawing troops if the price is not lowered. France has two army divisions and an air force wing stationed in southwestern Germany.

So far, both sides have carefully avoided overt threats.

The U.S. and West German governments, supported by the British, say their main object is to see to it that in case of war, there are sufficient arrangements for working with the French.

The West Germans have another worry: They don't like to see French troops on their soil outside a joint command, because it makes the French look too much like an occupation force.

WANT WORDS

What they want is a form of words to make it appear French troops here are under some kind of German authority.

West German politicians set great store on good relations with France. Ex - chancellor Konrad Adenauer especially sees in them an end to the specter of war in Europe.

The question is whether the West German government should seek these good relations separately, as de Gaulle would prefer, or rely on the backing of the United States and Britain, as it has so far in the current crisis.

The French bluff is not based on too strong a hand, either.

Many Frenchmen set a high value on having their troops in Germany.

To pull out of Germany altogether would weaken French influence on the future of Europe, whenever the day comes that a final treaty is to be signed to put an end to the Second World War.

De Gaulle wouldn't want to have it said then he was the one who yielded the place of France among the post-war Big Four who set their troops on the soil of the defeated enemy.

VISIT EXPECTED

LONDON (Reuters)—China's Premier Chou En-lai will likely leave Peking for Rumania on an official visit May 22, an informed Western source said Monday. Chou had earlier been expected to leave for Rumania last Sunday or Monday.

China May Be Edging Toward Difficult and Transitional Period

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The fact humans don't live forever suggests China is edging towards a difficult and perhaps critical transitional period in solving her leadership at home and strategy abroad.

At 72, Mao Tse-tung still is the fountain-head of China's political structure but he shows evidence of waning physical strength and stamina. Voices of opposition are heard and stilled, only to be raised again, questioning the path the leader has chosen for his 650,000,000 people.

There is no evidence of rebellion. Many more years may pass before China's political leaders feel the pressures of rising consumer appetities, such as those now spreading in the Soviet Union for automobiles, better housing and clothing and a greater sense of individual fulfilment.

But there is evidence, in the criticism of Mao, that some of the rigidity in the Chinese political system is dissolving. No one at this stage can predict what the end of the Mao dynasty may bring.

SPLIT PERSONALITY

China appears half-fearful of, half-emboldened by events just beyond her tightly - guarded borders.

The big buildup of American forces in South Viet Nam has heightened Chinese concern that the U.S. may be interested in finding excuses for invading China. But if the North Vietnamese can paralyse the power of the U.S., how much easier it would be for the better-prepared Chinese to suck in, bold and perhaps exhaust all American military power.

"Once in China," says Premier Chou En-lai, "the U.S. will not be able to pull out, however many men it may send over and whatever weapons it may use, nuclear weapons included.

"Since the 14,000,000 people of southern Viet Nam can cope with over 200,000 U.S. troops, the 650,000,000 people of China can undoubtedly cope with 10,000,000 of them. No matter how many U.S. aggressor troops we are going to find out, there wouldn't be any need for the experiments."

Some of the answers being sought, says Mr. MacGibbon, are clues to the origin of the universe explanations for upper atmospheric conditions and analysis of properties found in space.

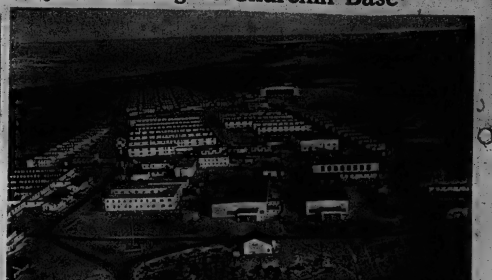
He says sounding rockets, such as those used at Churchill, are best suited for this type of research and more than 300 are fired annually at the range. These range from the tiny Arcas, used in meteorological studies carrying a payload of up to 17 pounds, to the four-stage Javelin that can carry a payload of 175 pounds more than 600 miles into space.

Complementing the rocket program, huge balloon are launched regularly at the range to explore the atmosphere to a height of 97 miles —a region too close to the earth's surface for effective rocket use.

But it is the rocket that's the prime donas of the range and the reason for the capital investment that could buy the town of Churchill with change left over.

OPERATED BY FAN-AM

The range covers an area of about 400 square miles that takes in miles of barren tundra and most of Hudson Bay itself. At Fort Churchill there are meteorological services, technical support facilities, headquarters and billets for the total population of about 2,500.



Twelve miles down the only road in the region is the launch area that is the heart of the range. Here the bopes of scientists who have worked for anywhere from six to 36 months on their payload packages, are realized or broken.

It includes five assembly and launch units, a common blockhouse that is the nerve centre, an operations centre that houses the data collecting services and a fire hall.

Radar and other data-collecting devices are located at other strategic locations in the range area.

Actual operation of the range is under contract to Fan-American World Airways which recently had its contract renewed. Mr. MacGibbon says the American company is the most experienced in space programming but is trained Canadians to take over key positions at the range that will eventually give all-Canadian designation.

SPACE BASE LOOKS UP — The research base at Fort Churchill, Man., is a mecca for scientists study in conditions in the upper atmosphere. The abunda nce of space phenomena at the range, 610 miles north of Winnipeg, attracts government scientists from Canada and the United States as well as more than 40 universities and colleges. The $4,400,000 annual budget is split between the National Research Council and the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration. (CP Photo).

Here, rocket firings and auroral sightings are table topics and space jargon is just a way of talking. Even a visitor can't escape. In two days, he's talking of birds (rockets) and shots (launches) with the familiarity of an old-timer.

Good Friday Store Opening Brings Charge

HAMILTON (CP) — Magistrate Walter Tuohill reserved judgment in May 31 Tuesday after hearing Fuller Merchants Ltd. pleaded not guilty to a charge of contravening a bylaw by keeping its store for business Good Friday, April 10.

Norman A. P. Malcolm, secretary and corporate counsel for the firm, said in reply to a question by deputy city solicitor Kenneth A. Soott that it was "partly correct" that his firm took a calculated risk in opening in view of expected high sales as compared with a possible maximum $200 fine.

"We considered also that this was a way of forcing the issue and testing the bylaw," he said.

Mr. Scott said if the firm seriously contested the bylaw the matter could be taken to the Supreme Court of Ontario and the Supreme Court of Canada.

PRESENTS DEFENCE

Mr. Malcolm had said that Hamilton city council was acting discriminatorily in bringing the charge, was ultra vires of Ontario law and was infringing the Canadian Bill of Rights.

He said the purpose of the bylaw requiring closing on Good Friday "must be religious observance."

"I suggest that freedom of religion is meaningless unless there is also freedom from religion."

School Buses Built Like "Sardine Cans"

OTTAWA (CP)—School buses in Canada are built "like sardine cans" and their construction should be brought under a safety code, Conservative MP Howard Graffley said Tuesday.

"Research groups have crashed typically constructed school buses at impacts of 25 miles per hour and the results were appalling," Mr. Graffley, member for Brome-Missisquoi, said in a speech to the Ottawa D'nal B'rith Society.

School buses travel many miles over secondary rural highways where death and injury rates tend to be high, said Mr. Graffley.

Seats on the buses should be integrated with the bus frame, he said, and passengers should wear seat belts.

SPORT SLICES

Hartness racing, a sport that is growing in popularity has received a setback in the hinterland centres of the province.

Charter-jiggling and lack of government aid are said to be responsible for the marked reduction of the number of meets in the greater majority of the smaller centres.

The Quinte Driving and Riding Club of Belleville and the Kingston Horsemen's Driving Club have had their number of annual meets cut from seventeen and twenty-three meets respectively to five for the season.

Quinte Club president Gerald Vance said today that inability to procure sufficient charters is responsible for the drastic cut.

"At the moment" he said "we have permission to hold five meets, one of them the Black Diamond Cheese Stakes. Kingston has been granted five meets, two of them stake races dates."

Last year, he said, Kingston and Belleville operated under the Windsor Holdings charter. This year the Windsor Raceway took over this charter leaving the smaller centres, with the exception of Peterborough, holding the bag, so to speak.

When told of the inability to obtain charters for their full quotas, such centres as Belleville, Kingston, Chelmsford Hanover and North Bay formed an investigating committee headed by Belleville' driving club president Vance.

The committee presented a brief to the Ontario government through the provincial secretary the Hon. John Yaremko and the treasurer the Hon. James Allen. The committee was supported by Clarke Rollins and Elmer Sandercock M.L.A.'s.

"We asked for non-transferable charters for each track, the charters to call for 14 nights of racing "President Vance said.

"The brief was turned down by the ministers who told us our applications came too late and everything had been planned."

"By some strange quirk, or something stronger, Peterborough had their request in in time. It is the only smaller racing centre in the province with a charter calling for a full quota of racing dates." Mr. Vance said.

"However we have not given up hope" he added. "We are working through the Canadian Trotting Association and the Standardbred Horsemen's Association in an effort to secure charters which will give the smaller centres a full quota of meet dates."

Kingston and Belleville will operate for five meet seasons under the charter of the Little Current Driving Association.

The racing season here will be open on June 4th and continue through June 11, 18 and 25th. The fifth night has been retained, as was noted, for Saturday, August 13th and the Black Diamond Cheese Stakes.

Incidentally the Black Diamond Stakes will mark the unofficial opening of the Belleville Fair. The regular fair dates are August 15, 16, 17 and 18th.

The popularity of the Cheese Stakes, President Vance pointed out, is seen in the fact that to date some fifty nominations, paid their first nomination fee for the event. Vance expects some 70-75 horses will start. Last year 55 went to the post on the last day of the fair.

A substantial sum of money has been spent by the city on improvements to the Fair Grounds track. New lights have been installed enabling race patrons to watch the heats in their entirety. New fences border the track. Plans are under way to construct a new building to house the part-mutuel betting. It will contain twice as many receiving and paying windows as the one used last year. It is hoped the building will be ready for the first meet on June 4th.

President Vance believes the reduction of the number of meet nights will not affect the attendance. "In fact" he said "it is likely to result in the opposite. Nor will the reduction affect the calibre of racing."

The Quinte Driving Club's new secretary is Mrs. Doreen Kemp, 18 Murney Street, telephone 962-1584. Horsemen are requested to submit entries to Mrs. Kemp by the Tuesday preceding the Saturday racing.

Wild Melee Halts Game

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Mimico Mounties aren't third-period starters and because of it they wound up victors in an abbreviated Ontario Lacrosse Association Junior A game Tuesday night.

The Mounties went of a scoring rampage early and were leading St. Catharines 14-9 at the 5:35 mark of the third period when a wild melee forced the referee to halt the game. Toronto Township defeated Etobicoke Terriers 14-10 in the only other scheduled contest.

Dodgers Win After Marichal 'Pulled'

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Los Angeles Dodgers are still trying to beat Juan Marichal.

The Dodgers, who haven't beaten the San Francisco ace in more than a year, edged the Giants 2-1 in 13 innings Tuesday night after holding Marichal to a tie in 10 innings.

The last time they beat him was April 28, 1965, when they squeaked by 2-1. He has four straight victories and an 18-8 lifetime mark against the Dodgers.

The Dodgers, who managed just five hits in the first eight innings, tied the game 1-1 in the ninth. Maury Wills beat out a bunt, raced to third on Jim Gilliam singled and came home on Willie Davis' fly to Willie Mays in centre field.

Marichal (7-0) stopped the Dodgers in the 10th, then left for a pinch hitter in the 11th. He earned run average only slightly higher at 0.78.

Marichal was making his first appearance in Dodger Stadium since he hit John Roseboro on the head with a bat there last August.

In other National League games, Cincinnati Reds blasted New York Mets 4-0, Pittsburgh Pirates defeated Atlanta Braves 5-2 and Philadelphia Phillies trimmed St. Louis Cardinals 5-3. Rain washed out Houston at Chicago.

The Dodgers finally won in the 13th inning when Wes Parker led off with a single against Frank Linzy, dashed to third on Willie Davis' single and continued home as right fielder Ollie Brown fired the ball into the Los Angeles dugout.

Cincinnati's Jim Maloney won his third game without a defeat, stopping New York on two hits and retiring the last 22 men he faced. Don Pavletich drove in two Red runs with a double and a homer while Vada Pinson knocked in a pair with a single and a grounder.

Dom Clendenon's two - run single in the seventh inning rally in the sixth inning that carried Pittsburgh past Atlanta. Manny Mota completed the Pirate comeback, doubling across a run in the seventh and stealing home. Hank Aaron homered for the Braves.

The Phillies got two base-loaded walks in the seventh inning for their victory over St. Louis. Nelson Brites walked Dick Groat, forcing in the tie-breaking run, then gave way to Joe Hoerner, who walked John Callison.

Gunshot Kills Ex-Champ

LEAMINGTON, England (AP) — The sad riches-to-rags story of Randolph Turpin, former world middleweight champion, ended with a gunshot blast in a dingy back-street cafe Tuesday.

Although police maintained a traditional silence on who did the shooting, friends said the 36-year-old Turpin had been depressed lately.

In the same incident Turpin's 17-month-old daughter, Carmen, was seriously injured with two gunshot wounds and taken to a hospital.

Turpin was found dead with a gun near the body in his wife's transport cafe in Leamington Spa, about 150 miles north of London.

The spot was not far away from the town's main street, where the whole community turned out to give Turpin a hero's reception in July, 1951.

Outsiders Can Camp At Mosport

TORONTO (CP) — Spectators who live more than 200 miles from Mosport Racetrack will be permitted to camp there for the Player's 200 June 4, Canrack Motor Racing Corp., owners of the track, said Tuesday.

The campers will be confined to the area behind the paddock and will be allowed to camp starting the night before the race.

Camping at the track was banned during the 1965 Canadian Grand Prix last September when police feared the number of campers would interfere with traffic.

J. O. Whitty, assistant commissioner of provincial police, said the force will have at least 150 men patrolling the roads leading into Mosport on the day of the race to handle any traffic difficulties.

Two new entrances are being constructed at the track to relieve traffic bleups experienced in other years.

Last year, a record Canadian sports crowd of 58,312 saw England's John Surtees win the race.

Minor Softball Results

A pair of peewee games were played in the Belleville Minor Softball Association last night.

Hyde and Son Electric defeated the Western Tire Colts by a 9-4 score.

Barrett's Yankees registered a 7-2 triumph over the OASA Squirts.

The Handguns

The Quinte Marksmen opened their summer season last night with their first outdoor shoot at the Rednerville range. Weekly shoots will be held there each Tuesday.

Frank Allin had the night's top score, a 237. Bert Waters was second with 235 and Dick Charlton was a close third with 232.

POINT RIGHT KNEE TOWARD THE BALL

A common failure among golfers is that of not shifting their weight to their lait at the start of their downswing. Instead they "fall back" on their right foot and usually mis-hit the shot.

If you have trouble shifting your weight onto your left foot during your downswing, I suggest you "point your right knee toward the ball."

This knee should start moving toward the ball at the very start of your downswing. By the time your hands enter the hitting area, this knee should be pointing toward the ball.

You will find that pointing the knee toward the ball forces you to shift your weight properly on your downswing. When your weight shifts properly to your left, your club will remain in its proper plane and longer, straighter shots will result.

Oliva Bludgeon Sparks Twins' Win

Hits Long Pair

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Tony Oliva won't need a travel agent if he ever goes to room. Eddie Stanky had volunteered for the job and there's a line forming behind Casey Stengel while Ike piles.

Oliva crashed a pair of long home runs Tuesday night, powering Minnesota to an 8-3 victory over the White Sox and prompting Stanky to divulge his travel plans for the Twins' slugger.

"He should be playing in Japan," Stanky said. "He could make $1,000,000 over there, and I'd pay his way over there, in fact, I know about eight people who would in this league that will pay, too."

Oliva hit two-time American League batting champion, but his nine homers while lifting his average to .407, tops in the league.

His three-run homer in the first inning and solo shot in the third helped southpaw Jim Kaat go the distance for his fourth victory in five decisions and into the first division for the first time since the opening week of the season.

MAULED THE YANKEES

Elsewhere, Detroit mauled the New York Yankees 12-5 behind Dennis McLain's two-hitter and three homers, Cleveland Indians edged Washington Senators ahead of Max Alvis' two-run homer and Baltimore Orioles topped Boston Red Sox 8-6 with a four-run rally in the sixth inning. California was rained out at Kansas City.

The Twins, defending AL champions, moved into fifth place, one-half game ahead of Chicago, with their fifth victory in the last six games.

Oliva's home runs, which traveled 405 and 410 feet, were not Chicago homers by John Romano and Floyd Robinson. Earlier, 4-3, and Dale Long also homered for Minnesota.

McLain, whose sixth victory tied the Detroit Club Baseball for the league lead, whiffed three, struck Yankee batters and was touched for two runs on Roger Maris' sacrifice fly and Roger Repoz single—all in the first inning.

The Detroit right - hander walked only one other batter—a double by Maris in the fourth—and retired the last 18 Yankees in order.

TIED THE SCORE

Bill Freehan's homer and Don Wert's sacrifice fly tied the game at 2-2 in the fifth; a two-run homer by Don Demeter sent the Tigers ahead in the sixth and a three-run shot by Willie Horton wrapped it up in the eighth.

Alvis' homer off Diego Segui capped a three-run uprising by the Indians in the sixth and Gary Bell—Mr. Cleveland's—was beaten record. McDowell was lifted in the fifth with the Senators ahead 3-2 but Jim McMahon, winner Tom Kelley and Bob Allen pitched hitless relief for the Indians who got a lot of hits in relief.

A two-run triple by Luis Aparicio keyed Baltimore's clutch-hitting outburst, which shot the Orioles ahead 8-5 and nullified Rico Petrocelli's grand slam homer for the Red Sox.

Petrocelli, whose two errors in the first inning had helped the Orioles to three runs, gave Boston a 5-4 lead in the fourth with his second bases-loaded homer of the season.

Parsons Defeat Kingston

Belleville Parsons Old Boys boosted their Kingston District Soccer League record to two and one by turning back the Kingston German Sport Club 4-1 here last night.

A fair crowd watched the game under the lights at the Fairgrounds.

A complete league schedule has not yet been released and Parsons are walking word from the league regarding further games.

Belleville jumped into a 1-0 lead after ten minutes with Bob Rotherford snapping home a narrow - angle shot after Joe Romano put him in on the left side.

After Alan Brown hit a goal post, the Sport Club tied it on a header by Warna.

Parsons soon regained the lead, this time for good, Sathy McGehee carried through on the right side and his centre was headed home by Pete Svedon.

A goal - mouth scramble led to the 3-1 score, with Norm Hutchinson cashing in Max Ivey's rebound. That was the score at half time.

In the second half, Parsons defence, led by Bob Main and Graham Geldart, kept the Sport Club attack off balance. Grisley's shot had Parsons goalie Herb Mueller beaten but it rebounded off the crossbar while erratic shooting at the other end prevented the winners from building up the score.

Bob Rutherford headed home a hard cross from Madeiros for the final goal.

Chiefs Nip Leafs 5-3, Bisons Win

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was a hard night on International League pitchers Tuesday, with three clubs collecting 29 hits and the fourth scoring the winning run on a throwing miscue.

Syracuse Chiefs collected nine hits to defeat Toronto Maple Leafs 5-3, Buffalo Bisons collected 10 to defeat Rochester Red Wings 7-4, and Toledo Mud Hens unloaded on 11-hit attack to edge Jacksonville Suns 8-7.

Columbus Jets defeated Richmond Braves 4-3 in the other game, scoring the winner on a balk by pitcher Herb Hippauf.

Jose Martinez attempted to steal home on Hippauf with two out in the ninth inning. Hippauf's throw beat him to the plate, but the umpire ruled he had broken his windup and declared it a balk.

Al Ricciuti hit a three-run homer to down the Leafs. He also contributed for two other Syracuse hits.

Would Send Indian Team Overseas

Centennial In Europe

By JIM NEAVES

REGINA (CP)—What better way to advertise Canada's centennial in Europe than with a touring hockey team of Indians? asks Frank Germann, president of the Saskatchewan Amateur Hockey Association.

Germann, athletic director at Notre Dame College at Wilcox, Sask., conceived his idea for the touring team of Indian and Metis players about a year ago.

"To send a native Canadians overseas would be good for Canada and particularly for the ego of the Indian people. What better way to celebrate our 100th birthday?"

Some preliminary work has been done on the scheme but Germann admits time is short and obstacles must be solved.

"There are three major obstacles. First I need applications and certificates of eligibility from Indian and Metis players. Approval is needed from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and financial assistance would be needed from the Centennial Commission."

He said the major obstacle is money. "Some of the players will be made now to get players, then some assistance may be possible through the Centennial Commission, the national fitness council and from private donors."

Germann says CAHA reception to his initial idea has been favorable.

"They showed keen interest and I'm sure if I can show there a substantial list of players at the CAHA annual meeting May 22-30 in Montreal, the SAHA will get the go-ahead."

WANTS NATIONAL TEAM

He says while the Prairie provinces could supply the team, "it would be better to have Indian and Metis players from all over Canada."

"There are a tremendous number of good Indian and Metis players of junior and intermediate calibre and I'm sure all CAHA branches would cooperate to assure the status of such players on their return to Canada. The project now is to get those players to apply to the team."

The proposed team would have to be assembled by mid-November this year and it is hoped the European trip could be made in January-February, 1967, Germann says.

"We'll need an artificial ice centre for training and supply ing ice for games as they prepare for the trip. I would hope the team could play exhibition games en route to Geneva Canada for their overseas trip. We'll also have to find a coach and manager."

Main expenses would be for travel and accommodation.

"I'm sure we could do it for less than $30,000," Germann says.

"There is no doubt in my mind a team of the calibre of Alberta's Edmonton Rockets who played in Abrahm Cup play two years ago in Europe, losing only one game in 16, could be put together.

"It is important that such an Indian and Metis team make a good showing. We wouldn't want it to defeat its purpose."

Triple Play Credited To Catcher

INDIANA, Pa. (AP)—Indiana State University may have recorded a baseball first Tuesday in a game against St. Francis College.

Indiana's catcher made all three putouts in a triple play. That may have happened before. But he also had an error on the play.

Here's how it happened:

With runners on first and third, the St. Francis batter struck out on a third-strike play. One out. Indiana catcher Rick Dahlgren threw to second baseman Jerry Dodgen, whose relay back to home caught the runner breaking from third. Two outs.

As the other runner continued going, Dahlgren attempted to throw him out at third, but threw into left field for an error. But the return throw from left fielder Dick Sudzina got the third out at the plate.

Indiana won the game 4-1

Motorized Sleds Replacing Dogteam

FROBISHER BAY, N.W.T. (CP)—A plaything in the province, the motorized snowsled is fast overtaking the dogteam as a means of travel in the Canadian Arctic.

The trim toboggan-like craft is seen everywhere in the north.

In larger settlements such as this one on Baffin Island, it is used much as southerners do their cars. In more isolated communities, Eskimos set out on them for the hunting grounds.

The northern affairs department makes them available to its employees and even the RCMP has jumped aboard the bandwagon by using them on shorter patrols.

Old - timers shudder at the thought of Eskimos travelling long distances on the still-fragile craft.

The rough terrain and the brittle cold make breakdowns common. One Hudson's Bay Co. trader said the machine, which sells here for about $1,000, will cost its owner another $400 each year for new parts.

A breakdown while the hunter is far from home could mean death and there have been reports of this happening on two occasions. The wind whipped up by the motor sleds also has led to an increase in frost bites among Eskimos.

FASTER THAN DOGTEAM

But their swift acceptance by Eskimos and whites points up the need for a faster means of getting about than by the time-honored dogs. Studies now are under way in the northern affairs department to provide it.

In the meantime, the debate over dogs versus the motorized sled continues in the North.

A strong point for the sled is its speed. It can travel three to four times faster than dogs and thus brings the hunter home the same day rather than have his speed three to four nights away from home.

It also relieves the Eskimo of having to put aside a great deal of food for dogs during the summer — food the family used for himself and family.

Defenders of travel by dogteam say dogs can pull a sled for many days without food if necessary and are more reliable.

When food is scarce, dogs can be eaten to sustain life. Dogs also are useful to sniff out breathing holes of the seal and never will lead a hunter on thin ice where he could fall into the water and drown.

DOG'S DAYS MAY BE NUMBERED — The fabled Eskimo dog team may soon disappear as a means of transportation in Canada's Arctic. The motorized snowsled is gaining wide acceptance among government officials and Eskimo hunters. The speedy sled can travel three to four times faster than a dog team. But the dog's defenders note that a breakdown on the sled can mean death in the wilderness and you can't eat a skidoo when you run out of food. (CP Photo)

NY Giants Sign Hungarian

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pete Gogolak, the Hungarian soccer-style place kicker who played out his option with Buffalo Bills in the American Football League, signed Tuesday with New York Giants of the National League in a move that may bring war between the rival pro leagues.

The former Cornell kicker, who set records at Buffalo with 28 field goals, refused to sign with the Bills in 1965, played out his option and became a free agent May 1.

It was the second case in the history of the two pro leagues in which a man played out his option and then jumped to the other league. The first was Willard Dewveall, an end with the NFL's Chicago Bears who moved to Houston Oilers of the AFL in 1961.

SQUATTERS HOMELESS

HONG KONG (Reuters) — More than 500 squatters were homeless Tuesday after a fire raged through their section of Hong Kong, destroying more than 100 huts.

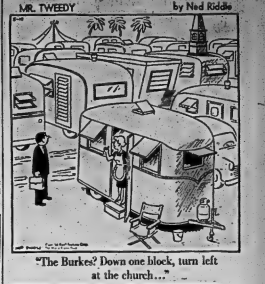
Argonauts Sign End

TORONTO (CP) — Barry Michelson, 230-pound offensive end traded to Toronto Argonauts by Edmonton Eskimos in February, Tuesday signed a contract with the Eastern Football Conference team.

Michelson, a resident of Niagara Falls, Ont., came to the Argonauts along with linebacker Al Ecuyer, in exchange for defensive halfback John Wydareny and linebacker Ron Brewer.

Senior Lacrosse

HUNTSVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Brampton Ramblers spoiled a home start for Huntsville in the Ontario Lacrosse Association's Senior A series Tuesday, defeating the Hawks 15-7.



Bert Naller and rookie Brian Willsons scored three goals each for Brampton. Ed O'Keefe, Julie Kowalski and Bob Spencer collected two goals each. Gord Thompson, Bobby Haw and Bruce Wandless scored one each.

Mike Payne scored three goals for Huntsville and Ken Thompson added two. Stu Wheeler and Barney Floyd scored one goal each.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Artic Troops, Windfields Farm's contender for this year's running of the Queen's Plate June 25, won the $2,800-purse sixth race at Greenwood Racetrack Tuesday. Ridden by Jim Fitzsimmons, Arctic Troops completed the seven-furlong distance in 1:28 1-5 and returned $2.60, $2.40 and $2.10.

Supreme Chief, a six-year-old, won the eighth race and paid $225.40, $102.40 and $38.50. The $225.40 payoff was a record for Greenwood. The previous high was $193.80 when Son Alor won May 11, 1961.

Holstein Assoc. Questioned Re Farm Broadcast Report

NAPANEE — Mr. Harold McCaul, second vice-president of the Canadian Holstein Association, was questioned regarding a statement made on the farm broadcast Tuesday. The statement was made that Canada was the world's largest exporter of holstein-fresians.

"I did not hear the broadcast", Mr. McCaul said, "but I believe it to be true. We export to 28 countries, I think, Japan, the South American countries, Spain and Italy among them. Italy is interested in the best quality, and of course that means the highest price."

Questioned as to prices, Mr. McCaul spoke of the disposal sale at Oakville last week, where over 300 head of holstein-frieseni from Oak Ridge Farms were sold. They were the property of Reuben Dennis. They now sold for a record price of $46,000, and the top price was $2,400.

There are several large herds of registered holsteins in this area. Mr. Robert McFarlane of R.R. 2, and Joseph Wrooman of Odessa, were among the other holstein breeders attending the sale, where there were buyers from many countries.

Council Hears Plans for New Sewage System

DESERONTO — Deseronto Town Council meeting Monday night heard good news on the sewer installation question.

A letter from the Ontario Water Resources Commission informed them that the matter of the correct method of sewage treatment for the town had been resolved, and that the Commission was now preparing terms of reference which would be forwarded to the engineer.

The next step was for the engineer to report on the design for installation of the sewers themselves.

A second letter was from the engineers, Hisey and Barrington, and it informed Council that the communication from the OWRC had been received, and that they would now proceed with the design.

For four years Deseronto has been waiting for a sewage system to be installed. Certain formalities must be observed in all such cases, but in this case each formality seemed to take an unusually long time.

A major problem was in dealing with the disposal of waste. A treatment had to be found which would combine the disposal of the waste both from homes and from industry, with the canning factory waste disposal presenting a problem. The letter read Monday night indicated that a way had been found out of the difficulty.

The question of a municipal water supply is no nearer solution, however, but a second letter from the OWRC emphasized the problem which Deseronto faces. Reporting on a check of the Bay of Quinte water, the Commission stated that the order of the Medical Officer of Health to boil the water before using it, must be continued, as observed, as it is unsafe for use unless boiled. Such checks are made periodically, and the report is always the same.

Glue-Sniffing Charge Laid Against Youth

TORONTO (CP) — Glue-sniffing was compared with the "mist of death" by special prosecutor Bruce Thomas at the juvenile court trial Tuesday of a 18-year-old boy charged with aid-and-abetting a poison "or any other noxious thing."

George Cimburra of the attorney-general's laboratory compared the effect of glue-sniffing to those induced by drinking alcohol.

The chemicals Toluene and Acetone found in the plastic cement used in model building could damage kidneys and blood-making apparatus in the body, Mr. Cimburra said.

Judge T. L. Moore said the interest of the community justified the admission of reporters to a trial which was ordinarily be held in camera. The reporters cannot divulge the name of the boy.

The trial continues.

WAS 13

The case is being heard in juvenile court because the boy was 13 when accused of sniffing glue with the intent to cause himself bodily harm.

Mr. Thomas completed the Crown's case Tuesday and Judge Moore adjourned the trial to next week when the defence will be heard.

Judge Named To Mediate In Dock Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Judge Rene Lippe—chairman of the trustees overseeing the Seafarers' International Union—is scheduled to begin at 2:30 p.m. today on his task of mediation in the strike by some 4,200 longshoremen on the St. Lawrence.

Appointment of Judge Lippe was announced late Tuesday in Parliament by Labor Minister Nicholson.

The Ottawa appointment followed pleas for intervention by both sides in the dispute which by Tuesday had left idle some 130 vessels.

Strikehound are the ports of Montreal, Trois Rivieres' and Quebec City. The men are represented by the International Longshoremen's Association (CLC) and the shipping companies by the Shipping Federation of Canada.

Their last collective agreement expired Dec. 31, last year.

UK PRICES UP

LONDON (AP)—The index of British retail prices rose last month to 116, an increase of 1.4 points over March, the labor ministry reported Wednesday. The base figure of 100 was set in January, 1962, so the figure indicates a 16-per-cent rise in retail prices since that time. Last month's increase was the second largest in the last four years.

Govt. to Undertake Survey All Resources of County

PICTON (Staff) — At the request of the Regional Forward Prince Edward Region Conservation authority the Ontario Department of Energy and Resources Management is undertaking a survey of the resources of Prince Edward County this summer. The survey is to include studies of water, forests, land use, fish and wildlife, history and recreation.

The purpose of the survey is to obtain a complete Conservation report on the county's resources which will serve as a guideposts for future conservation projects undertaken by the Authority.

In order to complete the survey it will be necessary for Department employees to inspect forests, water, land and wildlife on privately owned lands. Thus, the cooperation of all land owners is required and will be much appreciated.

The hydrological survey commenced on Tuesday, May 10, 1966. All survey work is to be completed this summer.

Further information on this survey can be obtained from any of the following municipal representatives on the Authority: W. C. Tatham (chairman), Ameliasburg township; H. Ward, Picton; Roy Brooks, Sophiasburgh township, and Robert Quick, Wellington.

Arrangements have been made to hold the banquet at the Club Canara, Hambly Street, Belleville, Monday, May 30th at 7.30 p.m. The speaker will be Mr. George Morris of Merlin, Ont. He is a past president of the Ontario Beef Improvement Association. Tickets are available at the Department of Agriculture Office in Picton or from the following beef producers: Keith Gilbert, R. Ameliasburg Tax Rate Cut By Five Mills

PICTON (STAFF) — Taxes have been reduced by an average of five mills in Ameliasburg Township.

Township Council Monday night struck a farm and residential rate of $3.70 down 4.82 mills, and a commercial and industrial rate of $6.30, down 5.69 mills.

This means that property owners whose assessment of $4000 will pay $18 less taxes this year than in 1965.

The taxes are based on a total residential and farm assessment of $4,450,000 and a commercial and industrial assessment of $308,500. The township picked up an additional $400,000 in assessment after revaluation of properties by the County Assessment Commission last year.

The overall rates were kept down mainly by reduced school requisitions. Next year, the public school rate may be increased because the first debenture payment on the new Keele Central Public School will be due.

Cast Too Young To Enact Death Of Salesman

By JACK BRAUCKMANN

VANCOUVER (CP) — They buried a dead salesman here Tuesday night at the Dominion Drama Festival and a planned homicide is on the agenda tonight.

Adjudicator Marius Goring was displeased with University of New Brunswick Drama Society's choice of Death of a Salesman as a festival entry because of the youth of the cast. Tonight he will see deJean Genet's Les Bonnes presented by Le Movement Contemporain of Montreal.

"I contratulate you for attempting to get at this marvelous play—but frankly it is a little out of your reach," the adjudicator said following the UNB performance.

"I'm sure it would be better for you to find parts nearer your age. When we are young actors we want to put on beards and act old. The 30-year-old longs to play an 80-year-old, but he or she remains 20."

Second Man Has New Heart Placed in Chest

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A retired U.S. Navy man was "awake and doing well" today after becoming the second patient within three weeks to have a partial artificial heart implanted in his chest.

Whitey L. McCain, 61, of Woodsville, Wash., received the device in a similar heart-pumping in an operation performed Tuesday by a cardiovascular team at Methodist Hospital.

A hospital statement said McCain was taken to surgery to have an aortic ball valve inserted in his heart. He was described as in "rather severe left ventricle heart failure" when he entered the operating room.

Afterward the hospital would say only that "the surgical operation was successful."

In first statement on McCain's condition was issued more than four hours after the operation was completed.

15 SECOND ATTEMPT

Dr. Michael E. Debakey, internationally known heart surgeon, performed a similar operation last April 21 on Marcel L. DeRodder, 65, a former Illinois coal miner. DeRodder died April 26 without regaining consciousness.

Doctors said death was caused by a ruptured left lung, one of several complications following surgery.

Bank Did Not Infringe MP's Privilege

OTTAWA (CP)—Speaker Lucien Lamoureux ruled in the Commons Tuesday that Walter Gordon's privileges as an MP were not infringed by a statement by the president of the Mercantile Bank of Canada.

The Speaker was making a decision on a question of privilege raised last Thursday by the former Liberal minister of finance, now a back-bench member.

Mr. Gordon's dispute with Mercantile President Robert P. MacFadden centred on the proposed acquisition of Mercantile three years ago by the First National City Bank of New York.

Mr. MacFadden questioned Mr. Gordon's account of a July 16, 1963, meeting on the matter as made in Mr. Gordon's new book, A Choice For Canada, and as made in the Commons on May 14, 1963.

Speaker Lamoureux said Mr. Gordon was speaking about a disagreement over what he had said as minister of finance some time ago. Someone outside the Commons had placed a different interpretation on Mr. Gordon's position.

It did not seem to the Speaker that this infringed on Mr. Gordon's rights and privileges as a member of the House.

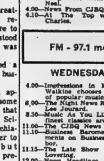
CBS Reports on LSD Drug Said Completely Absorbing

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—LSD is a dangerous drug when young people use it for kicks. But handled cautiously and under carefully controlled situations, it may be a godsend in the treatment of some mental and emotional disorders.

CBS Reports, in a completely absorbing program, presented Tuesday night two cases in which its use proved dramatically successful.

With the consent and help of two former patients, an alcoholic husband and father and a woman who suffered delusions of persecution, and the staff of a mental hospital, the program obtained film made before, during and after LSD was administered.



The program emphasized that careful preparation of patients before administering the drug was important.

Both patients at the Spring Grove State Hospital in Maryland—only two of 300 who have received the drug—were first given 15 hours of intense psychotherapy, plus long interviews and psychiatric tests. The psychotherapists gently helped them through the sessions, supplemented 14 hours under the influence of the drug.

Six months after the treatment, the alcoholic man reported he had lost all desire to drink, believed he understood his problem, had a job and was going to night school.

The woman has resumed a fine relationship with her husband and family.

But while the treatment apparently has worked with some cases, CBS Reports noted that it had no effect in others. Scientists, doctors and psychiatrists interviewed were eager to continue experimenting, but they were cautious about predicting miracles, and, of course, everyone said they were worried about the use of the highly dangerous drug by inexperienced persons.

AT THE PARK — Dean Martin as Matt Helm, spy-toy-photographer and Elke Sommer as Tina Welles, his private secretary, Beverly Adams as Lacey Rinvael, in "The Silencers", Columbia release in color also stars Stella Stevens, Daliah Lavi, Victor Buono and Cyd Charisse coming today at the Park Theatre for a limited engagement. Complete shows are at 7.00 and 9.10 p.m.

Dahls' House Is Fun-Filled Despite Tragedies of Family

By BOB THOMAS

GREAT MISSENDEN, England (AP)—The Roald Dahls live in a rambling, art-filled house on a country lane a few hundred yards from this typical English village.

It is a house that is filled with laughter despite the tragedies that have befallen the family: Loss of a daughter, brain damage to a son through a New York traffic mishap, near death of the mother from three massive strokes.

Mrs. Dahl is Patricia Neal, American-born actress and winner of the Academy Award for Hud in 1963. She was stricken in Hollywood 9 months ago just as she was starting a John Ford film, Seven Women.

Pat Neal greeted a visitor at the door and then ruttled around the kitchen to make some tea. Her mind clearly remains, and the only apparent vestige of her illness is a slight limp.

"I still don't have the full use of the right leg," she explained. "Also, the right hand hasn't returned to normal. Otherwise I seem to be all right.

CAN'T RECALL NAMES

"I can read quite well, although I have some trouble relishing what I read. The most bothersome thing is names. I just can't remember names!

"Names came easily to me fore; I could remember everyone's. Now I can remember my family's, but no one else's. Lately I've been trying to recite names of movie stars as I lie in bed. I've got Marlon Brando, John Wayne, Gary Cooper. . .

"But tell me: Who is the one who married late in life and had twin daughters?" She was told: James Stewart.

Members of her family dropped in as she talked: Dahl, the tall, tweedy author of short stories who is writing the script for the next James Bond movie; Teasa, 8, and rosy-looking Lucy Neal Dahl, nine months, who was born after Pat had suffered the strokes.

Dahl explained that his wife was having a brief respite from her therapy. But intensive work will begin with the arrival of a nurse from the University of California at Los Angeles medical center, where Pat was first treated.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — This is one of the productments (if you call it that) Robert Morse finds himself in in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's hilarious new comedy, "Quick, Before It Melts", co-starring George Maharis and introducing glamorous Anjanette Comer. Morse plays a shy magazine writer who teams up with an uninhibited photographer (Maharis) to cover a scientific mission in the Antarctic. Mike Comer, playing a half-Maori girl, helps him lose some of his shyness. A fun frolic in Panavision and color. Opens tonight at the Belleville Drive-In Theatre. 2nd fun-filled hit "Joy in the Morning" filmed in Metrocolor and stars Richard Chamberlain and Yvette Mimieux.

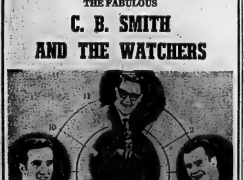
Hockey Is Not Part of Arts Or Humanities



OTTAWA (CP) — Hockey is not considered as part of the arts, humanities or social sciences by the Canada Council, the Commons public accounts committee was told Tuesday.

James Muir (PC—Lisgar) inquired about hockey's standing with the government agency established "to foster art in the country as the committee considered the 1965 spending program of the Canada Council.

Council Chairman Jean Marchand replied that hockey and other sports are "outside our jurisdiction." They don't rate as art forms.

Replying to Percy Noble (PC—Grey North), he said the Stratford Festival has the highest rating in the council.

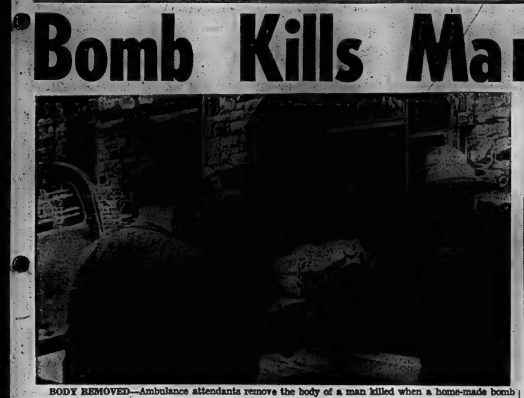
Bomb Kills Man In Parliament

Packed House Rocked By Blast In Washroom

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP)—A Toronto man who thought the world was against him died alone Wednesday when a crude bomb exploded in a washroom about 30 feet from a House of Commons packed with MPs and school-children.

Paul Joseph Chartier, 45, was torn apart near the offices of Prime Minister Pearson and External Affairs Minister Martin minutes after leaving his seat in the south end of the Commons gallery.



There was speculation that the explosion was premature and that the inject was to set off the device in the chamber.

Police found six sticks of dynamite and two home-made bombs in Chartier's Toronto rooming house. Solicitor-General Pennell said investigations so far had not indicated anyone else was involved in the incident.

The explosion sent smoke wafting through the Commons but created no panic.

The prime minister proposed adjournment of the Commons for an hour. The public was herded from the building and a search for possible other bombs began. Army bomb experts, the RCMP and city police were called in.

Commons Speaker Lucien Lamoureux later announced identification of the man, and with Mr. Pennell told a press con-

BODY REMOVED—Ambulance attendants remove the body of a man killed when a home-made bomb exploded in a third-floor washroom in Parliament's centre block Wednesday. The explosion came minutes after the House of Commons started its afternoon sitting, blowing out the window of the washroom, which adjoins the office of External Affairs Minister Paul Martin. Intended To Kill All He Could

TORONTO (CP) — Writings found in the room here indicate that Paul Joseph Chartier intended to kill as many members of Parliament as possible by dropping a bomb in the House of Commons Wednesday.

Police believe he succeeded with a fuse causing his dynamite bomb to explode prematurely in a House of Commons washroom, killing him before he could toss it among parliamentarians.

Papers found in his Major Street room show Chartier was determined to deliver a speech to the Commons. They also give notice of his determination to kill as many members as possible "for the rotten way you are running this country."

A copy of the speech he wanted to give to Parliament, scribbled while almost bedridden and filled with spelling mistakes and other inaccuracies, was found by police among his effects.

Reference what police in Ottawa and Toronto have turned up.

Toronto police found a notebook in Chartier's rooming house which underscored the sentence: "Might as well give you a blast to wake you up."

Mr. Pennell said the writings

"A Blast to Wake You Up," Said Note

TORONTO (CP)—Among the messy belongings in a downtown room rented by Paul Joseph Chartier police Wednesday night found a notebook with the sentence: "Might as well give you a blast to wake you up."

Chartier, 45, was identified earlier in Ottawa as the man killed when a bomb device exploded in a washroom in the Parliament Buildings.

Interviews with Chartier's neighbors and landlady showed him as a traveller, an amateur sociologist and "a nice quiet man."

Police said his jumbled personal belongings included writings in French about the state of the working class in Canada and the "rich and greedy" in Ottawa.

They also found six sticks of dynamite and two crude bombs.

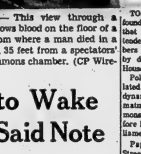
In Ottawa, Lucien Lamoureux, Speaker of the House of Commons, said Chartier was a former psychiatric patient in a Toronto hospital.

His landlady, Jean Lapaine, said he came to live at her rooming house about five weeks ago, apparently from Miami. He was using United States money.

Mrs. Lapaine said she cleaned his room once a week but never "found anything suspicious."

Douglas Lucas, chemist with the attorney - general's laboratory, said the bombs found in the room were the work of an amateur — "the type of thing that could go off if you didn't know how much time you had."

Mr. Lamoureux said the bomb that exploded in a third-floor washroom "was a homemade dynamite-type bomb with a fuse you would have to light yourself."



Al Wainwright, Alta., Chartier's mother Bertha refused to talk to spoters. She said the RCMP may issue a statement on her behalf.

Chartier had five sisters and three brothers. His father died about five years ago.

Earlier, in a telephone interview with The Globe and Mail, Mrs. Chartier said her son had been born in Bonnyville and had left the province seven years ago when his marriage failed.

The newspaper quotes her as saying: "He would work for

Trust Co. Officer Is Jailed

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The case of William Pike, convicted and sentenced Wednesday on charges of accepting bribes while mortgage manager with a Stratford, Ont., finance company, may not yet be closed.

Pike, 35, a former Oxford alderman, was sentenced to two months in jail and fined $1,000 on each of two charges of accepting bribes amounting to $10,000, while with British Mortgage and Trust Co. Ltd.

But both Crown and defence inferred at the conclusion of their presentations to the court that there may be more to the case.

W. R. Poole of London, Pike's counsel, told Magistrate Donald Menzies:

"There would be no receivers of stolen goods if there were no thieves, and this, I think applies in the case of William Pike. . . .

"For no one could be guilty of accepting a bribe, unless first of all, someone had offered a bribe. Who then is the real criminal, William Pike, who now stands before you, or he who is still loose in the community?"

CONSIDERS CHARGES

C. M. Powell of Toronto, special Crown prosecutor, said further charges are being considered.

Pike, who pleaded not guilty admitted accepting the $10,000 in $5,000 payments from London lawyer D. W. Reid, W. A. King and his son David King, officers of Wilder Holdings Ltd. of London.

The payments, made in February and September, 1962, were arranged by Mr. Reid, said Pike.

"Mr. Reid came to my office in British Mortgage and Trust in Stratford and said that if the application for the increased amount of $1,500,000 was approved, that $10,000 would be made available to me."

The $1,500,000 was mortgage money to develop Wilder Island shopping centre here.

McNamara Hints at Plea Canada Conscript Youth

MONTREAL (CP) — Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara of the United States said Wednesday the present U.S. system of selective service "draws only on a minority of eligible young men and that is an inequity."

Mr. McNamara, addressing a convention of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, said every young person in the United States should be asked to "give two years of service to his country—whether in one of the military services, in the Peace Corps or in some worthwhile developmental work at home or abroad."

He said the same thing should be encouraged in other countries and exchange programs could be worked out.

The suggestion is not altogether new, he said, and "has been criticized as inappropriate while we're engaged in a shooting war."

"But I believe it is more appropriate now than ever, for it would underscore that our whole purpose is in Viet Nam and indeed anywhere in the world where conflict, or injustice, or lack of decent opportunity still holds sway."

The U.S. defence secretary spent 30 minutes in private discussions with Paul Hellyer, Canada's defence minister, before addressing members of the society at a luncheon.

He told the members that a purely military posture is not the central element in U.S. security.

There were practical alternatives to the United States' current relationships with both the Soviet Union and Communist China.

"A vast ideological chasm separates them from us and to a degree separates them from one another. There is nothing to be gained from our seeking an ideological rapprochement.

"But breaching the isolation of great nations like China, even when the isolation is largely of its own making, reduces the danger of potentially catastrophic misunderstandings and increases the incentive on both sides to resolve disputes by reason rather than force."

As Mr. McNamara made his speech, some 100 plainclothes police were on duty at the convention hotel.

There were no demonstrations Wednesday against his visit. Some 200 persons opposed to U.S. policy in Viet Nam demonstrated Tuesday night.

A phone call in which a man said he had placed a bomb in the hotel Wednesday was discounted by police as that of a crank.

Earlier in the day, Eric Kierans, Quebec health minister, said U.S. foreign investment is coming under a cloud and becoming synonymous with political interference and economic imperialism.

Some months ago, Mr. Kierans, who was Quebec revenue minister until he moved to the health department last year, sparked a controversy when he made public a letter he had written to the U.S. secretary of commerce.

The letter criticized U.S. guidelines on the reinvestment of earnings, repatriation of funds and purchasing policies of Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. firms.

He told the U.S. editors:

"Canadian subsidiaries should have the right to buy in the best market, to re-invest funds and to declare such dividends as their directors deem to be in the best interests of the company."

If any nation's discretes or economic objectives are to be considered, he said, they should be the national interests of the country in which the subsidiaries are located. Otherwise the guidelines were an infringement of political sovereignty.

Will Examine Pearson Role In Gerda Case

OTTAWA (CP)—The Munsinger security inquiry took a sudden twist today when commission counsel J. L. O'Brien said he will examine the conduct of Prime Minister Pearson in the case.

Mr. O'Brien said in his final argument before Mr. Justice Wishart Spence that he will examine what six persons should have done for the protection of the security of Canada.

He listed the six in this order: Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, former Conservative justice minister Davie Fulton, former Conservative justice minister Donald Fleming, Mr. Pearson, former Liberal justice minister Guy Favreau, and present Justice Minister Lucien Cardin.

Mr. O'Brien said Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Fulton learned about the case in December, 1960, Mr. Fleming in January, 1963, Mr. Pearson and Mr. Favreau in December, 1964, and Mr. Cardin "some time in 1965."

Grills Tells of Blast

Lou Grills, Hastings South MP, was one of the earliest persons on the scene following the bombing in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon.

"I was walking down the corridor on my way to the House," he said, "when I heard this awful roar.

"I proceeded down to the House and the smell of dynamite was very evident. Then I went up to the third floor and saw someone had blown some sort of bomb or explosive material."

Mr. Grills said he did not actually see the inside of the washroom, but he was told it was completely demolished.

Incantations: "Whatever the man intended to do with the bomb, I don't know. I would be very suspicious though that he planned to throw it over the gallery into the House of Commons.

"It is alarming to see that he was just outside the south gallery of the House, or what's called the ladies' gallery. My suspicion would be, and this is only a guess, that he was preparing to throw the bomb device into the House of Commons. Thank God he didn't."

He said the explosion happened about 10 minutes after the House opened. "It had just opened briefly and almost at 3 the House was adjourned for a while soon after it happened.

"The explosion could be heard all over the place. It was just a heavy roar."

Mr. Grills said he was only surmising, "but if the bomb had been thrown in among the members, there could have been as many as 25 fatalities. It was that powerful."

Macdonald Flies Home As Zambia Is Pressing For Rhodesian Break

LONDON (AP) — Malcolm Macdonald, Britain's special envoy in East and Central Africa, flew to London today amid signs of a new crisis over Zambia.

His will confer with Prime Minister Wilson on reported increasing pressure being brought on Britain by President Kenneth Kaunda in the form of total Rhodesian trade break with Premier Ian Smith's white supremacist regime in Rhodesia.

This follows a demand by the Rhodesian railways for advance payment in convertible currency to cover all Zambian copper exports and general imports by mail.

Zambia already has cut imports from Rhodesia by one-third. President Kaunda now is reported under mounting pressure to retaliate against the rail move by severing all trade links with the neighboring territory.

Potentially, this could mean that the economy of Zambia would become dependent on air transport for movement of copper, coal and other vital supplies on a scale comparable to the Berlin airlift.

What is known to be against such drastic action by Zambia with attempts are being made by British and Rhodesian officials in London to seek whether a basis for negotiation exists in the tangled Anglo - Rhodesian situation.

Kaunda already has bitterly criticized these informal talks.

Another arrival due in London today is Canada Finance Minister Arthur Wilso, who has been in Washington for talks with

Still Lack Details on Medicare Program---Robarts

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Robarts told the legislature Wednesday little additional information was given on the federal government's position on medical care insurance in a statement in the House of Commons Tuesday by Allan MacEachen, federal minister of health.

Mr. Robarts said in reply to opposition questions that the provinces still lack details on the federal medical care program scheduled to begin July 1, 1967.

The premier said the provincial government will carefully examine Mr. MacEachen's statement as it relates to the Ontario medical insurance program, but in the meantime, the province will press on with implementation of its own scheme, which is to begin offering benefits July 1, he said.

—Liberal Leader Andrew Thompson said Premier Robarts may call a provincial election this fall if Ottawa does not give him extra taxing powers;

—Health Minister Matthew Dymond and Provincial Treasurer James Allan said in a joint statement the government plans to regard absenteeism among public servants as an illness, allowing employees to use sick leave credits during rehabilitation;

—George Ben (L — Toronto-Bracondale) said at a meeting of the legislature's committee on government commissions, that officers of the Workmen's Compensation Board have a greater interest in their own professional status than in the welfare of the people they serve;

—A bill to consolidate Metropolitan Toronto's 13 municipalities into five boroughs plus the city became law when members of the New Democratic Party teamed up with Progressive Conservative government members to defeat a Liberal resolution which would have had the effect of killing the bill.

Hope to Pass Medicare Bill 'Within Weeks'

OTTAWA (CP) — The government hopes to have its medical insurance legislation passed before the summer recess, Health Minister MacEachen told the Commons Wednesday.

Replying to a series of questions from Conservative and NDP members, Mr. MacEachen said he couldn't set a deadline on the introduction of the bill, but hoped it would be "within a matter of weeks."

West Should Support Israel Says Speaker

TRENTON — Western nations should support Israel because it is the one remaining stronghold of democracy in the Middle East, Dr. George Liban, executive director of the Zionist Organization of Canada-Central Division told members of the Trenton Rotary Club Monday night.

Dr. Liban, who has visited Israel six times, said that Soviet Russia was bulking up influence in Middle East countries, especially Egypt, by supplying military equipment and money to build up armed might.

Speaking on the progress of the Israeli nation, Dr. Liban touched on industrial progress and the development of the country. Water diversion from the Jordan River Jordan has made the Negev desert "blossom like the rose." Israel now has the sixth largest marine fleet in the world.

Dr. Liban was introduced to the meeting by Jack Ewing and thanked by Dr. David Zimmerman.

Conservation Authority Plans Full Scale Tour of Watershed

For the first time since 1963, it appears that members of the Moira River Conservation Authority will this year take a full scale tour of the Moira River watershed.

The decision to stage the tour was made last night at a meeting of the Authority's education extension advisory committee at Cannifton.

All municipal representatives to the Authority, advisory committee members, reeves and mayors of the participating municipalities and their wives will be invited. The date set for the tour is Wednesday, June 15th.

Also at last night's meeting, committee members heard details of the conservation school program to be inaugurated this year by the Bellevilla Public School Board. School for approximately 800 city public school students will be held at the Colonel Vanderwater Conservation Area.

SPONSOR CLUB

The committee voted to sponsor the Hastings county 4-H Forestry Club which starting in 1967, will commence a three-year program in forestry and conservation. Up to $75 will be provided in prize money for club members in 1967.

The Authority will also contribute $50 this year for trophies and prize money for the county 4-H soil judging competition.

Other action taken at the meeting included authorization for the Authority secretary-treasurer to investigate the possibility of a new 16mm film on the Moira watershed being taken this year.

GUEST SPEAKER at the Christian Missionary Alliance Church in Belleville May 24 will be Rev. Leo C. Madrigal, president of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Churches of the Philippines.

Grade 6 Pupils to Spend Day Studying Nature at Park

Approximately 600 grade six pupils in the Belleville public schools system will set "on the spot" nature study next month as they take part in a conservation school program at the Colonel Roscoe Vanderwater Area at Thomasburg.

Commencing June 2nd, two classes per day from Belleville schools will be transported to the Vanderwater area by bus with a full day's program of various projects being scheduled.

On the scene the pupils will be divided into small groups and will be given various assignments relating to conservation and will complete the program by writing a report on their day's outing.

The conservation school is patterned after similar program in the metro Toronto area, but as a starter will be confined to one-day studies instead of a full week, as is the case in some centres.

The studies will be considered part of the school curriculum and the public school board will pay the costs involved in transporting the pupils to and from Thomasburg.

EXTENDS PROGRAM

Actually the conservation school is an extension of a program commenced several years ago by Principal H. R. Frink of Queen Victoria School.

For the past seven years grade six pupils at Queen Victoria school have been taken on one - day outings around the Moira watershed, with the school home and school association looking after transportation.

This year the program is being extended to all city public schools with the school board assuming the cost.

To inject a little competitive spirit into the program, some of the home and school clubs will this year provide crests, or other awards, for the classes doing the best job.

At the conclusion of the program teachers will be asked to make report and offer suggestions as to how the program might be improved another year.

Details of the conservation school have been worked out by Mr. Frink and a special committee and everything is "go" for the June 2nd commencement of the program."

Principal Frink has high hopes for the success of the conservation school, noting that many city children have but a very limited knowledge of the country or of the importance of the various aspects of conservation.

It is hoped that a forester from the Lands and Forests office at Tweed and a soils expert from Brighton will be available to assist in the conservation school program.

East Hastings Conservatives Regional Govt. Unnecessary In Hastings, Meeting Told

The East Hastings Progressive Conservative Association was told in Madoc last night that Hastings does not need regional government.

Speaking to a near-capacity audience in the Madoc Armories, Ken E. Reuter, M.P.P., Waterloo South, said, "We need regional government in some parts of the Province and we do not need it in others."

He said Toronto, with one-quarter of Ontario's population concentrated in a relatively small area, is "the greatest example of regional government on this continent."

"On the other hand, Hastings County covers an area of 1,751 square miles - - more than seven times as big as Metro Toronto - and yet the Hastings population of about 88,000 represents only five per cent of Metro's population."

He said if there is a good relationship in county government between the county and the cities or towns, there would be no problems.

Though regional government is thought of as a new concept, Mr. Reuter said it is not new at all. "It is as old as our very first Municipal Act, because in 1849 Baldwin recognized there were some things that could not be done best on a strictly local basis, He saw the need for larger units to handle those matters on a wider area of concern and so established the county for those functions."

The main business of the meeting was concern with the organization of the new Hastings Riding executive and association brought about by redistribution.

Ken Smith, president of Elzivir Township PC Association, moved that the "present executive be retained and be empowered to add to their executive the present presidents of that part of West Hastings to be added at which new riding will be known as Hastings after redistribution, this executive to meet in two weeks time and bring in a prospective list of officers for the new riding of Hastings."

After some discussion it was passed.

Others to speak briefly at the meeting were Lee Grills, Hastings South M.P., Rod Webb, Hastings - Frontenac M.P., Clarke Rollins, Hastings East M.P.P., Sandy Sandercock, Hastings West M.P.P. and Ray Gohsolus, secretary Hastings South PC Association.

Charles Keeble, president, Hastings East PC Association, chaired the meeting.

Ageless Circus Thrills Young and Old

Cotton candy and balloons were the order of the day yesterday in Belleville. The circus was in town!

All of the glitter and glamor that is part and parcel of the circus atmosphere could be felt in the local arena as the Clyde Brothers Shrine Circus played two performances to sizeable crowds.

Children of all ages thrilled at the skill of acrobats; laughed at the antics of clowns, and were just a little awed by the elephants.

A varied show was presented which lasted a good two hours, and which nobody left until the last fanfare had faded away into the rafters of the arena.

The small fry, of course, took great interest in the animal acts, and squeals of delight arose when Lena Rabideck put her trained dogs, including a pink and green poodle, through their paces. Camel and pelican were similarly excited by the Isabella Ponies, the Zoppe monkey act, and of course, the four baby elephants, whose very presence is all that is usually required to entertain children.

And there were the clowns. The Five Sorelleties were actually proficient tumblers as well as being possessors of the knack of making people laugh, and laugh they did.

There were also many acts that appealed to the more "sophisticated" and less easily impressionable members of the audience, that is, the grown-ups. The Royal Dorchester Family from England displayed prowess in their bareback riding act, and the Flying Troupe were equally as polished in a high-flying teeter-board routine that left spectators screaming through the air, landing in pre-arranged locations. Even the Zoppe finger balancing act was also impressive and had people wondering whether or not the shapely gymnast really had an artificial finger under that glove — at least until she removed the glove at the completion of the stunt.

HARD SCHEDULE

Behind the scenes, the circus way of life is not so glamorous. The members of the Clyde Brothers troupe are currently on an exhaustive run of one-day stopovers in Ontario centres like Peterborough, Belleville, Cornwall, and much of their traveling is done at night.

When the house-trailers that they call home arrived into Belleville in the early hours of Wednesday morning, the fatigue of hard work and pressing schedules showed on the faces of the circus performers. A few hours rest, however, and the audience sees alert and smiling performers running through well-practised routines, with no indication of what has preceded, and what will follow.

The circus begins its 37-week season in Florida, and most of its members have travelled close to 30,000 miles before the tour is complete.

After last night's final Belleville performance, the ringing was hastily struck, the animals carefully settled in for the night's journey, and the circus was gone, almost as if it had never been.

LOOK WHAT I SEE!—The faces of Sue Anne Burgess, Corinne Willecocks, and Lyall Willecocks speak for themselves at yesterday's Clyde Brothers' Circus performance. Their friend is one of the Five Sorelleties, a group of Italian clowns with the circus.

Tyendinaga Mohawks Will Mark Anniversary Of 1784 Quinte Landing

By MRS. SHIRLEY HILL

A historic event in Canadian history will be enacted on Sunday, May 22, when the Mohawks of the Bay of Quinte commemorate the 183nd anniversary of the landing of their ancestors, on the shores of the Bay of Quinte, one mile west of the town of Deseronto. Each year the ceremonies are held on the Sunday nearest May 22nd. This is one of the very few years when the service will be held on a date coinciding with the original landing.

The Mohawks are proud of their heritage and their loyalty to the British Crown. They were one of the originators of the Six Nations formed in the early 1700's by Degonwadon, to bring about peace. They are the keepers of the Eastern Door of the great Six Nations Confederacy.

In the years before the Revolutionary War in the United States, the Mohawk Indians were settled in the fertile valley along the Mohawk River in New York State.

QUEEN GAVE COMMUNION SET

In 1711, five Mohawk Chiefs made an eloquent plea for missionaries for their people, while visiting Queen Anne their leader in England. The Queen was greatly impressed and the following year the Queen sent out the first missionary to the Mohawks. Queen Anne also sent the Mohawks a Bible, a red cloth for the Church they had constructed in the Mohawk Village, and a hand-wrought solid silver communion set consisting of two patens, two chalices, two flagons, and two of the larger plates which were used to hold the bread before the offertory. HAM the set went with the branch of the tribe led by Joseph Brant that went to settle on the banks of the Grand River, which is now the Six Nations Reserve, and the other half of the set remained with the Mohawks of Tyendinaga. Each piece of the silver bears the Coat of Arms with the inscription: "The Gift of Her Majesty Queen Anne, by the Grace of God, of Great Britain, France and Ireland, of Her Pisnations in North America, Queen to Her Chapel of the Mohawks 1712."

At the beginning of the Revolutionary War, the Mohawks out of loyalty to the British Crown were forced to flee from their homes. They travelled down the Richelieu River and up the St. Lawrence. Not daring to take their cherished silver with them on their hazardous journey to Canada, they buried it where it would remain for seven long years.

In 1781 the Mohawks arrived at Lachine. By 1783 they had reached Kingston. During the winter a party of warriors headed by Captain John Deseron (oyon returned to their former home in the Mohawk Valley and in the dead of night disinterred the precious silver. Legend has it that the discovery of the silver was caused by the spade used to dig up the prized Communion set. After a safe return trip to Canada, the Mohawks began the trip to their new home. Although many elected to follow Joseph Brant on to the Grand River, approximately 15 canoes landed one mile west of Deseronto on May 22, 1784. Cutting a pole, they used it as a flagstaff on which was flown the Union Jack. One of the canoes was pulled up on shore, overturned, and covering it with bark they made their way to the site of their present village. Here they placed on it their treasured silver and conducted a service of thanksgiving for their new home deeded to the Mohawks by the British Government as a reward for their services in battle. The Reverend John Stuart, D.D., accompanied the Mohawks.

Canon J. V. Temple will conduct the service which commences at 9:30 a.m. this Sunday at the cairn erected by the Historical Sites and Monuments Board to commemorate the landing.

The service at Christ Church will commence at 11:00 a.m with Canon J. V. Temple conducting the Communion and Bishop E. C. Evans delivering the sermon.

Christ Church was erected in 1786 on the site of the original log structure which was destroyed by fire. Perched high on a hill, it is a sacred treasure of irreplaceable momentos of the proud Mohawk band and its loyalty to Britain.

A memorial tablet first Rector, the Rt. Rev. Dr. Saltern Given, is over the altar. The Triptych, presented by King George III, contains the Creed, the Ten Commandments and the Lord's Prayer, all written in the Mohawk language. The altar cross is inlaid mother-of-pearl on olive wood and was brought from the Mount of Olives in Jerusalem by the daughter of Dr. Oronhyatekha and his wife Deyoreneah. The altar desk is also made of olive wood from Jerusalem and bears this information written in the Hebrew language, being the gift of the Rt. Rev. Dr. Seager, Bishop of Huron and formerly of the diocese of Ontario. Over the entrance to the Church is a stone carved head of a wolf, the totem of this branch of the tribe.

The beautiful communion service will be displayed by Chief John A. Brant after the service to anyone wishing to examine it and read the inscription.

Breathalizer Tests Convince Magistrate

Paul Maksymick, 31, R. R. 2, Belleville, was fined $75 and costs by Magistrate T. Y. Wills today on a charge of impaired driving.

Police testified they were called to the RCAF Station, Trenton, April 16 to investigate a three-car accident. An investigating officer said when Maksymick was asked to get out of his car and go to the cruiser, he "lurched and wandered in his walking."

"I had him walk up the road and back to ascertain his condition. He couldn't walk too straight."

The constable said Maksymick was red-eyed, red-faced, his speech was slurred and he didn't make any sense. "When I asked him about the accident he didn't seem to know what had happened."

The O.P.P. constable said he found an empty beer bottle on the floor of the car and a wet patch on the front passenger's seat. "The car itself smelled of alcohol."

Maksymick was taken to Bellville at 4:05 a.m. He had one breathalizer test then and another at 4:20 a.m. Police testified the resulting was 1.7 parts of alcohol at the earlier test and 1.6 at the other test.

Defense counsel Robert Temple asked for dismissal on the grounds that a constable who had testified that "aside from the smell of alcohol, the man's symptoms were consistent with those of a person who had been in an accident and had not been drinking." He said there was as much evidence to show the man was not guilty as there was to show he was guilty.

Magistrate Wills said that he agreed with him except for the evidence of the breathalizer test. He found him guilty on the evidence.

U.K. Seamen's Strike

Just how much Britons, as an island race, depend on imports is borne out by the strike called by the National Union of Seamen.

If the strike continues, British ships will become strikebound as they reach home ports at the rate of 300 a week. Precarious enough as it is, the British economy simply cannot afford this kind of disruption. Already the pound sterling has sagged, food prices are rising and shortages are inevitable.

While there appears to be sympathy for the seamen's demands for a shorter working week at the same wages, the strike cannot but deal a severe blow at the entire population of the country. The seamen are seeking a reduction from a 56-hour week to a 40-hour week with no reduction in their basic wage of $42 a week. They say they have to work up to 80 hours a week to earn the present pay of $56 a week.

Scant as their weekly wages are, the seamen's economic situation is going to be a great deal worse by the time the strike ends. As we have noted already, the country at large cannot afford this kind of irresponsibility.

The strike is all the more reprehensible in view of the government's offer — as outlined by Prime Minister Harold Wilson — of an intermediate pay increase, to be followed by an intensive and independent inquiry into the seamen's working conditions.

One particularly dismal aspect of the strike is the effect it will have on Britain's dollar-earning ocean liners. "I fear the strike are going out throughout the country's merchant shipping — and some of them may never come on again," said Commodore Geoffrey Marr, captain of the 85,000-ton liner Queen Elizabeth, whose crew joined the walkout. He said the only time the two Queen vessels carry enough passengers to tide them over "the bad times" is during the summer months.

The situation doubtless would become worse before it is better. Prime Minister Wilson says the government may use navy personnel to unload ships, but the Seamen's Union is threatening to ask dockers to blacklist any vessel unloaded this way.

It is sad to witness Britain's economy deliberately sabotaged. To quote an old saying, it is like the fellow who cuts off his nose to spite his face.

Tops in Wine

Comparisons, it is said with truth, are odious. Good wine, then, like genuine personality, should be judged on its own merit.

Thus we have Mrs. Kathleen Bourne, a British wine expert, saying that Canadian wines should be tasted as a group and compared with one another but not with wines from Europe. She bases her conclusions on a visit to the vineyards of the Niagara peninsula.

The quality of the soil in which the vines are cultivated naturally has a lot to do with the end product, as Mrs. Bourne points out in Wine Magazine, which she edits.

"The particular French hybrids . . . find themselves specially at home in that part of Canada. The same soil cannot be equally benevolent to every other vine. So it is not to be wondered at that the light dry sherry type they make, good as it is, could not be taken for a fine sherry made in Jerez from vines in that white dry soil."

The study of wine has an eloquence of language all its own, as the following conclusions of Mrs. Bourne indicate — white sauternes: fruity, rather rich; claret and rose; both pleasant, clean on the palate but without much bouquet; crackling rose: a curiosity for the English to whom this type of petillant, lightly sparkling rose in unknown; champagne: lively, refreshing with a character all its own . . . somewhat lacking in bouquet and in length.

All in all, a frank and not unsatisfying appraisal. The Canadian wine industry can hold its head high, and it is good to notice it is blowing its own trumpet these days with some attractively-presented advertisements.

Tulip Festival

The opening day of Ottawa's tulip festival has come and gone, but the capital's celebrated floral display will not reach full bloom until this weekend — a week behind schedule.

Indeed, Ottawans had to swallow their pride last weekend as opening speeches were made from a platform surrounded by tulips flown in from British Columbia.

Still, it was a brave show, and there was compensation aplenty under last Saturday's warm and sunny skies. There were Mounties on horseback, bands, majorettes and the bright splash of spring fashions.

However, without meaning to throw a damper on the anticipation of better weather to come, it is a chilling thought that June 21 — the longest day of the year — is only a month away

Tories Need Quarterback To Guide Question Period

By RICHARD JACKSON,
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Ask almost any Conservative MP what the Tory team in the Commons needs most, and chances are he'll tell you it is a quarterback.

Not a boss, nor a leader, mind you—for, of course, they've got one—and John Diefenbaker even in Opposition is still by far the most dominant personality in Parliament.

But a quarterback is the requirement.

And an urgent one.

A captain, perhaps a deputy — give him any name you like — but make it some one MP specifically assigned to call the tactical signals in the House to get Dief and his 96 Front and Backbenchers rolling like a team.

The leader, as boss, still must be in charge of the basic Parliamentary strategy.

But the detail of the day-to-day operation on the floor of Parliament — especially the tactics during the all-important Daily Question Period — requires the quick-thinking quarterbacking of an experienced Commons tactician.

For it nearly always has been down the long Parliamentary years, that any hard-fighting Opposition gets in its best blocks for the above - and - sometimes - below belting of the Question Period.

TERRIBLE - TEMPERED

As leader and still very-much-the-big-boss, Dief can command attention in all parts of the Commons, as no other Parliamentarian. Including Prime Minister Pearson, so far has been able to do.

With the cold of his own scalding brand of scorn or ridicule he can drive almost any Cabinet Minister into stammering and cold flashes of rage or bewilderment.

A thunderhead of a man, he can intimidate and brow-beat as opponent until he has his victim — as he did with Labor Minister Cardin a couple of times — cringing behind his desk, pointing over to the Chair as it were the parapet of a trench.

Which, in a political sense it becomes, when Diefy can personal heavy artillery thunders.

He can lead the charge, largely by making it an often unseemly damaging personal assault. But it remains, devastating as it frequently is, a one-man commando raid.

And he can't direct any sustained attack along the Conservative Commons front.

Co-ordination there just isn't. Even co-operation is largely missing.

But there is definitely disorganization.

And it results in confusion and even conflict as one MP competes against another for the Commons floor, the Speaker's nod and the Cabinet's attention.

WHO END

It happens this way.

Suppose the Maritime Opposition MPs get an attack - by-question rolling against Labor Minister MacEachen and Minister Jean-Luc Pepin for their mulled inaction on the Atlantic Provinces Conservatives see it — to regional unemployment.

The two Cabinet Ministers are having an embarrassingly difficult time of it trying to find convincing answers and explanations.

And in breaks a Prairie Tory with a question for Finance Minister Sharp about wheat or boxcars.

MacEachen and Pépin, having scarcely concealed signs of relief, are off the hook.

Then the Tories from heavily-industrialized Eastern provinces are worrying Industries Minister Drury about so many automotive parts plants going business because of the Canada-United States motor agreement.

Drury bums and hems, Ils and buts, fumbles and stumbles — and is saved by the timely rise of the handful of Quebec Conservatives breaking in to ask Agriculture Minister Greene what he's finally going to do something about feed grain.

It happened this way every day as it has been ever since the Conservatives returned to the Opposition three years ago.

It could be stopped, and the attack on the Cabinet co-ordinated and sustained. If there was a Commons Opposition quarterback to flash the signals to the Tory team during the so-important Question Period.

When they were in Opposition, the Liberals did just that — for Paul Martin at quarter, and look what happened.

The decision of the Central Elgin district high school board to introduce a course in local history at the St. Thomas secondary schools should have been made years ago . . . but better late than never.

Industry Lack Boosts Mill Rate

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

This year when our tax bills are issued there will be considerable grumbling over the increased amount payable because of the increase in the mill rate as approved by Coun. T. Doyle, one alderman voted against the mill rate by-law, but there was considerable opposition to certain items contained in the budget and one alderman told the complete text of his remarks published.

It seems to me that there was considerable over-emphasis on the result and very little attention on the causes of our higher mill rate — a major one being the lack of adequate industrial assessment to balance the residential assessment.

We all know that the cost of living keeps rising and the cost of running the city goes with the trend. While economies of expenditure are very important as is the source of revenue which in the case of city business comes from taxes, Ontario subsidies and miscellaneous services provided.

For several years now we have had an industrial commission whose job is to bring in new industry so that the tax load on individuals may be lessened and progress will be part of Belleville's economy.

A member of the Industrial Commission was reported to have said the work of the Commission is a "cloak and dagger" operation. Nonsense! We taxpayers have a right to have regular information about what has been accomplished (?) by the Commission and the nature of its expenditures. Its expenditures last year are reported to be $19,000 and this year it is reported that they want $25,000. If this money is being used to bring about the industrial expansion we need, the money is being well employed. However there has been little to show for the money so far other than the spiffing news of the new ladies industrial recruitment company being established here although I haven't heard this has yet been put into operation.

Further, — although several aldermen strongly opposed certain items in the budget I didn't see in the paper that there was any amending motion made to accept the budget minus the unapproved items.

Wants Permanent Bobby Hull Day

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I think that the Intelligencer should be commended for its front page coverage in full on pictures of the banquet for Bobby Hull. CJBQ should also be commended for broadcasting the highlights of the banquet last Saturday evening. This program gave those of us who could not attend the banquet an opportunity to realize that Bobby is a warm-hearted likeable man as well as an excellent hockey player.

I am glad that the Quinte district is finally coming out of hibernation and is paying tribute to Bobby. He certainly deserves it. Several people have mentioned the night of the banquet as being Bobby Hull Night. I am wondering if the Quinte area has any plans about declaring May 12 as permanently being "Bobby Hull Day." I think that his own home area should have a special day for him each year.

Pity the Canadian Canadian who responded one year ago to the clarion call and asked what he could do for his country. What to Tell Boy, 6, Before Hospital Stay

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My son is to enter a hospital shortly after his sixth birthday for examination of his kidneys, and I understand the procedure is quite uncomfortable.

He is an especially loving and sensitive child. How should I prepare him for his hospital stay? Must I lie, or be perfectly honest when he asks if it will hurt? So far we have tried to teach him that the best things are not always the most pleasant.

Should one parent or the other be with him constantly, or would we be more in the way than helpful?

The hospital is 25 miles from our home. Grandma said she'd help us if needed, but we don't want our boy to be so babied that he will think this is something to be terribly upset about. — R. G.

I wish more people would ask themselves such good questions before a child goes to the hospital for the first time.

One thing is certain: Don't lie to a child! If he asks whether it will hurt, the sure answer is that things will be a little uncomfortable, but won't be what you can really call "hurting." It might help if you can think of something that worried him to the most, like, "Can you remember how worried you were when you had your first haircut? And then you found it wasn't anything to be afraid of."

At six, he can understand if you tell him and tell this is quite true) that thousands of children, many much younger, have had similar tests. If they can do it, so can he.

Most six-year-olds will respond to an appeal to pride: That you want him to act like a big boy, because you know he can do it.

One thing I certainly would do: Take along some toy or picture of what he is fond of or proud. It may be a stuffed animal, a picture book, a toy pistol or a cowboy hat. It doesn't matter much what, so long as he likes it very much. It's something for him to hang onto when he feels scared or lonely —not a lot of toys, but one favorite thing.

I will leave it to the doctors to decide whether it will be best for you to stay with him all the time, or whether they'd rather you did not. Usually the answer will be that it is for you to get the little fellow settled in the hospital, and used to it — and then absent yourself. Your presence most likely would increase him, by implying that it's so important you have to be with him during the actual examination.

Do things matter-of-factly. If you try too hard to reassure him, he may get scared. If you take the experience calmly, he will.

Remember also that wards in most hospitals are geared to make a child's stay pleasant. If he can be out of bed, there often is a playroom or game room. Nurses and aides try to keep a little patient occupied. And quite often he finds a new friend as a room mate.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a man, 35, with a borderline hernia. Is it all right for me to bowl? — L. S.

I see no objection. However, if that, or any type of exercise, causes the hernia to enlarge temporarily, or causes any discomfort in the groin, be wary.

May 19, 1966 . . .

The Franco-Spanish army defeated Spain 333 years ago today—in 1643—at the battle of Rocroi and ended Spanish claims to land in France and Italy. However it did not end the Spanish (the Thirty Years War) which also concerned the Franco-Spanish border in the Netherlands. During this time France recognized and helped the Catalan revolt, in which the people of Spain's northeastern province fought for 12 years trying to win independence. The Catalan state was later set up again during the Spanish Civil War of 1936-39.

Artistry of Handcraft

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

"Arts and crafts are, probably, increasing in importance to many people. It is sometimes forgotten that such manual production is in fact the continuation of an ancient tradition.

In what we now call pioneer times, almost all products were more or less hand crafted. Some of them were quite elaborate, especially such things as quilts, some kinds of woodwork and the making of clothing.

In those days handicrafts were based largely on need, with some important exceptions. The pioneer women always strove to make their quilts as attractive as they could, and there was always some purely decorative effort applied to furniture. But early handicrafts were practical in purpose and construction.

Now, the majority of the hand worker is entirely different. Necessity no longer impels him to produce for his own or his immediate neighbor's needs. The impulse to make something is as strong as ever, but the aim is to make something attractive, something distinctive, and only incidentally useful, if it must be practical use at all.

This change may have protected the needs of handicraft workers in general. The display of the Seaway Valley Handicrafts Association, here, showed that self expression is the primary motive of the present-day maker of handicraft articles. And, possibly a second motive is that people are trying to use their increased leisure time to advantage. The results are attractive and interesting, but motives and needs have changed.

Strictly Personal

Taboos, Fears, Prejudices

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Thoughts at Large:

Many fewer fields are chained by the taboos and restrictions imposed from the outside than are paralyzed by the fears and prejudices imposed by oneself; external freedom is meaningless so long as we remain the prisoners of our own psychic infancy.

What we rarely learn until too late is the paradox expressed in the Talmud, when Alexander asked the Elders what a man should do to live. They replied: Let him kill himself (losing good.) He asked what a man should do to kill himself. They replied: Let him live (in self-indulgence).

The physical laws of perspective are strangely reversed in the psychological world — to the eyes, what is close seems large and what is far seems small. We are aware of the illusion of sight: few are aware of the illusion of desire.

When good luck strikes us, it is helpful to remember the maxim that "fortune is fickle," in order to avoid becoming smug or complacent; but, likewise, when bad luck strikes us, it is equally helpful to keep the same maxim in mind, in order to avoid self-pity or despair.

"There is a wide difference," observed Cato 2,000 years ago "between true courage and mere contempt of life" — a distinction that is not recognized by the desperado, who mistakes for courage his violent actions that merely express his contempt for all life, including his own.

When we deny any part of our nature too ruthlessly, that part does not disappear or remain dormant, but comes out later makes its appearance, in some other form, to take its revenge upon the whole self.

Just as most of our new expressways are obsolete for the heavy flow of traffic by the time they are completed, so are most of our new college buildings already obsolete in a flow of students by the time they are occupied — which is why we need desperately to learn that growth is not necessarily the same as progress.

What many business firms still have to learn is that the "customer" is not the person who pays, but the one who determines the "buying decision," and, increasingly, in our matriarchal and juvenile society, while it remains the man who pays, it is the wife and children who make the buying decisions, even in cars and homes.

One way to find out whether you are truly an educated person is to see if you can distinguish the differences among the following: education, schooling, learning, and training, which are all quite different things.

Toronto Container Firm Will Move to Brighton

BRIGHTON — A new industry, Canada Case Company Ltd., of Toronto, has announced its decision to locate in Brighton.

Construction of a new plant on the west side of Prince Edward St., (Carrying Place Rd.,) is expected to begin within the next two weeks, president Robert Hanks said in making the announcement.

The firm's operations are being moved to Brighton from Toronto, where the company has been manufacturing and marketing hardwood, metal-bound, containers for the dairy industry, nationally, for several years.

Coincident with the move to Brighton, Mr. Hanks said, the company will go into the manufacture of a wire-type container as well. It has been previously assembling the wire-type but obtaining the fabricating material from a supplier.

The company will employ 15 or 20 people initially. Most of these employed will be women who will be trained to operate machines and used for assembly operations. Only key key personnel are being moved into Brighton from Toronto, where the company is phasing out its operations.

Mr. Hanks said he expects to recruit his labor force locally. The plant, located on what has been farm land, is in an area south of both the CPR and CNR railway tracks, designated for industrial use. It will provide 20,000 square feet of floor space.

"Ours is a basic industry, well suited to this locality," Mr. Hanks said. "Due to increasing costs, it is essential to reduce overhead to stay in business." He describes the decision to locate in Brighton as a move "to escape the spiraling costs of operation in the Metropolitan Toronto area."

'The Pill' Off Gets Blamed for Dearth of Births But Pillpower if Willed Can Work in Reverse

The Pill — It's wonderful.

It taketh away — and it giveth.

Courtesy of the Pill, a local young woman will soon be having a baby.

This will not surprise anyone conversant with the Pill's history.

It was originally designed to end sterility, not for use as a contraceptive.

The Belleville case, though, is a different reaction. The young woman was always physically able to have a baby; now she is also financially able, thanks to the wages earned by making the Pill at a local pharmaceutical plant.

She gets a kick out of this. And as a kicker, she reports, "We packed baby carrots all day and the Pill the next. It seemed odd; they were such contradictory products."

The young woman worked at Mead Johnson of Canada's Belleville plant, which began production of the oral contraceptive tablet, Oracon, last May. Oracon is just one of the many nutritional and pharmaceutical products manufactured by the plant which is probably best known for its baby food, Pablum.

About 25 people at Mead Johnson work on the manufacture of the Pill for two-week periods staggered throughout the year. The raw materials, two synthetic female hormones, arrive at the plant in powdered form from Canadian and British drug houses. Because each tablet contains only a minute amount of the active ingredient, the powder must be mixed with chemically inert ingredients to provide bulk. After this blending, a wetting agent, and coloring matter if required, is added. This mixture, called a granulation, is dried, then fed into machines which press the tablets. Final step is packaging.

CONTINUAL TESTS

At every step in production, from receipt of raw materials to final grading for shipment to wholesalers, samples of the Pill are sent to the control laboratory for testing. Every half hour during production, workers test the tablets for hardness, friability, weight and thickness. In addition to all this, plant officials must keep a constant check on the amount of the raw materials and the number of tablets in the bulkbins to prevent any chance of a bonking or underdosing. Even the labels are counted.

Because the Pill contains powerful hormones which can, if absorbed through the lungs or a minor skin abrasion, cause feminine curves in men and disruptions in the menstrual cycles of women, stringent safety precautions are in effect for plant workers. Workers on the production line wear rubber gloves and face masks and have medical check-up every six months. Mead Johnson is proud that its workers have a symptom-free record. An independent group of federal safety inspectors credits the firm with one of the best worker-protection systems in the industry.

'SEQUENTIAL' TYPE

Oracon, the Mead Johnson product, is a "sequential" type of oral contraceptive, claimed to cause fewer side effects and to approximate closely the natural, cyclic menstrual cycle. In the sequential method, two hormones (a synthetic estrogen) are taken daily for 16 days and then a second hormone (synthetic progesterone) is added to the pill tablet for the last five days.

It all began as a treatment for sterility.

Doctors have long known that the ebb and flow of the female reproductive cycle is governed by two hormones secreted in the ovaries and called estrogen and progesterone. They found that the first industrially produced estrogen, named stilbestrol, would prevent release of the egg from the ovary (ovulation) but during the third month, whether stilbestrol was taken or not, ovulation occurred.

Dr. John Rock, a Catholic gynecologist at Harvard University, was experimenting with stilbestrol and found that after two months of suppression of ovulation, a "rebound effect" occurred in some formerly sterile women. They conceived. To perfect his method, he tried out newly-discovered synthetic estrogen compounds. They proved very revealing findings. When no egg is released to be fertilized, conception cannot occur.

Thus, the Pill was born.

WAY THEY WORK

Oral contraceptives work this way:

During pregnancy, the concentration of the natural hormones, estrogen and progesterone, in the blood increases. This halt secretion of another hormone that triggers ovulation. This is nature's way of guarding against overlapping pregnancies. When a non-pregnant woman increases the hormones level in her body by taking the Pill containing the synthetic hormones, her body is fooled into thinking conception has occurred, and the master gland, the pituitary, fails to signal for the release of the egg. Synthetic estrogen by itself will block ovulation; the progesterone is needed to build up the lining of the womb and ensure normal menstruation.

Because her body has been fooled into believing it is pregnant, the woman starting to take the Pill often experiences symptoms of pregnancy. The most prominent is nausea, which usually disappears after a short time. About 15 to 25 percent of women using the Pill gain from five to 15 pounds, which can't be blamed solely on use of the Pill discontinued.

Rumors of suicidal depression among a few pill-takers are discounted by a Belleville doctor with a large practice. He says, "I have run into a number of depressions, but never a serious one. If a woman tells me she feels terrible since starting to take the Pill, is fighting with her husband and sitting around the house crying all day, I tell her to give it up and go back to mechanical contraception."

PILLS ARE SAFE

Are birth control pills safe? Doctors contend they are. Evidence is piling up to indicate the Pill may lessen the danger of cancer of the female reproductive organs.

A Belleville doctor, who agreed to be interviewed about the Pill, provided he remain anonymous, refused to discuss harmful effects. Dr. X. deplores a recent program on the CBC's "The Hour Has Seven Days" and popular articles in women's magazines. He says their sensationalism misleads the public.

"They over-exaggerate," he adds. "All specific drugs (those aimed at the treatment of one particular condition) carry with them, because of their very power, the potential for harm. The commonest drug, aspirin, is specific for rheumatic diseases, and occasional harmful effects have been reported from its use. But these reports have never reached the press and every house in town has a bottle of aspirin in its medicine cabinet. Antibiotics have not been used long enough for full evaluation of their long-term effects, yet no one suggests penicillin is dangerous."

OUT OF STYLE?

Dr. X. says he knows of no Belleville doctor who refuses to prescribe the Pill because of its possible danger. "You're writing a dead horse in interviewing me about the Pill," he said. "Last year it was the fad. This year the hottest thing is the intra-uterine loop. Everyone is asking for it."

The oral contraceptive tablet is used for other purposes besides birth control. It is frequently prescribed to regulate the hormone imbalance which causes many disturbances in the menstrual cycle.

Dr. X. refuses to give the Pill to adolescents for therapeutic purposes, preferring to use safer, conventional hormone compounds instead.

"When you give the Pill to a teenager she knows by the directions how to take it a month — what the drug is. Then you open the door to goodness knows what."

Dr. X. doesn't believe use of the Pill by teenagers is as widespread as rumor would have it, but he says he has twice been asked for the Pill by mothers for their teen-age daughters.

Another paradoxical thing about the Pill is its use by women past the age of menopause. Hormones in the Pill often relieve the symptoms caused by the body's failure to produce its own. Dr. X. says that when he gives the Pill to relieve menopausal symptoms, he tells his patient to take it until she is 51.

AT 50, WHO CARES?

As he explains: "If synthetic hormones increase a menopausal woman's well-being, there is no reason to cut off the supply at 48 simply because some book says that's the proper age. If a woman uses the Pill until she's 65, it will take her another 15 years after it is discontinued to reach the physical stage she would have reached at 50 without hormones. And at 50, who cares."

The Pill is still used for the purpose for which Dr. Rock first intended it — as a treatment for sterility. The so-called "rebound effect" produced by giving an infertile woman the Pill for three or four months, for a time, once or twice a year, often "has amazing results", Dr. X. says.

Contrary to widespread belief, the Pill is not forbidden to those of the Catholic faith. They can take it to regulate their menstrual cycles for as long as their doctor thinks necessary. This says one Catholic woman, leaves quite a loophole.

The Pill is also permitted to Catholic women in the Diocese of Toronto for a period of 12 months after childbirth.

ARCHBISHOP'S REASON

Archbishop Philip Pocock, who granted this privilege, reasoned it out this way: While a woman is nursing a baby she does not ovulate. But most modern women do not nurse. Therefore, they ovulate — an unnatural condition. To restore the natural condition, the Pill, which prevents ovulation, may be taken for 12 months.

Although Archbishop Pocock's regulation applies only to his own diocese, many Catholic doctors in the district have followed his lead and prescribe the Pill to their obstetrical patients for 12 months after childbirth.

"I think the Pope will eventually approve oral contraception," a leading Catholic layman said. The Intelligencer. "Now, with the controversy surrounding the Pill and its effects, the Pope is wisely saying nothing. The Church moves slowly and deliberately toward any change, but I'm confident that in the end the excitement dies down the Pill will be approved."

Some Catholic women are not waiting for a Papal pronouncement. "I know every Catholic family on my street," one woman says, "and I'm sure every one of them takes the Pill."

Statistical statistics seem to back her up. Another local doctor says, almost 31 percent of his Catholic obstetrical women under 45 use oral contraceptives compared to 39 percent of the non-Catholics.

BIRTH RATE DROPS

The Pill has also affected local statistics. It was credited by a local doctor for the 15 percent decline in the 1966 birthrate at Belleville General Hospital.

While birth control enthusiasts see the Pill as a boon which will change the world for the better by freeing overpopulation's demoralists take a dimmer view. By erasing the double standard and removing fear of pregnancy as the motive for chastity among the unmarried, they say, it has led to the new "sexplosion."

A young married woman with the Pill is generally scornful of "the theory, with the Pill and penicillin for V.D. we women are as free as men have always been to be as promiscuous as we please. And they see it as a threat to their ego."

Most amazing Pill paradox of all is the oral contraceptive's legal position. According to Section 150 (2) (C) of the Criminal Code of Canada, everyone commits an offence who knowingly . . . offers to sell, advertises, publishes . . . or has in his possession for the purpose of . . . drug or article intended . . . as a method preventing conception."

This statute reduces doctors to criminals, puts pharmacists in the same class as drug pushers and places a branch of the federal government [The Food and Drug Directorate] in the position of supervising the manufacture of a product whose distribution is forbidden.

Most ironic of all, Section 150 (3) (C) declares all articles on the subject, including this one, illegal.

Reports Given at AN and AF Aux. Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the ANAF Veterans Ladies' Auxiliary No. 49 was held Monday evening in the auditorium of the Sir John of Eldorado Unit (201). President Comrade E. Sills presided and all officers were present.

Sick chairman Comrade M. Green reported, there had not been too many in her list last month, and, that everyone who is ill are all recuperating slowly.

Membership chairman, Comrade E. Buckley, presented one new application, which was accepted for initiation.

Clookroom chairman A. Storms, Sr., had a good report to help swell the treasury.

Entertainment chairman, Comrade G. Fitzgerald, reported a busy month, and thanked all those who had worked on the banquets. She stated that there would be help needed for the Mother's Day dance, that, since the 48th Highlanders will be making their annual sports day visit on June 11th, considerable help will be needed that day as well as dart and crib-age players for the competition.

Financial chairman Comrade T. Fenton completed the special, A. Browning draw, with the winners being Phyllis Kaye, Jean Mawdsley and J. Welch, also the regular monthly draw was won by J. Mawdsley and F. Fisher. Since these prizes are donated by the members themselves, it was noted that the returns were good.

Comrade president Sills will be the delegate, to the Provincial Command meeting, to be held in Hamilton, on May 30th. There will also be six or seven other members going, to represent Auxiliary 49.

The Ladies Auxiliary, expect to have their new clubrooms, which they are planning on renting from the Unit, on the third floor, ready for occupancy by September. They are looking forward to this, and, plan to work in unison on preparation, and, money making projects. This is the first time they have had their own quarters, and, it is hoped it will enable them to be more active in the future. The Unit has always provided space for meetings and sports which at times may have interrupted the Unit activities, so, in the future, the Unit, and, the Auxiliary will both have private quarters housed under the same roof, and, can carry on without interuption to either party. It is a great step forward for the Ladies Auxiliary.

Meeting was adjourned until June the 8th, and lunch was served, and, a social hour was enjoyed.

Hastings County CNIB Advisory Board Holds Annual Meeting

By RETA LAWRENCE

The Hastings County Advisory Board of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind held its annual meeting in St. Carthagh's School Hall in Tweed on Wednesday evening. Dinner was served to a record attendance by the Catholic Women's League of St. Carthagh's School. The invocation was by Reverend Father Baker.

Mrs. Maude Rollins chaired the meeting and after mentioning her former associations with Tweed and the people of Tweed she introduced the head table and also asked for a roll - call of all those present.

Mr. Clayton Hall, Warden of Hastings County, and Mr. Guy Hughes, Reeve of the Village of Tweed, brought greetings to the Board of the C.N.I.B. -

ANNUAL REPORTS

The annual reports of the county representatives were presented, showing a satisfactory year.

Two young gentlemen, Master Kenneth Bronson and Master Donald Campbell delighted the audience with vocal numbers. These boys won recognition in the Stirling Music Festival and their well trained voices drew much applause. They were accompanied at the piano by Mr. James McCormack.

Miss Myrtle Peck presented the report of the welfare convener.

Mr. John A. Macdonald, a graduate of the University of British Columbia, with vocational training in radio, was introduced by Mrs. Rollins. Mr. Macdonald, who will be Director of public relations, Ontario Division of C.N.I.B. after September 1st is a trustee under Mr. Preston Timmins, learning the duties of a Field Secretary.

NEW OFFICERS

Mr. E. S. Fairman gave the report of the nominating committee as follows: immediate past chairman, Mrs. H. Rollins, Belleville; chairman, Mr. M. J. Stotesbury, Belleville; 1st vice-chairman, Mr. H. H. Clark, Trenton; 2nd vice-chairman, Mr. T. R. Colden, Belleville (new); 3rd vice-chairman, Mr. H. F. Wills, Belleville; secretary, Miss Lois Rollins, Belleville; treasurer, Mr. T. J. Fluxey, Belleville; campaign treasurer, Mr. K. J. McDonald, Belleville; welfare convener, Miss M. W. Peck, Belleville; and public relations, Mrs. J. W. Lawrence, Belleville.

Mr. Preston Timmins, Field Secretary, will be retiring in November and will be succeeded by Mr. Edward Wheeler from the London district.-

Mr. Timmins, in presenting his annual report, thanked all who have co-operated with him during the past 21 years and they wished the new personal every success.

GIVES LAST REPORT

"In preparing this report which will be my last annual report," he said, "I am tempted to look backward over more than 21 years during which I have had the privilege of being on Field Secretary in this six county district. It has been a wonderful and challenging experience and I shall have many happy memories of the work, the blind people, the Board members and the many other voluntary workers."

"True amelioration of the condition of the blind can be best brought about by an adjustment and rehabilitation program and I am happy to point out that great advances have been made by our Agency through the years. We now have very effective vocational, adjustment and employment training programs at our National Training Centre at Bakerwood in Toronto. Since the initiation of these programs many blind people have been trained as field secretaries, home teachers, employment and placement officers, public relations, directors, typists, braille and switchboard operators.

"Many newly-blind and poorly adjusted blind people have been assisted in making a more meaningful adjustment to their handicapped condition."

"There is growing concern about how highied people are going to use their great increased leisure in the future because of the effects of automation. Blind people have been facing this problem of too much leisure time for many years. CNIB has a flexible program for this situation. Blind Home teachers give instruction in Braille, Braille reading and writing, typing and many other things. As Braille reading pressure grows difficulties, especially for the elderly, the talking book program has been developed. Now we have magnetic tapes; up to 21 hours reading on 18 second tracks recorded on one-half inch tape."

RESIDENTIAL CARE

"Other services are residential care in ten residences in Ontario; the children's department with guidance for parents of blind children; educational guidance for students; recreational programs including social clubs; these are just a few of the services of the CNIB. There is also the prevention of blindness program with its educational and more tangible aspects in providing eye examinations and glasses where required. The CNIB is glad to co-operate with Public Health Nurses, Lions Clubs and other organizations or groups interested in preventing unnecessary loss of sight."

PRESENTED WITH WALLET

Miss Myrtle Peck and Mr. T. Golden on behalf of the Hastings County Advisory Board and the Kinette Clubs of Belleville and Tweed, presented Mr. Timmins with a well-filled wallet in appreciation of his long and untiring service.

Mr. M. J. Stotesbury, incoming chairman, took the chair and solicited the help of all present to make the next year as satisfying and successful as the year just completed under Mrs. Rollins' leadership.

Each year in Canada more than 2,000 people go blind. "What would you do if you lost your sight tomorrow?" A film was shown entitled, "It's Good to be Back," which gives one answer to this disturbing question.

The film pointed to the importance of rehabilitation training. This is a great step in helping the blind person to know that he or she is not alone in a dark world with individual problems.

MRS. WILLIAM L. HARTMAN
(nee Margaret P. Lennox)

Hartman – Lennox

A double-ring wedding ceremony was performed in St. Thomas Episcopal Church, St. Petersburg, Florida, on Saturday, May 14, 1966, when Margaret Perle Lennox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen A. Lennox (formerly of Belleville) now of St. Petersburg, became the bride of William Lawrence Hartman of Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Rev. George LaBruce officiated at the ceremony, and Mr. Kenneth J. Winter was organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of imported tissue silk and Chantilly lace featuring a pointed bateau bodice with scalloped neckline and long tapered sleeves. The bouffant skirt of the tissue silk was edged with scallops of the lace, forming a redingote effect in front that revealed a lace underskirt. A double lace edged watteau train flowed to a bell shaped train. Three tiers of shoulder length imported English silk illusion cascaded from a dainty double lace crown trimmed with pearls and highlighted with Aurora Borealis crystal. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses centred with a white orchid.

The maid of honor Miss Sandra Rsha of Harvey, Illinois and the bridesmaids Miss Mary LeGore and Miss Trudi Price both of St. Petersburg, Florida, wore floor-length gowns of radiant pink lace and petal pink crepe featuring Empire waistlines and scoop necklines. A detachable panel complimented the sheath skirt at the back. All carried cascade bouquets of petal pink carnations.

At the reception at the Sunset Country Club, the bride's mother received the guests wearing a limelight gown of delicate re-embroidered lace over silk organza in a tunic effect, flowered hat in shades of yellow and a corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses.

Mr. Larry Mountain of Canaveral, Florida, step-brother of the bridegroom, was best man, while Mr. Ralph Donovan of St. Petersburg and Mr. Willam m Kerr of Clearwater, Florida were the ushers.

For the wedding trip to Daytona Beach, Florida, the bride chose a powder blue linen sheath with white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

A wedding rehearsal dinner was held at the home of the bride's parents and a miscellaneous shower was given by the bride's attendants at the home of Miss Mary LeGore. A trousseau tea was also held at the bride's home previous to the marriage.

A REMINDER

Wedding forms for write-ups are available at The Intelligencer and should be completed and returned BEFORE the ceremony as a report can be published immediately after the wedding.

Pictures may be submitted by your photographer up to three days after the wedding. We cannot publish wedding write-ups submitted later than six days after the date of the ceremony.

Manor W.A. Hears Report Of Committees

The Women's Auxiliary of the Hastings Manor met on Monday in the library of the Manor with an excellent attendance of members and some visitors present.

The business portion of the meeting was convened by the president, Mrs. Hudson Ketcheson. Committee reports were given which included an interesting report from the Ontario Association of Homes for the Aged. This report gave an insight of what other auxiliaries are doing which proved most informative to the members. Mrs. A. Kingston reported there had been four tiny bowls with a flower sent to residents in the Belleville General Hospital during the past month.

Arrangements were made to conduct a bingo for the residents on Thursday of this week.

The birthday cards will be sent to the residents for the month of June through the kindness of the UCW of Centenary United Church and the month of July by the UCW of Bridge Street United Church.

At the conclusion of the business the ladies met with the residents in the dining-room for the customary birthday party. Best wishes were extended to the guests of honor and all joined in a short sing-song with Mrs. A. Daniels at the piano.

The birthday cake was cut by the eldest guest present, Mr. Julius Bedore who was celebrating his 98th birthday. Pictures were taken of Mr. Bedore and his daughter, Mrs. Margaret Boyd.

Mrs. Jennie Knister and Mrs. N. Wessels poured tea while everyone enjoyed a tasty lunch and social time together.

Colorful Blooms Form Setting for VON Tea

Though the weather was threatening rain, this did not detract in any way from the success of the annual Victoria Order of Nurses' spring tea which was held in the hall of Tabernacle United Church on Wednesday afternoon.

The small tables with white linen cloths and small bouquets of spring flowers invited the guests to enjoy tea and mouth watering sandwiches, relishes, cookies and small cakes as well as a visit with other members at the table.

Two serving tables with white linen and lovely centres of yellow and white 'mums and blue candles, were placed before the stage on which more yellow, white and blue 'mums formed a lovely backdrop. Mrs. M. Y. McFarlane, Mrs. J. E. Nelles, Mrs. C. B. Morgan and Mrs. M. Pitchell, Miss L. Burnside, Mrs. T. K. Franklin, Mrs. John Ellis and Mrs. M. K. Barrett poured tea during the afternoon.

SALES TABLES

In an adjoining room were a white elephant table, a candy table and a home-cooking table, all well stocked and well patronized. The homecooking table was convened by Mrs. B. E. Brain from St. Columbs Presbyterian Church, assisted by ladies from her own church as well as from Sons of Jacob Synagogue, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Eastminster United Church and the Roman Catholic Churches of the city.

Mrs. C. W. Miller from St. Margaret's Anglican Church convened the candy table, assisted by ladies from St. Margaret's Holloway Street United Church and the Civic Action Committee of the Catholic Women's League.

Mrs. J. Treadell from Christ Church, was assisted by ladies from Christ Church, the Salvation Army, Bridge Street United Church and Bellamy's Baptist Church, in conducting the white elephant table.

Donations to all these tables were provided by the ladies from all the churches.

OVERALL CONVENERS

Overall convenors of this delightful tea were Mrs. T. E. Smith and Miss Olive Root. Treasurer and ticket convener for the afternoon was Mrs. J. E. Boyd. In charge of publicity were Mrs. Ralph Savage and Mrs. I. Morphy.

Receiving the guests at the door were Mrs. E. L. Smith (president), Miss Dorothy Conuff (nurse-in-charge), Miss Grace Connor, Miss Olive Fryce and Mrs. Ray Grant. The tearoom hostess was Mrs. A. E. Miles. Student nurses from Belleville General Hospital, members and friends of the Victorian Order of Nurses and ladies from various churches served while members of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church and other friends replenished the plates. In charge of the kitchen was Mrs. G. S. Stanton of Tabernacle United Church. Mrs. Stanton was assisted by ladies from St. Thomas' Anglican Church.

Successful Living

Does Your Mother Try Smother Love?

DEAR DORIS: My mother is always saying how lonely she is, and that we never come to visit her. She keeps writing long letters to my sister begging her to come home (meaning to move back to the home town, with her husband and family). Then when I talked to her about it she said she couldn't see why my sister was so upset; that she was only acting as all mothers do.

I asked my Mom if she would not get involved in community work because she would be a great help but Mom says her days of working are over and all she wants to do is rest and have her children around her. Mom says her greatest trouble is she loves her children too much and is forever telling me to enjoy myself now because when my three youngsters grow up there will be nothing left for me to live for.

DORIS CLARK

Mom is only 55, but she won't go out in the evening or ride a bus. Asks one of our husbands to drive her. Phones me and talks so long that I could scream.—DESPERATE DOTTIE.

DEAR DOTTIE: Mom is wrong, thank Heaven! The model mothers are the ones who push their fledglings out of the nest and cheer from afar when they are airborne.

Her type of devotion is mother love. Now there's a little additional self-coddling, disguised as virtue. Have you talked with her doctor? Perhaps his verdict that her continuing mental health depends on new interests might have some influence.

O.E.S. Chapter 55 Holds Wishing Well Tea

A corner of the entrance of the Masonic Temple, Foster Avenue, was transformed into a country setting to welcome guests at the Belleville Chapter No. 55, Order of the Eastern Star's Wishing Well Tea Wednesday afternoon.

A wishing well, against a background representing an Ivy covered brick wall, had a "walk to the well" lined with tulips and a stuffed toy dog guarding the entrance. Miniature trees in green, mauve and pink; decorated with pink and yellow gauze butterflies added to the country effect.

Convening the tea was Mrs. R. Chaplin assisted by Mrs. R. Adams, who was in charge of decorating, and Mrs. I. Clare. Guests were received by Mrs. H. Tomlinson, Worthy Matron, Belleville Chapter, assisted by Mrs. W. Sunbury, Mrs. W. M. Barlow, Mrs. R. Berry, Mrs. B. Cress and Mrs. R. Johnston, all Past Matrons. Ticket canvassers were Mrs. E. Liddle, P. M. and Mrs. I. Clare.

ATTRACTIVE ENTRANCE

At the entrance to the tea room, guests passed through the gate in a white picket fence which has been entwined with sprays of blossoms. An arrangement of gold and rosy - coral flowers hung from the ceiling and sprays of pink and white flowers and green foliage decorated the walls. The white dress-covered tea table was centred with a bouquet of white lupins, pink snapdragons and yellow daffodils. Green candles in crystal holders flanked the centrepiece.

O.E.S. CHAPTER 55

Pouring tea during the afternoon were Florence Birch, Worthy Matron, Prince Edward Chapter; Marion Pollock, Worthy Matron, Haydock; Eleanor Baxter, Worthy Matron, Port Hope; Winnifred Sexsmith, Worthy Matron, Bancroft; Phyllis McFaul, Worthy Matron, Amalisburg; Georgina Rendell, Worthy Matron, Minerva Chapter, Belleville; Dorothy McGlashan, P.D.D.G.M., Belleville; Doris McFaul, P.D.D.G.M., Wellington; Mabel McGarry, Worthy Matron, Cobourg; Reta Parks, Worthy Matron, Wellington; Phyllis Berry, P.M., Belleville Chapter and Dorothy Ellis, P.M., Belleville Chapter.

TEA ROOM CONVENERS

The long home baking table was centred with an arrangement of spring flowers and a cascade. In charge were Miss Jean Stephenson and Mrs. H. Stevens. Winner of a draw for a ham was Mrs. Ida McFaul, Wellington.

Mrs. M. Reynolds and Mrs. H. Skinner convened the candy table and winner of a draw for a box of home-made candy sold at this table was Kay Ewing, Foxboro.

Selling draws on baskets of groceries were Mrs. R. Keenan and Mrs. A. Combe. Winners were Mrs. Linda Annis, Belleville; Mrs. Linda Keenan, Belleville; Mrs. Doris McFaul, D.D.G.M., Wellington; Mrs. L. Horwood, Point Anne; Miss Barbara Locke, Belleville and Mrs. Ross Shoebridge, Belleville.

A smart summer shoe can be comfortable

as long as it's a Foamtread by Kaufman

Foamtreads are styled for fashion and built for comfort. The soft foam cushioning and trim wedge heel make them as easy on the foot as they are on the eye. And you'll appreciate the non-marking leather outsole. Foamtreads do cost a little more than other summer shoes, but they last longer, have the exclusive heel counter that won't crush, wash as easily as a linen dish towel on Monday morning, and come in a happy combination of fashion and comfort. Show us another summer shoe that does all that, and we'll show you next year's Foamtread.

FESTIVE OCCASION CAKE

CORRECTION

Refrigerator Doughnuts which appeared in Mary Moody's column of May 19th should have called for 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour (not 2 cups).

Dinner Menus by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

Pot Roast of Beef; Rich Brown Gravy; Mashed Potatoes; Cauliflower; Relishes: Radishes, Bite Olives, Green Onions; Raisin Bread Pudding; 10% Pouring Cream; Coffee.

SUNDAY

Roast Stuffed Duckling; Orange Sauce; Glazed Sweet Potatoes; Cauliflower with Mock Hollandaise; Grapefruit and Avocado Salad on Lettuce with Russian Dressing; Dee's Festive Cake (see Thurs.); Tea.

This cake is just what its title suggests — a cake for a specially festive occasion. After we had made it, we were so pleased with the results that we immediately proceeded to call together a dessert party. I think it is a very high both in cake texture and frosting. It is quite a bit of fussing but the frosting may be made up ahead and stored covered in the refrigerator. In my opinion this is a big advantage, especially if a big "do" is coming up. Then, even the cake can be made one day ahead and easily frosted on the big day. (But do not try it without an electric beater — there is just too much beating.)

DEE'S FESTIVE CAKE (a 6-decker torte):

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 4 teaspoons single-acting baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 2/3 cup butter, 1½ cups sugar, 1¼ cups water, ½ teaspoon rose water (or almond extract), 1 teaspoon vanilla, 6 egg whites, ¾ cup sugar.

Sift together the sifted flour, baking powder and salt onto a sheet of wax or any clean paper. In electric beater bowl cream butter, then add 1½ cups sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Combine water and flavorings. Remove beaters, add dry ingredients alternately with liquid to creamed mixture, beginning and ending with flour. Stir until blended after each addition. In medium bowl beat egg whites until foamy, gradually adding the ¾ cup sugar while you beat until soft peaks form. Fold into batter. Line 2 bottom and grease two 9" layer cake pans. Divide batter evenly into prepared pans. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 30 to 35 minutes or until cakes test done. Let cool in pans 5 minutes then turn out on cake racks, peel off wax paper and cool. Split each layer in two, giving you 4 layers.

Between layers and on top and sides spread —

MOCHA BUTTER CREAM FROSTING:

6 egg yolks (leftover from making cake), ¾ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon cornstarch, ¾ cup 18% cream, 1½ cups (¾ pound) firm butter, 2 teaspoons instant coffee powder, 2 teaspoons cocoa, 2 teaspoons boiling water.

In top of double boiler beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Mix together the sugar and cornstarch and add to yolks, beating. Gradually stir in cream and place over simmering (not boiling) water and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Cover and cook 15 minutes longer, stirring frequently. Remove from heat. Cool then chill thoroughly.

In large beater bowl beat butter until fluffy, in a cup add the boiling water to the instant coffee powder and cocoa and when blended cool then add to creamed butter. Now gradually add the chilled egg mixture to the creamed butter beating after each addition until blended. Fill and frost cake. If desired decorate cake with "silvers" or chocolate shot or shaved toasted almonds or toasted coconut.

A baker's masterpiece.

Hospital Purchasing Explained to Auxiliary

"The Purchasing Process" was the topic discussed by the guest speaker, Mr. C. E. Plummer, assistant administrator of the Belleville General Hospital at the May meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary.

Mr. Plummer, a native of Auckland, New Zealand, served in clerical capacities in the medical records, treasury and supply departments of the Auckland hospital following his graduation in that city.

During the war he served as a Fleet Air Arm pilot. Following demobilization he returned to hospital work before coming to Canada in 1957. Before coming to his present position Mr. Plummer served for five years as assistant administrator in Chatham General Hospital.

Mr. Plummer said that 70 per cent of the operating costs of Belleville General Hospital are for wages. The remaining 30 per cent of the cost is for supplies.

Money is budgeted by the local organization and is paid by the Ontario Hospital Commission twice monthly.

The hospital is requested to supply initial costs for new equipment which is paid back by the O.H.S. on a yearly basis. Thus money is needed for the purchasing of new equipment.

Careful study is made of all items necessary for the operation of the hospital.

Where possible food is purchased from local producers. Canned goods and boxed materials are bought in larger quantities from local wholesalers. Large quantities of canned goods are purchased from local canning companies. Tenders are received for daily needs such as milk, bread, butter and eggs. Other foods, whose prices fluctuate, are contracted for shorter periods of time.

Mr. Plummer said that many firms have controlled prices and that there is often a choice of the dealer but not of the price. He stated that there are excessive promotional costs, such as brochures, magazines and other literature which increase the prices to the consumers.

Mr. Plummer had several types of disposable needles, syringes, dressings, tubes and surgical instruments on display. These are all separately packaged in sanitary paper or plastic containers and are used only once. These products are continually being improved and many are still just at the experimental stage. Many of these items are being used in new hospitals but are expensive items for hospitals which already have considerable equipment on hand.

Mr. Plummer summed up his remarks by stating that the purchasing department operates much the same way as the individual does in everyday buying.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. W. G. Harvey and thanked by Mrs. M. Jones.

Mrs. W. Dallas, president, conducted a short business meeting.

The Opportunity Shop reported an income of $833.17 for April and a request was made for articles for sale now, as the shop would be closed during July and August.

New mothers are requested to make use of the Cradle Picture Service which is supplied by the hospital. The auxiliary receives 25 per cent of the profit.

Mrs. D. Leslie reported that 18 pairs of booties had been presented to new mothers in the hospital on Mother's Day.

Mrs. J. Casey reported that sewing and knitted articles had been received from the United Church Women of Hay Bay for use in the Samaritan cupboard.

Mrs. B. E. Burley, the bulletin editor, stated that 363 bulletins had been sent out in May. Of these 216 went to paid members and 152 to volunteer workers.

Ann Landers

Miss Dull Should Not Try to Shine in Crowd

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 14-year-old girl who is a miserable blob of nothing. Nobody remembers my name. I know some very nice boys who have been introduced to me three or four times and they still don't know me from a load of corn.

I am very quiet because I can't think of anything interesting to say. How I envy the girls who have the knack of coming up with just the right remark. I feel nervous when I try to smile or laugh, as if I am forcing myself to be part of the group, when I really feel way out of everything.

My trouble isn't looks. I am not too fat or ANN LANDERS too thin, or too short or too tall. My skin and hair and eyes are nice and a teacher once told me I have a lovely smile. I am neat and having good manners and I don't talk about people behind their backs.

Please tell me how to keep from going through life being a nothing that nobody remembers. — MISS DULL.

DEAR MISS: Quiet people, such as you should not try to be what they are not. Even though you may envy the girl who comes on like Gangbusters, this is not your style and it never will be.

Don't attempt to shine in a crowd. Turn your casual acquaintance into friends — one at a time. A girl who shows an interest in others — asks questions, encourages them to talk and listens in genuinely interested fashion — will not be forgotten.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For two years I have been going to a dental school to get my teeth fixed. The cost for all the work was only $200 since the school charges only for the materials.

The same student has worked on my teeth from the very first. He has been just wonderful to me. He graduates in June and I will be finished at the same time. I would like to give him a cheque for $50 to show my appreciation. My husband thought this was a very good idea.

My in-laws, however, are against it. They feel this would be much too personal a gesture and the young man's wife might not like it. They suggested that I make a donation to the dental school instead.

Do you think they are right? I don't want to embarrass anybody. Thanks for your advice. I'm going to take it. — MRS. I.M. THANKFUL.

DEAR MRS.: Since you feel the young man was especially kind to you I feel that a gift to him is indeed appropriate. Give him a $50 gift certificate and let him treat himself (or his wife) to something special.

* * *

Confidential to RETIRED MAN'S WIFE: Freedom is not a gift. You have to fight for it. There is no reason to sit in the house and vegetate just because your husband has no outside interests and refuses to cultivate any. Make your afternoon plans as before and go about your business. When he sees that you are not going to stay at home day and night with your eyeballs hooked into the TV, he may decide to get off his plazza.

* * *

Confidential to JUST SHOCKED: There are incompetents in every field and medicine is no exception. You would have to get another physician to testify against the surgeon and this will not be so easy. See a lawyer and take his advice.

Mother Is Guilty of Murder, 4 Children Also Convicted

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—An Indianapolis mother of seven was convicted of first-degree murder today and four teen-agers, two of them her children, were found guilty of lesser charges in the torture slaying of a neighbor boy, Richard D. Hobbs and Coy Hubbard, both 13, were convicted of manslaughter.

The jury recommended life imprisonment for Gertrude Wright Baniszewski, 37. It convicted her daughter, Paula, 18, of second-degree murder. Mrs. Baniszewski's son, John, 13, and two girls, Sylvia Marie Likens, 15, and Jenny Lou Ritter, 15, were found guilty of lesser charges in the torture slaying of Sylvia Likens.

Second-degree murder is punishable by life imprisonment. Manslaughter carries a two-to-21-year sentence. Judge Saul I. Rabb set sentencing for Tuesday.

All five defendants were charged with first-degree murder. The state asked the death penalty for all, charging they subjected Miss Likens, 15, to nearly two weeks of torture before her death last Oct. 26.

Testimony indicated the girl's body bore 150 wounds and that she had been burned, beaten, scalded, branded and starved. Sylvia was boarded in the Baniszewski home while her parents managed a food concession at carnivals.

Mrs. Baniszewski burst into tears when Judge Rabb read the verdict at the end of the 39-day trial.

William C. Erbecker, counsel for Mrs. Baniszewski, said he would file an appeal within a few days.

More than 70 witnesses testified that Sylvia was tortured, thrown down the basement stairs, and forced to sleep in the basement.

Key witnesses were three Baniszewski children, Shirley, 16; Marie, 11, and Stephanie, 10. Stephanie also was charged with first-degree murder but was granted a separate trial.

Mrs. Baniszewski denied all accusations.

Dr. Arthur P. Kabat, deputy coroner, said Sylvia died of acute and a ruptured blood vessel in the brain lining. Dr. Charles E. Ellis, pathologist who performed the autopsy, said he believed death was from a combination of the head injury, shock from the other injuries and malnutrition.

Black, White Always Popular Combination

By MARGARET NESS

TORONTO (CP) — Every spring one or two colors emerge as favorites with the fashion designers. For years, navy topped the list. Its hold was broken several years ago by a run on beige and then on white. Early this spring, green was a top contender.

Designers may push certain colors but eventually it's the store buyers who decide what colors women will wear. Most store buyers are cautious and know they can always sell black and navy. So they usually stock these colors in a ratio of three or four to one of any other shade. There is also one combination that is always popular —black and white.

The spring is no exception. Even the designers have given black and white an extra flash. Or push. It's to be found in dress prints, in bowsand and turban hats, in jewelry, in gloves and in shoes.

Prints are always handsome in black and white. At the New York spring showings, Teal Traina highlighted the combination in several of his "chiaroscuro" group. Harvey Berin added black - and - white striped or checked wools.

The fabric house of J. P. Stevens featured Hockanum wool co - ordinates by the young Gayle Kirkpatrick, designing for Ascher, to include black in a T-shirt, wraparound skirt and blazer, white with black poker chip dots in a blouse and wrap skirt. Mixed together they added up to several black-and-white costumes.

BLACK AND WHITE FOPS

For spring-into-summer, Ben Reig included cotton piques in a contrast of white dress with black coat and in white-and-black abstract printed dresses. And Maurice Rentner teamed a sleeveless black - and - white checked suit with a long-sleeved black wool blouse.

At the Canadian spring collection, sponsored by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, the opening group of clothes was titled Sharps and Flats. Included was the award - winning best suit in the show—a black-and-white collarless three - piecer with pitted against black, in patterns of zebra stripes, checkerboards, precise geometric shapings, the institute says.

SAME MOOD IN GLOVES

The Geoffrey Farnol group highlights the black-and-white look with a houndstooth wool back, heel and tie and ebony kid toe, with the same checks in a spectator pump with black toe and in checked ankle boot on a black barrel heel. Herbert Levine introduces a black-and-white spectator-mule, tailored and backless, with pinched-back cuban heel. Another new look is in white binding and heel with a black shoe.

Gloves, too, take to the same theme. Hansen goes sporty in imitation suede shorties with contrast stripe in vinyl. In streetwear, there are hand-stitched shorties of white with black thumb and in dressier wear of black with white lace cuffs.

In handbags, the emphasis is on contrast of bag with dress. Little black dresses look smart with a white bag, as Coblentz's new tucked and tiered smooth calf, with one strap.

Jewelry also is in a black-and-white mood. Napier introduces a necklace of alternating black-and-white cubed shaped beads, with matching eardrops on a thin chain. Judith McCann Designs terms: jet beads with pearls in single to three-strands and in a 28-inch necklace with jet teardrops and pearls which can also circle the neck into a two-strand look. All can be worn at once, too, for a fill-in effect with a decollete dress.

TABERNACLE MOTHER-DAUGHTER BANQUET

On Monday evening the Tabernacle United Church C.G.I.T. and Explorers held their annual mother and daughter banquet.

The banquet began with a welcome from the chairman, Sherrie Alyea who is the president of the C.G.I.T. The toast to the Queen was given by Bonnie McConkie.

Rev. M. G. McFarlane led in Grace before the potluck supper.

The toast to the church was given by Connie Alyea followed by a response from Rev. M. G. McFarlane. The toast to the mothers was given by Elizabeth Slavin followed by a response by Mrs. W. Slavin. The toast to the C.G.I.T. and Explorers was given by Mrs. J. Aitchison with a response from Carol Aitchison.

The group was led in a sing-song by Counsellor Aitchison. Gay McFarlane sang two solos, accompanied by her mother at the piano.

Melanie Butler introduced the guest speakers, Rev. Dr. E. F. and Mrs. Swann who gave an interesting talk on their 25 year stay in Trinidad. They also showed colored slides of Trinidad and the people there.

Gay McFarlane thanked the speakers and presented them with a small token of appreciation.

There were eight graduates from Explorers, four of whom qualified for the "E" pin of distinction for outstanding faithfulness. Sherrie Alyea welcomed the girls into the C.G.I.T. There was only one graduate from C.G.I.T., Mercelle Butler, who was presented with the C.G.I.T. pin and crest.

ALWAYS POPULAR — Black and white, always a popular combination with store buyers, gets an extra push from fashion designers this spring. For the black-and-white look this model sports a three-piece suit by Maurice Rentner, featuring a sleeveless jacket, coin-dotted ascot and ribbed wool blouse. The footwear is houndstooth check in wool and kid by Lynn Farnol and the jewelry is a black-and-white cubed necklace and eardrops by Napier.

"Mom, you won't recognise my old room!"

Decade of Change Has Failed To Loosen Sofia Moscow Ties

By JOHN BEST

SOFIA (CP)—The cornerstone of Bulgaria's foreign policy, said Todor Zhivkov, "is and will be friendship, fraternal unity and co-operation with the Soviet Union."

The prime minister and Communist party chief, speaking a few months ago, was articulating perhaps the most important fact of Bulgarian national life—the country's ties to Moscow.

These ties seemingly have remained unshaken during the last 10 years of change and upheaval in Eastern Europe.

Other countries of the Soviet Union's one - time Iron Curtain empire may be looking for and finding ways to assert their independence from Moscow, but not Bulgaria.

Tucked down under Romania, with the Black Sea at its doorstep, Bulgaria is a good 100 miles from the nearest Soviet territory. Yet it acts as though it were directly under the gun.

While the Romanians, for instance, have rejected Soviet proposals to integrate their economy with that of the U.S.S.R. and other Communist - bloc states, Bulgaria has accepted with enthusiasm.

Speaking to the National Assembly in December, Zhivkov said:

"Bringing closer the Bulgarian national economy to the national economy of the Soviet Union leads toward accelerating the advance of our economy, for we count also on the economic, technological and scientific achievements of such a highly industrialized state as the Soviet Union."

REMEMBER LIBERATORS

Part of the explanation of Bulgaria's fealty to the U.S.S.R. is historic, having nothing to do with ideology. It was the Russian army that liberated Bulgaria from the Turks in 1877-78, paving the way for Bulgarian independence a few years later.

The Bulgarian people don't forget that. One of the principal monuments in this capital city of wide thoroughfares and handsome vistas is dedicated to Czar Alexander II and the Russian soldiers who fought in the war against the Turks.

Many streets in Sofia, a city of a little less than 1,000,000, bear the names of Russian generals of the 19th century.

Another part of the explanation is racial affinity. Bulgarians consider themselves the most racially pure of all Slavic peoples and say they speak the purest Slavic language.

They feel a strong kinship with the Russians, largest of the world's Slavic peoples, and take a certain pride in the fact that the Soviet Union, a country peopled mostly by Slavs, has emerged as one of the most powerful nations in the world.

The depth of Bulgarians' feelings may be gauged from the fact that the German-allied country did not declare war on the U.S.S.R. in the Second World War although it did on the Western Allies.

WOULDN'T FIGHT

The authorities knew the Bulgarians would refuse to fight the Russians, and not a single Bulgarian soldier was sent to the Soviet front although numbers were sent to Yugoslavia (also a Slavic country) and to Hungary.

Western diplomats here, while acknowledging a natural comradeship between Bulgarians and Russians, suggest Bulgarian authorities sometimes exaggerate it. One envoy said the Russians are often the butt of jokes by Bulgarians who consider themselves more sophisticated than their racial cousins.

Bulgaria also goes down the line with Soviet foreign policy and sometimes goes further than Moscow. Possibly no other place west of China will you hear any tougher talk about Viet Nam than you hear in little Bulgaria.

"We will not let the Americans get away with it," a foreign ministry official told me, his eyes flashing with emotion. "And we—the socialist countries—have the means to stop them."

So far, however, the Bulgarians have assisted the Communist side in Viet Nam only by sending a medical team.

The same official solemnly assured me that Bulgaria would fight alongside the U.S.S.R. in the event of a shooting war with the West.

Zhivkov, in his December speech, expressed "profound gratitude" for the understanding shown by the Soviet Communist party and government of the "needs of the economic and all-round development of the People's Republic of Bulgaria."

INTEGRATE INDUSTRY

There was no suggestion that the Russians, in providing capital assistance, might be acting in their own self-interest. Yet new industries being installed in Bulgaria with Soviet help complement industry in Russia, and much of their production is exported to the Soviet Union.

Bulgaria's trade with the U.S.S.R., already accounting for most of its foreign dealings, is scheduled to be increased by 70% next in the next five years, reaching a total of 4,200,000,000 rubles ($8,540,000,000 at the official Soviet exchange rate).

With Bulgaria heavily dependent on the Soviet Union economically, therefore, it would only be surprising if political ties were anything but close.

Some Bulgarian officials are so loyal to the Soviet Union, however, they refuse to believe other Eastern European countries are gradually slipping out of the tight Soviet embrace.

When I mentioned Romania's assertion of independence from Moscow, which the Romanians themselves trumpet to all who will listen, an economist with whom I had been talking said "that's just Western propaganda."

Like all the countries of Eastern Europe, Bulgaria has initiated plans for economic reform intended to give the economy more zip by introducing market influences and providing more material incentives for factory managers and workers.

PROFIT IS KEY

Economic planning is to be decentralized and all enterprises theoretically will become self-supporting, without recourse to state subsidies. Profit is to become a key index of operating efficiency.

The draft plan was published last December and a Communist party central committee conference was to be held in January to approve it but two months later the meeting still had not been held. It is evident the plan provoked more discussion and perhaps opposition, than anticipated.

It's also evident that not all members of the hierarchy share in Bulgaria's unquestioning support of the Soviet Union. In April, 1965, reports of a coup d'etat attempt leaked out of Sofia and were substantiated to some extent when eight persons were subsequently jailed for "anti-state activities".

There were reports—never officially confirmed — that the minister of electric power had committed suicide along with two or three other officials.

A question diplomats here are still trying to answer is whether the reported coup was pro - Chinese or simply nationalistic.

In any case, analysts have concluded that the Bulgarian leadership wasn't unduly shaken. Mikhail Suslov, the Kremlin's leading ideologist, came to Sofia two months after the attempted coup on a trouble - shooting mission and apparently gave Zhivkov and his colleagues what one diplomat calls "a clean bill of health."

BEES WORK SLOWLY

It takes about 800 bees to collect one pound of honey nectar in a day, enough for six to eight ounces of honey.

DOW

There couldn't be a better time!
You just can't buy a better beer!

Ask the Official Analysts
They'll tell you that in the past few weeks Dow has come through the toughest tests of any beer in the entire history of brewing.
And it came through with flying colours for brewing methods . . . quality . . . purity . . . and taste.

Ask our competitors
Sure they're proud of their own products. And rightly so. But even they can tell you that Dow has always met the highest industry standards for quality of ingredients, processes, and the care with which Dow products are brewed.

Ask the Dow drinker
He'll be happy to tell you why he's loyal to Dow. And don't be surprised if he talks about great taste, and refreshment, and a real out-and-out beer-drinking enjoyment no other brew can match.

Ask us
As far as we're concerned the headline says it all: You just can't buy a better beer, so next time, make yours Dow. There couldn't be a better time for you to swing to Dow. It'll pay off in pleasure and satisfaction for you. We promise.

Ask yourself
When a beer has gone through tougher official tests than any other brew in history . . . when even our competitors can vouch for its quality and purity . . . when its taste has been checked out by thousands and thousands of Ontario beer-drinkers and found to be an easy winner—

Next time shouldn't you make yours Dow?

indicated the man "took the world hasn't done right by him and that there were injustices to correct."

The solicitor-general said the man's parents live in northeastern Alberta.

The explosive was a "homemade dynamite-type bomb with a fuse you would have to light yourself," said Mr. Lamoureux. He said there was evidence the man had been a patient at a Toronto psychiatric ward, and added he had a "persecution complex."

Positive identification was held up for several hours by a slip of paper in Chartier's pocket that bore a name other than his own. His correct name was on a driver's licence and a Toronto hospital out - patient's card.

A preliminary report by police indicated that shortly after the Commons sitting began about 2:40 p.m. EDT, a man left his seat in the south-end gallery and headed out.

The man asked that his seat be saved, but a member of the protective staff told him this was not possible. He walked up the aisle, where hundreds of schoolchildren were sitting, and through the door.

A messenger, Rene Soulieres, 30, was passing the door when he was asked by a man for directions to a washroom.

A few minutes later the washroom blew up. Mr. Lamoureux said the dead man was identified as the man who left the gallery.

Doctor-MPs summoned to the washroom immediately after the blast found Chartier with his right arm severed at the elbow. Blood spattered the room and pieces of his clothing were found outside. A piece of marble was shot through the door.

Dr. Hugh Horner (PC—Jasper-Edson) and Dr. P. B. Rynard (PC—Simcoe East), first MPs on the scene, said the victim died almost immediately.

Soo Executive Is Given Life As Wife-Slayer

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—William Delton Barber, 53, was sentenced to life imprisonment Wednesday after being found guilty of non-capital murder in the death of his wife Marjorie Dec. 3, 1965.

The all-male jury deliberated for eight hours and 20 minutes after hearing a five-hour charge by Chief Justice W. A. Gale of the Ontario Supreme Court.

Say Hydro Quebec to Give Brinco Project 'Go' Signal

MONTREAL (CP) — The Financial Times of Canada says Hydro Quebec will sign a letter of intent within weeks which will set crews working on the giant Churchill Falls power development in Labrador.

The letter will clear the way for British Newfoundland Corp. (Brinco) to proceed with their proposed $700,000,000 project to harness the hydro-electric potential of the upper Churchill River, the Montreal-based newspaper says.

The start of construction has been delayed three years by a disagreement between Quebec and Newfoundland as to who would get the power from the development. The Times says the dispute has been settled.

Within Hydro three months is seen as the maximum time it will take to resolve the few remaining points in the letter of intent with Brinco.

It was understood the letter will outline Hydro's plans to buy the power generated at Churchill Falls.

Certain decisions — such as how the power will be transmitted over the 700-mile stretch from the power house to Montreal — would be made after the general agreement is signed.

GIVES TWO REASONS

The Times says there are two reasons why Hydro now is able to go ahead.

Delays in Brinco negotiations have pushed back the date for first delivery of power to 1972. By then, power requirements will have doubled from the current 500 megawatts a year and the company will be better able to absorb Churchill Falls power.

Suspension of negotiations with Consolidated Edison, a United-States utility, and the uncertain status of Vermont as a customer threatened indefinite delays if Hydro insisted on awaiting for U.S. participation.

Brinco obtained a 99 - year water power lease for the Churchill River in 1961. Engineering surveys recommended that 6,000,000 horsepower of generating capacity be developed on the river.

Negotiations between Hydro Quebec and the Newfoundland government broke down in 1964 over the sale and transmission of the power in Quebec. A report was prepared on transmission via Newfoundland and the Maritimes into the New England States.

Human Rights Council Wins Backing of PM

TORONTO (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson Wednesday night welcomed a proposal for creation of a national council on human rights, to include representatives of the federal and provincial governments as well as non - governmental organizations.

Speaking before the Rebbinical Assembly of America, he said the proposal from McGill University's Dean Maxwell Cohen "should be explored" by governments and private organizations.

The prime minister said Canada's record on human rights had been on the whole good.

"But we have nothing to be smug or complacent about. I think it is time for Canada to consider other forward steps in these fields."

Trust Co.

When asked what he did when the proposal was made, Pike said:

"I accepted."

W. A. King delivered the first $5,000 to him at the mortgage company in February, 1962, Pike said. The second payment was made in small bills in Mr. Reid's office.

The application for the mortgage money was handled in the usual way, he said. "It received exactly the same treatment as any other application . . . whether . . . there was any money changing hands—being paid to me."

The $1,500,000 was paid to the Treasure Island developers, he said, but it later "went into default and British Mortgage took action under the power of sales clause. The property was subsequently sold."

Also admitted into the record was testimony by Pike at the royal commission investigating the June, 1965 collapse of Atlantic Acceptance Corp. British Mortgage lost between $10,000,000 and $14,000,000.

Mr. Poole said he did not oppose the admission of the testimony in which Pike admitted before Mr. Justice Samuel Hughes that he had accepted the two payments.

Mr. Poole said no appeal of the conviction is planned. Each of the jail sentences are to run concurrently.

Canadian Guards in Cyprus Have Good Intelligence Dept.

By DON LeBLANC

KYRENIA, Cyprus (CP)—Operation Bravo—is a disguise for a polished intelligence department through which the Canadian contingent in the United Nations peace - keeping force on Cyprus is able to keep close tabs on Greek- and Turkish-Cypriot position in and around the rolling Kyrenia Mountains.

Adding to an operation set up by its Canadian predecessors on the troubled Mediterranean island, the 2nd Battalion, the Canadian Guards of Camp Petawawa, Ont., has given Ops B a precise filing and index system containing everything from up - to - the-minute details of Greek and Turkish weapons, equipment and personnel to character sketches of suspected undercover military leaders.

Headquarters for Ops B is a one-storey brick building at Camp Tjikos, command post for the Canadian contingent near this seaside town of 3,500 Greek-Cypriots. The building was formerly used as servants' quarters for a British family which still occupies a home in the camp area.

Pertinent information funnels out of and into Tjikos daily to and from the 16 Canadian observation posts in Kyrenia district and headquarters UNFICYP—the name given the UN force on Cyprus at Nicosia, 15 miles south of here.

FOES ON EACH SIDE

Direct telephone lines are maintained to the observation posts, referred to as "op-posts" by the troops, and every movement by either side is immediately recorded. Sixteen Soviet-built tanks in Greek-Cypriot hands are kept under close surveillance by Canadians at one outpost.

The situation on Cyprus is both peculiar and difficult for the UN force of 4,853 men from seven countries, including 985 Canadians. It has no enemy and serves as a referee between Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots who split into armed camps after civil strife broke out on the island in late 1963, less than four years after it became an independent republic through the Zurich and London agreements. Fighting began when Archbishop Makarios, president of Cyprus, tried to curtail the veto rights of the Turkish-Cypriot minority in the legislature.

The Canadian contingent outposts, most of which are manned by six troops, are strategically placed along a cease - fire line in the 88-square-mile Kyrenia district. They are usually completely surrounded by Greek-Cypriots on one side and Turkish-Cypriot fighters on the other—an uncomfortable position when the two sides open fire as occasionally happens.

CHECK EVERY INCIDENT

When trouble breaks out, the outpost concerned confers with both sides through telephone or wireless links and a thorough investigation begins, however minor the incident may be.

The Canadian contingent handles the biggest and most troublesome area of Cyprus and the 2nd Bat, and the Black Watch, of Camp Gagetown, N.B., who replaced the Guards in a series of rotation flights April 3-15, had an additional 200 square - miles to patrol for more than a week while Ireland rotated its All-Can contingent. The Irish had decided to withdraw its troops completely for financial reasons but later agreed to continue with the force.

The Black Watch expected no major difficulties in assuming its peace-keeping role after three months' training. Troops were instructed through the use of a scale model of Cyprus showing every Greek, Turkish and UN position on the island. They were also given situation reports to keep them informed of developments.

Canadian officers say men of the Black Watch are familiar with Cyprus and its problems and are prepared to contribute what they can to the cause of peace.

Brig. J. A. Wilson of the United Kingdom, acting commander of the UN force, says the Canadian contingent has been "outstanding" in its entire operation.

"Without it, this force would be struggling."

Tomorrow: Renewal of fighting in Cyprus feared if UN force pulls out.

three or four months at a job and then change."

RCMP and Toronto police found piles of paper and post cards in Chartier's room but casting he had been in California and New York. Police said he once worked for the Barnes Detective Agency in the United States.

When he moved to Toronto, he worked at Knight Security Guards Ltd. in suburban Agincourt. An employee at the private detective agency said Chartier worked there two months and quit in December, 1965, to go back to the U.S.

Inspector C. M. Richardson of the Toronto police said Chartier's room contained "a lot of junk."

He said there was no subversive literature in the room, but police are still checking through a pile of papers. In a corner of the room, police found a microphone and a baritone recording of I Believe.

Two haversacks, a pair of scarred suitcases, a case of beer and two doll green duffel bags were removed from the room.

Neighbors said they did not remember Chartier, but a woman manager of a nearby dry goods store remembered him recently buying cigarettes.

She said Chartier told her late last week: "I won't be seeing you anymore. I'm moving away."

Mrs. Lapalene said he walked out of the house between 10 and 11 a.m. last Wednesday. She said he did not say goodbye, only nodded to her.

Lawyers Start Arguments in Munsinger Probe

Inquiry Enters Final Stages Under Boycott by Conservatives

By TOM KELLY.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Gerda Munsinger security inquiry entered its final stage today, shorn of Conservative lawyers because of a boycott by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and former justice minister Davie Fulton.

The two remaining lawyers began final argument with commission counsel J. L. O'Brien leading off with his version of the facts turned up in the investigation.

Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Fulton withdrew their three lawyers just before the final witnesses appeared before Mr. Justice Wishart Spence Wednesday.

Then, at a joint press conference and in written statements, they fired off bitter words about the inquiry, Mr. Justice Spence and Mr. O'Brien.

Neither Mr. Diefenbaker nor Justice Minister Cardin gave testimony. Mr. Cardin had accused Mr. Diefenbaker of mishandling the Munsinger case when it came before him as prime minister.

'A McCARTHY SMEAR'

The Conservative leader said the purpose of the inquiry was "the political assassination of opponents." He accused Mr. Justice Spence of "a McCarthy smear" in making public last week "a sordid, libellous" document which was not part of the commission evidence.

Mr. Diefenbaker suggested Mr. O'Brien was smarting over objections by the Conservative cabinet to proposed action years ago by a client of Mr. O'Brien.

He said Mr. O'Brien repeatedly said around Montreal that "he was going to get even."

Mr. O'Brien told reporters outside the inquiry:

"I have never said it and I have no reason to get him."

Mr. Diefenbaker stated particular objections to two points in a summary of police reports prepared by Mr. O'Brien and described by Mr. Justice Spence as a "handy document" but not evidence.

In it, Mrs. Munsinger was quoted as saying she met Mr. Diefenbaker while he was prime minister and was praised by him for helping Pierre Sevigny, former Conservative associate defence minister.

SAID PRESSURE USED

The same document said political pressure was applied to obtain Mrs. Munsinger's release from jail Feb 3, 1961, two days before she left for Germany, ending a stay in Canada which began Aug. 7, 1955.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the statement about political pressure was not true. The RCMP had requested withdrawal of bad - cheque charges "without reference to any minister."

As for the other point, he said, Mrs. Munsinger had said in a CBC television interview last spring that she never met him.

"The publication of that part did statement, that libellous statement revealed clearly and definitely what the commission was set up to do—namely assassinate political opponents."

Asked whether he plans legal action, Mr. Diefenbaker replied: "That's a very good question. I'll have to consult counsel."

He and Mr. Fulton each criticized commission hearings held in secret without notice to them, lack of access to secret exhibits, questioning based on secret RCMP files and the publication of a summary of the files without admitting it to evidence.

FINDS IT DISTURBING

Mr. Fulton said in a statement that "inasmuch as the whole inquiry relates to the handling of a security case, it was seriously disturbing to find the commissioner at the outset adopting an attitude suggestive of bias as to my fitness or reliability in any aspect of this matter."

During hearings, which began in secret April 6, the inquiry has heard police evidence that Mrs. Munsinger spied for the Russians before coming to Canada and was the mistress of Mr. Sevigny. Mr. Sevigny testified she never was his mistress.

The final witness was Mr. Sevigny's former executive assistant, Gaston Levesque, who told of one meeting with Mrs. Munsinger at Mr. Sevigny's request in October, 1960.

He said former Conservative trade minister George Hees and a group of men who appeared "somewhat elated" had come to the Beacon Arms Hotel bar here where he was sitting with Mrs. Munsinger.

Mrs. Munsinger had gone over to chat with Mr. Hees, at that time conservative transport minister, when she returned, she told him Mr. Hees informed her of his promotion to trade minister. This occurred on the eve of the day of the appointment.

"I was stunned," Mr. Levesque said. "I hadn't heard that. We were expecting to go higher ourselves."

This apparently referred to Mr. Sevigny's expectations of another cabinet post.

Mr. Hees testified April 18 that he remembered meeting Mrs. Munsinger twice here and twice in Montreal. He had lunched twice with her here and taken her to dinner once in Montreal.

Mr. Levesque testified that any action he might have taken in 1960 to speed up Mrs. Munsinger's citizenship application would have been done only on instructions or with the approval of Mr. Sevigny.

He was not asked any questions about a statement in the "handy document" that he "made inquiries concerning the possibility of entry into the United States of a person known to the RCMP to be a narcotics suspect."

Mr. Levesque said he now is an officer with the Civil Service Commission in Montreal.

George F. Davidson, former deputy immigration minister who now is secretary of the treasury board, testified that he has no recollection of discussing the Munsinger case with any cabinet minister.

He said he would have been prepared to swear to this on oath until he had been shown a 1960 memorandum dictated by him. It stated that, after consultations with then immigration minister Ellen Fairclough, Mr. Fulton and two officials, it would be illegal to bar Mrs. Munsinger from Canada after she had made a three-week trip to Europe in late 1960.

The inquiry heard 10 witnesses, including former RCMP commissioner L. W. Harrison and the present commissioner, George B. McClellan.

Mr. Diefenbaker and Mrs. Fairclough were both invited to appear but did not do so. Justice Minister Cardin, who said he was prepared to be the first witness, did not put in an appearance after all. He was represented by a lawyer.

Prime Minister Pearson was brought into the picture by Commissioner McClellan who testified that in late November, 1964, Mr. Pearson had asked him for any RCMP information implicating impropriety or anything of a scandalous nature involving any MP of any party during the previous 10 years. He said he sent Mr. Pearson the Munsinger file.

Mr. Pearson did not appear at the inquiry but in the Commons made a statement that he had asked Commissioner McClellan for any information indicating contact by MPs with dubious or criminal elements.

House Sits 10 Minutes After Blast

By BOB MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP)—A deafening explosion killed a man just outside the Commons chamber Wednesday.

Labor Minister Nicholson was explaining why communications between the labor department and maritime trustees supervising fire maritime unions should not be made public when the blast startled the members.

The House continued to sit for 18 minutes after the blast, and Frank Howard- (NDP—Skeena) added to the speculation when he interrupted Opposition Leader Diefenbaker to say a page boy had just come in to ask that "all the doctors in the House now go outside as their services are needed immediately."

"They have gone," added Thomas M. Bell (PC—St. John-Albert) as Speaker Lucien Lamoureux called for order.

QUESTIONS CONTINUE

The question period continued as Prime Minister Pearson agreed with Mr. Diefenbaker's suggestion of an adjournment and the House rose at 3:10 p.m.

When it resumed at 4:05 p.m. the question period resumed with only a brief mention of the explosion. In reply to a question by Mr. Howard, Solicitor-General Pennell said only that RCMP and city police were cooperating in the investigation.

Mr. Pearson was absent when the House resumed. He left for a Toronto speaking engagement shortly after the adjournment.

Then, the House began regular business and gave first reading to a bill extending an $8,000,000 annual grant to Newfoundland — until both governments agree to stop it. The grant was one of the terms of the 1949 union between Newfoundland and Canada.

Transport Minister Pickersgill's request for immediate second reading was denied by Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) and put over for consideration today.

'Seven Days' Called Muck By Charlotte

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Charlotte Whitton, former mayor of Ottawa, took swipes at current Canadian controversies Wednesday calling the Munsinger affair smut and the television program This Hour Has Seven Days muck.

Miss Whitton, in London for a four-day visit, said in an interview the affair involving Gerda Munsinger and former Progressive Conservative cabinet ministers is a cheap, sordid affair, not worth an inch of news.

"I think it's an indication of the low state to which our sense of patriotism and public duty has come that smut like this can command such public interest.

"It's too bad that this had to happen in a very dull session, in a very dull Parliament. As a result, it's been given attention out of all relation to its importance."

Miss Whitton said she saw Seven Days "once by intent and never again by accident."

"And I think it's a tragedy that the majority of Canadians like to wallow in muck every Sunday night."

GETS SIX MONTHS

TORONTO (CP) — A book company vice - president was sentenced to six months in jail in a magistrate's court Wednesday for possessing obscene matter. Gordon McAndane, 34, was charged jointly with Owen Barr, 40, an employee of Bizarre Book Store. Barr was sentenced to three months in jail and Books Inc. Enterprises Ltd., owner of the store, was fined $500.

Anglicans Balk At Remarriage

HAMILTON (CP)—The Niagara Falls synod of the Anglican Church rejected Wednesday a proposed church canon allowing remarriage of divorced persons.

By a vote of 112 to 69, delegates decided the canon should not be returned to the church's general synod for further study and revision.

After the rejection, Rt. Rev. Walter Bagnall, Bishop of Niagara, said Anglicans in Canada now are "at least" 10 years from a new policy on divorce.

He said synods in Canada have shown a growing trend to reject the canon and "unless this passes at the 1967 general synod in Ottawa, we're 10 years from any kind of action."

During almost two hours of debate, the delegates were unanimous in their approval of widening the basis of divorce and allowing the remarriage of some divorced persons.

Texas Gulf Sued Over Oil-Rich Area

TORONTO (CP)—Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. of New York is being sued by the Royal Trust Co. and a Hamilton widow for $400,000,000 or the recovery of 100 acres in ore-rich Kidd Township near Timmins in Northern Ontario.

Royal Trust is suing on behalf of the Murray Hendrie estate and Mrs. Agnes Rachel Hendrie has joined in the action. The plaintiffs allege that Texas Gulf, through misrepresentation, induced the sale of the 100 acres.

An option agreement between Texas Gulf and Royal Trust signed in June, 1963, allowed Texas Gulf to buy the property for $18,000 (U.S.) and $500 (Canadian) plus 10 per cent of the net profits from ore operations on the land, the plaintiffs claim.

A court order is being sought by Royal Trust and the widow to have Texas Gulf return the land or pay $400,000,000 damages for deceit or $400,000,000 damages for trespass.

Municipalities Now Covered By Labor Act

TORONTO (CP) — Repeal of Section 89 of the Ontario Labor Relations Act received royal assent Wednesday and goes into effect immediately.

The section permitted any municipality in the province to declare that provisions of the act did not apply to its employees.

Several unions accused councils and school boards of using the section to deny employees' bargaining rights.

Many Items Discussed At Town Council Meet

DESERONTO — Centennial Park received a full share of attention at the meeting of the Town Council Monday evening. Councillor Albert Marks, chairman of the parks committee, reported on the progress to date, and expressed his belief that it would become a community project.

A motion was passed that an additional $1,000 be made available for development of the park.

A second motion put into effect a request made by the parks committee at its meeting last week. Council will request financial support for the project from the Hastings County Council.

Two matters pertaining to education came before the council. A revised figure was received from the Napanee and District Collegiate Institute Board, showed that the total cost of educating Deseronto's school pupils in 1966 will be $22,710. This includes maintenance and Deseronto's share of the debentures.

Deseronto now has on hand, roughly $18,500, a surplus from 1965 handed over to it by the former Board of Education when it dissolved. It was decided that this surplus be invested in Dominion Government treasury bills.

The fund is tentatively earmarked for the addition to the public school which will probably begin in the near future. Meanwhile, Council wisely decided to invest it where it would draw good interest.

CLEAN-UP PROGRAM

Town improvement also came in for consideration. Like all municipal councils, Deseronto is looking critically at its appearance now that Centennial year is on the doorstep. Car wrecks scattered about the town in back yards and elsewhere must be disposed of, Council decided. A motion was passed which will place the drawing up by the town solicitor of a bylaw compelling householders to dispose of wrecked cars and other unsightly rubbish near their homes.

At the eastern end of Dundas Street, a new unused railway crossing makes a bad bump in the road. This was once a spur line running to a warehouse belonging to Metcalfe Foods. Now all goods are moved by transport; so, the company will be requested to move the track where it crosses the highway.

Councillor J. S. Webster submitted his written resignation to Council and it was accepted with regret. Mr. Webster moved to Belleville early this year, but has been attending council meetings.

The seat will be offered to Mr. Robert Howard, a former councillor, who received a higher number of votes than any of the other defeated candidates in last December's election.

Around Town

OFFICE MOVED

NAPANEE — John King, Conservation Authority fieldman, has been moved from the office in Carrollton north of Belleville to an office in the Bank of Montreal building in Napanee. Mr. King is the field officer for the conservation authorities of the Moira River, the Napanee Region, and the Prince Edward Region. Mr. King will act as consultant for a new field man who will be located in Campbellton.

ENUMERATION CLASSES

Classes for census enumerators will be held next week in Napanee and Bath, 24 in Napanee Tuesday and Wednesday, and 12 in Bath the following two days. Wilfred McCabe of R.R. 2, Napanee, is the Lennox census commissioner. Thomas Neal of Harlow is the commissioner for the Addington section, which comprises 15 townships, some in Frontenac County.

Council House Used for Many Occasions

TYENDINAGA RESERVE — The Council House on the Tyendinaga Mohawk Reserve is used monthly for Council meetings, but is used at least weekly as a community hall. Card parties, dances, wedding receptions, socials, public meetings, entertainment of visitors to the band and similar functions are held in the Council House. It plays a major part in the Mohawk Fall Fair, as well, housing many of the exhibits.

The basement was finished off and furnished by the Women's Guild of the two Anglican Churches, and serves as a banquet hall on many occasions. There is a well equipped kitchen, and the dinners served by the ladies of this community are famous.

Many improvements have been made since the building was erected in the early twenties. At first lighting was by lamps, but hydro was brought in as soon as it was available. Heating has been a major problem, with stoves on both floors which must be lit early in the morning to warm the building for any evening function. And the heating was always uneven, as in most such cases.

This winter a major improvement was made, and now an oil furnace heats the building evenly within an hour.

A second major drawback was the lack of indoor sanitary facilities. Now washrooms have been installed and while not entirely finished off, are in use.

Both these improvements have been made under the chieftainship of Allan R. Bread. They were suggested and discussed, and plans were drawn up during his former term of office. This year these plans were approved and put into effect, largely with Chief Brant as foreman.

There was Federal financial assistance for the project, but the initiative was taken by the Mohawks themselves. This is the present Federal policy. It is ready with assistance when a need is recognized by the people themselves.

Two First Offenders Given Light Sentences

NAPANEE — Two young first offenders who appeared before Magistrate R. C. Jackson in Napanee Tuesday got off lightly, but a third was dealt with severely.

Ole Nelson and Duane Wemp, charged with attempting to steal gasoline, had sentence suspended and were placed on probation for six months.

In contrast, Lawrence Stuffles of R. R. 2, Verona, faces one month in jail for one offence with a possibility of an additional 10 days, to run consecutively, for each of two other offences of which he was convicted.

Stuffles did not appear before the magistrate last Friday to answer the three charges because he was in jail in Cobourg. He had been arrested there while on his way to Napanee. When released by the Cobourg police, he was brought to Napanee under arrest.

Stuffles pleaded guilty to driving while his license was under suspension and for this was sentenced to one month in jail. He pleaded guilty, also, to having liquor in a place other than his residence, and for this offence was sentenced to pay $20 and costs, or a further 10 days in jail.

He pleaded not guilty of failure to produce proof of insurance, but was found guilty and must pay $50 and costs of the court, or serve still another 10 days in jail.

Several cases were remanded, and several were settled out of court.

Warrants were issued for the arrest of three persons who failed to appear to answer charges levelled against them. Joan Stewart of Fruitland is charged with a violation of the traffic laws which involved her in a traffic accident. George Hartin of the Enterprise district must answer to a charge of a breach of the Liquor Control Act, and Ernest Ormody of Ottawa to a charge of false pretences.

All three will appear before Magistrate Jackson at a later date.

Scientist Is Able to Predict Auroral Storms in Advance

By ALLEN SACKMANN

PORT CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—Auroral prediction is the newest developing science employed by scientists studying the aurora borealis with rocket fired into the upper atmosphere.

Most of their rocket shots, designed to gain scientific data, must be made during auroral storms and the scientists turn to forecaster Bill Erickson for guidance on when the launchings should be scheduled.

Armed with extensive records of auroral storms, he forecasts aurora appearances a month in advance and is "reasonably" certain that his prediction won't be out by more than two days. His predictions are used at the Churchill Research Range and are distributed to about 30 other centres in North America where auroral investigations are also conducted.

The method employed by Mr. Erickson was developed two years ago by L. E. Montierand of the University of Saskatchewan but he is conducting his own experiments which may provide for forecasts with a higher degree of accuracy.

The Montierand method is based on records of auroral absorption of radio waves combined with the known cycle of auroral storms, commonly referred to as the Northern Lights.

SETS BEST TIME

Absorption is determined by recording fluctuations in the level ofatmospheric noise. During the storms, the signal is weakened or disappears. The fluctuations are correlated with the known cycle of auroral storms—27 days—which provides the data for Mr. Erickson's predictions.

At the Churchill Research Range, application of the forecasts is basically practical, he says. It provides visiting scientists with a guide from which they can arrange their arrival time and enables the range to establish priorities for rocket shots.

"It enables a more efficient range operation, avoiding wasted time and effort."

During peak periods of auroral activity, scheduling of rocket shots becomes an acute problem for the National Research Council which operates the range, he says.

Mr. Erickson, a native of Sudbury, Ont., who has been employed as a forecaster at the range since last fall, has been relating the forecasts made with the Montierand method to a series of experiments of his own which could substantially increase the accuracy of the predictions.

"We been working on it for three months and, while it is still in the preliminary stages, the results have proved to be quite encouraging."

ERRORS REDUCED

He describes the method—predicting on the basis of mathematical calculations of magnetometer records — as more sophisticated because of a potential drop in the margin for error. Mr. Erickson says initial tests indicate that the method can predict to within three hours of the time it takes place while the present technique has an error factor of two days.

It is the first mathematical attempt at producing a forecasting system, he says.

Using either system, it takes about four days for Mr. Erickson to come up with a prediction of when the next storm will occur, its intensity and duration.

Although a painstaking occupation, Mr. Erickson professes an enthusiasm for his job arising from "the idea of discovering something useful."

"Everytime you find a correlation, it makes the picture a little bit brighter. It's like finding a piece in a big jigsaw puzzle with the puzzle being the aurora."

This is the force that motivates Mr. Erickson—along with most of the other workers at the range—in continue research of the aurora which started in Canada nearly 100 years ago.

HE GIVES THE WORD TO GO—Forecaster Bill Erickson works at a newly developing science, the prediction of auroral storms, popularly known as the Northern Lights. Most of the rocket launchings at Fort Churchill, Man., are made during the storms. Predictions now are accurate within two days. Mr. Erickson is working on a more sophisticated method to cut this to three hours. (CP Photo).

Strong Demand For Live Cattle Will Continue

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — A strong U.S. demand for five Canadian cattle is expected to continue through the year, says an agriculture department forecast.

Imports of foreign beef and veal also should continue briskly but lower European prices may turn Australian and other supplies back in the U.S. market, affecting Canada.

Higher U.S. pork production later in 1958 may also affect Canada, Poland, Denmark and other sources of top-grade hams and bacons.

The estimates are included with figures showing that U.S. imports and exports of meat were down in 1957 compared with 1956, except for pork and lamb. Recent trends show beef and veal imports rising again, although the 1958 totals are not expected to call into play the import-quota machinery established in 1964 under pressure from the American cattle men's lobby.

The United States imported about 580,000 Canadian cattle, mostly for stocking purposes and for fattening for market, last year. Mexico supplied 235,-200.

The same rate of trade is expected in 1958.

WILL PAY FARMERS

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia's 19,000,000 collective farmers will soon receive guaranteed cash wages in the most far-reaching reform in the Soviet countryside since collectivization began more than 30 years ago. The Kremlin announced Tuesday night that the guaranteed wages will start July 1, and it promised loans from the state bank if the farmers cannot meet the cost of paying their workers.

May Increase 401 Speed Limit to 70

TORONTO (CP) — Drivers may be able to travel 70 m.p.h. legally next year on the Macdonald - Cartier Freeway and highway 400. The speed limit on each highway now is 60 m.p.h.

Donald Cornell, traffic control engineer with the department of highways, told the legislature's standing committee on highways and tourism Tuesday that speed surveys — using police-style radar—are under way.

"From a traffic control point of view, speed limits on the freeway could and should be higher," he said. Both highways would "take the speed quite reasonably."

Officials have claimed in the past that unrealistic speed limits are difficult to enforce on the two closed-access roads and bring the law into disrepute.

Highways Minister Mac Naughton said he knew of no imminent changes but added there was a problem in summer months when United States tourists, accustomed to speeds of 70 on the interstate throughways, enter the province.

Welfare Council Is Seeking More Grants for Day-Care

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Welfare Council endorsed Wednesday a resolution calling for the expenditure of more public money on day-care centres for the children of working mothers.

Delegates approved a resolution from Protestant Children's Homes, Toronto, recommending the provincial government extend its cost-sharing grants to small day-care centres.

The convention was told that only large centres now receive provincial money on a shared basis with municipalities.

Earlier, Barbara Chisholm, executive director of Victoria Day Nursery, Toronto, said parents who seek help from the community through day-care services are often "treated with hostility and accused of trying to dump their children."

"Day care is not a baby-sitting service," she said. "It does not replace parental responsibility, but there is much misunderstanding about the centres' value."

"No parent, whatever his station or situation, can raise his family alone. The finer-acting community at large is with us and all kinds of family roles have been delegated to the community."

CUT ABSENTEEISM

Thomaz Eberise, Ontario deputy minister of labor, told the convention a survey of provincial employers showed they are interested in the centres because they cut down absenteeism among working mothers.

During a section meeting, a member of the Jewish Children's Bureau, Chicago, said social workers try to carry too many burdens.

Orel Meier, a psychologist with the bureau, said: "We feel we have to solve all the problems but we can't. We have to let some people go because we haven't the facilities to help them."

In other business, the council unanimously recommended free dental care for persons on low and marginal incomes. The council urged dental clinics be set up in hospitals to meet the needs of low-income families.

SPORTSLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

In the steel and concrete canyons of Gotham's Bronx, the bodies of NY Yanks cavalry, silent last year, are beginning to yerun their theme song for years "The Yanks Are Coming . . ."

This is due to what the Yankee sflcionados believe is a reincarnation of the once-proud American League troop that massacred the league Indians for years, grabbing scalps, pennants and world series in their stride.

Up to a year ago the Yankees were a proud arrogant pampered group of ball players who lived in a splendiferous carpeted clubhouse. By sheer ability and a topnotch farm system they had played, night&day and laughed their way to enough championship beating to wallpaper a flight hangar.

And no dimmed manager was going to rule over them, come hell or high water. If he tried, he got the gate.

Not even a guy named Johnny Keane who as boss of the St. Louis Cardinals robbed them of the 1964 world series, and who unknown to them had been tabbed as their 1965 manager months before the season ended.

You remember the famous managerial merry-go-round of that hectic season. Gus Busch, the Cards owner kissed Keane (the kiss of death) after he had defeated the Yankees not knowing that Keane had already been snagged by the Yankees. Or did he? The next day Keane quit because, he said, Busch had threatened to fire him.

In a slanlier two-face drama a big guy named Ralph Houk in a press conference announced that a formally-befit guy named Yogi Berra from greyp to group telling the pencil-and-mike guys what a great job Berra had done reaching a pennant. Two days later Houk fired Berra.

If you recall, Houk then hired Keane officially (it had been in the bag since September) to replace Berra, who despite that fact he won the flag was the joke-box old stage of the don't-give-a-damn Yankee crew (remember Lints and the harmonica serenade on the bus?)

Berra became the coach of the New York Mets under a guy named Casey Stengel who had also been fired by the Yankees and replaced by Houk. And the whole thing boomerranged and the crazy cycle ended when Keane was fired by Houk and big Ralphie stepped down into the spot he once held.

As one columnist puts it, "doubtless there will be long serious discussion about Keane's shortcomings as a manager. But through it all keep one fact in mind. Keane's firing was by the players, of the players and for the players."

He went on because the Yankees as a spoiled and pampered group as you will find outside a wailing kindergarten, didn't like him. They got rid of Berra the same way, by muttering and mewling to the front office, so why should Keane be invulnerable?

It may not be true but events todate clearly indicate that the Yankee players relations, personal and otherwise with the current manager, is evidenced in their play on the field.

They rebelled at authority being waved at them especially in their off the diamond activities. Berra occasionally rolled at them — and got sore at them — so he had to go. A bunch of them got stoned in an airport bar and Keane fined them. He had to go.

Now Houk is back. They liked this guy. So much they did not approve when, after winning three pennants he was moved from the manager job to the upstairs front office. A report says they disapproved so strongly they scuttled two managers to get him back.

Now they've got him back and are showing their approval by a startling reversal of form on the diamond. Mantle and Maris the Double M for Murder celebrated by blasting home their first of the year. They have won six of their last eight starts and have crept up to third spot from the bottom.

Yep, the Yanks Are Coming. They started to Houk up their playing britches for a guy they like and admire. They must realize they are not the bloodbeasts of the American League they once were, since famous Yankee pride may yet assert itself as being stronger than club personalities. They have Houk back. Now all they can hope is that he doesn't turn his back on them.

Athletics Grab Two ★★★★★ Twins Rock Sox; Nats Nip Tribe ★★★★★ Yankees Win

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Don Mincher and Harmon Killebrew provided long home runs Wednesday night as Minnesota Twins rocked Chicago White Sox 7-4.

Meanwhile Don Lock, playing centre field, raced to the 406-foot sign in Cleveland's Municipal Stadium, leaped and speared pinch hitter Duke Sims' bid for a home run, preserving Washington Senators' 4-3 victory over the Indians.

In other American League action, Kansas City Athletics swept a doubleheader from California Angels 7-4 and 7-4, New York Yankees ripped Detroit Tigers 7-2 and Boston Red Sox nipped Baltimore Orioles 2-1 in 10 innings.

Mincher was on the Twins' bench until the fifth inning when he replaced Rich Rollins, who left the game because of an upset stomach. Mincher pushed across four runs in his two appearances.

In the fifth, Mincher came up with the bases loaded and drew a run-producing walk. Two innings later, he poled a 375-foot homer with Cesar Tovar and Killebrew on base.

Killebrew hit his second home run of the season and 290th of his career in the first two innings giving Jim (Mudcat) Grant a quick lead.

Killebrew's shot off Gary Peters went 425 feet to right centre and scored Tony Oliva, who had reached first on Fielder's choice following Tovar's single.

Washington's Pete Richert took a four-hit shutout into the ninth, but then was tagged by Rocky Colavito's pinch threerun home run. That brought Casey Cox on in relief and Sims up to swing for Joe Azcue.

Sims smashed Cox' pitch to deepest centre but Lock robbed Sims of a homer and ended the game.

Grant, stalked to the early lead by Killebrew's homer, held the White Sox to four hits as Minnesota won its fourth straight and sixth in the last seven.

Bob Saverine drove in one run and scored another as the Senators stopped comfortably in front of the Indians until the close call in the ninth. He doubled and scored on Paul Casanova's two-out triple in the fourth and singled during a three-run rally in the sixth.

Mike Hershberger drove in three runs and scored two as Kansas City completed its sweep of the Angels. Jim (Catfish) Hunter pitched a four-hitter, striking out 10, and Ed Charles and Dick Green had three hits apiece in the first game.

Mel Stottlemyre pitched a five-hitter and Roy White and Tom Tresh homered as the Yankees ripped the Tigers. It was their York's seventh victory in 10 games since Ralph Houk took over as manager.

Earl Wilson won his own game with a leadoff homer in the 10th inning that broke a 1-1 tie against Baltimore. Wilson, the Red Sox' veteran right hander, limited the Orioles to seven hits in gaining his third victory in five decisions.

Replaces Bud Poile

Pilous To Pilot Frisco Seals

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rudy Pilous was named general manager Wednesday of San Francisco Seals hockey team, effective next season.

Pilous, 51, replaces Norman (Bud) Poile, Seals' general manager for the last four years, who resigned earlier this month.

The hiring was announced at a press conference by George Pinkney, president of the Shasta Corp., which owns the team.

The Seals will be a Western Hockey League team in the fall and will play in the new Oakland Arena. The team joins the expanded National Hockey League the following season.

In 1953, Pilous was hired by Chicago Black Hawks and his team won the Stanley Cup championship in 1961.

He moved in 1962 to the Toronto organization as coach and general manager of Denver Invaders. The team won the Western Hockey League title.

Last winter, he was back in amateur hockey, coaching the Hamilton Red Wings junior club in Ontario.

Pilous began his career in 1948 when he coached Houston in the United States Hockey League, He went on to Sun Valley of the Pacific Coast Hockey League and led the Skyhawks to the Lester Patrick Cup championship.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Michael Ford, owner of Kauai King, said today negotiations are under way to syndicate the Kentucky Derby winner for $2,000,000.

"But nothing will be done until after the Preakness Saturday," Ford said on returning from a conference with Maryland and Virginia breeders.

"If we do well in the Preakness then we will be open to continue negotiations."

Ford made the announcement a few hours before the names of Kauai King and eight other three-year-old horses were expected to be on the entry list today.

Bobby Honored

Hull Day In Hull

HULL, Que. (CP) — Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks Tuesday as Bobby Hull Day. It took a press conference Wednesday that the Black Hawks might have won the Stanley Cup this season if they had been a Montreal or Toronto team.

The two Canadian cities buzzed with hockey talk during the season "and the players tend to become more involved," the blonde winger said.

This atmosphere was different from that of "big cities like Chicago where hockey is not the national sport."

This city across the Ottawa River from the capital honored the Hawk winger by naming Hull Day. Mayor Marcel d'Amour and was main speaker at a sportsmen's banquet in the evening.

Hull shrugged off a suggestion that his drive to set an individual goal-scoring record hurt his club's chances to finish first in the National League standings.

Hull said he doesn't want to play "20 or 30 years" in the NHL but would like to retire "while I'm still able to walk. He didn't indicate when he might retire.

He was anxious to get back to his Pointe Anne, Ont., farm and said the Hull engagement was one of only half a dozen he would take on in the off-season.

Record Deal Involves 4 CFL Teams

Seven-Player Trade

By JIM CREAR

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts today announced the acquisition of offensive end Al Irwin and halfback Rod Good as part of an all - Canadian seven-player trade among four of the nine teams in the Canadian Football League.

The trade, one of the biggest in CFL history, also involved Montreal Alouettes, Calgary Stampeders and Saskatchewan Roughriders.

When the dealing was over, Montreal obtained guard Terry Pajaczowski and veteran halfback Ron Howell, Calgary picked up offensive end Len Sparks and flanker Terry Evanshen, Saskatchewan acquired tackle Maurice (Mo) Levesque and Toronto got Good and Irwin.

The swap began with Saskatchewan trading Good to Montreal for Levesque. The Argos then traded Sparks to the Als for Good and followed up with an exchange that sent Howell to Montreal for Irwin. The Als finished off by sending Sparks and Evanshen to Calgary for Pajaczkowski.

Pajaczkowski, 28, a six-foot-three, 230-pound Canadian from Verdun, Que., played 10 seasons with the Stampeders. He was voted the top Canadian player in the CFL in 1961 and was second to Ron Stewart of Ottawa Rough Riders for the honor in 1960. Pajaczkowski was a Western Conference all-star in 1960, 1962 and 1963.

The Als got another veteran Canadian in Howell, 30, who has played 10 seasons in the Eastern Conference. He joined the Argonauts in 1964 after starring for Hamilton Tiger-Cats from 1954 until traded to British Columbia Lions late in 1962. He did not report and sat out the 1963 season.

JACKSON CAUGHT AT PLATE—Sonny Jackson, Houston, slides into the plate, but is tagged out by Chicago Cubs' catcher Randy Hundley, who took throw from first baseman Ernie Banks in sixth inning of National League game in Chicago. Jackson loaded the bases with a single. He was cut down at the plate when teammate Rusty Staub grounded to Banks. The Astros scored two runs in the inning with three hits, but left two men on the bases. Houston won, 5-1. (AP Wirephoto).

Rallies After "Flu"

Barbara Ward Tied For Fourth Place

PORT ARTHUR — Diminutive Barbara Ward of Belleville, Ontario representative in the Ladies Open Class of the Canadian 10-Pin Championships for the O'Keefe Awards, is battling pins, opponents and the 'flu here.

Mrs. Ward shook off the effects of both the 'flu and a disastrous first round to make a fine showing in the evening draw. In the first round she lost all four games to Mrs. Louise Smith of Vancouver. But last night she won three of four from Bonny Ballantine of Regina to take four of a possible five points and move back into contention.

Barbara's four points left her in a tie for fourth place in the field of seven competitors. However, two of the seven had byes in one round Wednesday. Today Barbara meets Frances Taylor of Calgary in the afternoon and strongly-favored Charlotte Johnson of Winnipeg in the evening.

Barbara, weak from the 'flu in the early draw, managed only one good game. A 188 in her second game. She dropped a heartbreaker there, however, as Mrs. Smith came up with a 208. She was outscored 170-143, 188-134 and 169-156 in the other three games, losing in total pins 718-691. A single point is awarded for each win and another for teal pin fall.

In the second round Barbara started with a big 201 against her opponent's 158. She slipped in the second game, losing 176-126 but then came back to win the next pair, 181-177 and 176-146 winning on total pins 694-655.

"I was weak in the afternoon and couldn't get a good lift on the ball," informed Barbara. "I went right back to the hotel after, took a pill and caught some sleep. Felt better in the second round but not too perfect. I'm hoping I'll be back to normal Thursday after a good night's sleep. I haven't given up by a long shot. There's a long way to go yet."

Leading the ladies open class is Mrs. Smith with 6¼ points but both Miss Johnson of Manitoba and Frances Taylor of Calgary, tied with Mrs. Ward with four points had byes Wednesday.

Play in the O'Keefe's championships continues through Sunday, with the top two women meeting for the title in a rolloff here at the Big M Bowl at 1.30 in the afternoon.

Departmental Softball Has Five Entries

Opening games for the Departmental Softball League schedule were established last night and other pre-season business was discussed.

Five teams are expected to participate in a 12-game schedule. The definite starters are The Intelligencer, Public Works, the Fire Department, City Hall and Public Utilities.

A sixth entry, Hawkins Potato Chips, was not represented and was all but counted out of the league. However, the entry deadline has been extended to Saturday, May 21.

The league will open Monday, May 23, with Public Works at the Fire Department. On Tuesday, City Hall visits Public Utilities and on Wednesday, Public Works visits The Intelligencer.

All games will be played at Hillcrest School and start at 6.30 p.m.

The Firemen's team was given permission to use four firemen's sons to enable them to enter the league. Only 11 regular firemen were willing to play and they are all on shift work.

All league games will be played on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays. The top four teams will enter playoffs.

The league rejected an invitation to interlock with the Prince Edward North Shore League. Stan Findle is in charge of investigating the possibility of entering an all-star team from the Departmental League in the P.E.N.S. grouping.

Battle Of Berths

Kincardine vs. Lucknow

KINCARDINE, Ont. (CP)— The National Hockey League player guide lists this Lake Huron resort community as the birthplace of Paul Henderson, 23-year-old Detroit Red Wings right-winger.

But don't raise the matter in Lucknow, 35 miles southeast of Kincardine, unless you're looking for an argument.

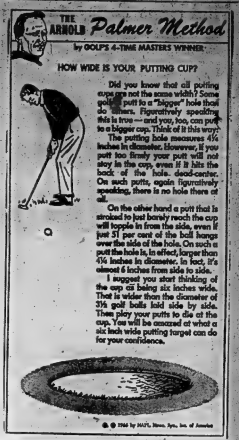
Reeve G. W. Joynt of Lucknow says Henderson was born on a sleigh some miles outside Kincardine.

"And the only reason his mother was in Kincardine was Kincardine was not Lucknow was because she happened to be visiting her husband's parents in Huron Township when the stork headed her way."

Reeve Norm Clinton of Kincardine says he really doesn't care, but Goldie Beckham, publisher of the weekly Kincardine News, has dug up a birth notice that reads:

"Born Jan. 28, 1946, to Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Henderson of RR1, Ripley, at Kincardine General Hospital, a son Paul."

"There's no mention of any sleigh," says Beckham. "I believe Paul was born here because his father was relieving the regular agent at our CNR station at the time. But actually I don't give a darn as long as they paid the bill."



The folks in Lucknow don't take the matter so lightly.

"He took his first steps in our town, learned to skate and play hockey here and went to our schools through Grade 11," says Reeve Joynt.

"He says that when renovations at the Lucknow rink are completed, a sign reading 'Birthplace home of Paul Henderson; he's ours and, by dad, we're proud of it' will hang at one end of the arena.

At the other end will be another sign which reads: "Murray Macdonald, Hockey's Iron Man, was born here."

What has Henderson to say about the controversy?

Mud Hens Beat Suns, Jets Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The leaders took their lumps Wednesday night in rain - reduced international League baseball action as the streaking Toledo Mud Hens pulled to within two games of second place and 3½ games off first. The Hens used home runs by Archie Moore and Bobby Mercer for a 5-3 victory over second - place Jacksonville Suns while fifth - place Richmond Braves battered first-place Columbus Jets 8-2.

Rain washed out Syracuse Chiefs' game at Toronto and Buffalo Bisons' at Rochester.

The Mud Hens won their third game in a row and 11th in 14 decisions after Moore slammed a two-run homer to break a scoreless tie in the sixth inning, followed by Mercer in the seventh with a three-run blast.

Ty Cline slammed out four hits and Jim Beauchamp three, including a home run that broke a 2-2 tie in the fifth inning, to pace the Braves. Bilby Southworth added a sixth-inning homer for the Braves.

Reds Still Climbing

Orbiting Astros Take Two From Cubs

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cincinnati Reds are beginning to rise to the surface but the big question is the National League is whether Houston Astros are in over their heads.

Expected to be among the pennant contenders, the Reds continued their slow climb from the bottom Wednesday night, moving within one victory of the .500 level by beating New York Mets 4-2. The Reds have won 10 of their last 12 games.

At the same time, the Astros, expected to be down where the Reds were, reeled off their 16th and 18th victories in the last 19 games by sweeping a double-header from Chicago Cubs 5-1 and 4-3. Houston now is 2½ games off front-running San Francisco Giants.

The big question is whether the Astros are serious contenders or early season pretenders. The team is hitting a respectable .245 and the pitching staff has a combined earned run average of 2.78.

The Giants remained at the head of the standings with a .607 percentage, compared to Houston's .535, by downing third-place Los Angeles Dodgers 6-4. Philadelphia Phillies climbed into fourth by edging St. Louis Cardinal's 4-3 and Atlanta Braves whipped Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2.

TWO HIT HOMERS

Jim Wynn smacked a two-run double and Lee Maye and Rusty Staub hit homers in support of Dave Giusti's seven-hit pitching in the Astros' opening game victory. Catcher John Bateman homered for Houston in the nightcap but the key plays were two errors by the Cubs' Ernie Banks that led to three unearned runs.

Robin Roberts needed relief help from Claude Raymond in the second game but got the victory, No. 284 of his major league career.

Sammy Ellis checked the Mets on four hits while the Reds collected seven hits and nine walks off four New York pitchers. Cincinnati put it out of reach with a three-run fifth built on three walks, a hit batter, Deron Johnson's double and an infield hit by Tommy Helms.

Trailing 3-2, the Giants came up with four runs in the eighth inning with the help of errors by second baseman Jim Ledebroe and outfielder Ron Fairly. Hal Lanier singled in the tying run and when Ledebroe fumbled the relay from the outfield on the hit, Tito Fuentes came around all the way from first and scored the lead run.

ALLEN RESIGNS

SEATTLE (AP)—Keith Allen resigned Wednesday as general manager of Seattle Totems after 10 years with the Western Hockey League team and said he would take a position with a team he declined to identify. Speculation placed Allen either with San Diego's new WHL club or with one of the teams being added in the National Hockey League's expansion program.

Fierce, Fast And Fit

LONDON (AP) — Cassius Clay eased off his training today looking fit, fast and fierce for his world heavyweight title defense against Britain's Henry Cooper Saturday.

Clay put in a final sparring session Wednesday and said he expects a hard fight from Cooper.

"Cooper is light and dangerous. He can move fast and that left hook of his is a wicked blow," the champion said.

Then, reverting to his braggart role, he added: "I'm going to ask the next spaceman who goes up from Cape Kennedy to find me a challenger so I can be champion of the universe."

An estimated 44,000 people will watch the fight at London's Arsenal soccer stadium. The fight is also being piped on closed-circuit television to theatres throughout Britain and by satellite to the United States.

Jim Brown Turns to Murder But Only in British Movie

BY BOB THOMAS

LONDON (AP) — Footballer Jim Brown of the Cleveland Browns was strolling along the Thames on a day off from MGM's The Dirty Dozen, in which he plays a murderer—"but a nice murderer."

Her's part of a wartime squad of soldier criminals assigned to a risky mission that doubtless never will pass the eyes of the Allies.

Acting is nothing new for Brown. He made his debut in Hollywood western, Rio Conchos.

"It was a good break-in for me because I had a lot of action and not too much dialogue," he recalled. "If I'd have been pretty good, although my style is unconventional. But then, I'm that way in most of the things I do."

His work in The Dirty Dozen will be more demanding. Producer Kenneth Hyman is convinced Brown can keep up with the stellar cast that includes Jeff Morrow, Lee Marvin and Ernest Borgnine.

"We'll see," Brown said. "At any rate, the setting is something that I would definitely like to explore.

"It seems to me that there are not many Negro actors in Hollywood right now, and yet the roles for Negroes are becoming more frequent. The only star nowadays is Sidney Poitier, who has wide acceptance and probably won't prevent me from doing so."

You can make whatever you want of that, with Jim's blessing. At any rate, Brown at 30 is looking for other fields, although last season was one of his best. Coming up is his 10th year in pro ball, and how long can a fellow go on that bone-rattling profession?

"I don't feel creaky after games," he said. "There's a good feeling of accomplishment when you have the confidence of management and of your fellow players and can carry out the ideas which you would like to see done."

Eddie Arcaro CBS Choice As Preakness Commentator

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Eddie Arcaro, one of the most famous jockeys in the history of horse racing and twice the winner of the triple crown, will be the highly qualified "guest commentator" on CBS' coverage of the Preakness Saturday.

The man who raced more than 25,000 horses, including 4,800 winners, during his career retired four years ago at 46.

Covering what he calls "the color" of the race—the seconding of the three races that make up the triple crown, the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont; Stakes—constitutes a bit of problem moonlighting. He is the president of an insurance company with New York headquarters that specializes in livestock insurance, including horses.

"But I wouldn't stoop to call the race," Arcaro said. "I couldn't, because it requires very special skills.

"In the first place time is so short—a two-minute race is one of the longest—and you have to be able to identify all the horses in a field of 12."

LIKES SCHERNEKL

Arcaro says that Chris Schenkel on ABC's sports staff is one of broadcasting's great race callers, perhaps even greater than Clem McCarthy and Ted Husing, who in the days of radio built great reputations in that special field.

The former jockey gives much of the credit for his successful career to his agent—"the one that picked the horses for me to ride"—and the fact that he rode for two of the best stables in the country, Warren Wright's Calumet Farms and the Whitney Greentree Stable.

Arcaro won more than $30,000,000 in purses with his mounts. He says he decided to retire when he felt he was getting too old and too fat." He looks neither.

"It was a hard decision," he says. "I was riding the best horses in America. So I went to Aiqueduct for a month for the international jockey races—that gave me a chance to make up my mind."

He won the Preakness six times—still a record—and is spending most of this week at Pimlico, the Maryland track, talking to trainers, looking at horses and interviewing owners for the program that will provide the actual coverage of the race itself.

Mayors Test Picture Phone

TORONTO (CP)—"I haven't got a dime, operator."

Those were the first words spoken Wednesday by Mayor Philip Givens of Toronto to Montreal's Mayor Jean Drapeau in Canada's first long distance call using Bell Telephone Co. of Canada's new picture-phone.

Highly Skilled Immigrants Denied Professional Jobs

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Welfare Council was told Wednesday that European immigrants with university degrees are working in Canada as laborers because professional associations will not accept their credentials.

In a discussion group, Hanna Cumus, a London, Ont. social worker, said a 42-year-old Polish woman, trained as an industrial efficiency expert, is working in Canada as a dishwasher.

Col. William Poulton of the Salvation Army said Canadian immigration officers overseas are handing out misinformation.

He said some immigrants are being told erroneously that there is plenty of cheap housing in Toronto and they need not apply for an immigrant's loan.

Elsie Bartig, member of the Family Service Association, said she knows how Canadians with doctorates who have been forced to work in the woods.

She said Canadian universities have refused them admittance for qualifying or refresher courses.

Z. W. Sametz, former research director with the federal department of citizenship and immigration, said doctors in Saskatchewan ask foreign doctors to prove they have received an elementary-school education.

"Even though some professional associations make entrance difficult for immigrants," he said, "those who go through himself by feeling a sense of achievement."

Seek More Powers For Police In Enforcing Traffic Rules

OTTAWA (CP) — Traffic experts from across Ontario agreed Wednesday on several proposals to help police enforce traffic laws.

Among the proposals, made at the annual meeting of the Ontario traffic conference, was a resolution that police be given the power to demand the name of pedestrians alleged to have committed traffic offences.

Other resolutions passed by the conference Wednesday would:

—Amend the Criminal Code to require the owner of a vehicle to give the name of the person driving it at the time of any hit-and-run violation, as already provided for by the Ontario Highway Traffic Act.

—Prohibit the sale of a motor vehicle unless it carries a certificate stating the vehicle is in safe condition instead of merely mechanically sound as provided for at present.

—Permit red lights on the back of vehicles only as brake lights; tail lights would be green and turn signals amber.

—Empower municipal councils to experiment with trial traffic control devices.

Insp. Ernest Duffield of the Sarnia police department said at present police are reluctant to stop a pedestrian who commits a traffic violation because they have no right of arrest when the pedestrian refuses to give his name.

"The officer can be made to look ridiculous," he told some 300 delegates representing police departments and municipal councils at the final session of the three-day meeting.

"The pedestrian can look down his nose and say 'Don't bother me, jerk' and the officer just has to take it."

The proposed measure was strongly opposed by S. R. Cole, North York traffic director, who said it was not specific enough and would give police sweeping powers.

"This puts too close to a police state," he said later in an interview. "People laugh and say it can't happen here, but it has happened elsewhere."

Add up your monthly obligations. If the total is too high, the Associates will lend you the money to clear up those debts, and turn them into one low monthly payment. And by paying off debts instead of putting them off, you keep your credit good for any other purchases you may want in the months ahead. Briefs From Britain

Brewery Horse Balks At Pulling Judge to Court

NORWICH, England (CP)—An obstreperous horse preferred the traditional carriage ride through this city to open the county court sessions. John Bray's horse borrowed from a brewery to make up the pair, kicked the coachman to the ashes and refused to move an inch. The judges went to court by car.

BIRD TURNS SCALE

BOWNESS, England (CP)—A Westmorland soccer club has temporarily banished its mascot after authorities about the unofficial extra player who helped their opponents with a vital scoring header. The bird was weighed on the field and attacked Bowness' goalkeeper. The unorthodox player took advantage of the situation to score the winning goal.

NEW RECRUITING GADGET

LONDON (CP)—Even the army's newest recruit is a 12-inch doll called Tommy Gunn. Dressed in various uniforms as he does doctors discovered the injury. Even a slight jolt could cause permanent paralysis. Ordered to stop racing for a year, Sears said that was too long a break and retired to take up full-time farming.

WEEKEND ON WILDNESS

FARNHAM, England (CP)—Farnham's industrial college for adults is holding a three-day seminar on witchcraft, fanaticism and religious hysteria in the quiet Surrey, country house. The prospectus calls it "an academic exercise to try and understand what kind of lunacy can take hold of relatively civilized people."

DOUBLE UP PROBLEMS

LONDON (CP)—Residents of the Tulse Hill suburb complained to municipal authorities about old cars parked outside the streets. But a shortage of garages explains how means delays of four weeks or more between collections, so some enterprising citizens are profiteering their garbage into the derelict cars.

WON BY THREE VOTES

INVERNESS, Scotland (CP) — Sir Harmar Nicholls, Conservative MP for this Highland constituency, guest of honor at a dinner to celebrate retaining his seat with Britain's smallest majority—three votes. Constituents presented him with gold cufflinks with the number 3 engraved on them.

SPEED SCHEME FLOPS

LONDON (CP) — An "improvement" to the flow of passengers through immigration control at London Airport has dropped when it turned out to be slower than the old method. Passengers had to pass through one gate instead of using three, as before.

CHOOSE TWO TARGETS

CHESTERTON, England (CP) — A Cambridgeshire church has two parish magazines, one for regular worshippers for the benefit of those members of the congregation what they are missing.

DOG FINDS A BONE

STANDEDGE, England (CP) — Lady Kelly has trained his dog Rebel to retrieve sticks, but one Rebel brought back was a stick of gelignite. An army bomb squad said the seven-inch block of explosive was "rewarding" and about to go off at any minute.

FEET MEAN FREE TIME

ROSYTH, Scotland (CP)—The Royal Navy's tallest sailor, Laurence Atherton, 22, was given two months' extra leave when the quartermaster's department couldn't provide him with large enough boots. A special pair had to be ordered for the six-foot-eight man.

STOVE INDICTS MAKER

REDCAR, England (CP) — Salesman Tom Kennedy has driven about for five years with a faulty electric stove on top of his car to draw attention to the troubles it caused him, at a cost of £200 in fines and other expenses. The manufacturers have finally offered him £250 to take the stove back.

NERVE WINS NAG

ESHER, England (CP)—Police are investigating an audacious daylight theft in Surrey auction. A man bid £400 for a horse called Castlereagh, had it led into his horse box and drove away before anyone realized he hadn't paid for it or had the right.

STARTING AT BOTTOM

LIVINGSTON, Scotland (CP) Officials opened a £200,000 primary school and welcomed the first pupils—three of them. The town has only a few dozen of its planned population of 30,000 people so far. The school will fill up as new families arrive.

POLICE GET WITH IT

BIRMINGHAM, England (CP)—"With the police women's Beatle haircuts next!" grumbled a watch committee member, as a motion allowing uniformed women to be narrower than 32 inches was passed. The policeman themselves suggested their present baggy pants would be smarter if restyled.

Buddhist Mob Riots In Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — Buddhists rioted and shouted anti-American slogans in this South Vietnamese capital tonight and flaming - gasoline bombs exploded in the streets. Police battled the demonstrators with tear gas, forcing them to retreat.

A torch - carrying crowd of about 1,000, including screaming children, spilled outside the main pagoda at the Buddhist Institute and marched toward the centre of the capital in defiance of a ban on such demonstrations.

They carried banners demanding the ouster of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military government, terming the open turmoil of early spring that was shaked by the government's pledge in mid-April to hold elections in not within three to five months for a return to civil rule. Ky has since made plain he expects to keep power at least another year, and that he considers the coming elections for a constituent assembly are but one step in the process.

The U.S. armed forces radio warned all Americans to keep away from the demonstrators.

STONE POLICE

The rioters, fresh from a rally of about 15,000 persons at the Buddhist Institute, smashed windows and stoned police.

It was a repetition of disorders in which demonstrators earlier this year roughed up about a score of Americans.

Amid screams, whistles, stones and explosions of the gasoline b o m b s, reinforced police squads fired tear gas grenades into the milling group.

A young monk attempted to stop the crowd. He was brushed aside.

Under a pall of tear gas, the rioters retreated toward the Buddhist institute.

The institute is about two miles from the heart of the capital and the U.S. Embassy.

One banner bobbed over the heads of the crowd read "blood and bones of American; Viet Nam people are not instruments of war mongers."

The demonstration coincided with the return to the capital of U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge. It was sparked by the continued exile of two Buddhist area provinces, where government troops have been fighting Buddhist insurgents.

Today's Chuckle

You've reached middle age when you feel on Saturday night the way you used to feel on Monday morning.

DA NANG (CP) — Buddhist rebels hurled defiance today at the tanks and troops sent by South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky to snuff out the Da Nang revolt, but neither side seemed willing to risk a decisive military showdown.

Snipers fired at loyalist troops from rooftops and Ky's tanks replied with heavy machine-guns. But Ky's forces refrained from a frontal attack, apparently hoping to wear the rebels out.

The Buddhists declared their willingness to die for their faith and threatened to destroy the Da Nang air base unless U.S. troops intervened on their side. However, their armed militants also did not make full use of the weapons available to them.

The second successive day of shooting began in the Da Nang market place and in a nearby park, where Buddhist-led students proclaimed a drive for a civilian government in March. Firing also continued at the complex of three pagodas, where Ky's paratroops and marines have pinned down the rebels as they would give in.

WARN AMERICANS

The threat to destroy the Da Nang base was made in an open letter to Lt.-Gen. Lewis W. Walt, commander of the U.S. marine corps in Viet Nam, and was handed to reporters by Buddhist monks holding out with a rebel troops at the main pagoda here.

The monks claimed 12 persons had been killed and more than 130 wounded in heavy street fighting which broke out again today as government forces edged toward the pagoda.

The letter claimed at least 1,000 persons had been killed or wounded in clashes in the last week here and in the university city of Hue, 60 miles to the north.

"We request Gen. Walt to force the government army to withdraw from Da Nang on May 20, 1966," it said.

"If there is any reason why Gen. Walt does not at intervene, we are decided to die for our religion and our nation and to destroy immediately Da Nang airfield that is a starting place and supply place of the army."

MARINE BASE

The giant air base launches many of the daily A m e r i c a n bombing raids against North Viet Nam. The U.S. marine headquarters is beside the main airfield little more than 20,000 American marines.

The monks also distributed an open letter addressed to Secretary-General U Thant.

The letter asked about the government's military action here as a "criminal gesture by the fascist militarist Thieu - Ky clique" and called on the president and secretary-general "to help us drive these apprentice dictators from the political scene, in order to restore calm and stability as soon as possible."

PUTTING ON THE DOG—This English bulldog looks a bit down in the mouth after finding out that, despite his elegant attire, he won't be allowed to attend the opening performance at Kingston's new Civic Theatre Friday. His owners, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Miller of Kingston had planned to take pooch to the show dressed in his best bib and tucker. (CP Wirephoto).

Peace in Seamen Strike Hinted By Spokesmen

LONDON (Reuters) — Hopes of peace in Britain's five-day-long seamen's strike rose today as 400 idle merchant ships clogged ports around the country.

Spokesmen for the seamen and shipping companies hinted Thursday night they might resume a government or labor union initiative to break the deadlock.

Ministers today planned to review the gradually crippling economic effects of the stoppage, called by the National Union of Seamen when shipowners refused to meet a demand for a shorter work week without a pay reduction.

The cabinet reviewed developments Thursday, but withheld any sign of official action to settle or break the strike, which threatens to bring major trading ports to a standstill.

However, members of Parliament have been warned they may be recalled from a two-week recess, starting next Friday, if the government decides to declare a state of emergency.

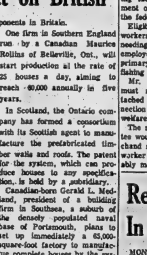
A way for peace moves was opened at a press conference Thursday night by a spokesman for the seamen's union which has called out 12,000 of its men here to back demands for a 40-hour working week, instead of the present 56-hour week.

The union assistant general secretary, Gerry Lipman, said the national executive would consider an "interim" offer from employers on pay and hours.

The Shipping Federation chairman, Ford Geddes, told reporters shipowners would carefully consider any suggestion approach by Labor Minister Ray Gunter.

Observers said settlement moves may be made next week

Canadian Frame Building Makes Impact on British



LONDON (CP)—A new, fast Canadian timber-frame building system has made an impact on the British construction industry in a matter of days after a demonstration of its speedy technique in a Scottish town.

As a result of last week's experiment in Cumbernauld, near Glasgow, where a terrace of six municipal low-rent homes was put up in less than five days by a Portland, Ont., firm (Rothwell-Perrin Ltd.), agreements have been made with English and Scottish builders to manufacture the timber-frame components in Britain.

One firm in Southern England run by a Canadian Maurice Rollins of Belleville, Ont., will start production at the rate of 25 houses a day, aiming to reach 60,000 annually in five years.

In Scotland, the Ontario company has formed a corporation with its Scottish agent to manufacture the prefabricated timber walls and roofs. The patent for the system, which can produce houses to any specification, is held by a subsidiary.

Canadian-born Gerald L. Maitland, president of a building firm in Southsea, a suburb of the densely populated naval base of Portsmouth, plans to set up immediately a 65,000-square-foot factory to manufacture complete houses by the system. Lately he plans a second factory north of London.

Attitude Toward Sevigny Was That Of Schoolmaster

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Two lawyers at the Gerda Munsinger security inquiry called Thursday for severe criticism of Opposition Leader Diefenbaker for his handling of the case as prime minister.

J. L. O'Brien, counsel for the inquiry, suggested Mr. Diefenbaker acted like a schoolmaster reproving a schoolboy when informed of RCMP reports that his associate defence minister, Pierre Sevigny, was involved with a prostitute and one-time spy for the Russians.

Jack Campbell, counsel for Justice Minister Cardin, said Mr. Sevigny became a security risk through his relationship with Mrs. Munsinger and would have been fired from the cabinet had Mr. Diefenbaker or former Conservative Justice Minister Fulton taken the trouble to dig further into the police files.

The two lawyers delivered final arguments before Mr. Justice Wishart Spence of the Supreme Court of Canada, who heads the inquiry.

Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Fulton will withdraw their lawyers Wednesday, charging Mr. Justice Spence with a "McCarthy type" attack and Mr. O'Brien with revenge-seeking liberals.

There will be no legal argument about the evidence heard on their behalf.

WILL BE INFORMED

Mr. Justice Spence said that if he makes any charges against them they will be informed before he submits his report and given a chance to answer them.

He adjourned the inquiry until Tuesday when Gilles Deprez, counsel for Mr. Sevigny, will present final argument.

The Deprez argument attached no blame to Prime Minister Pearson and former LB-Minister Paul Martineau who were informed about the case in December, 1964.

The "active executive action" could have been taken after a rly February, 1963, when Mr. Sevigny and former trade minister Hees quit the Conservative cabinet.

It was then the door not see how former Conservative justice minister Fleming could not be informed in December, 1964, had. Mr. Fleming went immediately to Mr. Diefenbaker when he was told about the case by the RCMP in January, 1963, 10 days before the Sevigny-Hees resignations.

On the other hand, Mr. Diefenbaker had called Mr. Sevigny on the carpet in December, 1964, when Mr. Fulton informed him of the police reports that Mrs.

Marchand Praised As Candid

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Marchand piloted a measure giving training pay to unemployed and under-employed workers through the Commons Thursday amid opposition praise.

"He has made a splendid contribution in the cabinet and in the House," said Robert McCleave (PC—Halifax).

"He is to be congratulated for his refreshing point of view and his candor. . . . The minister has broken away from the gate and is one of the leaders of the new talent in this chamber."

The legislation promises pay of up to $30 a week for workers who go back to school for extra training.

Earlier the Commons gave effect to Term 30 of the union between Newfoundland and Canada, a section that will continue an annual $1,000 grant to the province.

Seven Creditistes opposed the grant because Labrador has been "stolen" from Quebec by Newfoundland. They forced a recorded vote that went 175-to-7 against them.

The Economic Council of Canada has reported, and Mr. Marchand has agreed, that the existing program for technical and vocational retraining has not passed out.

The bill, given first reading Thursday, introduces a pay-to-learn principle intended to abolish the common image of retraining as a welfare measure.

The existing combination of unemployment insurance and small training allowances would be dropped. Provinces would handle distribution of the payments while the workers are being taught, with a reimbursement of about 80 per cent by the federal government.

Eligible would be unemployed workers, those employed but needing better skills and self-employed dropouts from such primary industries as farming, fishing and logging.

Mr. Marchand said Canada must remove the stigma attached to training, end its connection with unemployment and welfare, and tie it to work.

The minimum weekly guarantees would be $30. But Mr. Marchand said virtually every worker will receive considerably more than that.

Reach Bargaining Stage In Bid to Settle Strike

MONTREAL (CP)—Attempts by federal mediator Judge Rene Lippe to settle the contract dispute between the International Longshoremen's Association (CLC) and the Shipping Federation of Canada reached the "exploratory discussion stage" Thursday, an ILA spokesman said early today.

The first day of separate bargaining between Judge Lippe and the two parties to the dispute will be resumed today. However, an ILA spokesman said there has been no indication when joint meetings might begin.

The port of Montreal has been tied up since May 9 by a wildcat strike of 3,500 ILA members and the ports of Quebec and Trois-Rivieres have been tied up since May 10 when 730 longshoremen there joined the walkout.

The longshoremen's union executive has refused to order the men back to work until a new contract has been signed. During conciliation meetings last week, the federation refused it would not participate in talks as long as the men were on strike.

Judge Claude Prevost, who had been chief conciliation commissioner, informed Labor Minister Nicholson Monday that the conciliator stage had ended. However, Judge Lippe was named as mediator Tuesday.

The ILA spokesman said there has been no indication when the strike might end but he "could end within 24 hours" if both sides were willing to make some compromises. He said the first two days of mediation meetings were spent as Judge Lippe "looking how far each side was willing to go."

Bombing Inquest Ordered

TORONTO (CP)—An inquest was ordered Thursday into the death of Paul Joseph Chartier who added a page to Canadian history Wednesday with a bomb intended to "kill as many MPs as possible."

Dr. H. R. Cotnam, Ontario supervising coroner, said Chartier's death in a bomb explosion in a washroom of the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa "certainly deserves an inquest to see how it came about and what better security could be instituted.

Chartier's plan to kill as many members of Parliament as possible "for the reason way you are running this country" unfolded Thursday in a 36-page letter written by him in a 15-cent notebook.

The speech, rambling and often incoherent, said he planned for a year to throw the bomb into the Commons "to wake the sleepers up."

In a small room in a boarding house in midtown Toronto, police said the 26-year-old Alberta native constructed a crude dynamite bomb. His writings indicated he had figured it would take the bomb 2½ minutes to explode from the time he lit a three-foot fuse.

It could have worked. Police said Chartier, a former mental patient miscalculated in judging the fuse's burning time, causing the bomb to explode before he could re - enter the Commons where a few minutes earlier he had been sitting in the public gallery.

New Canal At Welland Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — The cabinet has authorized the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority to proceed with construction of a new Welland Canal "bypass," Transport Minister Pickersgill told the Commons today.

He said the decision was made Thursday, but gave no details of the project.

The minister was replying to Donald Tolmie (L — Welland), who asked whether the government had approved the construction of a bypass for the canal.

Mr. Tolmie apparently was referring to press reports that the seaway authority has dropped its $180,000,000 project to build twin locks for the existing canal, and instead will build a larger canal along a new route, 16 miles long between Lake Ontario and the Niagara Escarpment.

Pearson Gives Views
Gradual Mutual Accommodation Of U.S., Canadian Economies Underway

MONTREAL (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday Canada is setting its own guidelines for companies, defining amount and things that corporate obligations of "corporate citizens of Canada."

Speaking at a banquet ending the American Bar Association-Canadian Bar Association convention, he said the United States has recently said it expects U.S. subsidiary companies abroad to behave as good corporate citizens of the countries where they are located.

"A process of gradual mutual accommodation has therefore begun and we intend to pursue it vigorously," he said.

Mr. Pearson said it is not an easy task for Canadians, blanketed by the influence and the industrial spread of $85,000,000,000 the United States, both to maintain and strengthen a Canadian national identity.

"The task is especially difficult when we are subjected to the regional strains that are bound to exist in a federation, with constitutional divisions that at times coincide with racial or language differences. But I can assure you we are going to achieve our national purpose."

Mr. Pearson said the system of investments between Canada and the United States has sometimes given rise to serious problems for Canada as "Washington does not always appreciate the unique nature of these bilateral problems. . . ."

The United States had often taken financial and economic protective action from which Canada should have been exempted. "The United States should remember we are your largest market."

US subsidiaries have helped to build Canada. "We merely ask that these companies, when they settle in our country, like our other immigrants, become Canadian in their operations and outlook. . . .

"I am happy to say most of them do. In return, we must

Announce Addition Plans For Trenton Hospital

TRENTON — S. O. Graham, chairman of the Trenton Memorial Hospital Board of Directors, announced at the annual hospital meeting last night that plans are in the offing to add a 50-bed addition to the 136-bed hospital.

Mr. Graham said there was an urgent need for more beds, particularly at the present convalescent patients. He said the plan now called for 33 beds of this type and perhaps another 15 active care beds. The patient population is now spilling over into the halls and many of these patients are over 70.

The chairman also said Trenton had reached its limit with a nurses' training program in Belleville General Hospital. Of the 39 nurses now starting on a 2-year course, Trenton will gain a number for duty by 1968.

Reporting to the board, hospital administrator, Miss Hazel Naudett said there were 4,320 admissions of children and adults last year, and 121 deaths in this group. Births stood at 680 with nine non-natal deaths and 11 stillbirths.

The outpatients' department treated 17,784 persons.

The hospital occupancy at 81.43 per cent capacity in 1965, Miss Naudett said, a 2.3 increase over 1964. There were fewer admissions but more hospital days . . . an average of eight days per patient.

Miss Naudett said 18 autopsies were performed in the hospital on patients and 17 from "outside". This was an all-time record, she said.

Vice-chairman O. M. Newton, reporting for the treasurer, Douglas Kinney, gave the financial report. The hospital is a "going concern, operating in the black" with $1,180,000 having been spent last year . . . 70 percent of the expenditure being for salaries and benefits.

Mrs. Douglas Adams, president of the hospital women's auxiliary, said the 330 member auxiliary raised $5,200 last year, $1,500 of which was spent on equipment and some of which supplied favors for patients' trays on holidays, toys for the nursery, and other patient comforts. Mrs. Adams also outlined the volunteer work done by the auxiliary members and "junior" volunteers.

Mrs. R. J. Oliver, reporting for the RCAF women's auxiliary, said that the auxiliary had in the past supplied thousands of dollars worth of nursery equipment, then had been very few requests for assistance from the hospital last year. The auxiliary had bought two writing desks and supplied 75 pounds of buckshot for the physiotherapy department.

Dr. Brock Nugent, reporting for the hospital's medical staff, commented on the urgent need for expansion, and remarked that last year had been "a pleasantly quiet year with not too much controversy."

Eben James questioned the chairman about an item in the expense account. In 1964, $4,300 was spent for legal fees. In 1965, 1966. While figure represented the "average" expenditure on legal fees, Mr. James wanted to know. The chairman said the 1965 figure was "quite normal."

Mr. Graham announced that the three directors whose terms were up this year were available for re-election, and Robert Baker, Harry Sager and Gerald Weaver were duly re-elected on a motion from O. M. Newton, seconded by Kenneth Couch.

At the instigation of Mr. James, a motion that the public be made aware of those directors whose terms were up each year, was passed. That names will appear in advertisements of the annual meeting.

Dr. Harry Hotchkiss asked why the names of the directors whose terms were up had not been "posted."

He was assured by the chairman that the three names had been posted in the dining room.

"When?" said Dr. J. V. Byrne, "I was in here at noon and they weren't here."

"This afternoon," was the answer.

Dr. Hotchkiss then said he was perturbed at the recent rule passed by the board that employees were laid off at 65. He said he didn't think this was a good thing.

Mr. Graham said this ruling had been modified and each employee was now considered on his or her individual merits.

"It's a good thing this isn't compulsory," remarked Mr. James, "Or I hate to think of the state of the board . . . and I'd particularly like to hear comments from the head table."

Mr. Graham countered by saying the board members were not paid employees.

Mr. Couch and Mr. Weaver expressed their thanks to the chairman for his work over the past year.

"It's an inner reward to see people being healed here," said Mr. Graham.

Town to Appeal Ruling Against Expropriation

TRENTON — The town of Trenton has issued an appeal against a judgment brought down in a Toronto court on May 6 disallowing expropriation by the town for 25 acres of land in Mudray Twp. owned by Jack Alyea. This land lies between the town and a proposed water storage pond which is being constructed by the Trenton PUC. At a meeting of the PUC yesterday a letter was read from Mr. Alyea, in which he said he would use all the force necessary to evict any trespassers.

Today workmen engaged in grubbing the site of the proposed storage pond were to have started work on Mr. Alyea's land. However, acting upon the advice of their Toronto lawyers, the members of the PUC decided yesterday to call off their operations.

Plan Merchant Alarm System For Trenton

TRENTON — Jack Wilson, secretary-manager of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce spoke to members of the Trenton Kiwanis Club last night, outlining chamber activity since he took over as manager April 11 and telling of planned for activity. Last week, the Chamber presented Canadian flags to seven visiting Australians.

Earmarked for future action is a "merchant alarm system," by which merchants now in chants would be made aware of bogus cheque artists; a three day antique car display; the possibility of individuals being able to buy sickness and accident insurance through the Chamber.

In thanking Mr. Wilson, John Saylor said "Jack is a man who doesn't dare make an enemy in town".

At the start of his address, Mr. Wilson delved back into history to the beginnings of the Chamber in Trenton. The first Chamber was formed in 1886. In 1907, a former mayor, Jesse Funnell was president. Other well-known names identified with Chamber work were: Mark Tripp, N. J. McNair, J. F. Cox, W. H. Ireland, H. B. Smith, Kenneth Couch, J. H. Dickey, A. E. Cuff, A. E. Bywater, J. A. Sutcliffe and E. T. Marsh.

TRENTON — The presentation of the Belleville Theatre Guild play, Amethysts, in Trenton High School Monday night has netted $600 so far, according to the latest report on ticket sales.

Mrs. Jane Downs, a Guild member, said today the Guild was "delighted" at the public's response. Quota had been set at $500. All money is to be donated to the United Service Clubs' swimming pool fund.

Consecon Boy Crushed Under Rock

TRENTON — A three-year-old Consecon area boy was crushed to death under a 200 rock yesterday afternoon, on the shore of Consecon Lake. Dead is Gary Derrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Devries, R.R. 2, Consecon.

The accident is reported to have occurred while Gary played with other youngsters on the shore of the lake. A rock on which the boy was playing rolled over on top of him.

Besides his parents, he is survived by two sisters, Anneke and Cynthia and two brothers, Arthur and Richard.

Extend Survey Deadline

TRENTON — Mrs. R. H. Smithrim, chairman of the Community Assistance Association's Better Living Survey said today the deadline for canvassers to turn in their survey results had been extended to the end of this week.

Mrs. Smithrim said the canvassers had been meeting with a better-than-hoped-for response on the part of the public.

"Only about two per cent of the householders refused to answer the questions on the survey forms." Mrs. Smithrim said.

Meanwhile, as many association members are still out with the survey, the opening of the association's used clothes' cupboard on Front Street has been delayed. Mrs. Smithrim could give no date for the official opening.

Bridge Work Starting in Two Weeks

TRENTON — John Gaffney of the Gaffney Construction Company of Stratford has set up an office on the former Zig-zag man scrapyard site on Front Street.

Work on Trenton's million dollar bridge will start within two weeks, Mr. Gaffney said yesterday. The initial work will start at the west end of the bridge.

Next week, a rented dredge from Brockville will be in the area and will start dredging out the channel near the site of the proposed bridge.

U.S. Traffic Controls Firm Will Open Subsidiary Here

An American firm specializing in modern electronic traffic control systems will soon begin operation in a subsidiary plant in Belleville.

The announcement of the new industry for the city was made today by Mr. L. M. Rodgers, Assistant General Manager of the Automatic Signal Division of Laboratory for Norwalk, Connecticut.

Mr. Rodgers also announced that W. Dailes of Belleville, a long-time employee of the local Northern Electric branch, will be the manager of the new firm. The company will set up operations in a building on Adam Street, used for some time by Northern Electric for part of its production.

Although the firm has no official name, pending approval from Queen's Park, Mr. Rodgers said that the first Canadian division of Automatic Signal will probably begin production by the first of June.

Automatic Signal manufactures what it refers to as a "sophisticated system of traffic control" which makes the present system of automatic traffic light synchronization virtually obsolete.

COMPUTER-REGULATOR

Employing diverse types of magnetic, sonic, pressure, or radar detecting devices to be placed at each approach to an intersection, the Automatic Signal equipment becomes "informed" of the speed and volume of traffic approaching that intersection up to a distance of 900 feet. This information is then relayed to a computing unit that works out the most efficient programming which changes the traffic lights accordingly.

The system has proved effective in removing traffic bottlenecks in such Canadian cities as, Vancouver, Edmonton, and Calgary, and Mr. Rodgers noted that it has come out on top when compared to "manual" traffic control by police officers.

The connection between Automatic Signal and the Belleville area dates back to 1939, when Northern Electric became a licensee of the American firm in the field of traffic control equipment. For the next seven years, Mr. Dailes was president in Northern's transactions with Automatic Signal until retiring. Northern Electric will be continuing its work in the distributing field for Automatic Signal, with the difference being that it will now be dealing with a Canadian-made product.

Part of "multi-thousand" personnel corporation, Automatic Signal has subsidiaries in California and Italy, with the head office in Norwalk, Connecticut, and supplies traffic control equipment throughout the United States, part of Europe and also Canada.

Mr. Rodgers, announcing the new Belleville firm as "basically a growth organization," said that while the company will probably employ about 20 persons in a few years, this factor and the sales volume will depend on "the demand for sophisticated traffic control."

Although the operation's patents and engineering are inherently American, Mr. Rodgers stressed that the Belleville enterprise is entirely a Canadian concept and is intended "to put Canadian content into the product."

Credit for bringing the new industry to the city was given to Belleville's Industrial Commissioner, Mr. E. Kneisel. The co-operation of the local Northern Electric management was also mentioned as a factor in the company's decision to set up a plant here.

Mr. Kneisel said that the addition of yet another electronic firm is the city will increase the "labor pool" of skilled industry, bring a number of "technical visitors" to the city, and "inadvertently" make Belleville a "demonstration area" for the modern systems of traffic control produced by Automatic Signals.

To Prime Streets Next Week

TRENTON — Town engineer Eric Aldersey said today plans are being made to prime the town's gravel streets next week. After the liquid asphalt has been laid down by the McFarland Construction Company trucks, town workmen will lay sand.

Meanwhile, town workmen are laying curb on Dufferin Ave., between King Street and Spring Street.

The painting of traffic directional lines on the streets should start this week, Mr. Aldersey said.

TRENTON — Yesterday was Ascension Day and services were held in a number of Trenton churches, including St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church and St. George's Anglican Church.

Red Shield Nears Goal

TRENTON — Opt. James Johnson of the Trenton Salvation Army Corps said yesterday the Red Shield campaign count has risen to $3,500 on the way to the $5,000 goal set for this area.

Children May Have Caused Fire

TRENTON — A rubbish fire, thought to have been started by children playing with matches, last night threatened a large double garage at 52 George Street, the house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hunt. Two trucks and one men were sent out from the fire hall to quell the blaze.

ISN'T ENOUGH

TORONTO (CP)—"Charity is not enough" to make foreign aid programs work, Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp told the annual dinner of the Chartered Institute of Students' Association of Toronto Wednesday. Mr. Sharp said the object in providing aid must be to enable underdeveloped countries to overcome poverty, ignorance and disease and to help them reach a level where their economies depend not on loans and grants from wealthier nations but on trade.

Board Hires Sixty

Lacking Only Two Teachers For Four High School Staffs

The Bay of Quinte District High School Board has almost met its teaching staff requirements for the opening of the fall term in September, with only two teachers of a total complement of 300 still to be hired.

Since the annual teacher hiring race began earlier in the year, the local board has hired close to 60 new teachers — 30 of them replacements for teachers leaving the staff, and 30 new teachers in preparation for the opening of the new Centennial Secondary School in West Belleville.

Equipment purchases for the school took up much of the time at the May meeting of the board held this week.

TELL OF GUIDANCE

And following up a program aimed at keeping board members here more closely in touch with school operation, guidance teachers at the three secondary schools attended the board meeting to outline guidance programs.

Attending the meeting were guidance instructors Harold Mott of Belleville Collegiate, Arthur Bradford of Moira Secondary School, and Mrs. Norman Grant from Quinte Secondary School.

Besides Mrs. J. R. Cox was named to head the language department at Quinte Secondary School.

The board named a committee to arrange with hospital officials for carrying on the instructional program for nursing assistants. The school course is for one year, with students spending two half days per week at the hospital.

PARKING PROBLEM

Another committee was set up to meet with city officials to discuss the problem of car parking at Belleville Collegiate and see if some arrangement can be made for off-street parking as has been recommended by the police department.

Fuel tenders for the coming 1966-67 heating season were awarded to Moira Coalers Ltd. and to Harry Smith Fuels Ltd.

There is a white contrast in heating equipment at the three local high schools. Two of the buildings — Quinte and Moira — have furnaces capable of burning either furnace oil or natural gas. Bakelite coal is burned at the Collegiate but automation still hasn't caught up completely. Some of the coal is fed by mechanical stoker but one furnace at the school still has to be hand fed. That means a man with a shovel!

Wing Commander D. R. Adamson, Officer Commanding No. 427 Squadron, Canadian Forces Base, Trenton will be the reviewing officer at the fourth annual inspection of Squadron 008, Belleville Air Cadets. The inspection will take place in the Belleville armories Wednesday evening, May 25th, at 7.45 p.m., and Flight Lieutenant A. J. Woodley, C. New Canadian Tire Store Opening Draws Big Crowd

PICTON (Staff) — Hundreds of well wishers and county citizens presented themselves at the official opening of the new Canadian Tire store in Picton Thursday morning. Nearly all were expectantly clutching a key to a treasure chest that contained many valuable prizes awarded by the store as a feature for the event. Promptly at ten a.m. the ribbon was cut by Mayor H. J. McFarland, admitting the large crowd to the spacious interior of the store.

The crowd had gathered early for the official opening ceremonies and present for the occasion were Howard Mallett, president of Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce; L. Duncan, vice-president Proctor-Silex Ltd.; A. D. Pearce, manager Bank of Commerce, Picton, and R. Corson, a representative from the head office of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Toronto and store manager, Jack Colden.

Manager Colden sees the new store as another milestone in the corporation's tradition of service in Picton and the county of Prince Edward in general. Mr. Colden took over from manager Douglas a few about eight years ago. The new store, which gives Picton one of the best equipped corporation stores outside of Toronto, boasts 4,000 square feet of floor space, ample room for parking and and its own on-the-premises service department.

The upstairs of the new building contains a well stocked parts department and storage.

Winner of the bicycle was Mrs. M. Wood of 10 Chote Street, Picton, who held one of the key's which opened the treasure chest.

Approve Plans Of School Addition

PICTON (Staff) — Wellington and Hillier Townships have approved sketch plans for the proposed addition to Wellington Consolidated School. The plans presented to the councils by the Public School Board of the Township School Area of Wellington-Hillier, are now in the hands of the Ontario Department of Education.

If the department approved the plans the board will instruct the architects to prepare detailed drawings of the proposed addition.

The sketch plans call for the addition to contain nine classrooms, a library, industrial arts room, boys' and girls' lunchrooms and a kindergarten. It would be the first time a kindergarten has been attached to the school.

The proposed addition would be built adjacent to the West side of the present school. The two buildings separated by an avenue, but they would be joined at the end of the hall in the existing school.

The new addition will provide accommodation for 190 children who came into the enlarged system when County Council agreed to unite the two school boards. Although the new board has working authority, granted by the department, it will not officially assume it's powers until January 1, 1967.

Beyond The Call Of Duty

PICTON (STAFF) — Bill Portelle, a well known Picton and ardent Rotarian, proved at this weeks' meeting of the club that he will not, if possible, do anything to keep him from being down his attendance record. He has 23 years of perfect attendance with the Picton Club. A veteran Rotarian he injured his leg while cleaning up on his farm two weeks ago. He had been in hospital until recently.

He arrived on the steps of the Royal Hotel in the evening to attend this meeting in order to keep his record. Though there were some 15 members of the Rotarians, Bill was not one of them.

Both Ankles Broken in Fall From Crane

MARMORA — Pat Smith, 55, of Roscoe Avenue, a maintenance man employed by Wilson Concrete Products in Belleville fell from a ladder while repairing an overhead crane Wednesday. Both Mr. Smith's heels were crushed and both ankles broken in the accident. He is recuperating in the Belleville General Hospital and it is estimated that he will be fully recovered in three months.

Forest Fire Hazard Reduced by Rainfall

TWEED — The recent general rainfall throughout the district has reduced the forest fire danger to a low rating. Previous to this, the cool, dry weather had held back the growth and conditions were becoming quite dry. There has been a total of twenty-five fires to date in the Tweed forest area, all as a result of human errors and carelessness. Fifty-one acres have been burned over in these fires.

whatcha' got in the carrying case?

I've got an Evinrude 3 in the carrying case

how did you get the Evinrude 3 in the carrying case?

Because the Evinrude 3 folds up!

Whether you're a fisherman or a camper, we've got a new Evinrude this year that makes boat-carry easier. It's the folding 3, an Evinrude exclusive that makes "outboard toting" a pleasure instead of a chore. Basically, there's no difference between a folding and a standard 3. The only distinction is that it folds up and fits into a special contour-carrying case. All you do is unlatch two retainers (light finger work—you don't need tools of any kind) and set it in the case. All the features, all the reliability are there and you're away with a neat, little, lightweight package that's perfectly balanced for easy portability. And that case keeps your car, trailer, camp, cottage or garage clean. Here's the motor fishermen and campers just have to see and try. The unique, new folding 3, made only by Evinrude.

It's one of the 1966 Evinrudes ranging from the 3 to the 5, 6, 9¾, 18, 33, 40, 60, 80 to 100 horsepower outboard motors. Also, OMC stern drive units ! 90, 120, 150 and 200 hp models.

All Evinrudes use a 50-1 gas/oil mixture which increases engine life, saves wear and expense. And every Evinrude carries a full 2-year warranty.

Ontario and Medicare

Ontario Premier Robarts' most recent statement on Medicare is puzzling, if not disturbing.

The government has promised to establish medical care insurance by July 1, 1967, and several provinces have already indicated they are ready to join the federal-provincial program.

Newfoundland, New Brunswick, Quebec and Saskatchewan, which has its own plan, have announced they will participate, and Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, Manitoba and British Columbia are expected to come in before the 1967 target date.

Ontario membership is considered probable, but Alberta has opposed any plan involving compulsory insurance premiums.

While Ontario delays its final decision, Mr. Robarts compounds the confusion over this province's attitude by saying Ontario taxpayers probably will pay half the cost of the federal plan even if the province does not join it.

There seems to be no doubt about what Mr. Robarts was saying. When questioned on this point, whether he would allow a situation to develop in which Ontario would pay most of the scheme's cost if it were of no benefit to the people of the province, the premier replied, "I suppose that would be the result if we didn't go in."

Since we are so highly taxed at the moment, the people of this province will not take kindly to subsidizing Medicare, if they are to receive nothing in return.

The Ontario government should make up its mind in this matter. Certainly, it has had plenty of time to do so. And yet we have Health Minister Dymond saying, with a hint of uncertainty, that Ontario is prepared to join the federal scheme but wants to bargain over details.

Why has it waited so long to settle such details? If the issues are still outstanding, they should be tackled without delay and a decision reached one way or another.

Rebel Bishop

Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, Episcopal bishop of the diocese of California, has had his share of trouble. As the centre of religious controversy he has found himself at odds with the Establishment of his own church. He is regarded as something of a heretic.

Recently, a son of Bishop Pike took his own life. Perhaps this tragedy, along with the pressures of his own office, accounts for his expressed desire to resign.

This does not mean he plans to desert his religious calling, although there seems to be some ambiguity about his future. Bishop Pike is said to be considering a contemplative life, but is also reported to be considering the role of a worker-bishop — one who is a bishop but earns his income outside the church.

Bishop Pike may have something in common with evangelist Dr. Billy Graham. The latter is an ordained Baptist but finds he can perform his most effective work and communicate with a vastly greater audience by having no formal affiliation with his church.

In stating his motives for wishing to resign, Bishop Pike gave a shrewd analysis of the current "God Is Dead" philosophy now current in society.

He said the church is torn by conflict between the "in-group club" feeling and the concept of Christianity as a cause. He said this has led to the church's decline and he wants to explore the conflict's roots "with the aim of presenting the faith in a way which is more relevant to contemporary man."

Modern man yearns for enlightenment. He sees society going almost before his very eyes. He sees young people who regard the so-called "new morality" as licence to throw off all restraints, as well as fellow adults whose own ideas of responsibility and discipline are not always on very sure ground.

And while such trends are not unusual, are it fact a part of the natural evolution of mankind, they seem to have outstripped the teachings of religion and the church. It is against this background that Bishop Pike's searching of conscience must be viewed. Who can doubt that the need to present the faith in a manner more relevant to contemporary man is one of the prime needs of Christianity today.

Commons Incident

The explosion of a home-made bomb in a washroom at Parliament Buildings on Wednesday was apparently the work of a crank who had intended detonating it in the Commons.

Whatever his intentions, it is fortunate the bomb exploded where it did, rather than in the Commons. The bomber, who died in the blast, had been listening to the proceedings only a short time previously.

Commons speaker Lucien Lamoureux has been quoted as saying he doubted if security around Parliament Hill would be tightened as a result of the incident.

Incidents of this kind are rare in Canada, and any repetition of it would be out of character. Still, there is bound to be increased surveillance of visitors to the public galleries where the man had been sitting.

Checking Population Growth

Montreal Star

The latest in sound the warning of the consequences of uncontrolled population growth is Prof. A. S. Parkes, of Cambridge. In time, at the current rate of reproduction, he calculates in an address to Cornell University, the world would be crowded to the point that there would be standing room only.

"In 200 years, to be precise, there would be one hundred and fifty billion people," he said.

Very clearly, the current rate of reproduction is going to be changed by some means or other, long before that. To attempt to envision a world with even five times, let alone fifty times, the present population is to enter the realm of the absurd.

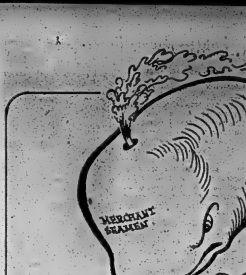
Man is but four form of life that never reaches the limited mathematical limit of reproduction. A single pair of housefiles would, in theory, produce progeny in the course of one season to the number of 191 followed by 27 terms, but there are predators and food deficiencies and so on to take account of, and the theoretically possible never comes about.

But that is cold comfort. It may control it all, because man can control his environment to some extent, as flies cannot, and he is not at the mercy of predators. He is already uncomfortably close to the point at which he is overtaxing the supporting power of his environment. The brakes on population growth in the past were famine, pestilence and war. Enlightened thought today revels in none as an end of all three. The nearer we come to success in that endeavor, the more urgent it is that we impose deliberate checks on population growth and do it soon.

The earth can support more people, but there will come a point at which it will be possible to do so only at the expense of the "quality of living," and a later point at which biological forces will make a decision if man hasn't.

Prof. Parkes thinks the world's present population is big enough. Families averaging two and one-half children would be enough to maintain the present level. The next point of the margin of safety is in sight, even now.

NZ Lures Islanders



Winnipeg Tribune

New Zealand is calling to the Polynesians. One half of the 1,900 inhabitants of the Tokelau Islands, 300 miles north of Samoa, are going to have their transportation paid by the New Zealand government.

Some of the glamor of perfumed nights on coral strands washed by the whispering waves of the blue Pacific is the murmurs of swaying palm trees and dusky maidens has evaporated. Residents of the islands of Fiji, Tonga, Western Samoa, are not going, Nina and several other exotic spots are all looking to New Zealand for a harvest of happiness.

The lure of New Zealand life is said to have attracted much illegal entry. All is forgiven when such newcomers marry New Zealanders and establish a right to remain in this southern bastion of British culture.

As there is a labor shortage in New Zealand at the moment the recruits from the coral reaches of the Pacific are welcomed. Most go to Auckland which is now gaining the reputation of being the capital of a new Polynesian civilization. Bali ha'i!

Dilemma of Own Making

Montreal Gazette

Thefederal Government is now in a difficult position with regard to the commutation of death sentences. The position the Government has been to commute every death sentence since it first came into power. But if capital punishment has been abolished by the House of Commons, resulting in a vote in favor of retaining the death penalty.

The lesson appears to be that the Government ought to have assumed responsibility and corresponding to its convictions: it ought to have officially sponsored a bill to abolish the penalty. Apparently it hoped that the House would do, of its own motive, what the Government would have wished it to do.

It is hard to believe that the responsibility was not evaded. And the Government will now find itself at least some cases, either having to act against its own convictions in obedience to the House, or against the will of the House and according to its own convictions.

Unlikely Thyroid Pills Caused Miscarriage

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My married daughter, 31, has been taking two grains of thyroid regularly for the last 10 years and the doctor says she will have to continue it for the rest of her life. She has been checked once or twice a year with tests of her metabolism or P.B.I. test, and has been normal for more than nine years.

She recently had a miscarriage after three months of pregnancy and the thyroid was blamed for it. Is that correct?

Is it necessary for her to take thyroid for the rest of her life? If not, what could happen? What can be done to prevent another miscarriage? — Mrs. G.L.

I question whether the thyroid had anything to do with the miscarriage. There are many causes for miscarriage. Furthermore the regular B.M.R. or P.B.I. tests show her at normal levels with the thyroid she takes. The dosage, in other words, merely makes up for the amount that her own thyroid gland is not able to produce.

Pallects sometimes stop taking thyroid without being told to do so. Then the lack of sufficient thyroid ordinarily brings on the classic symptoms: excessive fatigue, slow pulse, dull dry skin, hairless hair, sometimes menstrual irregularity.

That, under the circumstances you have described, is what I would expect if your daughter stopped the medication. It is quite possible for a person to have to keep on taking thyroid for the rest of his or her life, and I can see no reason to doubt your physician's estimate of the prospects. Routine tests, of course, should continue to make the situation changes or the dosage needs to be revised.

Because of the range of factors involved in miscarriage, I can't attempt to suggest what might be done to prevent another one. Quite possible nothing need to be done, because one miscarriage does not necessarily mean that it will be repeated. The circumstances may be different next time.

Barring any other evidence that your doctor might discover, my thought would be to put more faith on the assumption that the next pregnancy will be successful.

Dear Dr. Molner: A friend says grape juice is not good for babies. What is harmful about it?

Also is it good to put a baby in a walker? — C. J.

There's nothing wrong with a little grape juice for babies.

As to the walker, don't force a child to walk. Let him crawl and develop his muscles and coordination. When he is ready he will stand, hanging onto some support, and take some steps.

When he knows what his feet and legs can do, that is soon enough to see if he likes a walker, but by that time he may just like to walking unassisted.

Dear Dr. Molner: I was taught that after squeezing fresh oranges, the vitamins are lost if the juice is not used in 15 minutes. Is this true? Others do not agree with me. — Mrs. M. T.

Vitamin C is lost gradually through exposure of air, as well as just by standing. Yes, I suppose there would be a little loss in 15 minutes, but not it would mean a measurable loss, but you still wouldn't lose all of the vitamin by any means. The fresher you drink the juice, the better, but the loss in 15 minutes, or in an hour, wouldn't be enough to worry about. Even after several days some of the vitamin value would remain.

* * *

Note to Mrs. A. W.: Hard "night sweats" often indicate a chronic infection, so a thorough medical examination is obviously in order. Consider also the possibility of a bedroom at night and the thickness of your blankets.

Strictly Personal
The Well-Dressed Duffer

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I was glancing through a Palm Beach periodical recently, when an ad for women's bathing fashions caught my eye — as well it might. Two lithe and elegant models were wearing the kind of abbreviated tennis costumes that would turn any mixed doubles into a sexual shambles.

Quite apart, however, from the delightful absurdity of engaging in an athletic contest in such scanty and ill-suited attire with lace at the front, it occurred to me that there is a kind of "reverse snobbery" in the physical pursuits that the (including advertisers), is not aware of.

Generally speaking, the farther and more elaborate the costume, the less likely is the wearer to be proficient in that activity — and the more likely it is for she to be derided and laughed at by the experts. Fine feathers make fine birds at cocktail parties, perhaps, but not in the field, on the ship, on the court, or atop the horse.

The opposite, indeed, is closer to the truth. A man in the riding stable the man or woman with immaculate breeches and burnished boots and all the accoutrements seen in the store catalogs is usually a beginner or an affected ass who is more concerned with appearance than with the finer points of equitation.

This reverse snobbery is even more manifest on shipboard. The first thing most amateurs do when they buy a boat of any consequence is to outfit themselves like the captain of the Queen Mary, braided hat at all times, which only provokes mirthful hoots from the salty characters who win their races in torn levis, tattered sweatshirts and shoes with holes in the soles.

And experienced hunters can always detect the type who usually carries twice as much gear as he needs, and looks as if he had just stepped out of an Abercrombie and Fitch display window. The more he tries to resemble a fictional hero of a huntsman, the more he labels himself a duffer.

This same endeavor has its own kind of built-in snobbery, and reverse snobbery is simply a more subtle form of one-upmanship toward those who mistakenly believe that "looking the part" gives them membership into the elect at the stable, in the field, or on the dock. Young people, who are shrewder than their elders, recognize this by taking their first pair of riding boots and rolling them into the mud until they look soiled and used in the appropriately expert way.

Those cloque sweater dresses with the pock-a-boo front and slit sides look just great in the ad, but any female swimmer who pranced out on the court in such a costume would be holding the racquet by the wrong end.

They Dislike Giving Tips

Peterborough Examiner

The British, always the leaders in campaigns against things — whether it happens to be blood sports, the bomb, ugliness, or capital punishment — have now launched a new field of endeavor with the establishment of an anti-tipping society. This organization, distributes to its members cards, which they in turn are supposed to leave on restaurant tables and other dens of tipping iniquity. The card reads as follows: "Thank you. I do appreciate your services, but I have not left a tip. I believe that tipping is a patronizing habit and that you should receive a proper wage without having to 'rely on charity. Please pass this to your employer or manager. Published by the Anti-Tipping Campaign."

This seems to us like a particularly sanctimonious and patronizing bit of nonsense. It is, moreover, a rather craven way of avoiding a face to face confrontation with a domineering waiter or a bursty porter. We suspect that it is also merely a facade which hides miserliness behind moral purpose. It suggests that the anti-tippers have lost the battle of one-upmanship which has so all the time between self-respecting cab-drivers, waiters and bell-hops and their clients.

The extraordinary thing about tipping, as one British columnist has pointed out, is that the alleged tyrannized and pathetic objects of charity often receive things (to do not seem to mine' at all. The recipient of a tip who has handed it back to the donor on a point of principle is an unknown phenomenon except, of course, those who do so because they have not been given enough. If the people who were protesting loudly so vigorously were the supposedly abused recipients, one might accord the campaign a good deal more respect.

Claims India Misrepresented

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I was distressed to read in your paper of April 19, some astonishing remarks on India made by Colonel R. Graham. A person of his ability and experience should either have gained a deeper knowledge of India or refrained from making wild and irresponsible remarks about my people and our religion.

It is wrong to say that there is no life insurance in India. We do have life insurance. But it is true that we do not relegate our old parents to "Homes." For us, our father and mother are part of our family and are honorably look after them in their old age. We do not remember our parents only on Father's Day or Mother's Day.

Hindu religion is not another problem for India but its crowning glory. For over five thousand years Hinduism has been preaching tolerance of other religions. It is the only religion in the world which does not believe in conversion. We believe that all paths lead to the same goal. There is no comfort in this religion, it would have died long ago. We do "Puja" and die or "put in hungry" but so do thousands of other unfortunate people elsewhere in the world, even in the most affluent countries.

It is true that everyday things that Colonel Graham and his compatriots take for granted are just not to be had in India. Colonel Graham should not forget two hundred years of colonial exploitation of India. India was not a country of settlement but of exploitation.

Three years in India as the naval and Air Force attache in New Delhi should have enabled Colonel Graham to get to know India a little better.

U.S. Worries About Water

Washington Post

In this decade the cities are profoundly concerned about their water supplies. In the next decade perhaps they will be equally concerned about their air supplies. It is no longer altogether fantastic to suggest that future cities may need air purification and oxygenation plants precisely analogous to the present metropolitan filtration and sewage disposal systems. Perhaps they will even be Condilla to carry fresh air down from the mountains.

Attitude

Munsinger was Mr. Sevigny's mistress.

He had ordered Mr. Sevigny to cut off relations with her. This action bore "a marked resemblance to the treatment of a schoolboy by a headmaster."

Mr. Diefenbaker, he said, should have acted in a different manner. Although he did not specify how, he cited cabinet security directives calling for transfer or removal of persons with doubtful security background.

Mr. Campbell said he cannot understand why Mr. Diefenbaker did not demand to see more than just a summary of RCMP files in the case and why Mr. Fulton did not suggest the files be fully examined.

If this had been done, Mr. Sevigny "or a lot of us" would have been asked for his resignation."

If Mr. Sevigny had been questioned, it would have been clear he did not tell Mr. Diefenbaker the truth about the case and would have revealed "indiscretions by a minister of the Crown which . . . rendered him unfit to hold office."

Mr. Campbell said Mr. Sevigny had put former Conservative trade minister Sauve in a tempe boat as himself by telling Mr. Diefenbaker that Mr. Hees knew Mrs. Munsinger's address. Mr. Diefenbaker could have done was to give Mr. Hees "a friendly word of advice" and suggest he be less indiscreet in future."

CASE PASSED OVER'

It was incomprehensible how the case was passed over without the senior minister of defence, Douglas Harkness, being informed of it by Mr. Fulton.

"The government of the day must be . . . severely criticized basically for doing nothing," Mr. Campbell said.

E. A. Goodman, counsel for Mr. Hees, said in his final argument that Mr. Curtis, whose charges led to the inquiry, had said at a March 10 press conference "I don't say any blame on the minister of justice at that time."

He argued that Mr. Hees, who testified to meeting Mrs. Munsinger four times, was not "involved" with her in any blameworthy way. Nor had Mr. Hees' conduct constituted a security risk.

He said there is a tendency to "overstress hindsight" now that Mrs. Munsinger's "disqualifying" character was known. This could easily have been obscured by a veneer of respectability.

COVER WAS ATTRACTIVE

Mr. Justice Spence said "she had an awfully attractive cover. . . . I'm sure if Mr. Hees had been made a little nervous by such a determined attack by such an obviously attractive subject."

Mr. Goodman replied that the commission terms of reference do not include reporting on "lack of discretion about people you go out with."

Mr. O'Brien's argument occupied the full morning session Thursday and he said Mr. Sevigny's testimony about his relationship with Mrs. Munsinger had been "completely without foundation."

He and "his witness," Jacqueline Dubrow, had tried to portray Mrs. Munsinger with a veneer of culture.

Under the lenient of the facts this picture had crumbled away piece by piece.

'ACCOUNT LUDICROUS'

Mr. Campbell said Miss Dubrow's account of Mrs. Munsinger's character was "so ludicrous" that it failed completely. Mr. Sevigny's protestations of Mrs. Munsinger's charm and high character "deems him in the light of all the evidence."

Mr. O'Brien said Mr. Sevigny's distinguished war record and public service were no protection for him in security matters where there was the "high indiscretion" apparent in the Munsinger case.

Mrs. Munsinger had the "deportment and language of a common harlot, which she undoubtedly was." Her services were "available to the highest bidder for any purpose whatsoever."

Both Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Campbell referred to the question of blackmail over Mr. Sevigny's relationship with Mrs. Munsinger.

Mr. Justice Spence at one point suggested there also should have been an investigation of police reports that political pressures were exerted to get her out of jail for the 1961 trial before her departure for Germany.

Y's Men's Dinner Honors Fifty Volunteer Leaders

The Junior and lay leaders of the Y.M.C.A. who taught and directed the programs of the Y during the past winter were honored at a banquet at the regular meeting of the Belleville Y Men's Club last night. Jack Simons, program director, expressed thanks to the leaders and workers on behalf of the board.

The guests speaker, Flt.-Lt. Felix Walker, Recreation Director of the Canadian Forces Base at Trenton, was introduced by Y's Man John Hayman.

The key to the success of the Y.M.C.A. movement," said the speaker, "is the strength of its leadership program. Since Y work began in Canada over a century ago the emphasis has been on development of a strong volunteer leadership corps. From this program have come many of the outstanding leaders, educators, athletes, and community servants of our country.

"Leadership is the art of influencing others to achieve their goals. Thinking of the othe fellow and putting h needs first is the secret of making it work. Three fundamentals underlie the work of a good leader; possession of a skill, a desire to use it, and the ability to communicate it.

In conclusion the speaker challenged his audience with this thought, "make the best of you. That's all you've got."

Y's Man Lou Backus expressed the thanks of the group to Flt.-Lt. Walker for his excellent address.

World's Botanical Gardens Described at Study Guild

The May meeting of the Belleville Women's Study Guild was held at the home of Mrs. J. A. Buchanan, with president Mrs. C. S. Rosier in the chair. Arrangements were made for next month's supper evening, which is also the annual meeting, at the home of Mrs. D. J. Gill.

The worship was taken by Mrs. L. F. Field. She stressed that God is to be found in gardens and in all of life's pathways, was layed to the evening's topic "The Origin and Function of Botanical Gardens".

This program was given by Mrs. Kenneth Daley and Mrs. H. G. Wylie. Mrs. Wylie opened the presentation by reminding Guild members that the primary purpose of Botanical gardens is educational, and that many of them are connected with universities. Their beauty and the enjoyment they afford the general public is a much appreciated bonus.

The beginnings of botanical gardens date back fifteen hundred years before Christ, in the early olive orchards of the Temple Gardens, and to these we owe the preservation of the handsome Ginkgo trees treasured today. Aristotle was an avid botanist, and wrote books on the subject, and Theophrastus followed and improved on his works. The Herbalists of the 16th century made their contribution, and through the years plants have been cultivated for their medicinal properties, and produced in quantity for commercial use.

DESCRIBES MISSOURI GARDEN

Mrs. Wylie showed pictures and booklets and gave details of four of the most famous gardens of the United States. The Missouri Botanical Gardens were established in 1859 by Henry Shaw, a retired business man. These gardens have an outstanding display of lily ponds, including giant water lily pads which will support as much as 40 lbs. per square foot distributed weight, and there are beautifully scented night blooming lilies. Here too is featured a Climatron — the world's first climate controlled greenhouse where plants of the most cool in summer without sacrifice of their need for sun. On the horizon the Climatron looms like a giant UFO, and inside it the air is changed and water cooled. Here botanists are experimenting with parasitic cures for the troublesome sleepy sickness which would be followed with interest by Quinte residents. In Missouri also are to be found the bizarre century plants which provided food, drink, clothing, pins, needles and thatching for the Aztecs.

The University of California Botanical Garden was established in 1895, originally on the campus. Here the rhododendron collection is one of the most interesting, and there are large collections of succulents and cacti. The original rose garden was dispersed with, since nearby Berkeley boasted a very fine one, and in its place wild flowers from New Zealand, Australia and Hawaii have been sought out and planted so as to preserve them from threatened extinction.

DESERT ARBORETUM

The Boyce Thompson South Western Arboretum of the Arizona Desert has altitudes of 1,000 feet on one side, and from 2,000 to 4,000 feet on the other, and features plants from desert countries, including giant and exotic cacti. This Arboretum also boasts seventy species of animals, and brave night-time visitors could quite well encounter deer, coyotes, ringtails and bobcats.

The Brooklyn Botanical Gardens has about 4½ million visitors a year, 30 thousand of whom flock to at cherry blossom time. The Brooklyn gardens have one of the most beautiful Japanese gardens in the western world, and here, as well as in the unusual Stone Garden, where stone is skilfully rippled to suggest the sea, a feeling of tranquility is paramount. As well, in the Brooklyn Botanical Gardens, much research is being done on air pollution problems.

Mrs. Kenneth Daley took up the program to talk about Canadian botanical gardens. Besides the Royal Botanical Gardens at Hamilton, which has 1,500 acres and a special children's garden, as well as a museum and library. There are gardens in Toronto and Montreal, and a garden in Vancouver, which is in its infancy but is receiving support and shows promise. The Niagara parks also have a notable display of art, flowers and shrubs.

KEW GARDEN PICTURED

The evening's presentation was rounded off by a film shown by Mrs. Daley of Kew Gardens. The Royal Botanical Gardens of London, England, begun in the reign of King George III by the Princess of Wales, and designed, not as a public park but as a scientific institute. Here botanical experts have worked all over the world for 200 years, and a significant plants, and the gardens has been the supply to Commonwealth countries of Cinchona plant, in addition to India to fight malaria, and the founding in 1877 of the rubber industry in Malaya, which was entirely due to the work of Kew scientists.

The pictures of spring beauty — daffodils and magnolia trees, and azaleas, were a delight to the audience, which watched and viewed the important work of men and women collecting specimens of thousands of miles away, and at home examining, identifying, preserving, cataloguing and developing growing plants to go to Ghana, Australia, Ceylon or Trinidad, for use the world over, and in foreign soil. Student gardeners were shown working alongside experts in the lovely surroundings, and the film ended at the end of a day, with the tolling of the large bell which signalled the day's work over.

Mrs. R. C. Ellis and Mrs. S. Eles were hostesses for this evening.

SHE'S GOING TO BE THE BOSS, MAYBE—Under the watchful eye of Mrs. Bernard Limoges (left) Janet Haynes, 15, of Ottawa works with her two bloodhounds at an obedience class. "Any Dog Can Be Trained," Says Dog Club President

By MARILYN ARGUE

OTTAWA (CP)—If the puppy you got last Christmas has turned out to be a cross between Genghis Khan and a tornado, you might consider obedience classes.

"Any dog can be trained," says Mrs. Bernard Limoges, president of the Bytown Dog Obedience Club. "It all depends on his owner's attitude."

She ought to know. Her club conducts classes that make little gentlemen and ladies out of about 200 shoe - chewing, cat-chasing Ottawa dogs every year.

School entry age is six months for big dogs and nine months for small breeds.

"We take the large ones younger because at six months they've driven their owners frantic. They call up and say 'He's so big and he won't do anything.' But we've trained them at all ages up to five and six years."

The classes sponsored by the Ottawa club cost $15 for 10 lessons of 45 minutes each. Owners are expected to spend 15 minutes a day schooling the animal at home. On graduation night, the whole student and his master is tested.

TRAIN OWNERS

"We don't train the dogs—we train the owners how to deal with their pets. But it's great for the dogs—there are very few that don't like it. Take mine down to visit sometimes and he just loves to go."

Successful graduates of the beginners course can take 10 dog's more lessons to reach novice status, and then 10 more to qualify for trials leading to the degrees of Companion Dog (CD), Companion Dog Excellent (CDX) and Utility Dog (UD).

The degrees are awarded at annual trials held in most cities but only about 10 per cent of beginners go on to higher learning.

"In this first course they learn basic obedience commands—heel, sit, down, come, stay, and stand. Most of them are household pets and that's all they really need."

But dogs, similar for UD, the PhD of the canine school system, must retrieve a dumb-bell on the flat and over a jump, do a broad jump, sit and come on hand signals, jump over a choice of obstacles according to command, and pick a dumbbell his owner has handled from a group of 12 carrying various scents.

Whether your pet is a mutt who is great with the kids or a moody Afghan genius, you should take the same tack in training.

CONTROLLED BY COLLAR

"You have to be consistent. If you tell him to sit, you must make him sit, not let him get up and walk away if he feels like it."

Discipline shouldn't be the thick leather belt variety though. "We use the voice—say 'no'—and a training collar with six-foot lead."

The collar is made of chain links and loops around the dog's neck. When he pulls against it, it tightens like a noose. When he obeys, it slips loose again.

Mrs. Limoges, a dark-haired, blue - eyed native of Ottawa, has nine dogs at home at the moment—two grown - up pups and their seven well-behaved puppies.

"They're the grandest little house - dogs — marvellous with the children"—David, 6, and Sandra, 2. "As a matter of facts in England they call them "nursery dogs'."

The father pug, Herman, under his show name First Young Lord, is a Canadian champion, and well on his way to the same status in the U.S.

Although he has lovely manners, Mrs. Limoges admits he has no official obedience degree. "I've been too busy training everybody else's dogs."

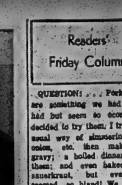
HOLY ROSARY C.W.I.

The regular meeting of the C.W.I., of Holy Rosary Council was held recently. The meeting was chaired by Mrs. A. Eves in the absence of the president and opening prayer was said by Rev. Father Burns.

Highlights of the convension at Perth were read by Mrs. A. Eves. A tentative date for the fall bazaar was set and is to be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall.



The June meeting will be in the form of a potluck supper on June 18th at the Separate.

An enjoyable period of timely questions answered by Rev. Father Burns brought the meeting to a close and a social hour followed.

Readers' Friday Column

QUESTION: . . . Pork hocks are something we had never had but seem so economical decided to try them; I tried the usual way of simmering with onion, etc. then making a gravy; a boiled dinner with them; and even baked with sauerkraut, but everything seemed so bland! We are a family that likes highly spiced foods with a bit of "zest" to them. Is there anything like that you can do with pork hocks? . . . Lita H.

ANSWER: Patiently waiting in the "Test" basket was a recipe for Pork Hocks sent to me at Christmastime by Mary Mac. She quotes her husband, "I have never tasted hocks so good." That sparked me to say hello and serving them for Sunday's dinner and I agree with her husband. These Pork Hocks certainly ARE not bland. They reminded me of the Sweet 'n Sour Spareribs served in Chinese restaurants.

Grilled Spring Salmon Steaks; Lemon Butter; Scalloped Potatoes; Buttered Green Beans; Head Lettuce Salad with Ripe Olive Dressing; Orange-Apricot Souffle (see Wed.); Tea.

SWEET 'N SOUR PORK HOCKS (Serves 4)

- 2 pounds pork hocks (see comments below)
- 1 clove garlic chopped(or ¼ tsp. powdered green onion)
- 1 tablespoon oil
- 1/3 cup soy sauce
- ¼ cup water
- 4 tablespoons brown sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup hot water

I bought 2 pork hocks which had been split in two to make 4 pieces. They were 36c per pound and cost me $1.08. I sliced the meatiest side away from the bone of each piece giving me 8 pieces of meat in all, half of them with bone in.

In a large frying pan saute the chopped garlic (or onion) in the oil until limp but not brown. Remove garlic or onion and reserve it. Add cut pork hocks and brown on all sides. Then spoon about 15 minutes, turning frequently. Add soy sauce and ¼ cup water, brown sugar and salt to pan and turn hocks over in this bubbly brown sauce until thick and coated. Add the 1 cup boiling water and reserved garlic, cover pan, reduce heat to simmer and cook 3¼ hours turning hocks every half hour.

Add these delicious hocks with broccoli and whole boiled new potatoes. The Chinese people serve it with crisp cooked spinach and rice. The Germans serve hocks with noodles and sauerkraut. Or, once a second time with noodles and sauerkraut and preferred that combination.

Having Problems With Independent Son

DEAR DORIS: Our son, 18, is the oldest of three. He likes to go, skips school, smokes and has started to drink. When we remonstrate he says he is grown up and has to lie and deceive us as we will not let him do the things he feels he is entitled to do at his age.

We cannot decide whether we have been too lenient or too strict and protective. He has his driver's license but counts it when we ask where he is going or tell him not to go to a certain place—such as across the border—he goes just the same and lies about it. He has been in several minor scrapes with the law. He borrows from us and cannot pay it back.

He has done badly in school, but still thinks he can make it into college next year.

He is running with a bunch who are no good to him as none of them are interested in higher education.

We are a quiet, united family where very little drinking, smoking or socializing goes on. We are scared for him and disappointed.

Does one give up and let the likes of our son learn the hard way?—KELLY'S MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: Afraid so. Some time he has to come up against the hard facts of life and work his way through them.

You have been both too lenient and too protective: have laid down regulations, then winked at his breaking them; have not required enough from him in the way of shared responsibilities.

Through your own too-quiet home, you have tacitly allowed him to seek his fun far away from you.

What would you think of letting him earn his keep for a while? If he went to build up his bank account for a college course by sheer hard work, he'd approach books, professors, and life itself with a new look, say two or three years from now.

DEAR DORIS: Would you please give us your ideas about how to talk to a boy on the phone?—TWO GIRLS.

DEAR TWO: The big mistake is to think of a phone call as a date in itself.

The whole family suffers when a boy-girl telephone talk stretches out interminably, or when you're occupied wholly with kidding, or exchanging sweet nothings with the Big Moment, Ground rules in some quarters limit all calls to ten minutes.

A telephone call is not to make appointments or to complete arrangements for coming events.

CONFIDENTIAL TO TROUBLED: A 13 you had better be completely un-serious with this boy—or any boy. Tell him (in your most mature tones) that you are far too young for any serious thoughts. His desires to become "serious" are completely selfish.

DEAR DORIS: I'm an average 16-year-old girl. I've been going out with a 16-year-old guy for the past four weeks; just to school dances, a few parties; and skating, bowling.

He's been nice to me but suddenly he's deciding to "pack me." Doris, what did I do wrong? He's told me so many nice and romantic things. When he kissed me it meant something special to me. Please help.—ALL ALONE.

DEAR ALL ALONE: It's not my first flame but he is the only one I feel something a little more about. How can I avoid him leaving me?—ALL ALONE.

DEAR ALL ALONE: Romantic? Yes. But permanent? Oh, no. Love is a many splendored thing and it starts at 14. He has served you the problem of how to pack him in, a while from now, when you decide to change—say two weeks from now.

DEAR DORIS: In this modern age is it proper (or safe) for parents to allow their 13-year-old daughter, accompanied by a seven-year-old cousin, to walk four blocks to a store in the city at 8.30 in the evening?

At this time of year it is dark here. Of course there are a few street lights.—NEIGHBOR.

DEAR NEIGHBOR: Not proper or safe—in my book. Though there is no law against it.

A 13-year-old girl is apt to think she can take care of herself; but there are times when she just shouldn't expect to manage alone.

DEAR DORIS: I am recovered from a nervous breakdown and people who know about it are not too friendly and feel sorry for me too.

I don't want sympathy. I just want a lot of friends, and advice when I ask for it.—SLIGHTLY WORRIED.

DEAR SLIGHTLY: Which is what any one of us wants. Despite much publicity, the fact escapes some that mental illness can strike anywhere, anytime, the same as influenza. And does respond to treatment.

The encouragement, friends and encouragement in both cases. Don't let pity make you sorry for yourself; just weather the chill and they'll come round.

DEAR DORIS: I'm bored with caring for children in my own home as this ties me down. I'm 53. I get depressed with staying home so much.

I never quite finished grade nine. Is there anything I could take up at a vocational school? My health is such that I could only work part time. I've been suffering from nerve exhaustion ever since my operation 20 years ago.

The more I stay at home the harder it is to meet people. I've been told I have a nice voice but I don't sing very much before I find I'm tired in the chest. Am I too old for singing lessons? — BORED STIFF.

DEAR BORED: Know what? You would be less exhausted if you did more! — More or the right things — which are not to be done in solitude.

Your voice tires easily because the muscles you use to sing with need exercise and development. Of course you are not too old.

Start your hunt: visit your vocational school, find a singing teacher, talk to your doctor. And read my ten-cent leaflet "Part Time Work at Home or in Community," which is on its way to you.

(Doris has studied human behavior and can shed light on many dilemmas. Write to her, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Here's the home recipe yourself: It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naraa Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then two tablespoons full a day are needed and follow the Naraa Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bothy fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if the valuable pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from arms, chin, knees, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way gendered by many who have tried the plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. Have slim, youthful shape you've always wanted.

Librarian Has Travelled Through Most of Canada

By MARILYN ARGUE

OTTAWA (CP) — There's a librarian in Ottawa who has travelled through most of Canada as part of her job.

Pamela Hardisty doesn't drive a bookmobile — she's the assistant librarian in the Library of Parliament, the first woman to hold this position.

The travelling happened before she went to the Hill in 1962. Then she was working for the National Library, microfilming catalogues.

"They sent me to Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, all through Ontario and as far west as Saskatchewan. I spent some time in Quebec and a month in Montreal."

But now she spends most of her time in the round Gothic library at the back of Parliament's Centre Block. Her sunny office overlooks the Ottawa River and Gatineau Hills.

Miss Hardisty is a slim, brown - haired woman with hazel eyes behind light-framed glasses. She wore a pretty green linen suit when interviewed and said she likes to shop for fashions in London whenever she is on holiday in Britain.

"We have four weeks' holidays, though we can only take them when Parliament is in recess. I've been to Britain several times — I like the theatre and concerts in London, but the countryside interests me too. I like historical places."

FOND OF BOOKS

She went into library work because of a love of books and reading. "I think that's why most people become librarians," at first. Later you enjoy it for other reasons, too."

But before she attended the University of Manitoba, she wasn't too familiar with libraries at all. Born in Winnipeg, she grew up in the town of Medeshki about 150 miles north of Winnipeg in Manitoba's Ilter-Lake region.

After graduation from university in 1941, she went to library school in Toronto and then to the Toronto Public Library's reference section.

Her duties in the Parliamentary Library include selecting new books in English, with an emphasis on political, historical and economic works.

"We keep some current fiction for the reading room, and biography."

There are about 200,000 books, documents and periodicals in the high - domed main library, with 15 reading tables and a table statue of Queen Victoria. About 200,000 more are in storage in the nearby Supreme Court building. The library also subscribes to 950 newspapers.

SHORTAGE OF STAFF

All that reading material is for the use of MPs and senators, so the library has to be open until the House adjourns at night. Sometimes that means staying till midnight or later.

The shortage of librarians is felt even on the Hill.

"When a reference librarian went back to university to get his MA, we had to wait five months before we found someone to fill the position." The library's staff of 70 includes clerks, secretaries and 20 graduate librarians.

Graduate students working on theses sometimes use the extensive file of newspaper clippings, but undergraduates can't work there as a rule — "we wouldn't have time to cope with our regular work."

Requests of MPs usually centre on topics of current debate — background material on health insurance, immigration policy and capital punishment, for instance.

"Lately, we've had requests for different versions of 'O Canada'. During the flag debate we did a lot of research on different flags that had been used and heraldic background."

MPs don't always make it easy to find what they're looking for.

"One man phoned down and asked for a poem he called 'Just for a Pot of Gold.' It turned out he was looking for 'Just for a Handful of Silver.'"

Batawa Church Marks Anniversary

BATAWA — On Sunday morning Batawa United Church congregation observed its 10th anniversary. The guest minister for this occasion was the Rev. David F. Summers Ph.D. of Toronto. Since August 1958 Dr. Summers has been the executive secretary of the Religion-Labor Council of Canada. He was well qualified to bring a message of particular interest to a congregation in a factory community such as Batawa.

Special anthems were sung by the senior choir.

A number of former members of the congregation together with friends from Zion United Church and other churches of the area attended.

Dr. Summers' sermon was also of interest to the young people who were attending the Hi-C Rally. These included a bus load from Lundy's Lane, Niagara Falls, United Church.

LITTLE KITCHEN DRAPES

Dear Susanna: Having read your article about dirndl skirts being made into aprons may I pass along a suggestion I have used for many years?

I fully skirted summer dresses and skirts make excellent kitchen and basement drapes for small windows, or to cover the glass of an outside door such as one leading to the garden.

Open the two seams of the skirt, to make two pieces, hem along all sides, make a small heading for the rod and there you are.

Very colorful and so easy to launder.

Do enjoy your column — first thing I look for on that page. — (Mrs.) Irene Carrick

VERSATILE ONION BAGS

Dear Susanna: Cottage time, folks, which often means making do with whatever happens to be on hand.

For instance, take those mesh onion bags.

Fluffy quilts good, when wrinkled up a bit, for scrubbing pots run a cord or ribbon through the top, and just watch the smaller fry swing down to the beach with bathing hat and other odds and ends conveniently piled together in this useful light container. — Mrs. L. Plewes

Church Groups

ST. MICHAEL'S C.W.I.

The Catholic Women's League of St. Michael's parish held the first regular meeting of the 1956-57 season, on Monday evening, with the spiritual prayer led by the Director, Rt. Rev. J. P. Sullivan.

During the business session, copies of the League constitution and by - laws were distributed to the executive by the president, Mrs. G. F. O'Brien. The treasurer, Mrs. E. D. Tunnell, informed members of the financial success of the auction sale, rummage sale and marathon bridge. Mrs. H. M. Brown volunteered to convene the hospitality committee. The Sunday Nursery, which did such a fine job last year, is in need of volunteer help.

Mrs. J. Whalen, Mrs. J. R. Rashotte and Mrs. G. F. O'Brien, delegates to the Diocesan Convention in Perth, presented interesting reports. Mrs. H. M. Brown, who was appointed first vice - president of the Diocesan Council, demonstrated "a model meeting" at the convention.

President, Mrs. G. F. O'Brien will represent the local council at the Provincial convention to be held at the Inn on the Park, Toronto, in July.

Members were reminded of the Y.O.D. annual spring tea, at Tabernacle United Church, on May 18th, Mrs. J. Morey and Mrs. J. Boyle were volunteered their services at the home-baking table and it was suggested that donations of home-baking to Mention was also made of the C.W.L. summer tea at the home of Mrs. S. Kvarda, 120 Dundas St. West, in June.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. R. B. Lally introduced the guest speaker Miss Rosemary Soden, who spoke on "The Youth Travel Exchange Programme," a subject on which she is qualified to speak, having, herself, been on the student exchange last summer.

In referring to national bilingualism and biculturalism, the speaker remarked that Canadians must realize that there is French and English Canada, living side by side.

"The Student Exchange is wonderful," she said, "in that it enables us to see the French problems, and to show us that Quebec people do have grievances. We can see their way of living, and that they have to accept our standards, first."

On behalf of the Catholic Women's League, Mrs. L. Rashotte expressed sincere thanks and appreciation for a most interesting talk, and presented the speaker with a gift.

Lunch was served at the close of the meeting.

Ann Landers
Old Fogey States Case For Boy's Name for Boy

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was especially interested in the letter from the man who didn't want his wife to name their son Beverly — and I don't blame him. My brother's name was Vivian and he really had the girls' gym class in an uproar until they discovered the mistake.

Along this same line I'd like to say something about giving male names to girls. Several years ago, when I was over at my job, the boss invited me to his home to meet his family. His young son and daughter came into the room and the boss beamed, "I want you to meet Evelyn and Bobby." I extended my hand to the young girl and said, "I'm happy to meet you, Evelyn." She replied, "I am Bobby. My brother is Evelyn." ANN LANDERS

At that moment the boss' wife appeared on the scene. "I'm Mrs. Jones," she said, cordially. "Please call me Fred."

It was an unforgettable night, you can be sure. But it made me more determined than ever to give my own children names that would leave no doubt as to their sex. And I did. — OLD FOGEY.

DEAR FOGEY: If you want to start a Society for the Prevention of Giving Children Misleading Names, I suggest that you contact Shirley Povich, one of the country's finest sports writers. A few years ago Shirley was astonished to find himself listed in Who's Who of American Women.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am the mother of a bride and I would like to call attention to a problem I've never seen discussed in your column although I have been reading it for many years.

Our daughter was married last week. The ceremony was beautiful and the bride looked exquisite — until she had been in the receiving line for five minutes. Almost every woman who came through left a red blotch of lipstick on her lovely face.

After about 30 disfiguring kisses — on her mouth, cheeks, eyelids, and even her nose, I could stand it no longer. I stepped out of the line and handed her a mirror and a piece of tissue. She was mortified to see herself decorated like a circus clown.

Why can't women wear cheeks if they wish to show affection? It is thoughtless to mess up people with paint. Thank you. — NETTLED.

DEAR NET.: The cheek-to-cheek routine makes a great deal more sense than smearing a friend with lipstick — not only when passing through a receiving line but on any other occasion. Thank you for writing.

DEAR ANN: You keep saying alcoholism is a sickness and I wish you'd cut it out. Alcoholism is hereditary and if you don't believe it you ought to come over and meet my husband's family.

My father-in-law and my mother-in-law have not drawn a sober breath since the day I met them 15 years ago. The two boys in the family are beer drunks and the girls sip sherry from morning till night. If you will explain how the whole family picked up the same sickness, I'll apologize. — HAD IT.

DEAR IT: There are a variety of theories on what causes alcoholism. A tendency toward alcoholism may run in a family, but it is not inherited in the same way that curly hair is inherited.

I suspect your husband's family is loaded with emotional problems and that they all chose the same method of escape.

THERE'S GOLD IN THEM THAR KIDS — Canada's youth will spend an estimated $1,000,000,000 this year, mostly in the luxury market, and helping them make their purchases will be Mike Stephans (left, grey suit) whose Youth Research Council specializes in this market. Here, Italian pop singer Rita Pavone (black-and-white sweater) drops in on a Montreal theatre panel Stephans has organized to get the youth view on current movies. (CP Photo)

Marketing People Engrossed In Capturing Teenage Trade

By DON JOHNSON

MONTREAL (CP)—Glance at any marketing magazine and it's a safe bet you'll find at least one item on "the youth market."

Corporations, ad men, researchers, marketing people and stylists are all engrossed in this compulsive, brand-loyal, conformist-to-fad group —people between 13 and 25.

They make up half Canada's population. They set the trends and influence family purchasing. Most are between 18 and 19 and have money to spend.

Canada's 13-to-25 youth will spend an estimated $1,000,000,000 this year, the bulk of it for clothes, entertainment and general grooming.

To understand this market, industry has turned to research. Four years ago Mike Stephans Youth Research Council was launched in Montreal to deal exclusively in research in this particular market.

"Only two markets existed 10 years ago—that of children and that of adults," Stephans says. "Now there are three—the ups-13 group, the youth segment of 13 to 25 and the over-25 category."

He breaks down his youth group even further, a "pre-bra set," for example.

"We are trying to reach this group now because this is the time they form their buying habits for life."

SHOP SATURDAYS

Statistically, this group is interesting. The average girl owns 7.3 lipsticks, having bought at least one within the month. She began using lipstick at 13½ and practically never uses the same brand as mother. Twenty per cent of the girls shop Saturday afternoons.

Teen-agers buy 70 per cent of all 45 r.p.m. records sold. Their average weekly earnings are $9.44 and average allowance $3.20.

Automobile manufacturers are hot after the market of the senior-youth set. Through 20 studies, one firm discovered that 36 per cent of those under 25 liked floor-mounted, four-speed stick - shifts, the rear of high-performance engines, foreign styling and flair of a convertible—and at a low price.

Mr. Stephans says parents have little influence on youths' buying habits; the reverse was usually true. Older women now wear shorter skirts, use more makeup and copy young hair styles, he says.

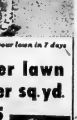
However, as soon as adults generally adopt a fad the youths drop it. They conform to one another, never to adults.

In a recent survey, results showed only 3.8 per cent of youths said they had no influence on selection of the next new family car.

SAMPLE MOVIES

Soon after he opened his agency, Mr. Stephans sold a firm with more than 33 theatres in the area on the idea of letting him find out what the youth market thought about movies.

Since then a 45 - member theatre panel has seen two preview showings of pictures a month before they appear anywhere in local theatres.



The panel discusses the film after viewing and suggests where it should be shown—downtown, suburban or neighborhood houses. It has proved successful, Mr. Stephans says.

In return the members get a seven - day - a - week movie pass to any of the 33 theatres, are taken on social outings and are introduced to their film idols when they come to town.

Salmon in New Brunswick Face Variety of Hazards

FREDERICTON (CP) — The salmon's battle for survival in New Brunswick, already difficult at best, is becoming even tougher.

There are the natural hazards of migration to be faced, but on top of that the salmon in rivers have to contend with lethal insecticides, mine and smelter effluents, dams blocking their way and churning turbines. Now there's drought.

Last year sportsmen caught 65,558 salmon in New Brunswick rivers. J. J. Feety, president of the Miramichi Salmon Association, says the catch should be as good this year if there is no change in conditions. A heavy snow cover could make the spring run better than 1965.

But there are other figures that concern anglers. For example, in the North Miramichi last year 64 adult fish were counted going through a fish ladder. That figure should have been more than 3,000. The fish have gone up river to spawning grounds.

At the same spot about 2,000 grilse—fish returning to spawning grounds from their first trip to sea—were counted. There should have been about 5,000.

Since the forestry department curtailed DDT spraying there have been noticeably fewer salmon dying from insecticide poisoning. Chemicals less harmful to pests near the major fish streams.

"But there is still DDT used in areas away from the rivers and it reaches them through feeder streams," Feety says.

Perhaps of greater danger to the salmon is the increase in pollution.

"I think industry and angling are compatible on the rivers if we get co-operation from government and industry," Feety says. "But we are not happy with all the New Brunswick Water Authority has done and is doing. There are many pressures on them from industry."

A major worry to sports fishermen is the mining and smelting project at Belledune on the North Shore This will discharge copper effluent, particularly deadly to fish, into the streams.

"The salmon run into this in a river and immediately turn around and go back to the sea. They never return to the river again. Nobody knows where they go or what happens to them."

Hydro dams are also of concern and wildlife associations say they are convinced these are responsible for much of the decline in fish population.

In the St. John River near Fredericton where the giant Mactaquac dam is being built a new system is being tried. There will be no fishway but instead fish will be planted in the river above the dam.

"It won't help the fish coming down the river to the sea and it will take at least three years to evaluate this," Feety says. "We'll be tagging fish."

DOW

There couldn't be a better time!
You just can't buy a better beer!

Ask the Official Analysts
They'll tell you that in the past few weeks Dow has come through the toughest tests of any beer in the entire history of brewing. And it came through with flying colours for brewing methods . . . quality . . . purity . . . and taste.

Ask our competitors
Sure they're proud of their own products. And rightly so. But even they can tell you that Dow has always met the highest industry standards for quality of ingredients, processes, and the care with which Dow products are brewed.

Ask the Dow drinker
He'll be happy to tell you why he's loyal to Dow. And don't be surprised if he talks about great taste, and refreshment, and a real out-and-out beer-drinking enjoyment no other brew can match.

Ask us
As far as we're concerned the headline says it all: You just can't buy a better beer, so next time, make yours Dow. There couldn't be a better time for you to swing to Dow. It'll pay off in pleasure and satisfaction for you. We promise.

Ask yourself
When a beer has gone through tougher official tests than any other brew in history . . . when even our competitors can vouch for its quality and purity . . . when its taste has been checked out by thousands and thousands of Ontario beer-drinkers and found to be an easy winner—

Next time shouldn't you make yours Dow?

Sunday School Lesson

A Most Sensible Prayer

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

One of the most sensible prayers ever prayed a found in Proverbs 30:8-9 RSV. Here the writer prays, "Give me neither poverty nor riches; feed me with the food that is needful for me, lest I be full, and deny thee, and say, 'Who is the Lord?' or lest I be poor, and steal, and profane the name of the Lord."

Hunger can tempt a person to steal, and disobey the Lord. Wealth can tempt a person to drift into indulgence, and forget the Lord. Of the two, the second can be the more dangerous. The chief known he is doing wrong. The prosperous person may not know he is drifting into soft and self-centred living that, for all practical purposes, leaves out God.

The dangers of too much prosperity were clearly seen by the founders of Israel. When the Israelites were still struggling to get a foothold in a land they could call their own, the author of Deuteronomy ran up danger signals warning the people to beware of the time when they would no longer have to struggle. "Take heed," he wrote "lest when you have eaten and are full, and have built goodly houses and live in them, and when your herds and flocks multiply, and your silver and gold is multiplied, and all that you have is multiplied, then your heart be lifted up, and you forget the Lord your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt . . . Beware lest you say in your heart, 'my power and the might of my hand have gotten me this wealth.' You shall remember the Lord your God, for it is He who gives you power to get wealth." (Deut. 8:11-14, 17-18 RSV)

PREDICTION COMES TRUE

The dire days predicted by the ancient writer came true during the reign of Jeroboam II. During his days, Israel enjoyed its greatest prosperity. He extended the borders of his kingdom from Hamath (the northern limit of Solomon's kingdom) to the sea of Arabia (the Dead Sea). Agriculture and commerce flourished. Wealth increased, in terms of wealth, he was Israel's most successful king.

But prosperity brought its problems. The gap between the rich and the poor widened. The poor were flagrantly exploited. Justice had to bow low to loose living. It was a time to cry the soul of a sensitive prophet.

Amos was such a prophet. Thanks to him, we know much about the prosperity of Jeroboam's reign. Through his eyes we also see its moral decline. Indulgent living was everywhere. The rich slept on beds of ivory, and drank wine from silver bowls. They anointed themselves with the finest oils. Much of their time was given to revelry, (Amos 6:4-7) The poor were forgotten. Worse than that, they were cruelly exploited. Merchants could hardly wait till the Sabbaths and the feast days were over; so they could get back to the business of making money. Vital religion was at a low ebb. (Amos 8:4-6)

PLUMB LINE HANGS

A righteous God would not permit such disregard for human need, and the divine Will to continue. To the prophet Amos, God's presence was like a plumb-line of judgment. (Amos 7:7-9) The plumb-line revealed how far the nation's life was wanting. Eventually it would fall over.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for May 22: "Corruption Amidst Prosperity," II Kings 14:23-29; Amos 5:14-15, 21-24; 6:1-7; 7.

As for the people, they were like a basket of summer fruit. (Amos 8:1-2) Fruit plucked from the vine faces two possible fates. Either it will be consumed or it will rot. If Israel kept on its present course, it would be consumed by an enemy, or rot from within.

The answer to Amos was clear. A revival of true religion. Not a revival of religious ceremonies. Without justice, such ceremonies were odious in the sight of God. A revival of justice was needed, "Let justice roll down like waters, and righteousness like an everflowing stream." (Amos 5:24)

The United States needs to hear this message. No nation has ever known such wealth. But religion to many is a meaningless form. Funds to fight poverty are often diverted into pockets already filled. In many places, drinking to excess is epidemic. For many, gambling is more attractive than godliness. Many are tempted to think that power and wealth are the answers to today's problems.

The United States has much to teach the rest of the world. It also has much to learn from those who are still struggling against tyranny, poverty, and disease. Above all, Americans must remember with humility and gratitude the Providence that brought them out of oppression in other lands and hardships in the days of the founding fathers.

Many Attend Hospital Panel Discussion

NAPANEE — The large audience which attended the meeting of the Hospital Auxiliary this week heard a panel of hospital employees answer some of the questions they must have asked themselves, and give a clear picture of four phases of hospital administration.

Dr. Brant Vergstrome, chairman of the Hospital Board, explained the convenience and speed of the emergency coverage, as compared with the former method of publishing in the local weekly paper a list of doctors on duty during holidays and weekends. Often that particular doctor could not have been called out. Now there are at least two doctors always listed by the hospital.

James Hepburn, hospital administrator explained why the hospital can give out so little information. Strictly speaking, it cannot even tell you whether a person is a patient or when he is discharged. It is all because of the restrictions placed on all hospitals by the Public Hospital Act of Ontario.

PATIENT CARE

Miss Violet Cambiln, director of nursing at the hospital, spoke on what a patient could expect from the nursing staff. She described the procedure of admission, and said that from the moment the patient entered the hospital doors, she must be made to feel that she is an individual and not a case. "Mrs. Jones is not an appendix case, but she is Mrs. Jones with bowl-ons likes and dislikes, which may be altogether unlike those of Mrs. Smith in the next bed. "All this must accompany the best possible nursing care," she stated.

Mrs. Roy Markman, assistant director of nursing, described the inservice education available. Nurses who have not been active professionally while their families were growing up are welcomed back to learn what has been going on since they have not been in the profession. Changes are taking place daily, she said, with new equipment, new drugs, new methods of treatment. These must all be learned by the nurse who has not been active for some time.

Mrs. Markman also described the care taken by the hospital administration to watch the health of all its employees. Some checks, as for TB, are mandatory under the Hospital Act, but this hospital is going much farther than the law demands. The nurses will be immunized against influenza, for example, when the time comes.

Miss Kay McFarland was the moderator.

General Plans Outlined for Centennial

NAPANEE — R. W. Macpherson told both the members of the Chamber of Commerce on Monday, and of the Rotary Club the following day, that the celebrations in Napanee for Canada's 100th birthday in 1967 will not be at all like those for the 100th birthday of Napanee and county in 1964. "Then all the activities were crowded into one week. Next year the celebrations will extend over the year, probably beginning with the New Year's ball", he said.

Mr. Macpherson is general chairman of the town's Centennial committee. At a planning meeting Wednesday night, Mrs. Bernice Asselstine was appointed vice - chairman for women's activities and Grant Clark for men's activities. Scout Masters and Ron Wilson and Jim Elliott make up the planning committee, and Miss Betty Chamberlain was appointed secretary.

The meeting considered only general plans, and did not decide wether special events should be held weekly or monthly. They did agree, however, that everybody should begin now to acquire a costume, as some events will be open only to those who are in costume.

They agreed also, that the Centennial should be a personal thing. Each individual should have some special Centennial project, even if it is only to paint a fence or plant a rosebush.

Whether or not the county will have its own Centennial or will co - operate with Napanee is not yet known. A committee was appointed by the County Council but has not yet made any report to Mr. Macpherson. Members of the county Committee are Warden Plotz, Deputy-Reeve Reg. Douglas of Napanee, Reeve Al Hawley of Bath, and Reeve Erwell Huff of Ernestown.

Escapes Injuries In Car Accident

NAPANEE — A Picton man Douglas Marlow escaped injury when his car was involved in an accident at Storms Corners at 6.40 Thursday morning. Damage to the car was approximately $350. The Napanee area has been unusually free of accidents for several days, the O.P.P. here report.

R. B. Cowan Wants Publishers To Pay More to Aid Posties

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Ralph B. Cowan said Thursday night multi-millionaire publishers should pay more so humble postal employees can take home decent wages.

Mr. Cowan (York - Humber) also said the post office has pledged its books to create "an apparent $11,000,000 deficit" to head off wage demands.

This was one way of telling workers it must pay more, he said during debate on the department's 1960-61 spending estimates.

The post office penalized its employees by not charging fair rates, he added.

Canada should adopt postal rates like those in the United States, where rates rise with distance.

Publishers in Canada could send periodicals and magazines from Toronto to nearby Oakville or to Vancouver for the same rate.

Mr. Cowan also said foreign magazines are delivered by the Canadian post office for nothing. All the revenue went to the country from which they were mailed.

POSES QUESTION

And why should the post office deliver 2,500 copies of small country weeklies for nothing within 40 miles of where they are published?

Rural route carriers who delivered the free weeklies were forced to cut every corner to get contracts at the lowest possible tender.

The Toronto MP hit the fact that the Toronto Star Weekly and Weekend Magazine are charged three cents a pound because they are weeklies while Reader's Digest pays only 1½ cents a pound because it is a monthly publication.

"The magazine is bloodsucking the Canadian publishing industry in an advertising way and is contributing to the deficit of the post office," he said of The Reader's Digest, a U.S. publication.

Mr. Cowan also asked why agricultural magazines should be delivered all over the country for 1½ cents a pound.

"Some of these agricultural periodicals are published by the McConnells of Montreal and the Siftons of Winnipeg."

Postal rates should be based on service rendered rather than on what was convenient, he said — millionaire publishers," Mr. Cowan concluded.

Mr. Cowan is a former business promotion manager with the Toronto Star.

British Shipping Strike Seen As Threat to Canadian Trade

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There's a delayed-action fuse on the British shipping strike as far as Canada is concerned.

Immediate effects are not significant, but business spokesmen agree a long lieup would hit sharply at Canadian trade and port activities.

At this early stage any forecasts are clouded by uncertainties, a Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press indicates. A major unknown quantity is how much cargo can be diverted from British to other shipping in the event of a protracted lieup.

"It's very difficult to assess the situation yet but if it goes on for any length of time, it will become quite serious both from the import and export standpoints," said John Rogers of Toronto, general manager of the British - Canadian Trade Association.

SEES DIFFICULTIES

Norman Vickery of Toronto, general manager of the Canadian Importers Association, forecast a "very detrimental effect" on trade in a long-run strike. He looked for agricultural difficulties in industrial supply lines coming from Britain.

"Canadian plants won't stay idle for lack of supplies and will look for them elsewhere," he said.

One of the biggest United Kingdom concerns—British Motor Corp. of Canada—plans to use air freight if it runs short of automobile parts.

"I don't think a month would bother us but if the strike goes on, we'll pay air-freight premiums rather than leave customers in the air," Canadian Vice-President Donald Pocock said.

In Canadian ports passenger business has been hit—Cunard so far has cancelled two sailings to Montreal—but effects have not yet shown up seriously on freight traffic.

NOT WORRYING YET

A spokesman in Montreal for the British shipping line Furness-Withy, one of the world's largest, said it is not cancelling any ships yet and won't start worrying for a while.

Frank H. Willis, manager of the Hamilton Shipping Company, agent for most British ships docking there, said the walkout has already "cut out some business his company was expecting, though he could not estimate the amount.

Halifax and Saint John, N.B., now in the slack summer season when most Atlantic shipping goes to the big inland ports, foresaw no significant effects.

In Vancouver, a National Harbors board spokesman said any repercussions would not be felt in that West Coast port for a month to six weeks. In any case, only a small percentage of the 60 major shipping lines using Vancouver are British.

Trenton Man Charges Civil Service Group Fights LCBO Workers

TORONTO (CP)—A conflict between the Ontario Civil Service Association and the Liquor Control Board Employees Association emerged in interviews Thursday with executives of both groups.

Ross Brummell of Trenton, president of the LCBO association, said that the Civil Service Association is trying to destroy the LCBO employees' group and is spreading false rumors to create discontent among liquor store employees.

"They want to get $30 a year in membership fees from our members and they are doing everything they can to get it," Mr. Brummell said. "We don't need the Civil Service Association and we don't want it."

Harry Bowen, general manager of the Civil Service Association, said the association has set up Branch 149 to organize LCBO employees in the Toronto area and another branch was chartered recently in Hamilton for the same purpose.

He said the association doesn't engage in raiding, adding:

"But if we want to raid, we certainly have the facilities to raid. We are busy on some other matters just at present."

Mr. Bowen said the LCBO association has no bargaining rights.

"It has only the good will of management to depend upon."

Mr. Brummell said in reply that the employees group signed an agreement with the Liquor Control Board last Aug. 19, and the agreement was better than anything the Civil Service Association could hope to achieve.

Lesage Ready For TV Debate With Johnson

GASPE, Que. (CP)—Premier Jean Lesage said Thursday night he is prepared to wind up his campaign for the June 5 provincial election with a televised debate against Union Nationale Leader Daniel Johnson.

Commenting on an offer made in Ottawa by Marcel Ouimet, CBC vice-president in charge of the French network, Mr. Lesage said he is ready to take part in a televised debate so long as he is given a worthy opponent.

"And for me, a worthy opponent is the leader of the Opposition, Mr. Daniel Johnson."

The premier specified the date of Thursday, June 2, the last day available under the Election Act for the broadcast of political programs.

"I will take part in a televised debate under the same conditions as in 1962," he said, referring to the television debate between himself and Mr. Johnson which was the first ever held in a Quebec election campaign.

Earlier, Mr. Lesage had refused to take part in two CBC public affairs programs on the election on the grounds that he and Mr. Johnson should not be placed on the same level with the leaders of other parties.

Washington Thinks Time Is Running Out For Ky to Restore Authority in North

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a new outburst of violence at Da Nang, U.S. officials are beginning to judge that time is running out for the efforts of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky to put down rebel opposition and restore his authority over South Viet Nam's key northern provinces.

The Johnson administration continues to support the Ky regime although U.S. officials were angry with Ky last week-end for sending troops to Da Nang without consulting or even telling the United States.

In the civil strife between Ky and rebellious Buddhist and military groups at Da Nang and Hue, administration officials say the U.S. role is solely that of a peacemaker with an early accord between the rebels and Saigon as the major objective.

Yet there seems to be little real optimism that it will be reached quickly. The expectation here is that the situation will almost certainly get worse, and therefore Ky's handling of the crisis becomes increasingly the focus of concern.

In these circumstances it is conceivable that unless the crisis can be quickly resolved, President Johnson will at some early point reconsider U.S. policy in support of Ky.

AVOID PREDICTIONS

Officials refuse even in private conversation to make predictions about the future. Although State Secretary Dean Rusk has spoken hopefully of planned steps to give the country a constitutional government, holding election of a constituent assembly in September, there is deep pessimism over whether this election process may not sharpen rather than overcome South Viet Nam's political divisions.

If the worst fears about political fragmentation of South Viet Nam are borne out, Johnson may be facing such difficult and fundamental questions as these about the U.S. Viet Nam policy in the months ahead:

—Should U.S. forces take over more of the fighting from the South Vietnamese army, and can they?

—Can South Viet Nam be secure from Communist control if leaders in Saigon, Da Nang and Hue cannot even settle their own internal differences?

—If the United States is to stay in the country and pursue the war, will it have to assume a far greater role of political responsibility or, at the other extreme, concentrate its military power increasingly in fortified positions along the coast, thus separating them more and more from the people?

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, who conferred with Johnson and other administration leaders here last week, is due back in Saigon shortly. Presumably his first big task will be to review the U.S. role and whether it should be changed in any way.

Social Worker Is on Spot If Trying to Reform Society

TORONTO (CP) — A Guelph Children's Aid Society administrator said Thursday a salaried professional social worker is in a touchy position when he launches into direct social action.

Frederick C. Promoll, executive director of the Children's Aid Society of Guelph, told the annual meeting of the Ontario Welfare Council that he himself had made headlines with statements about the shortage of public housing.

But he warned, during a debate on whether social workers should attempt to reform society, that professional social workers taking on this role do so at the risk of embarrassing their employers.

Professor John Morgan of the University of Toronto School of Social Work said Canada needs many changes—in the divorce laws, in the ways prisoners are treated and in public housing, which must be expanded.

Prof. Morgan also said: "We need institutions that enable young people to protest. We ought to help students rebel against the outmoded practices of their elders, and we're not doing it."

Rev. Edgar J. Bailey of Kingsway Baptist Church, Toronto, told an earlier discussion session that he was disappointed at the lack of an underlying social philosophy in the conference's three-day deliberations. He said it was this lack of a social philosophy that impelled him to go into the church rather than enter social work.

The University of Windsor next September will launch the first Canadian program to train social workers at the undergraduate level, Education Minister William Davis earlier told the convention.

Mr. Davis said several other universities had expressed a desire to develop undergraduate programs and that the University of Windsor will also start a graduate school of social work.

Gower Markle of Toronto, the council's retiring president, said Canadians are being overwhelmed by a "vast morass of social disaster, muddle and confusion."

Mr. Markle, director of education and welfare for the United Steelworkers of America (CLC), said his chief social concerns were poverty and the state of Canada's Eskimos and Indians.

He told a dinner Wednesday night that the "so-called war on poverty is social pathology in its most complicated form . . . the compound and complex product of human weakness, social callousness, economic failure and political indifference."

Mr. Markle said he hadn't seen anything in India or South America "which is more pathetic, degrading or inciting than what I have seen in Moosonee, Kenora and Red Lake, among many places in Ontario."

Auto Industry Sales Decline Said Continuing

By CHARLES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP)—Ford Motor Co. told its stockholders Thursday that a dip in early-May auto industry sales apparently continued into the second 10 days of the month.

Both board Chairman Henry Ford II and President Arjay Miller said the auto safety issue played a big role in the sales drop. Ford sold record numbers of cars in early May, but the remainder of the industry reported a dip in sales.

Cold Weather Keeps Catches Of Trout and Pickerel Small

TORONTO (CP) — A late breakup of ice in lakes and rivers—especially in the north—and cold, wet weather has kept catches small in the opening of Ontario's 1966 trout and pickerel season.

The department of lands and forests, beginning its series of weekly reports on fishing conditions in the province, says fair to good angling was experienced in lake and speckled trout and pike, but pickerel generally has been poor because of cold weather.

But as the pickerel season opened generally last weekend, the Parry sound area went against the slow trend. Conservation officers counted 381 pickerel caught by 266 anglers. Many other fishermen were not included in the count. Most productive bait was minnows.

Most northern waters were still ice-bound and fishing was rated less than fair except in the Gogama region, where pickerel and pike anglers reported catches ranging from good to excellent.

In the south, ratings were good for perch in Lake Simcoe, but whitefish were spotty, speckled trout and rainbow only fair.

FISHING IS POOR

Fishing was reported mostly poor in the Tweed district.

The Lake Huron District in the west was yielding good catches of speckled trout in its northern reaches but farther south poor fishing was reported.

The speckled trout season generally opened April 30.

Reports from 18 of the department's 22 districts Tuesday:

NORTH

Chapleau—Fishing poor, lakes partly ice-covered.

Sioux Lookout—Angling poor, still ice-covered. Ice may clear this weekend if weather favorable.

Fort Frances—Fishing poor.

Fort Arthur—Lakes still ice-covered; fishing poor.

Gogama—Pickerel and pike good to excellent.

Sudbury — Pickerel poor; pike, lake trout and speckled trout good in lakes, fair in streams.

North Bay — Pickerel and pike spotty to good in Lake Nipissing; poor in Red Cedar and Wickstead lakes. Lake trout, rainbow and speckled trout fair.

Kapuskasing — Ice still in lakes. Pickerel and pike spawning, not biting. Speckled trout poor.

Kenora—Fishing poor. Lakes just starting to break up.

Parry Sound—Pickerel excellent, taking minnows.

White River—Lakes ice-bound, expect clearing by weekend. Prospects fair.

Cochrane — Lakes ice-bound. Trout and pickerel prospects good to fair.

SOUTH

Lindsay—Fishing fair to poor in Rice Lake, Trent River, Elephant, Lenora, Stoney and Sturgeon lakes.

Lake Simcoe—Pickerel fair to poor; Severn and Washago rivers, perch fair to good. Lake trout fair to good Lake Simcoe whitefish spotty, speckled trout fair; rainbow fair in Boyne and Nottawasaga rivers.

EAST

Tweed — Lake trout fair to good. Speckled trout fair to poor; rainbow poor; pickerel and pike fair to poor.

Kemptville—Fishing poor to fair.

Pembroke—Fishing poor.

WEST

Lake Huron—Speckled trout fair in south; good in north. Pickerel fair in Chesley Lake; pike fair.

Jobless Number Cut Again

OTTAWA (CP)—The continuing job boom cut Canada's unemployment to 388,000 at mid-April, a drop of 62,000 from March and well below the 371,000 who were jobless in April of last year. It was reported Thursday.

A joint report by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and the immigration department said the number employed rose by 129,000 to 6,802,000 during the month, a pace that was above the seasonal gain.

The job increase since January has been well above the average of the past several years, it added.

April's unemployment rate fell to 4.1 per cent from 5.3 per cent in March and 7.9 per cent in April of 1965. Adjusted to eliminate seasonal factors, the rate was 3.3 per cent, unchanged from March but down from 4.2 per cent on the year-to-year comparison.

The job picture in brief (estimates in thousands):

	April Mar. April
	1966	1966	1965
Labor force	7,348	7,162	6,969
Employed	6,960	6,823	6,597
Unemployed	298	344	371
BASED ON SURVEY

These estimates are based on a survey of 35,000 households in the week ended April 23. The increase in the labor force continued to be outdone by the rise in jobs.

Between April of last year and this, the labor force jumped by 280,000 or four per cent. But the number of jobs rose by 353,000 or 5.4 per cent.

Soldiers Keep Watch During Cypriot Night

By DON LeBLANC

NICOSIA (CP)—An armed Finnish soldier guards a front entrance in Ledra Palace, a popular Greek-Cypriot hotel near the heart of the capital of Cyprus.

On a corner of the rooftop, a silhouette of another soldier stands out against a bright, full moon. Soft piano music from the hotel's dining room drifts romantically into the calm night.

To the left of the hotel, a road barricade marks the "green line" which runs irregularly through this disinterracean island, separating the Greek-Cypriots from the Turkish - Cypriot enclaves. Eighty per cent of the island's population of 557,631 is Greek, 18 per cent Turkish.

A few miles to the north, Canadian soldiers stand watch in the Kyrenia Mountains while comrades sleep, some at various outposts in the mountains, others at Camp-de-Lion, a hotel taken over by the Canadians in the town of Kyrenia 16 miles north of here.

In the morning, they resume tasks of patrolling, reconnaissance, providing escort service and operating a twice-daily convoy for Greek-Cypriots through the 16-mile Turkish enclave from Nicosia to Kyrenia and return.

FEARS MORE FIGHTING

For the most part, it is peaceful on Cyprus. But it is an uneasy peace, brought on by the presence of the Canadian, British and other members of the 6,000-man United Nations force which patrols the 3,572-square-mile island, enemies of neither side.

The force, although successful in keeping the Greek and Turkish-Cypriots apart during its two years on the island, may be serving only to delay the fighting. The operation, suffering financially, has been given a three-month extension to June 26 in hopes that "substantial progress toward a solution" will have been made by that time.

However, progress in this direction has been practically nil since the UN peace-keeping drive began March 26, 1964, and observers here expect little or no change in the situation in the few weeks the force has left. If the UN pulls out entirely, renewed fighting is almost a certainty. This could lead to a general war in the Middle East.

The problem lies in the desire of the Greek-Cypriots for "Enosis"—union with Greece —and in the Turkish-Cypriots' demand for partition of the island. The Turkish minority also asks recognition as an equal partner in government.

RULES OUT PARTITION

A spokesman for the Greek-Cypriot government says the administration of Archbishop Makarios, president of the republic, is ready to negotiate for a solution "not excluding union but not allowing partition." He says the government is against "enosis" by coup d'etat but that the matter must be settled by referendum "when the time is right."

Turkish - Cypriot authorities refuse to go to the conference table as long as Greek-Cypriots insist on union, whether or not it is determined by a general vote. As a result, life is restricted on both sides but more so in Turkish-Cypriot sectors.

Farmers stopped at checkpoints are sometimes required to dump entire carloads of produce—whether it be vegetables or manure—onto the road for inspection by Greek Cypriot police before being allowed to pass.

Some are reported fed up with the low economy and restricted living in Turkish-Cypriot sectors but their leaders, apparently gripped by fear and suspicion, remain as steadfast in their policy as the Greek-Cypriots.

If President Makarios should suddenly drop the idea of Enosis?

"We will not believe him," Turkish - Cypriot spokesmen say. "We are not going to be thrown back into his arms again. He holds out one hand to shake while the other hand holds a knife or a pistol."

Tomorrow: Canadian troops' friends to sick Cypriot children.

Legion to Finance Work By Interest From Million

To mark Canada's 100th birthday a special committee has been set up by the Royal Canadian Legion Dominion Command at Ottawa. This National Centennial Committee was given the task of selecting a worthy and challenging project as the Royal Canadian Legion's contribution to the national celebrations. It was decided to establish a capital fund of a minimum of $1,000,000.

The Foundation Fund would serve as a living memorial to those Canadians who had given their all to their country in the first century of the nation's life, and ensure that the last living veterans and his dependents will be taken care of honorably.

The $1,000,000.00 fund would be managed by trustees appointed by the Dominion Command Executive Council, and the interest earnings would be used for financing and perpetuating Legion programs. Current programs would be expanded and new programs of a national nature would be developed as future needs of the nation change and current needs no longer need Legion support.

Because all too many fund-raising campaigns suffer from excessive campaign costs it was decided that no promotional costs should be paid for out of the funds collected for that Fund.

Dominion Command has set a budget of $30,000 out of the regular operating budget as its share of the promotional and organizational costs of the campaign in co-ordinating the efforts of all Commands, and in setting up the machinery of a well administered and sound working Trust Fund. The Provincial Commands have agreed to provide additional promotional and organizational aids at their expense because each Command has been given complete autonomy as to how its individual share of the funds shall be raised in each command.

Young Japanese-Canadian Grad Seeks Chancellorship of UBC

By JACK BRAUCKMANN

VANCOUVER (CP)—A lot of folks laughed when Randy Enomoto, 22, said he wanted to be chancellor of the University of British Columbia.

But it was no joke to the young Japanese - Canadian, a UBC graduate student in English. And his classmates rallied to his support when he announced he would contest the May 25 election.

His opponent is John Murdoch Buchanan, a former fishing company president and long-time member of the university's senate and board of governors.

Mr Buchanan is understandably the strong favorite to win and succeed Phyllis Ross, wife of a former B.C Lieutenant-governor and the first woman to hold the largely honorary position at UBC.

But the candidacy of the round - faced, soft - spoken Mr. Enomoto has injected some controversy, and a certain amount of bitterness, in what is ordinarily a routine affair.

After announcing he would run, Mr. Enomoto spoke on campus, distributed pamphlets and was interviewed on television. He said he wanted to "challenge the Establishment" and "get rid of the secret methods" employed in running the university

The campaign dragged, however, until it got an unexpected boost from what Mr. Enomoto calls "a most unlikely source."

REFUSED VOTERS' LIST

"We had exams coming up, the university refused to turn over a list of persons eligible to vote in the election (some 20,000 grads, professors and former professors), so we had no effective mailing list and we were generally bogged down.

"Then, to our pleasant surprise, is stepped the UBC Alumni Association."

The association's magazine appeared in early April with a cover photograph of Mr. Buchanan and an editorial writing off Mr. Enomoto's candidacy. There was also a two - page spread on past chancellors.

"Boy, what a backlash," says Mr. Enomoto.

Prof. Walter Young, a political science faculty member, went on TV to criticize the alumni association — of which he is a member—for what he said was improper use of its influence.

Mrs. H. F. Angus, who unsuccessfully contested the last chancellorship election, said the editorial was an attempt to "break a butterfly on a wheel."

Mr. Buchanan remained aloof, saying "I will not campaign for this office." And Mrs. Ross, the present chancellor, declined to comment.

IT'S NO LONGER FUNNY—Randy Enomoto looks over the chancellor's parking spot at the University of British Columbia. A lot of people laughed when the graduate student said he would contest the May 25 election for chancellor. But sober opposition from the alumni association backfired, causing wide support for his campaign. (CP Photo).

SAYS MONEY IS KEY

Prof. Young said in an interview he deplores the attitude taken by the alumni association executive—"those we entrust to conduct our business in an exemplary fashion."

"It's quite obvious that the magazine, in pointing out to us the distinguished past chancellors, is making a pitch to voters to elect someone with money, which Mr. Buchanan has and Mr. Enomoto hasn't.

"But all the faculty I've talked to are concerned about the association executive's arbitrary stand. I think it may result in an Establishment backlash."

Mrs. Angus says she contested the last election against her "close friend," Mrs. Ross, "because I felt it would stimulate badly-needed discussion of university problems and because I firmly believe in our democratic, elective process."

She adds that she was amused when the student put forth his name for office.

"If the association had treated the subject lightly, I probably would have heartily approved it. But they were so deadly earnest about the whole thing that it appears they are worried the boy will get elected. It was like trying to break a butterfly on a wheel."

WILL BACK STUDENT

Prof. Earle Birney, one of Canada's best known poets, threw his weight behind the student.

Prof. Birney, formerly of the English department at UBC and now of the University of Toronto, had a letter distributed at the alumni association's annual dinner which took strong exception to the magazine's backing of Mr. Buchanan.

"This expensive, cliche-packed document is an arrogant misuse of money entrusted to you. The alumni association was not founded or supported to finance partisan electioneering in the selection of the university's chancellor.

"If I had any doubts about voting for Randall Enomoto as chancellor of UBC,—your glossy folder has dispelled them."

Mr. Enomoto calls the editorial "the greatest asset to my campaign."

"Now, more than ever, I'd like to win. I don't know why they're afraid I'd be elected but there must be some good reason and the only way I guess any of us will know is for me to become chancellor and learn all the secrets.

"One thing, I assure you: If Enomoto is chancellor of UBC, there won't be any secrets. Everyone will have the right to know what our senate and governors are doing—or not doing."

Says Ontario Will Recruit Civil Service Help Abroad

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says Ontario will embrace the world for skilled help for its civil service and will pay for the cost of bringing new employees here.

"A main purpose of the plan is to attract psychiatrists and social workers to fill vacancies in the department of health—particularly to relieve staff shortages in the province's mental hospitals," it said.

The newspaper said the special assistance will apply to any person forced to move more than 100 miles to his new job.

"If the new employee quits within two years, he will be required to pay back half the 20 per cent grant."

The newspaper says the program will be one of the responsibilities of the civil service commission's new director of recruitment, Ethel M. McLellan, whose appointment was announced Thursday.

Donald J. Collins, commission chairman, said Thursday that apart from the health department, the commission has had difficulty recruiting engineers, accountants and administrators.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

The Intelligencer has entered the sports world, literally, that is.

It has posted an entry in the city's softball Kentucky Derby, known to the hoi-polloi as the Departmental League.

The entry has the power of the press behind it — if not in it. It has been clubbed with a special name — yet. After some outside wag — a suspected City Haller — suggested the "Comic Sections" all submitted noms-de-diamond have been fed to the hungry files.

Eighteen jockeys garbed in the maroon, white and black silks of the owner will ride herd on the entry. They are the most colorful editions to emerge from the newspapers' hazards since the breweries decided black-and-white ads didn't create thirsts.

Collectively they are the only Batmen whose ancestors were not included in the pairs Noah picked for his first luxury-liner cruise.

At that they are all free, white and twenty-one and not subject to the draft — outside of bars. Physically, they are fit. Mentally — "don't answer that question until you see a lawyer." Ability-wise? Like the guy said in the strip-tease show, a lot remains to be seen.

As was noted, they will wear togas of sexy maroon, the white of purity and the black. What they will wear south of the midriff has not been disclosed to this columnar snoop. It could be pale pink leotards, fringed-bordered trousers, striped Bermuda shorts, or Nellison-plaid kilts.

Otherwise they conform to the standards of an ordinary softball team. It is alleged they have pitchers, catchers, fielders, bats, balls, and it is reported, two coaches. It should be pointed out here that masquerading in sport, is a criminal offence.

The "Punch Imlach" of the Joseph-coated ensemble is William Theopolis Aloysius Conway. He earned his managerial spurs at Toodpik High, Aklavik.

One half of the coaching brains is Garry Sleagel Alexander, whose records were lost in the great Zwick's Island fire of 1945.

The other half is Dick Payne, former tutor at Long Neck High, Rhode Island. There he won his last championship the team honored him with "Hail to the greatest Payne in the Neck."

The Koufax-Drysdale of the ensemble is Johnny Edwards, tall powerful right-hander who can toss strikes with half-ton rolls of newsprint at 30 yards.

Lyle (Jello Again) Thompson is the regular receiver who has caught everything from colds to whooping cough since he was a kid. His understudy is Bob "Grizzly Bear" Also a second-baser.

The Wood boys Don and Garry, graduates of Sapling High at Timberline, Utah can do everything but pitch. Don, the elder, a fine catcher, is so speedy afoot he has been known to pull down his own throw to second. He also recites a fine game.

Claire Hoy, Tiger-mitt fed hockey, football, softball, tiddley-winks, poker, and pinochle star will watch in the outfield, or frug around first base. So will Doug Walsh, starry editorial import from Trenton.

Maurice Switzer, has a trusty right flipper, a sturdy reliefer for Long John Edwards. Maurice can also "swing" in shortstop. Randy Johnstone has nailed down the first-base spot, providing he can bodycheck Hoy out of position.

The rest of the multi-colored crew oozes versatility. Co-coach Alexander informs me that he has on the roster (unpaid) Al Lee, short, or third; Ron Culloden, pitcher, left field; Ted Warwick right field; Merve Thompson in left and outfielder; Percy Hiddleston and Rick May utility fielders and pinch-hitters; Ralph Harris and John Young, outfielders..

Bringing up the rear is this agent, appointed without remuneration to the positions, of waterboy; 007; bandaid and iodine keeper; wallets guardian; soft-drink dispenser; clerk of complaints, keeper-in-touch with next-of-kin; bat and, balls counter; cheerleader boss; and liason officer for gripers and officials.

Other entries in the Departmental Derby are, City Hall, Public Works, Fire Department and City Hall. The five teams play a twelve-game schedule with four teams eligible for the playoffs revues.

Intelligencer fans are reminded that players will not be available for autographs until the first game has been completed.

CAHA Annual

Expect Duel With Pros

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association will hold its 50th annual meeting here next week. It's expected that the thorny question of the association's relationship with the National Hockey League will come in for further scrutiny.

The members will also hear a proposal designed to change the registration date for all amateur players from May 31 to Dec. 31 to conform with other sports registrations.

The latter proposal, sponsored by the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, in effect will cut five months from the age limits.

Last year in Victoria the CAHA voted to end its working agreement with the NHL, signed in 1958. However, the contract contains a clause which requires either side to give two years notice prior to termination. As it stands, the agreement will terminate in June of next year, instead of 1962.

The main stumbling block would appear to be the distribution of funds paid by the NHL for amateurs drafted to professional ranks.

The CAHA would like the NHL to turn over the money spent by the pros to the association for distribution, rather than have the money given to the teams from which the players are drafted.

The association also wants recognition of what it calls a universal draft, in which the professional teams will not draw an amateur player to the professional level before he has completed his junior career.

Currently the age limit is 20, but if agreement can be reached on this point, it will be changed to 21.

Koufax Blanks Giants With 3-Hitter

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sandy Koufax has a great left arm, but he also has Manny Wilks' feet going for him.

Koufax pitched a three-hitter—his first shutout and sixth victory of the season—as Los Angeles Dodgers defeated San Francisco Giants 4-0 Thursday night.

Wilks beat out two infield singles, stole two bases and scored the first two Dodger runs.

Wilks, who has a record six straight National League base-stealing titles, now leads the league with 18 thefts. Twelve have come in games in which Koufax has pitched. Wilks also has scored 18 runs over-all, half in support of Koufax.

In other National League games, St. Louis Cardinals blanked Philadelphia Phillies 3-0 and Chicago Cubs whipped Houston Astros 7-1. Reds trounced out Cincinnati at New York.

PLAYED TYPICAL GAME

The game against the Giants was typical of Wilks.

The 33-year-old shortstop led off the first inning by beating out a grounder to second base for a single. He promptly stole second, moved to third on a ground out and scored as Willie Davis singled.

In the third inning, he again led off with an infield single, this time beating out a high bouncer to the mound. Again he stole second, and this time he scampered home on Jim Gilliam's single.

Koufax, meanwhile, was headed for his shutout, walking only two, striking out 10 and allowing just two Giants to reach second base. He also reduced his earned run average to 1.83 and recorded his sixth victory three days ahead of last season. He had only one once.

The Dodgers completed their scoring with a run in the fourth inning on errors by Tito Fuentes and Cap Peterson plus Jeff Torborg's single and in the eighth on Wes Parker's homer.

St. Louis' Al Jackson limited Philadelphia to four hits until the ninth when he was pulled after walking leadoff batter John Callison on four pitches. He still extended his scoreless inning string to 21. Charlie Smith supported Jackson with three hits, including a seventh-inning homer.

Rookie Randy Hundley sparked the Cubs past Houston, driving in three runs with a double and a triple and stealing home. His two-run triple and steal of home highlighted a five-run third inning which enabled Chicago to stop a six-game losing streak.

RACES AGAIN

JARVIS, Ont. (CP) — Mike Duff, Toronto motorcyclist injured in a racing accident in Japan last fall, plans to take part Monday in his first competitive race since the mishap. Duff is among the entrants for Monday's Ontario Grand Prix for motorcycles at Harewood Racetrack.

Bisons Win Over Wings, Leafs Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Suddenly Buffalo Bisons aren't looking like International League tailenders any more.

The Bisons, who Tuesday had only five wins in 19 starts and trailed the eight-team circuit, completed a three-game sweep over Rochester Red Wings Thursday night and shot into a seventh-place tie with Toronto Maple Leafs. Buffalo beat the Red Wings 3-2 and 8-3 in a doubleheader.

Elsewhere, Jacksonville Suns defeated Toledo Mud Hens 9-4, Columbus Jets downed Richmond Braves 4-1, and Syracuse Chiefs edged Toronto 8-6.

Pitcher Lacy West won for the Bisons, pitching a six-hitter and driving in the winning run with a homer in the fifth inning. Steve Boros, Tom Tischinski and Ted Acosta clouted homers in the second game for Buffalo.

Danny Napoleon hit a three-run homer in the ninth inning to give the Suns their victory. Greg Goosen also drove in three runs.

Billy Knock stopped the Braves on four hits, but lost his shutout when Tommy Aaron doubled and scored on a single.

The Chiefs exploded for six runs in the sixth inning, including Pancho Herrera's three-run homer.

Predicts Pro Soccer For Britain

TORONTO (CP) — Professional soccer games will be played on Sunday's in England and Scotland within five years, predicts Bobby Kelly, chairman of Glasgow Celtic of the Scottish League First Division.

Kelly arrived Thursday to see his club play Tottenham Hotspur of the English League First Division here in an exhibition match Saturday night.

"We're a very religious people, but changes in all ways of life are being made," he said.

The day of the once-a-week Saturday match is over."

DOUBLE PAYS

CHICAGO (AP)—A $3,705.20 daily double, second largest in Arlington Park history, was recorded Thursday when Priscilla Mullen won the first race and Boy U Rite the second. Only 22 $2 tickets were sold on the winning combination. The track record was $3,833.20 on July 5, 1939.

The Preakness

King Is Even-Money Favorite

BALTIMORE (AP) — Asked which horse he was concerned about in Saturday's $150,000-added Preakness, Mike Ford replied: "Mine."

His Kanal King, winner of the Kentucky Derby, has the opportunity of becoming the ninth triple crown winner. The son of Native Dancer led all the way in the Derby for his seventh victory in nine races this year.

Ford was questioned about which of the eighth other three-year-olds he thinks has the best chance of upsetting Kanal King in the Preakness.

"Well, you have to be concerned about Advocator and Blue Skyer since they finished within one-half length of us in the Derby," he replied.

"Then there's Indelito whom we never have met. And Amberoid whom I still think is a horse to give you a lot of trouble."

Odds forecasters figure Kanal King probably will leave the starting gate at even - money favorite with Indelito, Advocator, Blue Skyer, Stupendous and Amberoid running up to about 10-to-1.

That leaves Robert Lekman's Rehabilitate, ridden By Ron Turcotte of Grand Falls, N.B., Mrs. Helen Jennings' Exceedingly and Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Understanding as the outsiders in the 81st Preakness over 1 3-16 miles.

There will be $139,000 for the winner, $30,000 for second, $15,000 for third and $7,500 for fourth if none of the nine entries is scratched. Each withdrawal subtracts $1,000 from the pot.

Senators' McCormick Scalps Indians

Hits Homer, Too

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mike McCormick, 27, the one-time bonus baby who appeared to be washed up at 25, is beginning to show his stuff.

He pitched a four - hitter Thursday night as Washington Senators whipped Cleveland Indians for the second straight night, 7-2.

The left-hander evened his record at 3-3 and hit a long home run during a three-run Senator rally in the fifth inning. It was McCormick's fifth hit in 16 innings this season and that's two more safeties than he managed in 4½ tries last year.

Ed Brinkman and Dick Nen also homered for Washington, Brinkman's shot preceding McCormick's in the fifth. Luis Tiant, 3-2, was the victim of the long ball display.

In other American League games, Minnesota Twins nipped Chicago White Sox 4-3 in 10 innings with charges of beanballs exchanged by both sides, and Boston Red Sox downed Baltimore Orioles 3-1.

SIGNED FOR $50,000

McCormick, who signed for $50,000 with the then New York Giants 11 years ago, won the National League's starred rookie average title in 1960 before arm trouble caught up with him.

After being sent to Baltimore in 1962, he drifted to the minors and finally got another shot when Washington purchased him just before the start of the 1965 season.

He was 8-2 last year.

Washington manager Gil Hodges said McCormick "is now a pitcher instead of a thrower" and called the four-hitter "a fine pitching job."

McCormick said he used mostly breaking stuff to beat the Indians. He struck out seven and walked only one.

Tony Oliva's 10th inning double drove home Minnesota's winning run as the Twins won their fifth straight. Jimmie Hall led the game for the Twins with a ninth inning homer.

The beanball accusations grew out of a ninth inning exchange of hit batsmen. After Chicago's J. C. Martin had homered in the top of the third, Lee Wels was hit in the back by a Jim Perry pitch.

BUZHARDT BEATS PERRY

Theo Perry, leading off in the bottom of the third, was hit first above the elbow on his right pitching arm by John Buzhardt.

"Buzhardt definitely was throwing at Perry and I say he was under orders to do it," said Minnesota manager Sam Mele.

Eddie Stanky, mfanager of the White Sox, answered:

"I have never told a pitcher to throw at a hitter in my life before a ball game. But when my hitter gets hit on the ninth inning, I'm not going to take it."

Outdoor Tips And Tricks

By BOB BLAIND

Last week was the first good fishing week of the year. Pickerel, pike, speckles and lake trout were taken in good quantities and in good sized fish.

Algonquin Park seemed to be the best section of the country for lake trout and speckled fish. Many fishing parties from the Belleville area trecked into the Algonquin Park area in the Parry Sound area during the very cold weather and icey lake conditions, but these hardy sportsmen came back with their count.

The Bob Tayler gang brought back 40 speckled all of good size and nearly all caught on a Nickel Worden Worry.

Les Weagant and party were also very successful, taking a home limits of lakers and speckled. The greys being caught on Williams and Pumpkin or worm harness, Meppe and EGR.

The Trico boys fished hard and came up with 43 nice speckled trout.

The trout fishermen in the Park were just as happy with their catches, Bill Spinnelli, Bill Hendrickson and Bill Murray bringing home that very good limit of greys, caught on Wildcat Lures.

Ken Kingston and the Foxboro fishermen were also in another lake in the same section of the big Park and came home with 10 real nice lakers all taken on a lucky strike fluorescent yellow with red spots and copper back.

The main reason for mentioning the variety of lures that are successful, was to illustrate what I have been preaching all along. That is, to use a different type of bait which will take fish in that lake only, sometimes you may be lucky and catch one on this lure in another lake but in the long run a different lure is used for each lake.

For best results, check the lakes you are going to fish, talk to someone who has fished in that lake, and check with a local guide on what the fish are being caught on but better still, take your own lures in the long run a different lure is used for each lake.

Pickerel and pike have started to hit in the Quinte waters, many very nice fish have been caught in West Lake near the government wharf even 8 pon in the evening until around midnight. The biggest of the pickerel (walleye) have been taken on a rapala, rebel or a copy of one of these wigger shaped plugs.

At East Lake the pickerel are running in the Outlet near Marlins and some good sized ones have been caught there in the last few days, from around 4 in the afternoon until well after dark, but here they have been taking Meppe and Shyster.

The Trent River is producing very well now with most of the fish being caught on minnows while fishing from the dams.

At Moira and Crowe lakes, some very good catches are being taken on minnows, in Moira Lake they are using a small minnow while at the Crowe, a large minnow about 4 to 5 inches bring best results.

This weekend is the first long holiday weekend of the year and promises to be one of the best fishing weeks of the year. You had bettee be one of the many going out this weekend.

Still Battling The Flu

Barbara Ward In Second After 4 Rounds

Special To The Intelligencer

PORT ARTHUR — Plucky Barbara Ward of Belleville, Ontario Ladies Singles representative in the Canadian 10-pin Bowling Championships for the O'Keefe awards here, held down second place after four rounds of play.

Mrs. Ward, still suffering from the 'flu, took six of a possible 10 points in Thursday's action to trail first-place Charlotte Johnson of Winnipeg by two points.

Just half a point back in third was Joan Prentice of Northern Ontario. Miss Johnson, however, has had a bye and has rolled four less games than her pursuers.

In the morning round Barbara took four of five points from Frances Taylor of Calgary. She dropped only the third game, 189-187, winning the first, 196-167, fifth, 203-189 and 173-157 ,taking the point from total pin fall with a 695-640 margin.

In the evening draw diminutive Mrs. Ward had to go against the leader, Miss Johnson, a stylish southpaw.

Barbara managed to win two games from the Manitoba champ but lost the odd point on the total pin fall.

Mrs. Ward won the first game 190-172, dropped the next pair 173-148 and 180-139 then came back for a 179-171 win. She lost on total pins 697-655.

"I still don't feel myself," said Mrs. Ward, referring to a bout with the 'flu. "I feel good one game and then poor the next. But I'm going to stay in there trying all the way."

Second place means a spot in a playoff for the ladies title. The top two gals hold a three game rolloff Sunday to decide the winner of the O'Keefe trophy. Barbara was cheered up with several telegrafis from her Belleville Thursday wishing her good luck.

Today she met Cathy Townsend of Quebec in the morning and has the bye Friday evening.

National Versus American

Looks Like Football War

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Steve Thurlow and receiver National and American football Bobby Crespino—had been con leagues appeared on the threshold of a full-scale contract war today after New York Giants' star Frederickson had been approached by the AFL's Houston Oilers and three other players—centre Greg Larson, halfback Billy Wellington Mara, president of the NFL's Giants, said Thursday that fullback Tucker tacted by San Diego Chargers.

The so-called raid attempt was seen as a retaliatory measure by the AFL for the signings of kicker Pete Gogolak by the Giants. Gogolak played out his option with the AFL's Buffalo contacted Tuesday night, but was unable to reach Gogolak before the NFL's draft meeting hours after the Gogolak signing. At the time it was predicted the Gogolak shift might trigger retaliatory measures by the AFL and set off a wholesale contract war.

Alex Delvecchio Wins Lady Byng

MONTREAL (CP)—Alex Delvecchio, Detroit Red Wings captain and a 15-year veteran with the club, has won the Lady Byng Trophy for the second time in his career, the National Hockey League announced Thursday.

ALEX DELVECCHIO

The trophy is awarded annually to the player judged to have exhibited the best type of sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct combined with a high standard of playing ability during the regular season."

The choice is made by sports-writers and broadcasters in the six NHL cities.

Delvecchio, a native of Fort William, also won the trophy in 1953-54 and was runner-up to Chicago Black Hawks left winger Bobby Hull last year.

The Detroit centre picked up 52 points in each half of the season to finish with a 104-point total. This is 27 points more than runner-up Bobby Rousseau, Montreal Canadiens' right winger.

Bob Nevin, New York Rangers captain, was third in the voting with 35 points.

Delvecchio picks up $1,000 as winner of the award, plus another $500—made up of $250 for each half season in which he led the voting. Rousseau will collect $300 as over-all runner up.

This past season, Delvecchio scored 21 goals, the highest number of his career, plus 28 assists, for a 49-point total. This total equalled his best previous performance in the 1961-62 season.

He appeared in all of Detroit's 70 games and received only eight minor penalties for 16 minutes. In his 1,020 regular season NHL games, he has been assessed only 284 penalty minutes.

B and D Softball League

How They Will Line Up!

By GARRY ALEXANDER
(Staff Sportswriter)

"You can't tell the players without a program" is a most suitable cliche for the five-team Belleville and District Softball League which opens its 1966 schedule tomorrow.

Battling for honors this year will be Bloomfield, Madoc and three city clubs, Trudeau Motors, Ellis Juniors and the Bobcats.

And player changes are most prominent, especially in the three Belleville team rosters.

Trudeau Motors and Ellis Juniors get the 16-game schedule under way and at the same time officially open the newly-renovated Alemite Field at 8:15 tomorrow (Saturday) night. Opening ceremonies are planned for 8:00 with Mayor Jack Wess and other officials participating.

In Bloomfield, manager Jim Guernsey says rain has washed out four of the club's practices and he and coach Keith Stacey are still looking for a few players. All current players listed are returnees from 1965.

Ken DeMille will carry the pitching load once again, especially early in the year since Carl Stacey is also recovering from a broken arm received in hockey wars. Guernsey will start behind the plate, Keith McDonald at first, Keith Stacey at second, Ron Wesse at third and Leo "Wiener" St. Denis at short. Outfield candidates include Warren Ostrander, Dave Lockwood, Eldon Wesse and Frank Forster.

Madoc boasman Charlie Hamilton was not available for the first few but the young squad is expected to have much the same personnel as last year, with a few key additions.

Here in the city, Trudeaus have a playing coach in John "Shaker" Baker and a playing manager in pitcher Bob Green. Bill Baldwin is back for mound duty and veteran Pal Maracle has been added. Trenton's Roger Drake will be at first, Bob Wannamaker at second, either ex-junior Mike Chetland or Baker at third, Pete Weston at shortstop and Larry Mavety behind the plate.

Ralph Plane, Stu Muirhead, Larry Soule and Napanee's Gary Hamilton are in the outfield. Paul Mutton and others are also available.

Ellis Juniors lost many overage platers but coach Harold Reid and Manager Paul Russell have ace pitcher Bob Ethier back. Bill Wickens, up from midget ball, and Bob Boyle, will also throw. Bob Moon will catch with Boyle the regular first baseman, Don Gardiner is at second, Trenton's Art Barker at third and Wayne Woods at short.

Outfield candidates are Jerry St. Denis, Carl Boomhower, Larry Stewart, Jim Pringle, Jack Jury and Bernie Coughlan. Reid is also looking over several others.

The Bobcats, with Bob Tempis coaching and Ron Frick managing, list only Clair Labey for pitching. Ken Lewis, of Bath, has worked out with the club but Temple refused to comment on his status.

In the infield, Bobcats have Trenton's Jim Whyte catching, Hugh Brennan and Garry Coggan for first, Trenton's Lem Mowat at second, Tweed's Paul Murray at third and Terry Lesage, also of Tweed, at short. John McKibbon and Paul Johnson are listed as catchers-outfielders while Rick Looks, Paul Zakos and Bill Latchford are regular outfielders, all form last year's Trudeau squad.

An impressive list of headable guests has been assured for the International Sports Celebrities Dinner in Kingston, on Friday, June 10.

Confirmed guests are Rocky Marciano, Wilby Fay, Carmen Basilio, Bob "Pretty Boy" Pelatier and George Chuvalo from the boxing world.

Hockey will be represented by M.P.P., Syl Apps, Bill Cook, Claude LaRose, Jim Roberts, and Bill Durnan.

The dinner committee also promises to have three other NHL stars on hand.

Bob O'Billovich and Ronnie Steward are confirmed football representatives.

Other guests include Toronto Maple Leaf trainer Bob Haggert, Toronto boxing and wrestling promoter Frank Tunney, Boston Bruin coach Harry Sinden, former boxing coach of Queen's University Jack Jarvis, open and closed champion Barry Boyce and Canadian skeet - shooting champion Mike Rodden, a Hall of Fame member in hockey, football and the International Hall of fame.

Two top professional wrestlers and stock car racing drivers are also expected.

Proceeds from the dinner will go to the Kingston Amateur Athletic Club, to further the advancement of amateur boxing in that city and its surrounding area.

Tickets are available in Belleville at Carl Thompson's Variety Store.

Nancy Rated Tops

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — Nancy Greene of Rossland, B.C., was rated one of the world's top alpine skiers in figures released Thursday by the International Ski Federation.

Miss Greene was given the top mark of zero in the women's slalom and giant slalom. In the first category she shared the position with Marielle and Christine Goitschel of France, Jean Seubert of the U.S. and Traudl Hecher of Austria.

There were only two others in the giant slalom ranking, Marielle Goitschel and Therese Obrecht of Switzerland.

A member of the Canadian national ski team, Miss Greene works as a secretary at Notre Dame University in Nelson, B.C.

The ratings, fixed on the basis of international performance, are used to determine the starting order in world events. The world championships will be held at Portillo, Chile, next August.

Larks Get Three Vets

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes, fresh from a seven-player deal with three other Canadian Football League clubs Thursday, have announced the acquisition of another three veterans.

Darrell Moore, the Als head coach, said his club has bought the rights to defensive centre and linebacker Ken Kilrea from Saskatchewan Roughriders and that Willie Taylor, used sparingly as a tackle, guard and centre by B.C. Lions over the last three seasons, has signed a contract with the Als.

He said the Als are in the process of coming to an agreement with veteran guard and tackle Hardiman Cureton, currently a free agent.

How P. O'Toole, Relaxes Sees a Show, Gets Stoned

By BOB THOMAS

PARIS (AP)—Peter O'Toole had a coughing spell as he entered a small cafe just a cobblestone's throw from the Palace of Versailles. A glass of beer eased his trouble.
"Caught cold shooting here yesterday," he explained. "The director supposed to be on a balmy summer evening, and it was bitter cold and raining."
O'Toole was shooting location scenes for his sixth starring film, Night Of The Generals, in which he plays a fanatical Nazi officer during the French occupation. He has returned to his light-blonde hair—with a romantic cowcut—and to his profession of Lawrence Of Arabia, Sam Spiegel.
The Irish actor winced when he thought of his salary: $piegel prudently signed him for other films before handing him the main role of Lawrence.
"It is a bit hard to be working for a pittance," said O'Toole, and I've raised a little fuss, like asking for caravans (trailer dressing rooms) and all that."
"But really, I suppose I can't complain. After all, Sam handed me the best break he could ever. I mean it was the very best."
Indeed, Lawrence was a startlingly effective debut for a film star. But no actor ever worked harder for such a break—he endured two years and three months of filming in some of the hottest temperatures on earth.

FINDS TOUGH ONES

He says he knows a knack for finding difficult pictures.
Lord Jim was another punishing location, pitting him against the steaming jungles of Southeast Asia. In that case, the result was not so fortunate.
"Even What's New, Pussycat? was a backbreaker," he recalled. "There was no script, and Peter Sellers and I winged it. Half the time we were writing our own lines a few hours before shooting; the author (Woody Allen) was pouting and refused to do it.
"Besides that, the women in the picture were all fighting among each other and it was chaos, pure chaos.
"It's a miracle that the film came off at all. But it did, by heaven, and it's going to be the biggest moneymaking comedy in history."
None of O'Toole's films has been as much in Hollywood, and he doubts if he will ever work there. "They don't make my kind of film in Hollywood," he explained.
Besides, he prefers the work conditions in Europe. The French studios begin the shooting day at 11 a.m. and continue with only an occasional wine break until early evening. The Hollywood method is to work from 8 to 8 with a one-hour lunch.
"The method here suits me better," he said.
"I'm a liver, not just an actor. I like to go to the theatre in the evening, or to get stoned. You can't do that on factory hours."

FIND FEWER COWS

The United States' cow herd decreased 5.6 per cent to 18,800,000 head in 1965.

Brighton Train-Car Crash Kills 4

Four died in a train-station wagon accident at Division street level crossing in the village of Brighton last night. Here police, helped by relatives and friends of the victims, are shown searching the debris for personal effects in first light this morning.

West Huntingdon Mother and Babe Among Victims

BRIGHTON—A trip here to attend a baby shower and visit relatives ended in tragedy for a West Huntingdon family and two local residents last night.

Four people were killed when the station wagon in which they were riding ran into the path of an east-bound piggy-back freight train at the CNR Division Street crossing an hour before midnight.

The dead are: Mrs. Albert Post, 38 of West Huntingdon; her six-weeks-old infant daughter Mary Roberta; Bonnie Smith, 14, a Brighton public school pupil and Douglas Reid, 20, a local factory worker.

Driver of the station wagon, Albert Post, 37, a CNR signal helper, survived the crash and is in the Trenton Memorial Hospital under observation suffering from shock and a small cut in his forehead. He was thrown clear of the wreckage carried along the right-of-way 74 feet before it broke up into

4 Die, 3 Hurt

EXETER, Ont. (CP)—Four persons were killed and three other critically injured in a two car crash Friday night.

Dead are Lennis Donnelson, 21 of Crediton, his wife Betty Lou, 19, their six-month-old son Jeffrey, and Diane Wilson, 19, of Woodham, a passenger in the second car.

pieces. The passengers were strewn over the bank of the media between the CNR and CPR mainline roadbeds.

Village chief constable Bob Thomson on the scene minutes after the accident happened said he found Mr. Post unconscious while there were no other signs of life. Ambulance driver Glen Rouse said he had difficulty locating the baby in the darkness.

The Posts came here on Thursday and spent the night with friends at Gosport.

Last night accompanied by Mr. Reid they attended a baby shower at Mrs. Gary Stacey's home at 84 Division Street. Afterwards they stopped at Violet Fulford's store and picked up Miss Smith. They intended making one more stop before they returned to West Huntingdon for the weekend.

They were enroute to Mr. and Mrs. Ray Milmer's on Dufferin Street to pick up gifts that had been left there for baby Mary born on April 9 at the Belleville General Hospital.

Before the train could continue the cowcatcher rolled under the front of the diesel unit had to be cut off by an acetylene torch. The train crew included J. Avery, engineer; A. J. Becher, conductor.

Hunt Parcel Mailed Wife Of Chartier

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—A truckload of Winnipeg-bound mail was searched in vain Friday night as police and postal officials looked for a parcel mailed by the man who died in a Parliament Building bomb blast Wednesday.

No suspected mail was found in the 100 bags searched, said an official, and the truck was allowed to continue its journey.

RCMP and postal authorities are attempting to find the parcel — feared to be booby-trapped — which was said to have been mailed by Paul Joseph Chartier to his estranged wife at Salmo, B.C., before his death.

Salmo RCMP said the parcel, about 14 inches square, arrived there a week to 10 days ago but evidently was returned by the local post office because Mrs. Chartier could not be located under that name.

Warn Buddhists 'Will Fire Back'

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

Saigon (AP) — The United States warned Buddhist leaders today that American troops will strike back in case of further shelling of U.S. installations by Buddhist-backed rebel troops.

The warning was delivered by American consular representatives in Hue to Thich Tri Quang, a powerful Buddhist leader in the rebellious northern province.

American sources said Tri Quang repeated his demands for U.S. pressure to oust the military government of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

The American representatives met Tri Quang shortly after dissident fire in the embattled city of Da Nang injured 15 U.S. servicemen and after rebel troops fired mortars at the U.S. air base near the city.

Today's Chuckle

The real trouble with money is that you can't use it more than once.

Ky's Planes Raid Rebels In Da Nang

DA NANG (AP)—Civil strife continued in South Viet Nam today as Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's air force attacked rebel troops at Da Nang and riot police clashed with more than 5,000 Buddhists in Saigon.

Fifteen U.S. servicemen were wounded by mortars and rockets during clashes between rebel and government forces at Da Nang and some mortar shells fired from rebel positions landed at the U.S. air base near the city.

Reports said there had been heavy fighting with casualties on both sides.

In Hue, a Buddhist centre 35 miles north of Da Nang, a long-time Buddhist monks marched on the U.S. consulate with demands that the United States intervene to end the fighting at Da Nang.

Earlier, the leading monk, Thich Tri Quang, telephoned from Hue to the Buddhist delegates in Saigon with this message for Ky: Resign or more blood will flow.

Four propeller-driven planes from Ky's air force dropped four or five bombs in rebel positions across the river from downtown Da Nang. The target was an encampment of about 100 rebel soldiers near the Da Nang River bridge.

Those troops had held one end of the bridge before it was taken over by U.S. marines, and they had been firing frequently on government troops from across the river.

Canadian Parliamentarians Urge Go-Slow Policy on NATO

WASHINGTON (CP) — Some American legislators have advised their Ottawa counterparts that Canadian recognition of Red China could be unpopular in Congress.

But United States hot it is Canada's own business.

Canadian parliamentarians also are more inclined toward a "go-slow" attitude in facing the situation created by President de Gaulle's decision to pull France from the NATO military structure.

These points emerged in the final report of the ninth Canada-U.S. inter - parliamentary conference which ended Friday after covering topics ranging from China, NATO and Southeast Asia to water and tariffs.

The report disclosed that Canadians urged renewed efforts at negotiations with de Gaulle on the future of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Canada's Senate Speaker Sydney Smith and Republican Senator George Aiken of Vermont, drawing on experience at all nine conferences, agreed the latest conference was the most constructive.

The report said there is unanimity that the U.S. has been striving earnestly for a solution to the war in Viet Nam and that President Johnson, who spoke to the delegation Thursday, deserves sympathy and support.

There was general agreement that close relations of mutual confidence between the U.S. and Canada would not be adversely affected by differences in Canadian and American viewpoints concerning Communist China.

Canadians would like to absorb the Alaska Panhandle with suitable recompense for the United States, Smith said.

The Panhandle, an odd subject in bilateral talks, extends more than 300 miles down Canada's West Coast and cuts off access to tidewater.

Smith, British Columbia Liberal and a co-leader of the 24-man Canadian delegation, said Canadians want the Alaskan boundary pushed back to the 60th parallel. This would wipe out the Panhandle and include Juneau, the Alaskan capital.

Smith didn't specify what sort of recompense he felt Canada would offer but suggested the issue is for a government-to-government approach.

Water-Use Issue Dodged by Canadian Delegation

WASHINGTON (CP)—A Canadian parliamentary delegation has held its fire on another American expression of interest in a continental approach to sharing water.

But the Canadians urged new steps for Canada-United States efforts on water pollution.

Water loomed large in the communique Friday ending the two-day meeting of North American parliamentarians.

The U.S. raised again the prospects of discussing the North American water and power project, a concept of an American - engineering firm to spend $100,000,000,000 or more on diverting Northern Canadian and Alaskan waters as far south as Mexico.

"The Canadian delegates pointed out that their government has initiated a study of this problem and it is not in a position to take any action until the final report is received," said the communique.

In water pollution, already under study on the Great Lakes, the Canadians suggested they have an additional problem in that water lies in provincial jurisdiction. They and the U.S. agreed that an expanded role for the International Joint Commission, as suggested in various quarters, could be a major benefit in Canada-U.S. amicable co-operation.

Traffic Jams Highways

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Scarred highways across Canada marked the beginning Friday of the Victoria Day holiday weekend and police braced for a massive traffic jam today.

The Canadian Safety Council predicted 56 persons will die on the highways during the three days, an increase of two over last year's total.

The holiday marks the birth days of Queen Victoria and Queen Elizabeth.

Most weekend travelling will be done under sunny skies. Some rain is forecast for the West Coast Monday.

In the Maritimes, temperatures are expected to reach 70.

GET EXTRA HOLIDAY

Children in the Halifax area will receive an extra holiday courtesy of Gov.-Gen. Vanier who visited there last week.

But Roman Catholic students in Montreal will go to classes Monday by decision of the city's Catholic School Commission.

Parent - teacher associations in the city and the Federation of English - Speaking Catholic Teachers called the move "a discourtesy to Canada."

PLAN FIREWORKS

'Scarlet Panty Gang' Admits Robbery of Bank at Casselman

L'ORIGNAL, Ont. (CP) — Three members of the "scarlet panty gang" Friday admitted the armed robbery of the Banque Canadienne National at Casselman in this eastern Ontario area and were remanded to June 6 for sentencing.

The three Montrealers — Jean Paul Guimet, 24, Real Lacasse, 29, and Gaetan Giroux, 31—changed their pleas on the second day of their trial before Judge Omer Chartrand.

They changed the pleas from not guilty after Jacques Precourt, 25, of Verdun, Que., testified they were his cohorts in the Oct. 27 robbery which netted the gang $6,054.

Precourt said he bought three pairs of ladies' red panties for $1 in a Montreal store Oct. 6 and got a fourth pair from a friend. These were fashioned into hoods for the Casselman bank robbery, he said. He was pulling the red stop-ins over my head I heard a shot," he testified. "It was Giroux. He was sitting in the back seat. While attempting to put on his panty hood, his firearm went off, hitting him in the calf of his leg."

Giroux remained in the car while the other three entered the bank.

After the robbery and getaway, Precourt said, they treated Giroux' bleeding leg wound "by pouring a few whisky we had on a hanky and bandaging his leg with it."

Giroux was left in the bush in the getaway car about seven miles from the robbery scene, where he was arrested. He limped into the prisoner's box Thursday with the aid of a cane.

Lacasse was on two cases —he had broken both legs in a fall through a barn hay chute on a farm near Hammond, Ont., where he was arrested.

Two Projects Would Double Capacity of Welland Canel

OTTAWA (CP)—Two massive projects that would involve, in effect, an almost complete replacement of the present Welland Canal between Lake Ontario and Lake Erie were announced Friday by Transport Minister Pickersgill.

If both are launched, the estimated cost would exceed $250,000,000. Annual traffic capacity would be doubled to more than 100,000,000 tons, and larger locks would draw bigger vessels into the St. Lawrence Seaway.

But it also would mean cancellation of the present $180,000,000 program to complete a twinning of the existing locks.

One of the projects has already been given the green light by the government — an $18-mile bypass to carry canal traffic around the city of Welland.

The canal now twists through the heart of the city where four highway and two railway bridges often impede traffic.

Dr. Pierre Camu, president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, said the bypass will take five years to build and cost about $107,000,000.

Studies of the bypass were first announced last December when Ottawa expropriated 4,000 acres of land for it.

The second project, which the government still has to approve, would dwarf the bypass job.

It is a complete replacement of the present canal from the seven-lock system which carries lake and ocean vessels from Lake Ontario to the top of the 300-foot Niagara Escarpment. An eighth lock at the Lake Erie end would need improvement.

Informants said it would cost at least $500,000,000, probably more.

The project, still requiring a year of study before it can be submitted to the cabinet, would take a minimum of five years to construct.

Dr. Camu said studies still are in the early stages but the aim would be to build longer locks able to handle bigger vessels. The seaway now is restricted to handling lake and ocean vessels of not more than 730 feet in length.

It would also be possible to reduce the number of locks and speed up the flow of traffic. The present 27-mile Welland system has become the biggest bottleneck in the seaway, although it handled a record 50,000,000 tons of traffic last year.

Predictions of seaway traffic growth in that Welland may have to take 64,000,000 tons a year by 1970 and 79,000,000 tons by 1980.

Dr. Camu stressed these are conservative estimates.

Friday's announcement by Mr. Pickersgill said the seaway has been authorized to expropriate 2,000 acres east of the present canal in the St. Catharines area in case it is decided to go ahead with the new locks.

Expropriation procedures prevent land speculators from grabbing up property and demanding inflated prices. Those who own the property when the expropriation is ordered argue later with government agents over the price.

Bulldozer Rips Out Gas Line

Re-construction work on Upper Primacle Street near Station was halted for a short time yesterday, when a bulldozer ripped out the natural gas service line to Gene Cameron Motors.

City firemen were called and plugged the broken nipple and road workmen returned to the job after a fifteen minute delay.

Last fall a workman was injured when an explosion occurred after a gas pipe was broken by road machinery in the same general area.

Asparagus Sells Quickly On City Market

There were two firsts for the season on Belleville market this morning. Asparagus made a fleeting appearance, selling quickly at 25 cents a half-pound bunch. It was the first cutting of this popular item. Its appearance was about three weeks behind schedule, owing to the recent cold weather. Out tulips, also a first this year, brought 50 cents per dozen. Growers said they could usually count on having their tulips on sale for Mother's Day, but this year, it was different.

Fresh rhubarb sold for 18 cents per bunch or two for 25 cents; green onions, 10 cents per bunch or three for 25; six-quart baskets of potatoes, 65 cents and greenhouse tomatoes, 45 cents per pound.

Eggs remained steady at 35 cents per dozen for large and 30 cents for extra large. Year-old chickens were selling for 30 cents per pound.

Strawberry plants brought 25 per 100 while tomato plants sold at 45 cents for 35 and $1.50 for 200. Potted geraniums sold for 65 cents and the prices for bedding plants were 50 cents and 40 cents.

Apples sold well. Six-quart baskets of mac brought 75 cents —says 80 cents and delicious 90 cents.

Early Chances of Reduction In Tax Rate Limited--Ellis

Despite the fact that the city tax rate had to be raised by approximately three mills this year, Mayor J. R. Ellis feels council exercised caution and restraint, and in view of costs ahead for the City says early chances for reducing the mill-rate are limited.

Commenting on this year's total city budget of $5,600,000, reduced through government grants to $2,700,000 to be raised by local taxation, Mayor Ellis says that only greater participation by the provincial government in the cost of education, health services, and administration of justice could relieve the local taxpayer.

Mayor Ellis says it was the feeling of he Ontario Mayors' and Reeves' Association, if the Provincial Government shared in education, health services and administration of justice costs to the same degree as it participates in welfare costs, then municipal budgets would not be nearly so hard pressed.

If the above were the case, municipal budgets could provide more adequately for those services which are primarily the function of the municipality. Such services include items such as sidewalks, roads, curbs, sewers, water, police and fire protection.

One of the reasons for the feeling that the cost of education should be borne on a more general basis, is that in many municipalities the money spent on education may well be lost to the community through young people going elsewhere to find jobs.

CONTROL LIMITED

A total city budget of more than five million dollars is admittedly getting into the big money field, but Mayor Ellis points out that city council actually has control of but a comparatively small percentage of this amount.

Actually council has full control over only about $450,000, or less than ten percent of this year's total budget of more than five million dollars.

Areas over which council has little or no control include, public, separate and high schools, the police commission budget, to some extent the fire department, and debenture payments which this year will amount to $325,000 or 5.12 mills.

The public school budget this year is $1,491,000, of which $688,000 must be raised locally. The high school budget is $2,270,000, of which $600,000 is the city's share.

But despite the high costs, Mayor Ellis says "none of us would wish for a lower standard of education for our children, nor can we expect teachers to work for less if we are to continue to demand the high quality teaching staff that we now enjoy."

In addition to the above items over which council has no control, actually it has little control over the health department, the parks board, transit commission or the suburban roads commission."

The Public Works Department is the one area over which the council has the greatest degree of control. This year, for a total budget of $603,000.00, less a Provincial Government contribution of $136,000.00, the city will not only maintain in good repair existing streets, sidewalks, sewers and also build approximately twenty-five thousand feet of road resurfacing, to-gether with new storm sewers, new sanitary sewers and newly built roads and curbs in areas where it is felt they are needed.

"This will be done in addition to the supervision of such major capital works as the North Front Street extension, the construction of Pinnacle Street, the east Belleville storm sewers, curbs and paving, and other work of this nature which is covered in the capital works budget," said Mayor Ellis, "and, as I mentioned previously, will be reflected in next year's current budget when the debenture payments begin."

Humane Society Annual Meeting Names Officers

The first annual general meeting of the Quinte Humane Society, Quinte Branch, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Crowe, 166 William St.

Mr. Theo Rhenius was again elected president and Arthur C. Jones was elected vice-president for the coming year.

Appreciation was expressed to Mr. Rhenius for all the work he has put into organizing a local branch of the Ontario Humane Society. Harold Crowe was thanked for so untiringly performing many not-so-pleasant duties connected with the cases of distressed animals in the locality.

Reports were made on a second appeal to raise sufficient funds for a full-time inspector to work in the Quinte area, and towards the Society's ultimate goal of an animal shelter, where unwanted animals from the Quinte district may be cared for.

One of the representatives reported having received sympathetic hearing from Gerald Hyde of the City Hall to the Society's suggestion that a windbreaker be supplied at the city pound to give more shelter be impounded will animals and also some 2 by 4's for the cage floors.

The meeting was graced by the presence of two young BCI students, Pam McFarlane and Kathleen James, whose interest in animal welfare made them want to see just how such a meeting was conducted.

Call Tenders For New Swim Pool

TRENTON—Tenders for the construction of a swimming pool in the high school area called yesterday from the Fort Hope office of Barnett, Reider and Creighton. Tenders are to be in by 2 p.m. Tuesday, May 31.

The United Service Clubs have now raised more than $40,000 towards their $60,000 goal for pool construction.

PUC to Repeat Dinner for Contractors

TRENTON — At a meeting of the Trenton Public Utilities' Commission on Thursday, it was decided to repeat last year's get - together with local contractors at a banquet meeting in the Trenton Country Club. This year's dinner will be held on Tuesday, May 24.

Reporters have been asked to attend, and commission chairman Charles Hilton asked Councillor J. Gordon Lloyd who has been attending meetings since the first of the year, to be a guest.

The general feeling of the commissioners was that much had been accomplished last year to clear up misunderstandings with the contractors and that the method was well worth repeating.

In other business, the commissioners discussed the city council's proposal that a six-inch watermain be installed on Dundas and Wragge Streets. The town will install a sanitary sewer on these streets, as well as on Quinte Street, at a depth of 16 feet. The PUC will lay the watermain at a depth of five and a half feet only, and in the same trench with the sewer main. Cost of the watermain project is $30,000, with the commission bearing $12,000 of this and area owners paying the rest under the Local Improvements Act.

Utilities' manager James Page was directed to sell 40,000 tons of gravel from the Murray Township well pit to E. Segsworth Ltd. of Kitchener for road work on the township's new development road, "at the best price we get," which Commissioner Said Mr. Page, would possibly be $ cents a ton, and five cents a load.

The Hydro Electric Power Commission has notified the local body that it intends to pay the Town of Trenton a "grant in lieu of taxes" in addition to that paid for June 30.

"That commission is all heart," was Mr. Hilton's comment.

And the commission was been asked by the town to supply hydro to a dog and water service to the new Zigman scrap yard in East Trenton. As the yard is in a fairly remote area, the cost of supplying these services will be high, Mr. Page said, naming a figure in excess of $2,000.

The money will have to be found somewhere to do this, but Commissioners Hilton and C. A. Baker agreed it wasn't in the PUC's budget.

MP's Hit Way Areas Are Picked

By BOB MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP)—Criteria for establishing designated areas eligible for federal aid to attract new industry were attacked as unrealistic and unfair in the Commons Friday.

Use of National Employment Service figures for unemployment and income per family discriminates against some regions, said Warner Jorgenson (PC-Provencher). Max Saltsman (NDP — Waterloo South) said industries are being lured to areas where they didn't belong.

Both were speaking during consideration of the industry department's 1966-67 estimates. Earlier, the Commons approved the post office estimates.

Industry Minister Drury rose out of time Friday in his attempt to get his estimates through the House and may have to wait a while. When the House resumes Tuesday after the Commonwealth Day holiday, it will shift to second reading of the bill setting up new government departments under the reorganization announced last winter by Prime Minister Pearson.

Mr. Jorgenson said while family incomes in his riding are less than in some designated areas, the Ottawa Valley region could not be designated because it was lumped in with Eastern Ontario in the department's service surveys. This brought the average up but did nothing for the valley.

He suggested the government should determine designated areas on the basis of regions drawing the line between cities and surrounding regions.

As it was, although there were cities in different survey areas he considered a joke, a giant when they sought new industry to bolster their economy.

Mr. Saltsman said the area development program a "cruel hoax" that often tried to lure industries into places where they don't belong. The economic potential of a region and its ability to support long-term industries were not taken into account.

Results of the program were becoming freakish, said Robert McCleave (PC—Halifax). The bustling city of Moncton was in a designated area, but Halifax, Saint John, N.B., and Fredericton were not.

Thomas M. Bell (PC—Saint John - Albert) said the entire Maritimes region should be designated, especially the cities that are now on the verge of losing the area into a new era of economic growth.

Hugh Faulkner (L — Peterborough) said the criteria for depressed areas should not direct the program but be a mere purpose — creation of employment opportunities.

The industry department has been helpful in his riding. MPs should take on more responsibility for liaison between the department and local businessmen.

Next month he hoped to hold a meeting in Peterborough between businessmen and officials of the department and the National Research Council. The department has co - operated fully with this project, he added.

Mr. Faulkner also said beneficient money is being spent on industrial research and development.

Dr. Henry R. Dinsdale, associate professor of sociology at Queen's University and head sociologist at Kingston General Hospital, will address a general meeting of the Quinte Chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society at Education Hall, Belleville General Hospital, on Wednesday evening, May 25, at 8 p.m. The public is invited.

Stirling Area Roads Supt. Retires Friday

A triple presentation from highways department officials and from the men with whom he worked has marked the retirement of Mr. Norton Bateman of Stirling, who yesterday retired as highways road superintendent after a period of 23 years.

Yesterday, at the district office north of Stirling, Mr. Bateman was presented with a TV chair from District Highways Engineer Cash from Kingston. Last evening fellow employees at Stirling gathered him with a purse of money, while a week ago division garage employees at Tamworth gave him a barometer and purse of money.

A native of the Stirling district, Mr. Bateman farmed until he joined the county road system. He started in highways department in 1943 and has been in charge of Highway 14 from Belleville to Marmora, and Highway 33 from Stirling to Trenton.

His successor as road superintendent will be Jack Green, also of Stirling, who has been Mr. Bateman's assistant for a number of years.

Will Propose Sewage System For Deseronto

Engineering consultants Hisey and Barrington of Toronto have been retained by the Ontario Water Resources Commission for the preparation of a design report for sewage treatment requirements for the town of Deseronto.

Following the engineer's report the commission will develop a rate based on usage and submit a proposal to the municipality for construction of a provincially financed sewage system.

East Hastings MLA Clarke Rollins said the report will include provision for construction of sewage treatment works, pumping station, connecting facilities from the town's sewer system and a discharge sewer to the Bay of Quinte.

'Batmen' Try To Get Drugs

ST. WILLIAMS, Ont. (CP)—Three men, disguised in blue capes and Batman masks, were forced to flee early Friday in their attempt to break into a drug cabinet at a nursing home.

Mrs. J. S. Lowden, operator of the home, said the three men entered about 1 a.m., and locked a nursing aide, Lyla Mae McKenzie, 20, in a closet, but apparently were interrupted in their search for narcotics by the approach of an elderly patient.

Mrs. McKenzie said the men escaped with $20 in cash. She saw one of them drop an apron loaded with 800 tranquilizer pills. Police believe all the pills have been recovered.

In Brantford, police said an attempted safe-cracking at a drug store Thursday night was probably the work of the same men as in St. Williams and Kitchener.

Predict 1967 Truce In Viet Nam War

By VOLKMAR RICHTER

TORONTO (CP)—Combatants in the Viet Nam war narrowly avoid an exchange of nuclear attacks and sign a truce at a Geneva conference in March, 1967.

The prediction of a medium? No, the conclusion of a deadserious game.

The project — simulation of the Viet Nam war—was conducted at the University of Toronto by the Canadian Peace Research Institute to explore what motivates various countries to take certain action in world affairs.

In the game, students and professors took the roles of eight nations involved in the war. A person was in charge of each nation and supervised its alliances, internal activities and war effort.

But unlike children's games in which one says "Bang, you're dead" and another answers "No, I'm not," this game was highly supervised in the light of practical possibilities.

Each premier had to take into consideration advice of his military and economic advisers, his foreign minister and the news reported by a mimeographed newspaper and radio broadcasts prepared for the project.

A central control used a series of complicated equations to calculate conditions in each country. A low rating in investments such as consumer satisfaction and decision latitude would mean, for example, that the country's people were not pleased and might rebel.

USED IN BUSINESS

Running central control was Dr. Jerome Laulicht, a sociologist, who conducted a similar game in Leeds, England, six weeks earlier. Dr. Laulicht said the simulation technique was developed by big business to predict the actions of competitors.

Six years ago it was picked up by professors at Northwestern University, Chicago, who adapted it to studying international affairs.

Working with Dr. Laulicht was Dr. Norman Alcock, founder of the peace research institute at Clarkson, west of Toronto. He was in charge of the calculations, processing information and reporting progress, or lack of it, back to the countries involved.

Dr. Alcock said the calculations were to have been done by computer but the programs arrived from England too late Some problems resulted; for example, China kept losing one-third of her army every three months. But for most countries the figures given were close to real conditions.

Dr. Alcock and Dr. Laulicht intend to conduct a series of such simulations on university campuses in the fa" ' ' ' first they will run one in Stockholm in September at the request of the Swedish defence department.

Participants said they learned a lot about international affairs and conditions. For the most part they were seriously engrossed in the round of conferences, negotiations, defence pacts and international wrangling.

But there were moments of levity, such as the U.S. state department announcement that China's associate defence minister had been accused of indiscretions with a North Vietnamese woman identified as Mrs. Moon Sing Gar.

Bomber Wrote to Paper

EDMONTON (CP)—When the Edmonton Journal received a letter from a man who said he planned to become president of Canada after killing as many members of Parliament as possible, it was dismissed as the work of a crank.

Wednesday the author of the letter was killed by a bomb made bomb in a washroom in the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa.

Paul Joseph Chartier, about 45, left a long and tangled trail. It included the letter to the Journal, dated May 11, 1966, and a handwritten speech found in his Toronto room, in which he outlined his grievances against Canada's parliamentary system.

The letter repeatedly accused parliamentarians of corruption and mis-government. It is a rambling document, in places almost incoherent and full of spelling errors that Chartier's bitterness came through.

Of parliamentarians, he said: "As soon as they become associated with a lovely salary, they forget what they were elected for. I call them word cheats to the first degree."

He said he had given them a poll say 10,000 votes to remind them of their promises but that they are elected they give us a line that is 1966 years old. . . .

Speaking of what he called the nation's social ills, Chartier wrote:

". . . What chance of higher wages have the none skilled older people the ones that have to be kept on welfare, the semi invalid and the sick, the one who has had nerves, the one that has a bad heart, kidney, lungs, or the man who is only partly disabled where do you draw the line and when you do what does he get, not even enough to live like a human.

Order New Vote At Northern's London Plant

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Labor Relations Board has ordered a new certification vote at Northern Electric Co. Ltd.

The board, in a decision released Friday, ruled the Canadian Labor Congress was an interested party in a Feb. 15 vote and ordered the 72-hour "silent period" preceding it.

Names of the Northern Electric IE m p l o y e e Association (Ind.), now holding bargaining rights for the 1,200 production workers on the plant, and the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (UE) were on the ballot.

Employees voted 362 to 313 against the UE bid to represent the workers.

The UE applied for another vote, arguing that a pamphlet issued by the London and District Labor Council the day before balloting and a CLC newspaper advertisement on the same date contravened the silent period.

The CLC was conducting an organizing campaign at the plant at the time.

Life Insurance Men Hear Talk About Estates

A businessman who died transferred shares of his business to his wife, and later turned some over to his son, wound up by losing control of his own company even though he was physically managing it, M. J. Stolesbury, C.A., told members of the Quinte Life Underwriters Association at their May meeting May 20.

Mr. Stolesbury of Geo. A. Welch and Co., chartered accountants, dealt with the field of estate planning in terms of estate preservation. He discussed the advantages and disadvantages of a wife owning life insurance on her husband's life and also the various ways estate assets could be legally transferred to the wife so as to minimize future death liabilities in the estate.

"The main criterion in a program of this sort, however, is whether or not the marriage is a successful one," he said. He explained how the businessman lost control of his company when his wife left him after receiving shares in the business and then the son, who had also received shares, sided with his father. Between the mother and son, they controlled the shares to allow them to take control away from the estranged husband.

"Good estate planning does not necessarily allow a husband start dissipating his assets but that a long term, cautious plan should be adopted," he observed.

He also mentioned that in the majority of cases, especially where a home is owned or being purchased, the deed is in joint tenancy between husband and wife. This means that if the wife has not actually paid for her half of the property when her husband dies, she will have to pay capital gains tax on half the value of the equity in the house if the husband owned it the equity exceeds $4,000. If caught in the early stages, this problem can be alleviated by establishing a gifting program.

Mr. Stolesbury was introduced by G. B. Allen, who is head of the association were expressed by Jack Peoples.

Eugene Forsey distributed folders from the Canadian Medic-Alert Foundation, a non-profit organization. Herschel Harrison stated that local Quinte Underwriters had purchased a supply of the folders and would be distributing them to interested citizens who may have allergies, diabetes, epilepsy or so on, where a serious problem could arise as the result of him or her being unconscious. bracelets have served to save many lives already, it was noted.

Plans were announced for the association's sports day, scheduled for Trenton next month.

Ottawa Lunacy

Canadians may be forgiven for feeling a little unbalanced these days. The Munsinger affair has damaged the country's image, interfered with the conduct of the country's routine affairs, and impaired the efficiency of Parliament and its members.

As our Ottawa correspondent, Richard Jackson notes, the House has only half its mind or its work. And although the revelations of the inquiry have been rather less than sensational, they are of sufficient interest to draw capacity crowds to the public galleries.

Such is the baser and slightly inglorious side of human nature that thrives on material that would scarcely pass muster in a second-rate spy novel. For what we are witnessing in Ottawa is nothing more than one aspect of the political life of the day. True, the outcome of the inquiry may have grave implications for the country and for parliament, but what is needed more than anything just now is a sense of proportion.

At least, it is satisfying to read of other activities which give Canada a better name — of the country's peace-keeping forces overseas for example, and of the professional men and women who are assisting the underdeveloped countries.

We note also that shortly after the Parliament Hill bomb blast, Prime Minister Pearson went to Toronto to fulfill a speaking engagement. Earlier he had presented a scroll to Leeds Mr John Matheson to show he was the 1,000,000th Canadian to take a St. John Ambulance class in artificial respiration. Northern Affairs Minister Laing released information on the number of Indians attending school.

Thus it can be seen that other work is being performed in Ottawa. The fact is inescapable, however, that the implementation of major Parliamentary business is being severely compromised by the Munsinger inquiry. By the time it is over and Mr. Justice Spence has released his report further time will have been consumed. The sooner the country gets back to normal the better.

Meanwhile there should be another brief inquiry — like the three-day seminar Moor Park Presidential Review in Ottawa is conducting into witchcraft, fanaticism and brainwashing. The prospectus, which might have been written with Ottawa in mind, calls it "an academic exercise to try and understand what kind of lunacy can take hold of relatively civilized people."

A Helping Hand

Human relationships tend to deteriorate when they lack the cementing influence of challenge, some degree of shock and danger, and sharing of the rough with the smooth.

Even national differences, and opposing ideologies, are meaningless — in time of peace particularly — when compassion and a helping hand are needed.

Tamara Irmakova, a 24-year-old Russian stewardess and librarian aboard a Soviet fishing vessel in Pacific waters doubtless feels the same way as the result of her recent hospitalization in Prince Rupert, B.C.

The Vancouver Sun reports that Miss Irmakova received a welcome worthy of a film starlet on her arrival at the international airport after nine days in Prince Rupert. While in hospital the Russian girl was showered with gifts, and her quiet manner and good looks also charmed officials and members of the press who met her at Vancouver.

After a brief interview, Miss Irmakova was spirited away to a Soviet survey vessel anchored at Vancouver. There she is awaiting shipment home.

What a pity there cannot be more informal contacts like this between Canadians and Russians. There is no reason, however, why Ottawa should not give a lead in this sphere. A good start would be to invite some Russian high school students to this country. This could be the beginning of other, informal exchanges between the two countries.

Qualities of a Wife

Here is some good advice for young women about to get married. Some may have university degrees and some may not. Almost all of them will continue working, at least until children are on the way. And many will continue working even after the children are born.

The words of advice come from British columnist Marjorie Proops and she touches on what many may regard as lost virtues — lost because of the pace and complexity of modern life, its conformity, rootlessness and impersonality.

Despite these latter barriers to better understanding in family and community relationship, it is still possible for modern wives to be the kind of people visualized by columnist Proops.

"The vitally important thing in a wife, in my view, is intelligence. You can have a totally uneducated girl who is vastly superior in intelligence to her university-educated sister. Intelligence, plus the kind of sensitivity which makes a woman understand and kind, is to my mind far more important in marriage than a degree in economics and law."

Gerda's Long Shadow Haunts An Uneasy Parliament

By RICHARD JACKSON

From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—It is a long, dark shadow that blonde Bavarian-playgirl Gerda Munsinger has been casting all the way from that chintzy apartment in far-off Munich.

And not just on the unfortunately indiscreet few who knew her in those carefree years-ago as "Micky", the swinging socialite from Montreal's giddy haut monde.

But on Parliament itself, which had heard only that distant rumbling of vaguely distasteful things, when a package of boiled secrets was opened at Supreme Court Justice Wishart Spence's Royal Commission investigation.

Apart altogether from the individual public careers she may be destroying, she is disturbing the Commons, especially the Official Conservative Opposition.

The whole House is looking over its shoulder at that vaulted chamber in the Centennial Towers, across town, where the grubby life and times of Gerda Munsinger are being examined by Mr. Justice Spence and as impressive a group of legal talent as has arrayed itself in any Canadian courtroom.

Understandably, the House has only half its mind on its work, as it divides attention between its assigned public business and the sex-and-security drama playing to standing-room-only crowds in the Towers.

SMIRKS AND SHUDDERS

What happens next?

And what will Mr. Justice Spence say when he writes the judicial review of this political tragedy?

Interesting to sit in the Commons Galleries these days and watch some of the Honorable Members as they wander and wait — like almost all of them are — leaving the House in a strange sort of suspended, fitful stage of suspended animation.

They react in three collective ways.

The Liberals and Conservatives with the most to lose — both have certain individual careers laid on the line — are quite visibly upset and wishing with all their hearts it never had happened.

They have been here since November, 1957, and are deeply concerned with the damage being done Parliament.

Worried, they are well aware that the image was already blurred enough without this smearing.

The New Democrats who think they have the most to gain, posing as Parliament's "Mr. Clean," are smug.

Even smirking as they mentally tally the seats they say they'll take in the next election, as the voters, repulsed by the soiled linen of the two old parties, turn to the sudsy socialists.

The Creditistes and Socreds, sort of the revivalists of politics, now more rightist than ever, are sure that the voters and their own good will become adherents by the hundreds of faith and regular attendants at their political prayer meetings.

But if the loglorious Creditistes are being disturbing Parliament, then she's been disorganizing, and perhaps demoralizing the Conservatives.

SUBDUED:

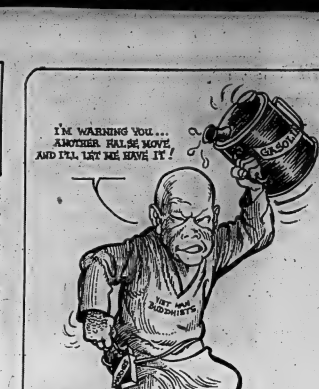
When they returned from the November election wars in January, they were walking on air.

Instead of the Diefenbaker Annihilation, they came back with 97 MPs (one has since resigned), the biggest Opposition group in 41 years, with their Frontbench reinforced by veterans of Parliamentary glory like Fulton, George Hees and Dick Bell.

Jumping with jubilation, for weeks they sounded for all the world like the winners, cocky in their confidence, that victory had only been delayed and the minority Liberals would stumble, any day now, over their own clumsy feet to defeat in the Commons.

They had the Parliamentary experts — Fulton for Justice, Hees for Transport and Trade and Commerce, Bell for Citizenship and Immigration, and a half a dozen other old Cabinet hands from the Tory glory days of 1958-'63 where they could muster a mountain-of-a-majority in the Commons with their 208 votes.

And they had brains-with-sources on the Backbenches.



Then Gerda came back from the dead.

Parliament — and especially the Official Opposition — has not been the same since.

Gone, Yes, all but silent day after day, has scarcely said a word about Trade or Transport.

Davie Fulton equally subdued, has had little to say about Justice.

Dismay and disorganization seem to have gone so deep — and got into the Opposition side of the House — that the Conservatives the other day, from among all their 96 Members, couldn't produce an expert, an informed critic on the housing issue when the Government cut back on mortgage money and left itself open to what could have been a punishing Parliamentary pummelling. They since have taken a second and more solid swing at it.

Hudson Bay Port Busy

Winnipeg Free Press

One of the hoped for by-products of the recent upsurge of development activity in the Prairie Provinces, particularly the northern areas, is an increase in the use of the port of Churchill.

There appears in be a real scope in the power and pulp developments in Manitoba and in the pulp and potash development in Saskatchewan for large movements of ore to and through Churchill. It has been one of the port's economic weaknesses that while ships alone leave it each summer laden with grain, they come in with nothing in their holds. Return trade is much more profitable.

A variety of equipment is needed for the potash industry. Steel could be supplied for stocking purposes, and the larger population that will result will bring a greater demand for consumer products. The same assessment can be made about Manitoba when the Nelson River hydro project and the lumber complex at the Pas get underway. As Manitoba's only seaport, it is to the province's interest that as much use be made of Churchill as possible.

Germans Prefer Home

West Germany was a fine source of immigrants for Canada in the immediate postwar years. Refugees and expellees from Eastern Germany or Germanic peoples from other parts of Europe thought others were native of West Germany. That source is now drying up.

In the 1950s West Germany averaged 200,000 a year. With 1,700,000 having emigrated since the end of World War II. But, by 1965, this exodus had dwindled to 30,000 And of these, many go elsewhere for experience and then return home. Returns in the first quarter of 1966 received only 1,454).

The reason for this decline simply is the busy economy of West Germany. There is work for everyone. Indeed Germany has been importing thousands from Italy, Yugoslavia and other southern European countries to help fill the jobs.

What Price N'foundland

Montreal Expositor

If would annoy parsimonious Henry VII, could he know, that Newfoundland pays nearly $3 million annually in perpetuity from Ottawa as the price for taking Canada in with him. The grant was discussed in committee last week by MPs, some of whom complained that thereafter, able nature of the measure. Transport Minister Pickersgill brought it before us.

Newfoundland, in common with the other provinces, receives $1 million dollars and more per year than this in federal aid under Ottawa's existing fiscal arrangements. The $3 million figure refers to an annual constitutional subsidy which a royal commission reviewing the financial provisions of the Terms of Union had recommended.

The miserly Tudor monarch was far less generous with the royal treasury in the matter of John Cabot in 1497 for adding a new possession to the Crown.

Disturbed Children

Peterborough Examiner

For several weeks, Health Minister Dr. Matthew Dymond has been sparring with the Ontario Legislature over reports, and the possible cover for contents of a report on treatment facilities for emotionally disturbed children. He refuses to release the document and his latest remark is that it is an interdepartmental report and — by implication — none of the public's business.

It is said to urge a crash training program to provide qualified persons to treat disturbed children. It indicates that there is a serious shortage of psychiatrists, psychologists and social workers. In short, one might suspect that to release many of the points made in the half report on health services and so create significant action has yet to be taken.

Dr. Dymond gives assurance that its contents — whatever they might are — will provide the basis for legislation. If so, then the Health Minister has put his finger — or his tongue — on the problem. That why the report should be released to the public. The public has the right to know what, if anything, is government is doing to fill what has long been a vital need.

Fighting Staph Germ Can Be Very Difficult

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain why a staph germ continues on different parts of my body even though I have sterilized and kept clean everything I touch. This started several months ago. Does it come from the inside or the outside? — Mrs. M.C.M.

* * *

The staphylococcus germ, a very common one, has certain peculiarities. Knowing something about it helps conquer it in — but I must warn you that in some cases it is no easy fight.

Results depend to some extent on the particular strain. There are several varieties of this germ.

The germ comes primarily from the outside, not the inside. That is, it tends to linger on the skin, and particularly in the nose. It can be present — and often is — without doing any mischief.

Then, for reasons we cannot always discover, the germ is acquired by someone who is unusually sensitive to it, or is not able to throw it off or control it with the normal defense mechanisms of the body. Often the germs thrive and infection appears. It is not unusual for staph infections to attack individuals already weakened by some other illness, although not always.

Boils, for example, are a common manifestation of staph infection. Their presence is an inherent indication that a person's resistance to the particular germ is (or has been) low.

While the boil (or similar area of infection) is healing, some of the germs may be conveyed by fingers or other means to some other skin area to set up a new focus of infection. That is why such infected areas must be kept covered with gauze, to prevent spread of the germs.

Occasionally the infection becomes so severe that it works into the blood stream, and then we have a case of blood poisoning, always serious. Fortunately most battles with staph are, like your case, not that serious, however, annoying they are.

The antibiotic drugs have been wonderfully helpful in combatting staph infections, and I hope (although your letter does not say so) that you are under medical treatment.

One problem is that the staph germ, being so plentiful in the world and so widely distributed, has come in contact at times with some of the antibiotics under such conditions that it survived and became resistant, meaning that germs of that particular family no longer are attacked by those particular drugs.

This is severe handicap, obviously. The answer lies in switching to some other antibiotic, to which the strain involved has not become resistant. In stubborn, long-lasting cases, it is wise to have laboratory tests of cultures of the germ, to find out which antibiotics will attack it and which will not. It is much quicker, in the end, than trying first one and then another.

After seven months of fighting staph, I would certainly take drastic steps to get rid of the infection. Meantime, naturally, keep on with your present precautions against spreading the germ either to others or to other parts of your own body.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: I have heard that petroleum jelly used on eye-lashes is harmful and can even cause blindness. Is this a fact? — Miss A. O.

Our Status Rises in U.S.

Windsor Star

The U.S. State Department is upgrading its "Canada desk" to an Office of Canadian Affairs, a move that should help American relations. If it does nothing else, the move should soothe louder Canadian sensibilities.

In the complicated administrative structure of the department, the new Canada office will be part of the more senior Bureau of European Affairs. Canada has been moved, however, from the Office of British Commonwealth and Northern European Affairs, and will share equal status with this office and the Office of Soviet Union Affairs.

The reason for the past confusion seems to have been an uncertainty in Washington about whether to class Canada under the American, the British Commonwealth, or the Atlantic Community.

Such confusion is not surprising, considering the confusion among Canadians as to exactly what we are.

Sacrifice Needed

Hamilton Spectator

If Canadians want to buy back even a part of what they have lost, they will have to face a lower standard of living while they do so, and the government will have to decide the type of capital it will accept. There can be no hedging with the truth that when economic sovereignty has gone, political sovereignty, such as it is, remains only by courtesy. Emotional hand wringing and patriotic drum tapping are no substitutes for the price of being disciplined that increasing ownership would demand.

Tour folders — once you get past the color pictures and colored words — are written in a cobbledegook travalese.

Travel is tough because travel industry operators are trying to put something over on the public, but because — like educators and doctors — they are frequently talking to each other. The fine print is supposed to be read by other travel agents, then explained to the client.

So you too can read and understand the fine print, and know what you're getting for your money, here are some of the most commonly used terms in travel terminology:

A LA CARTE — The menu in a restaurant or hotel dining room for which you have to pay extra, i.e. above the cost of what is included in your package. If your deal says "dinner," you get the dinner of the day. That need not be bad, but you won't get lobster or any choice. American Plan — Room and board (three meals). Sometimes the rates are quoted as so much extra above the room cost for American Plan (commonly abbreviated AP), sometimes as including room and meals. Read carefully.

Modified American Plan (MAP) — Room and two meals, usually breakfast and dinner. BUT NO JUICE

Continental Plan (CP) — Room and light breakfast (coffee or tea and rolls, and not juice).

Full Pension — The non-American plan breakfast which is in common use everywhere but the Western Hemisphere.

Half or Demi-Pension — Same as Modified American Plan, though it may include the option of lunch instead of dinner.

Bed and Breakfast (B&B) — Obviously, the same as Continental Plan, except the breakfast is in the room rate, a common practice in much of the more expensive Europe.

English Breakfast — A full breakfast, not just coffee and rolls, though, oddly enough, juice still isn't included. A common policy in the British Isles and countries most frequented by British tourists, or where the stick-to-the-ribs breakfast is customary and necessary for sustenance (Scandinavia, for example).

Carrier — A public carrier-airline, steamship company, bus line or railroad.

Charter Flight — A flight booked exclusively for members of a single organization. Fares are cheaper, but space is not sold to the general public.

Couchettes — Coach seats on some European trains that are converted into sleeping berths of a sort, with pillows and blankets. Cheaper than berths, but cramped and uncomfortable.

Coupons — Vouchers issued by travel agents through various agents indicating that services (room, meals, sightseeing) have been prepaid and purchased, they are not always refundable.

AN A SPECIALIST

Courier — A professional escort - guide who accompanies groups tours. As a guide, he is not usually a specialist, and private guides are generally retained at major stops (museums, etc.).

European Plan — Room only, not always including service charge (in lieu of tipping) and taxes. In Europe, South America and Asia, these may run up to 25 percent additional.

Gared — Applied to the name of a hotel, indicates it has a restaurant, but it may serve breakfast in the room.

Land Arrangements — Services provided after you arrive at your foreign destination, accompanying mainly transportation and sightseeing within a country.

Optional — Anything not included in the standard itinerary (side trip, nightclub, restaurant), at extra cost, of course.

Table d'Hote — The standard meal for the tour group at individual guest on a pack a go deal. Anything not listed, including after-dinner coffee, is extra.

Tour-Basing Fare — Includes reduction on transportation. when a complete prepaid package is purchased, including land arrangements, meals, sightseeing and accommodations, and requiring transportation at certain times.

Tour Operator — Also known as a wholesaler, phis is the big time specialist in mass arrangements through whom the local retail travel agent (the bulk of the industry) purchases your air reservations. Some wholesalers also have their own retail divisions.

Transfer — Arrangements for getting you between airports, railroad terminals, and piers, and your hotels and-or downtown terminals. This is one of the biggest ringers in travel costs, largely because a so-called transfer is a handy fund for not being met on arrival. If you can find your own way to your hotel, you can save a lot of money. If you demand to be met by someone who sees after your luggage and takes you by the hand, it can be very, very expensive.

Tour de Lis — The non-North American term for a Pullman car. Generally they have private compartments rather than open berths, include a washbasin, but not usually a private toilet.

Woman Hopes to Make Arts Capital in Brazil

By CLAUDE E. ERESEN

OURO PRETO, Brazil (AP)—A Canadian pianist turned airplane dealer is hoping to make this city the arts capital of Brazil.

To finance her dream she's running a restaurant and financing the local handicraft industry.

"This could be the future No. 1 art centre in Latin America," says Gerry Kanigan, a native of Saskatchewan and wife of a Brazilian.

A university town with a historical museum and a thriving tourist industry, Ouro Preto is better known for its past than its future. Miss Kanigan wants to change the former to give it the latter.

The baroque music of Minas Gerais was once famed around the world," she says, "and was rediscovered only 20 years ago."

IDEA EXPANDS

Starting with the idea of staging an annual baroque music festival, Miss Kanigan soon expanded her plan and hopes to launch a full-fledged annual arts festival covering the theatre, music, movies and the plastic arts.

So far the 37-year-old Canadian has received plenty of encouragement but little money.

The Ford and Rockefeller foundations have received her proposals with enthusiasm but made no move to finance them. The wife of Canadian Ambassador Paul Fauteux, herself a painter of note—helped spark a publicity campaign, about the project in Rio de Janeiro.

Material help has come from Sergio Bernardes, one of Brazil's richest men, about the only who was so taken with the idea that he set his staff to design a combination resort and festival complex to rise on a ranch which Miss Kanigan bought on the outskirts of Ouro Preto to pasture her horses after they had eaten a neighbor's orchids.

Bernardes' plan calls for a hay ride area with a 600-seat building on a steep cobblestoned street in the heart of the city.

DRAFTED PLANS

Later, with the help of his staff he produced plans which include a Greek amphitheatre taking advantage of a hillside on the ranch, shops and studios

A FINAL MONTAGE

Imagine
A flowerless world ?
Unthinkable !
For flowers of all seasons
Adorn the art
Of gracious living :
Superb possessors
Of Beauty's power.

Why ?

"Flowers are the nicest things that happen to people," is a florist's slogan just flashed on the TV screen this morning.

Ah — who does not agree ?

But, for fun, let's ask : "If so — how so ? And why ?

Here, in answer, are some random examples as samples :

Galli-Curci, a famous singer, after her performance at Toronto's Canary Island, was given homage in a most beautiful way. The stage was turned into a cedar of a shower of rose petals, until she stood ankle deep in them. A caged canary decked with flowers was slowly lowered before her eyes as a flock of white winged doves, from the gallery, each bearing a message card, were released and flew about her, the boldest alighting on her shoulders.

The poet Robert Herrick who lived in a 17th century age that was not gossip inclined, did not interfere with his neighbors, at a time when interference was almost a duty, and would, instead of country customs, fairs, fragrance of flowers, and flowering girls he loved in his own time, and for them is remembered to this day.

"As a watery blossom quickly fall and are forgotten, but in thy bounteous mercy grant that our sins may be so buried remembered no more." is a prayer written by a Japanese pastor.

"And whenever she moved I fancied there was a dryad shaken into the air a fragrance of sweet flowers such as Jasmine." Elizabeth (of the German Garden) describes a friend.

William Wordsworth, king of the flowery poets, sings of her, "with pasaure fills, and dances with the daffodils," claimed of "in my faith that every flower enjoys the air it breathes." for nature to him was a person distinct from himself. And while Katherine Mansfield believed . . . no man loves flowers as a woman can," yet only a great flower-lover could written :

"Never have I seen the garden more beautiful" as Lucy Rowse declares in "A Cornish-man at Oxford" published by Jonathan Cape (it's at the Corby Library); who describes the swath of daffodils' gold, the rhododendrons' cherry - red, the primroses' pinks and yellows, the narcissi's white as the grape hyacinths' deep sea-blue, in spite of a sulky Cornwall spring.

Marion Mills Preminger visited her grandmother in Paris as a child and recalls her in a room, "carpeted with grass-green velvet, from which girls grew a complete garden . . . all around the blue walls of roses, irises, poppies, cornflowers, stocks, just my height, while nasturtiums, like real ones, and as feathers to my touch, hovered over the blossoms. A wicker wheel-barrow stood by my bed. The clothes rack was the form of a dresser; another tree with green branches held my hats. . . ."

"My grandmother," she said, "slept in a bed of gold under a silver fur-like cover and every night her maid pinned a bouquet of violets or mimosa to her lace trimmed pillow to perfume her dreams."

While a fingertip proverb urges that it is wisdom to "confide your troubles to the roses. They will last only a morning." Or on a card accompanying a gift: "To a gem among girls I have loved in my time, and for them is remembered to this day."

"As a watery blossom quickly fall and are forgotten, but in thy bounteous mercy grant that our sins may be so buried remembered no more." is a prayer written by a Japanese pastor.

Mrs. S. Howell Outlines Plans for Centennial

MARMORA — Mrs. Stuart Howell, Belleville, Chairman of the Women's Centennial Activities in Hastings County, spoke to representatives of women's organizations in the Town Hall here Wednesday afternoon. She gave a progress report on how Canadians have responded to the challenge of its 100th birthday.

She noted that the Ontario Government formed a women's activities committee with members of the central committee would be inspired by them to carry out centennial hints and projects. "We are the first nation that has been known to celebrate its centennial" she said, "and the first to have a women's committee. The Ontario

She cited many things being done in other villages in the province, and suggested that films are available through Ottawa or Toronto dealing with centennial flavor. She mentioned the importance of flags which could be sold by girls to raise money for central committee, and noted that Belleville would probably be available for making centennial coconuts.

She commended the people of Marmora for their efforts for the centennial program. "Centennial" she said, "is not just a one exclusive property of the Federal and Provincial Governments - it is your town and my project. Women are used to putting the frosting on the cake . . . and next year is our big birthday party!"

Introduced by Mrs. C. J. Meiklejohn, Chairman of Women's Activities in Marmora, Mrs. Howell gave thanks for her remarks and exchange of ideas by Mrs. Murray Walker.

Gordon Bennett, chairman of the central committee in Marmora, reviewed plans for the year and mentioned that it is hoped to have a centennial ball on January 11th, John A. Macdonald's birthday. He said Mr. John Fisher's tape recording on centennial will be heard next Tuesday afternoon at 2 p.m. in the memorial building.

It was suggested that the play "My Gal Sal" recently put on by members of the High School be shown again with proceeds going to the centennial fund.

Mrs. Meiklejohn led the discussions which followed and motions were passed that three centennial stories for prizes be included in the Marmora Fall Fair - to the group making the best ceramadal quilt; for the doll with the best period costume made by an individual; and for the best adult period costume.

These efforts could later be used for the caravan display or displays at events.

Reeve William Shannon commented that it was encouraging to see such an enthusiastic exchange of ideas for the celebration of Canada's birthday.

Ann Landers

He Tests All the Girls Seeking One to Say No

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 20-year-old son came home from boot camp last week. He looked very depressed at the breakfast table this morning and I asked what was bothering him. He replied, "I am so disappointed in Lorna. I always thought she had such high morals, but I found out differently last night."

I put the question bluntly: "Did you have improper relations with her?" He answered, "Yes, and I was very surprised to find out that she had round heels like all the rest."

I asked if he was in the habit of doing such things and he said, "Sir, else can a fellow tell if a girl is decent?"

ANN LANDERS

He insists he will continue to test girls this way because he wants to make certain that the girl he marries is a virgin. He said, "If she turns me down flat I will be sure that she would turn down any and all indecent proposals — no matter who makes them. That's the kind of a girl I want for a wife."

What do you think about this, Ann Landers? — ANOTHER MOM.

DEAR MOM: Your son has the morals of an alley cat — also a very big mouth. It was downright rotten of him to tell on Lorna.

And your question (the blunt one, Lady) strikes me as an interesting combination of nosiness and an attempt to get vicious kicks via your son's cheap sexual experimentation.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Anyone who has read your column for three months and says he has not seen himself at least once, he's a liar. I saw myself yesterday and I'm hoping that hundreds (maybe thousands) of mothers who are smothering their children at my mother smothered me, will see themselves and take heed.

"Voice of Experience" wrote that her mother always made it a point to re-shine the glasses after she had shined them. She re-did the kitchen sink and re-fled her hair bow and shoe laces. She re-made the bed, dusted over her dusting and made her feel that she couldn't do anything right.

Don't misunderstand, please. My mother was a good woman and she didn't have the faintest notion of what she was doing to me. But she destroyed my self-confidence so completely that it took four years of psychiatric help to make me a functioning human being. — ANOTHER VOICE.

DEAR VOICE: The injured party sees himself quite readily, which is understandable, but I wonder how many culprits recognize themselves in print. Not one mother wrote to say, "I saw myself." Scores of daughters wrote, however, and said, "I saw my mother."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What can I do about a husband who clams up and refuses to speak a single word when something displeases him?

Last night the TV broke during his favorite show. He got mad and kicked the dog. Then he sat in the corner and wouldn't say a word. He actually decided he wanted salami sandwiches instead of cheese for his lunch box so he wrote me a note and asked our son to hand it to me.

How do I deal with such behavior? — L.S.W.

DEAR L.S.W.: Indifference is your best approach. Sulkers sometimes become civilized, if not cheerful members of the family, when moods are ignored.

Papier Mache Sculptor Speaks to Crafts Club

Miss Hazell, who does decorative work for Eaton's Santa Claus parade, the C.B.C. and the Parliament Buildings, conducted a demonstration of papier mache.

As a foundation for masks, she uses a plasticine mould. She said a bowl also makes a good foundation. The foundation is first covered with damp tissue, then with layers of torn paper and dipped in cold water paste. Four layers are ample. Another method is indirect casting, in which five layers are used on the inside of a plaster mould. Chicken wire is also used for the basic structure, then covered with tissue and paper layers. Miss Hazell said, building paper is excellent material for papier mache work, as are unglazed brown paper bags.

After the paper sculpture has dried, it can be painted as desired.

Following the potluck supper annual reports were given by Helen Salmon for the weaving guild; Dorothy Harwood for the leather guild, Lillian Peddle for the rug hookers and Meg Pederson for the ceramic workers.

LIST OFFICERS

Lloyd Doran conducted the election of officers and installed the following: past president, Pat Gardner; president, Wilma Summers, 1st vice-president, Audrey Davies; 2nd vice-president, Dorothy Harwood; secretary Doris Miles; treasurer, Isobel Wright; membership, Helen Bingleman; publicity, Helen Sulmon; program, Meg Pederson and Jack Layton; social, Lillian Peddle, Alice O'Shaughnessy and Freda Ewes; house Phyllis Diamond.

These cakes were later won by ladies in the audience. Mrs. Florence McKeown of Springbrook received the butterfly cake for being the eldest lady present; Mrs. John Bird the ball shaped cakes for having the nearest anniversary and Mrs. Eileen Colcon the coconaut dog cake for having a child with the nearest birthday.

Guests from Hastings were introduced by Mrs. John Glover and included: Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe, Sr., Mrs. Cecil Oliver and Mrs. L. W. Humphries. Mrs. Allan Warren thanked the Hastings group for providing an entertaining evening. Refreshments were served to the 90 ladies present by Marmora U.C.W.

Preceding the entertainment, Mrs. Wells conducted a business meeting. She announced that the junior choir of the church will hold a dessert party and hymn sing on the evening of May 26th. It was decided that the proceeds at the potluck dinner on May 11th would go towards the U.C.W. Centennial Project. Potluck dinner will be held on the next two Wednesdays.

Miss Grace Warren was appointed to look after gathering information on the history of the United Church for the centennial committee and other activities will be planned later.

QUESTION: do you have a recipe for Chili Sauce you can make with canned tomatoes? My neighbor asked me for one and I seem to remember it in your column years ago . ..Mrs. J. C.

ANSWER: You are right. It appeared here February 1, 1960.

SATURDAY Dinner Menu by Mary Moore

Sweet 'n Sour Pork Hocks (see Fri.); Noodles; Sauerkraut; Celery Hearts; Fruit Cup; Coffee Cake; Coffee.

WINTER CHILI SAUCE (using canned tomatoes)

Two 28-oz. cans best quality tomatoes (or equal), two 6-oz. cans tomato paste, 2 green peppers, 4 medium onions, 4 large stalks celery stalks with leaves, ½ to ¾ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, ¾ cup vinegar, spices tied in cheesecloth bag (or loose) string: 12 whole cloves, 1 teaspoon mustard seed, 1 teaspoon celery seed, 2" cinnamon stick, ¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper (or 2 tablespoons mixed pickling spices). Into heavy kettle measure the tomatoes from which excess juice has been drained (for shorter boiling period). Add the peepers, onions and celery which have been put through medium coarse knife of grinder; you will have to reverse the winding handle several times to prevent the balls of grind from gather behind the knife. Add vinegar and salt and sugar and spices tied in bag. Bring to boil and stir frequently to prevent sticking. Boil gently ½ hour. Add tomato paste and boil ¼ hour longer. Remove spice bag. Pour into 3 sterilized pint jars and seal. Or, if desired, pour into eight 8-oz. glasses and seal with 2 coatings paraffin and store in refrigerator. NOTE: The use of whole spices in a bag and addition of tomato paste gives this chili sauce the good color and texture common to commercial chili sauce.

Know Your Antiques
Maybe Thrift Caused Slip Seat to Become So Popular

By RALPH and TERRY KOVEL

Perhaps it was for thrift or perhaps it was an accident of design, but the slip seat became popular during the Queen Anne period. Chair seats had become curved, then ball-shaped and then rectangular.

The seat was a frame covered with upholstery fabric or leather that could be slipped into the seat frame. Some slip seats made in later styles were covered with tape, rush, rope, or even caning. The chairs made in England during the Chippendale period were usually upholstered. The slip seat was preferred in America.

Q. We have a strange-looking tie roaster. My grandmother claims it was used to make peanut butter in 1830. Is that possible?

A. Peanut butter or just plain mashed peanuts were first used in America during the mid-nineteenth century. It did not become a city dweller's food until about 1890.

A St. Louis, Mo., doctor developed a type of peanut butter as a health food for his patients. The Battle Creek, Mich., Sanitarium began serving peanut butter to its patients by 1896.

Store keepers and housewives became interested in making the new food. Small roasters and mills were available by 1900. Some grocery stores made their own peanut butter and sold it by the paddle full from large tubs.

Small packaged units of peanut butter appeared in stores after World War I. The most popular were packed in tin pails that could be used as toys after the children ate the peanut butter.

There is a peanut butter museum at 30 South La Salle Street, Chicago, Ill. They are searching for any antique peanut butter artifacts used in the home.

Q. My antique New England teapot has the name "Stubbs" on the bottom.

A. Joseph Stubbs of Staffordshire, England worked from 1822 to 1835. He made earthenware, blue-printed wares, and other types of pottery.

* * *

There seems to be some misunderstanding about the use of the word "plate." The words "silver plate" in England mean solid silver or what is called sterling in the United States. Silver plate in the United States means a thin layer of silver on another metal, usually copper or a pewter-like metal.

By DR. STUART E. ROSENBERG

Medicine, physics, chemistry and a host of other important fields of endeavor had their centre in Germany and few indeed could overlook what Berlin was teaching in the happier pre-war days. But yet many of those very same educated men, with some few exceptions, who were capable of leading the world to higher visions in the 1920's, were also responsible for the destruction of vast cities and groups of people in the 30's and the 40's.

Without the mind of Germany without professors and scientists willingly co-operating in the building of his engines of death, illtier could not have fashioned his colossal monster. They were "good" men all right — but their minds got in the way!

Indeed, the terror that faces modern man does not arise from a lack of education but rather from its improper application. In the age which produced our own, when men fought each other on the fields of battle, their limited education helped to limit their destructive powers. If one were to add up the destruction wrought over 2,000 years, in all parts of the world, amongst all people of the world, it would not equal the sum of annihilations inflicted upon mankind between 1914 and 1945, a period of only 30 years, the very age most equipped with progress and modernity.

This lesson needs to be learned: The twentieth century is the age of the educated man, this century has exploited mind over matter until mind no longer matters, but without heart, mind, will, science and technology become masters that grind mind into clutter.

Of course we need our minds. Of course we need to structure our lives intelligently, to develop rational responses to life without always relying upon wispy sentiments that are not grounded in reality.

Education, for example, are based upon a view that says that we must know in advance what we will do under certain conditions; we won't let our emotions run away with us! The moral life requires intelligent forethought; it demands that we build into our life-apparatus fixed patterns of behaviour that will save us from the rashness of over-emotional response. To be sure, the intellect is a basic and indispensable tool for stable living and for maintaining our equilibrium in a rapidly changing world.

But we must allow our hearts to rise above our minds. Holding on to our intellect we must go beyond it. For without humane will, we lose our humanity in our bondage to rationality. We should not seek less mind, but rather more heart. Indeed, we must begin to educate men without hearts our calculating grey matter will produce men for whom nothing matters, and will succeed in destroying us all.

Pascal was right. "The heart has its reasons which Reason does not know." Educated hearts and we continue to can help make it human, not machines.

A Lift for Living

Great to Read, Talk Gospel But Best of All to Live It

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

A common expression frequently heard these bewildering days is, "I really don't know what I believe." While we may not possess certainty, we envy those who do. While we may be disturbed by anyone who follows his own course regardless of how his friends and associates may differ with him, nevertheless we admire that person whose life is guided by certainties, and we sometimes enviously say, "He knows what he believes. He has the courage of his convictions."

We are all like pilots of airplanes or sailing vessels. One of the most dangerous situations for a pilot is to find his position "doubtful." Whether we are navigating in the air, the sea, in politics, morals or religion, we need positive beliefs in something, some point of reference to keep us from getting lost. How can we make certain of our position? How can we know what we really believe?

Dean Inge of Saint Paul's, London one time suggested that if anyone wants to know what he really believes he should ask himself two questions: "First, if I had a fairy godfather who promised to grant any three wishes, what would those wishes be? Second, what are the three things, if any, that I would die rather than do?"

PROBING QUESTION

While these two questions are well worth pondering, I would add another which is surely as significant, and perhaps more probing than either of these. It is this: "How am I presently behaving?" This question is of prime importance, because our behavior is a motion picture of our real beliefs.

To be sure, our actions do not cleverly theorize, or philosophize, or dogmatize. But actions dramatize beliefs. They vividly project upon the screen of life where everyone can see, our hidden assumptions of which we ourselves are sometimes sublimely aware.

We can so idealize ourselves that, in our own fantasies and in our conversations with others we make ourselves look mighty good. But when our actions are analyzed they may disprove our estimates of ourselves. Our behavior, rather than our theories, reveals our real standards of values.

There is an old fable that illustrates the human propensity for placing too high a value on our aspirations and too low a value on our conduct. A farmer, boasting to his friend how he would love to do more for God and man if he were able, was asked by his friend if he would go so far as to contribute half a flock of sheep to the work of the Kingdom.

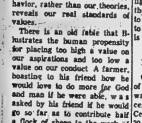
"Of course I would! If I owned a hundred sheep or a hundred cows or a hundred horses I would gladly give fifty of them."

If he only owned two pigs, his friend asked him, would he then give one to God? The farmer angrily replied, "That's not a fair question! You happen to know I own two pigs!"

Our faculties for thinking, believing and doubting were not given to us primarily for making orthodoxies and nicely framing creeds. They are built-in compasses for giving directions so that we will know which way to guide our behavior. One of the surest ways, therefore, to say what beliefs are worth believing, is to examine the lives of the people who live worthily and victoriously in order to see what convictions prompt such splendid living.

BADLY CONFUSED

Dr. James Martineau, the Christian philosopher, was once asked for help by a young skeptic who was so confused that he had begun to doubt his doubts. Dr. Martineau advised him to try living for a while with people of profound faith, and then, for a time, in daily touch with chronic skeptics.



The young skeptic followed the philosopher's suggestion, travelling to Germany and living among the peasants of Westphalia. He was first bothered by their crude simplicities and slow-mindedness. But they met the crises of suffering, sin, bereavement, and their own death with courage and trust.

Then the young skeptic moved to Berlin and lived among sophisticated university students. He found them brilliant and entertaining and as skeptical as he was. But when a crisis came their way they were bowled over, as if hit by a tidal wave. In the crises of life they were painfully confused and pitifully helpless. Skepticism is entertaining as argument, but it is a wobbly support in time of struggle.

Rupert Brooke was that greatly beloved, budding British poet who was killed in World War I, before his talents had fully blossomed. He was deeply dedicated to poetry, and wrote: "There are only three things. One is to read poetry; one is to write poetry; the best of all is to live poetry." All people of religious faith would profit from the realization that it is good to read the Gospel. It is great to talk about the Gospel. But it is best of all to live the Gospel.

HISTORY COVERS WALLS

CALGARY (CP)—The history of the world's art covers the walls of the art room at Crescent Heights high school. As a Centennial project, more than 50 Grade 11 and 12 students are painting a mural running from ancient Egypt, near one window, to abstract art at the other end.

Lighting the Way

By Walter S. Crane

DOGS IN A TAR PIT

A fox hunt was in progress near Yorkshire, in England. 32 baying hounds were chasing one lonely fox. After about a mile, the hunters and the hounds began to gain on the fox, and the wily creature headed for a lake of waste tar situated near the Yorkshire tar distillery plant.

The fox picked his way carefully across the large pool of tar, but the hounds were following so fast that they did not realize they were running into trouble until it was too late. The fox loped off, and 18 hunters were left to rescue the struggling hounds, splattered with tar.

Arsene Houssaye, French author of the 19th century said "the more I see of dogs, the less I think of men." These hounds reminded us of how prone men are to run into trouble. Lusting after sinful pleasures, or wealth that belongs to another, or power and prestige, we may easily lose our moral perspective, and in blindness we keep running until we find ourselves in the tar pits of shame, remorse, broken homes and even prison.

Says Smoking May Give House A Quorum

OTTAWA (CP)—The idea of ashtrays and cigarette smoke in the Commons probably gives Stale Secretary Judy LaMarsh nightmares but Ralph B. Cowan (L — York-Humber) thinks it may give the Commons a quorum.

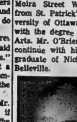
Mr. Cowan made the suggestion: "There'll be when Progressive Conservative Leader Howard (NDP—Skeena) noted the Commons was sitting with less than the required 20-member quorum.

There were only 18 members present, Mr. Howard noted, and this was "an admirable way to do business."

Chairman Maurice Bisfren (L—Montreal St. Jacques) said he is "poor at mathematics."

But after he spoke for about a minute, he noted enough members had returned to bring the House up to strength.

"I'm a non - smoker," Mr. Cowan said: "But possibly if they allowed smoking in the Commons we would be assured of a quorum."



As he was speaking, several other members who had been standing behind the curtain separating desks from the lobby—where smoking is permitted—were filtering back to their seats, putting the House membership well past the quorum figure.

Miss LaMarsh, the former health minister who evoked two packages of cigarettes a day by forbidding them up and starting a no-smoking campaign, was not in the House at the time.

MR. JAMES F. O'BRIEN

James F. O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. O'Brien, 30 Moira Street West, graduates from St. Patrick's College, University of Ottawa this weekend with the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Mr. O'Brien who plans to continue with his studies, is a graduate of Nicholson College, Belleville.

MR. R. LARRY MACDONALD

R. Larry MacDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. MacDonald of 12 Fourth Street, graduates this weekend with a Bachelor of Arts Degree from St. Patrick's College of the University of Ottawa. Mr. MacDonald received his primary and secondary education here in Belleville, and was formerly associated with Radio Station CJBQ and the Ontario Intelligencer. Mr. MacDonald is joining the editorial staff of a national news service in Toronto.

Negro Man Refused Bed In London

LONDON (Reuters) — Rev. Howard Jones, 45, a member of the Bilby Gospel Centre, had to sleep on a makeshift bed Friday because he is a negro.

Proprietors of an apartment booked for his London stay objected to his color and told him to move Thursday after one night's stay.

Two white clergymen staying in the same apartment house as also left in protest against the treatment of Jones.

He said Thursday after attending meetings leading up to Billy Graham's arrival next Tuesday: "I did not believe such a thing could happen in London."

Jones spent the night at the home of Dr. Walter Smyth, the crusade director. He planned to look for another apartment.

Mrs. Gilda Jago, a director of the company owning the apartment where Jones had a reservation, said:

"We do not accept coloreds. The booking was made in the name of the Billy Graham organization and it did not dawn on me that anyone might be colored."

Reuther, Burt Are Re-elected

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Walter Reuther has won an 11th term as president of the 1,400,000-member United Auto Workers, but it's the election of a woman to a high UAW post that is holding delegate interest.

The new woman official, the fourth international representative at large, is Miss Olga Madar, 51 - year - old head of the UAW's Detroit-based recreation department.

She was the choice of Reuther and his caucus, but her election came Thursday only after conflict within the union and the convention's first roll call vote in a decade.

Miss Madar collected 8,776 votes to her Canadian opponent's 2,810—and it took more than five hours to poll the delegates' votes by voice.

Defeated was Mrs. Beverly Gibson McCloskey, 37-year-old General Motors upholstery worker from Local 222 in Oshawa.

BURT TO RETIRE

George Burt, 62, perennial Canadian director, was re-elected as head of the Canadian region but said later it will be his last two-year term in office. . . .

He has directed the union in Canada since 1939 and would be eligible to run again in 1960 when he would still be "under the age limit of 65. However, he made known to reporters that he plans to withdraw.

Group Prays, Drinks, While Beating Girl

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP)—They used to sit together in their little Swiss chalet, praying by candlelight to the Virgin of Fatima for peace in the world.

To increase the force of their prayer they drank champagne.

In between prayers they whipped the daughter of their former president, 17 - year - old Bernadette Hasler, who died last weekend after a month of systematic and brutal torture.

They confessed to Swiss police they beat her "to drive the devil out of her."

Authorities have arrested 11 members of the obscure religious sect which calls itself the "International Family Union for the Encouragement of Peace."

Among the arrested are Bernadette's parents, Josef Theodor Hasler, 41, and his wife Lesi, 39.

Police said Hasler arranged to have his daughter's treatment body transported to the home of another sect member who told authorities the girl died of heart failure.

Police said Hasler claimed he wanted to cure his daughter of sexual urges. He gave her into the care of "Father" Josef Stocker, 60 - year - old spiritual head of the little group, also under arrest.

Police said Stocker, who comes from the German town of Buchheim, was a Roman Catholic priest but was excommunicated for fraud several years ago.

GM Car Sales 'Looking Up'

DETROIT (AP) — James M. Roche, General Motors Corp. president, said Friday GM's auto sales for the second 10 days of May are "substantial" in comparison with the first 10 days.

Roche, interviewed as he left GM's annual stockholders meeting, gave no figures, but indicated that the early May drop in sales by GM had been slowed at least.

The relatively cheerful statement triggered a stock market rally which erased losses and benefited another airstock.

Roche indicated the safety issue was a factor in a decline in automotive sales in April and early May.

"All of our cars gave an excellent account of themselves in the market place with one exception, the Chevrolet Corvair."

He said two major reasons for it were that buyers "had upgraded themselves by turning to higher-price levels" and the second was "a the adverse publicity stemming from litigation in which the Corvair has been involved."

Some 130 cases involving claims of improper vehicle design still are pending against the Corvair.

Must Discuss End of Fees For Students

QUEBEC (CP)—The day "is not far off" when federal and provincial government officials will have to discuss with Canada's universities the abolition of tuition fees, Health Minister MacEachen said Friday.

This will be one of the steps required to ensure that Canadian qualified for a university education will have the chance to get it, MacEachen said in a speech to the first graduating class of St. Lawrence College, Sherbrooke.

The arguments against tuition - free university education may be the same ones "clothed in different language" that were used before free elementary education was introduced, the minister said.

Refuse Tows to Vessels

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

LONDON (AP)—Hundreds of ships lay idle in British ports today as the spreading strike of 60,000 merchant seamen neared the end of its first week and tugmen, sympathizing with the seamen, have refused to tow the vessels to nearby anchorages.

Within another week, if there is no settlement, many of Britain's docks will be jammed, its warehouses loaded with waiting exports.

If the situation becomes acute the government could order the tugmen to end their sympathy strike. Britain's economy, Prime Minister Wilson has promised to proclaim a state of emergency and order the Royal Navy to man the ships and open the ports.

This could create an irreconcilable rift between Wilson's Labor party and the trade unions. Although few authorities think things will get that far.

There have been no fights, no stabbings (there have been attempts)—even though William Hogarth, general secretary of the seamen's union, has criticized what he has seen as Wilson's bias against the strikers.

Hogarth bitterly resented Wilson's claim that the strike was "against the state, against the community." Wilson was assailed by Labor extremists' readiness to call in the navy if necessary.

HOGARTH WILSON

These were the factors that led Hogarth to warn Wilson he would be risking a general strike, and hostility of every trade unionist in the land, even those of the Labor government, if he did not break the strike.

However, the stoppage that left idle about 300 ships and 12,000 seamen in five days already has revealed weaknesses in the British economy.

On the world's money markets the pound sterling has declined and only support buying by the Bank of England steadied it.

In the export front, major British selling firms have been hurt even though foreign ships are free to load British goods.

On the home front, the Labor government's "price-income policy was in doubt. Every sector of the community has been exhorted to keep wages, prices, incomes, rents and other increases in line with the rise in national output.

"The seamen's union is striking for a 17-per-cent increase in their basic wage, now standing at about $168 monthly for a 56-hour week.

Says Councils Exceed Powers

TORONTO (CP) — Practically all municipal councils at present exercise power for which there is no legal authority, a guidebook for civic government in Ontario suggests.

The guidebook, published jointly by the Institute of Local Government and the Ontario Municipal Association, says that councils often do things that are illegal but considered best for the majority of the community.

The guidebook is designed to teach legislators something about the job for which they were elected.

The Golden Years

Dream of Farm Retirement Often Turns Into Nightmare

By THOMAS COLLINS

That Class "A" dream of retirement on moving to a little farm with the produce — was pretty well washed away this week. By the tears and tears of people who've tried it.

Following the story here about the poor fellow who was fleeing from the dogs, horses and hard work of his "little country place," all sorts of people have spoken up on the matter. And at the rate of about 20 to 1 have turned retired people, for goodness sake, to hold to their life in the city.

The most touching spokesman of the group is Mr. Cecil L. Renshaw:

"I retired in 1963 on a pension. I had been in the polishing and decorating business.

"I sold my firm and bought two and one-half acres in the country. There was a run-down house on the place. It was very nice . . . I could fish, hunt, grow a garden, and work like a stupid fool.

NEIGHBORS LOVE HIM

"I spent all my savings to fix up the house. Was that what did it matter? My garden and pension cheque would see me through, I thought. Well, I've planted my garden, and since 1963 I've raised some nice produce, in fact I've given more away than all my neighbors gave up their gardens.

"What was the use of going to all that trouble, they figured, when you've got a fool neighbor like me? And why his head off doing it for you?

"I've worked harder since I retired than I ever did at my job. Oh yes, it has given me a little country place worth twice as much as I paid for it. But I can't sell it.

"So I have to go on living there, full of furniture and burning oil or low heat in cold weather, while all my friends are back in the city managing an apart m e nt house to supplement my pension. I'd be back there in the city managing an apart m e nt house to supplement my pension. I'd be back in the city managing an apart m e nt house to supplement my pension cheque, if I could get it back.

"I'd like to get out of this, I'm going to buy a truck and camp and gypsy around the country. If my farm hasn't made me too old and feeble to drive.

"I want to thank you for the opinion that warned retired people to beware of a farm. I hope that everyone who reads it takes heed . . . that is, everyone except the one I hope to sell to."

Others have said their piece in letters.

Walter W. Hendry: "I always suspected farmers were shrewder than city folks. Now I know it. They have been abandoning their places to the gophers and snakes and moving into the city to live. And who has been rushing out to give them fancy prices for what they left behind? The retired city slickers. Like me . . ."

Mrs. Eugene W. Dabney: "If the more primitive tribes of the world thought it was fitting to burn a wife at the stake after her husband died, they were civilized primitives. A much more exquisite torture is to leave a wife on an isolated farm after her husband dies. Any retired husband who drags his civilized wife off to his idea of a 'rural Paradise' ought to be prosecuted by Federal law from over dying and leaving her there . . ."

William J. Brownlee: "I bought a 12-acre country place when I retired. It had a quarter-mile frontage on a country road. The house botted up to the property line on the western side. The 50 acres in the rear of me were owned by a deceased farmer's children who now lived far away and were tired of getting no income off the land. So they granted to a private garden collector the right to dump on their land . . . and there was no legal way I could stop it. There is now no legal way I can ever sell my place, or even give it away. Because the collector burns the garbage he dumps . . . and the prevailing winds are from west to east."

Says U.S. Aid Is Failing To Help Vietnamese People

WASHINGTON (AP)—A congressman just back from South Viet Nam says U.S. aid programs there fail to supply the needs of the Vietnamese people or hold down inflation in the war-torn country.

Representative John E. Moss (Dem. Calif.), who spent 10 days looking into administration of aid programs in South Viet Nam, said in an interview much of the difficulty is due to inadequate foreign aid personnel.

His assessment of the civilian aid programs came as the political crisis in Viet Nam caused U.S. state department officials to consider removing about 400 American civilians from the Hue-Da Nang area.

Things Swing Down on Farm

Things aren't just the same as any more down on the farm.

At least they're not the same for quite some time after the farm is invaded by over 100 enthusiastic young children from the city.

This was the case Friday morning at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gray, two miles north of Plainfield, when Grade 1 and 2 pupils from Queen Victoria Public School in Belleville spent the morning visiting with the Gray fowl and livestock.

They held squealing young pigs, petted the Hereford calves, rode the farm pony, visited with the geese and goslings and then ended the morning with cookies and a bottle of milk — brought with them from a city dairy.

The farm visit was arranged by Queen Victoria School Principal H. R. Frink, with the school Home and School Club shipping in to provide transportation and refreshments.

Five Grade 1 and 2 classes and the school special education class members made the trip to the Gray farm by Rawson chartered bus.

For many of the children it was their first visit to a farm. Others seemed to be on more familiar terms with farm animals.

Making possibly the biggest hit with the young visitors was "Toby" the farm pony. The more venturesome took turns mounting the pony "just for the feel of it" and finally he was led out of the barn for turns around the farmyard.

But it wasn't all give and no take for the pony and "Toby" came in for handfuls of sugar cubes.

"That's about the sweetest Toby has ever been," commented Mr. Gray as he and Mrs. Gray bade farewell to their young visitors.

History repeating itself?

Saw a piece in a London newspaper the other day where a gaggle of bowler-brollies of Fleet Street were quaffing gins-and-tonic and talking about the latest invasion of the tight little isle.

It seems that in military parlance ,a small group of invaders wearing silk suits, satins and armines and using Cadillac "tanks" has done something Hitler's hordes could not do — and which hasn't been done since bill the Conqueror, heavyweight champion of Normandy, hedge-hopped the Channel and scored a knockout over Harold, Britain's title-holder, some 900 years ago.

Muhammad Ali, Cassius Clay to you non-Muslims, who received the "Anspeted 'Eath 'Orse-Laugh a few years back when he stormed Albion with his tonsil-bouncers blasting odes to Cassius in back again.

But as Soho, Shepherd's Bush and Bermondsey chappies are chortling, "This aint the syme bloke."

The name of Clay has infiltrated the seiect and "reddy exclusive" men's clubs. Mayfair dowagers, matrons and debutantes have a new cocktail-hour topic.

Bus-drivers, barmaids, barteenders, housemaids, ladies maids, the gentlemen's gentlemen and even the London Bobbies, in fact all sparts and Soho Lennon life, have been captivated by the new Clay personality.

The old bellicose bombast is gone. Only occasionally tonsilar outbursts, a lot of them complimentary to the, foeman, remind Londoners of the old Clay.

For canny Cassius who meets Britain's heavyweight champion Henry Cooper at 8'pm p.m. eor time today has discovered that, in Britain anyway, nearsilence has a thick golden lining.

When the shouting and the furore is over and Cooper, as is the popular opinion, has joined the ranks of Britain's traditional barbecued titular aspirants, Cassius will have collected, or be in line to collect $250,000, plus ancillary rights and that will pay a lot of income tax and alimony for you champion with the lean and hungry money look.

While Britons, known for deep-seated loyalty to one of their own, naturally have a yen for a Cooper victory upset, they are not laying too many guineas, quids, shillings and pence on their " Enery".

The best they hope for is that the 22-year-old British champion in his first shot at the world title, will score with his best offensive weapon a deadly left hook.

Meanwhile he will have to protect those easily-cut eyebrows from the staccato lightning-like jabs of Ali.

Muhammad can pump those short murderous rapiers at an opponent from a 6-inch range in the rate of second-intervals and in clusters of six. Canada's George Chuvalo can vouch for that.

Such is the popularity of Clay in the shadow of Big Ben and "the Hahbey", that London boxing fans won't take a Cooper defeat too much to heart. In fact, according to the fantastic odds quoted by the Boy Bells bookies, they will be surprised if "Enery" pulls the 100-1 upset.

Even in defeat "Enery" should be "appy". He has realized a career-long dream, a shot at the world heavyweight title. And isn't he in for the biggest payday of his life, the British equivalent of $180,000 plus ancillaries?

That should set him up with a village pub and enough roast beef and Yorkshire pudding to last him a lifetime.

Incidentally the fight is being televised "live" via the Early Bird satellite. Tune in the ABC network (13) at five o'clock this afternoon and you'll see the brawl in its entirety, broadcast conditions permitting.

Mets Hand Giants 5th Loss In Six

By MIKE RATHET
United Press Sports Writer

The New York Mets' scrappy second baseman drove in five runs with two singles and a homer to help down San Francisco Giants 7-5. It was the Giants' fifth loss in six games.

In New York last weekend Hunt collected eight hits in 14 trips to the plate as the Mets took two out of three from San Francisco and snapped the Giants' winning streak at 12.

The scene shifted to San Francisco, but Hunt picked up where he left off, reaching base every time he batted. And he slugged the key blow, a three-run homer in the eighth inning that broke a 4-4 tie.

Meanwhile at Cincinnati, Joey Jay pitched the Reds to a 5-3 victory over St. Louis Cardinals. He gave up four hits and struck out 10 before he left in the eighth inning. Jay's strong game put the Reds on the road to their fifth straight victory and ninth in 10 starts.

HIT TWO HOMERS

Mack Jones hit two homers in a three-homer clash that gave Atlanta Braves a 13-2 victory over Chicago Cubs. Pittsburgh Pirates belted Los Angeles Dodgers 7-3 and Philadelphia Phillies edged Houston Astros 8-5 in 10 innings.

The Giants trailed 4-2 in the sixth inning when, after 39 straight shutout innings the Mets dug'y game against the Mets, they finally found the power with solo homers by Jim Hart and Ollie Brown. But in the eighth, John Stephenson and Ed Bressoud ,a triple and Hunt tagged: Lindy McDaniel for his game-winner.

The Reds collected all their runs on homers, Johnny Edwards hitting a three-run shot in the fifth inning and Tommy Helms and Deron Johnson collecting solo homers in the fifth and sixth, respectively.

Bill McCool preserved Jay's fourth victory against two defeats, e n d i n g the Cardinals eighth inning rally by striking out Jerry Buchek.

Jones, who has been out of the line-up because of a shoulder operation, hit a solo homer in the second inning and connected with a man on in the seventh.

PROVIDE THE POWER

Hank Aaron hit his 14th homer and Joe Torre and Felipe Alou each tagged their ninth in support of Denny Lemaster. Ernie Banks supplied the Cubs' runs with a pair of homers.

The Pirates put it out of reach against the Dodgers by belting

Don Sutton for five first-inning runs. Willie Stargell's two-run double was the big blow. Roberto Clemente, Donn Clendenon and Bill Mazeroski each singled in one run during the uprising.

Jeff Torborg accounted for two Dodger runs with a homer.

The Astros built a 5-4 lead with the help of homers by Rusty Staub,ia and John Bateman, but the Phillies tied it in the eighth with a four-run rally capped by Johnny Callison's two-run single. In the 10th, pinch-hitter Harvey Kuenn doubled and eventually scored on a sacrifice fly by Cookie Rojas.

Orioles, Tigers Split

Indians Edge Chisox; Yanks Nip Twins

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mark down May as a merry month for Boston Red Sox's Rico Petrocelli and Vice Santiago.

Petrocelli's home run production has gone from one to seven since the first of the month, while Santiago has turned into a winning pitcher with impressive credentials.

The 25-year-old Puerto Rican right-hander took it out on his former club Friday night when he recorded his first complete game in the majors, firing a two-hit 3-0 victory for the Red Sox over Kansas City Athletics. Santiago now has won three in a row for a season mark of 3-1.

Petrocelli unloaded the heavy blow, a two-run homer in the seventh inning that gave Santiago some working room.

At the other end of the standings, Cleveland Indians got three unearned runs in the first inning and beat Chicago White Sox their fifth straight loss, 3-2. Baltimore and Detroit split, the Orioles taking the doubleheader opener 8-4 and the Tigers winning the second game 9-5.

New York Yankees nipped Minnesota Twins 2-1, while Washington Senators scored a run in the ninth with the help of two errors and beat California-Angels 6-5.

PITCHING WAS SHARP

Santiago, who was 1-4 in parts of three seasons with Kansas City allowed only singles to Dick Green and Larry Stahl, and two walks.

Petrocelli, who homered in the seventh, has boosted his batting average from .156 to .200 and his runs-batted-in total from one to 22 since the first of May.

Gary Bell was in and out of trouble almost all the way, but made three runs stand up for the 3-2 decision that booted the Indians' lead to 6½ games over Baltimore.

It was a batters' night in the Oriole-Tiger doubleheader, with 24 hits in the first game and 20 in the second. Frank Robinson of Baltimore raised his homer total to 19 with one in each game, and Dick McAuliffe rapped a pair for Detroit. Other homer-hitters were Brooks Robinson, Andy Etchebarren and Curt Blefary for the Orioles, Jim Northrup and Bill Freehan for the Tigers.

Al Downing struck out 11 and came within one out of finishing as the Yanks squeezed by the Twins. Camilo Pascual was clipped for the two New York runs in the fifth on Cleto Boyer's double, Elston Howard's single and Roy White's triple.

Don Lock carried across the winner at Washington. He got on in the bottom of the ninth on Jerry Adair's single, stole second and raced home when third baseman Paul Schaal uncorked a wild throw to first after fielding Frank Howard's bunt single.

The Senators also capitalized on an earlier Fregosi bobble. He misplayed Ken McMullen's grounder in the eighth, and Paul Casanova then homered.

Wings Trim Leafs 7-1, Suns Climb

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jacksonville Suns crept to within eight percentage- points of International League-leading Columbus Jets Friday night, clipping the Jets 3-1 as lefty Dave Rusteck won his sixth consecutive decision.

But Toledo Mud Hens fell to four games off the pace when Richmond Braves bombed them 6-0 on four double plays and Gil Garrido's lead-off homer in the fourth inning.

- In other games, Toronto Maple Leafs dropped a 7-1 decision to Rochester Red Wings while Buffalo Bisons battered Syracuse Chiefs 8-4.

Wren Blair Moves Minnesota GM

Four-Year Contract

ST. PAUL (AP)—Wren Blair, director of player personnel for Boston Bruins' farm system, was named Friday as general manager of the new Minnesota team which will begin play in the National Hockey League in October, 1967.

Blair, 40, signed a four-year contract Friday. He will begin his new job June 2.

The appointment was announced by Walter L. Bush, Jr., team president. NHL rules prohibit disclosure of executives' salaries. Bush said, but he added Blair would be "one of the best-paid men among the new general managers of the six newly-franchised teams."

Blair has lived in Oshawa the past 38 years. He will remain in Canada through the fall, scouting players, setting up farm teams and negotiating working agreements with Canadian and United States amateur and minor league teams.

"Wren Blair knows hockey, knows Canada, especially the Canadian hockey scene, knows and is the man we feel can help the new Minnesota entry begin its vigorous push toward what we hope will be a Stanley Cup championship team," Bush said.

Blair has been in the executive and administrative end of hockey for 15 years. He coached for 11 years and won championships at four amateur levels.

For the past seven years Blair has been employed by Boston as a minor league general manager, Eastern Canadian scout and director of player personnel for the Bruins' farm system.

His teams have won 10 titles, the last when Oshawa Generals team took the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A championship this past winter.

Peg Bowler Holds Lead

PORT ARTHUR, Ont. (CP)—Paul Yoshimasu of Winnipeg clinched a playoff spot in the Canadian tenpin bowling championship as he maintained his winning streak through the sixth round Friday.

With one round left, Yoshimasu had 2514 points of a possible 30 with Jim Prinster, Jr., Vancouver, his closest challenger with 2374 points. In third place was Ross Doolittle, Montreal, with 1614.

In the women's singles, Charlotte Johnson, Winnipeg, had 18 points, a 94 point lead over Mrs. Louise Smith, Vancouver, and a point up on Bonny Ballantine, Regina.

Top two finishers in each event meet in a three-game roll off for the championship. Qualified singles, classified doubles and open doubles were to be decided today with the team games in the other events scheduled for Sunday.

In the men's classified singles, George Dacey, Saskatoon, held a ¼ point lead over Dave Renzoni, Vancouver, who had 25 points. Both are assured of playoff positions with Gary Goyeau, Windsor, in third place with 19 points.

LEADS WOMEN'S SINGLES

Joan Darough, Vancouver, led in the women's classified singles with 18 points. Ruth O'Donnell, Weyburn, Sask., was second with 17 while Nancy Hodgson, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Eileen Davis, Montreal, were tied for third with 16.

In the men's open doubles, Bert Hodgetter and Frank Boehm, Regina, were tied in top spot with Ted Wood and Ken Herriet, Edmonton, with 19 points each.

HE'S WILLING

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Oscar Bonavena, Argentine heavyweight champion, said Friday he is willing to fight George Chuvalo, the Canadian title-holder, in Madison Square Garden in New York June 7.

Favor Torres Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Jose Torres, who promised to be a fighting champion when he dethroned Willie Pastrano 14 months ago, makes the first defence of his light heavyweight title tonight against Wayne Thornton in outdoor Shea Stadium.

Although he has had only one fight since stopping Pastrano in the sixth round, the 29-year-old New Yorker is a 7-to-5 favorite over 26-year-old challenger from Fresno, Calif.

"I'm going right after him and he knows it," said Thornton, the No. 1 contender. "I've been waiting a long time for this chance and I'm not going to blow it now."

"This fight won't go over six rounds," Torres said. "I will have no excuse if I lose but I'm not going to lose."

The 15-rounder is scheduled to start at 10:30 p.m. EDT.

Torres has been guaranteed $75,000 and 40 per cent of all receipts. Thornton has been guaranteed $25,000 and 20 per cent of receipts over $200,000.

Thornton has won six straight bouts in the last 17 months. His record is 37-7-1, including 25 knockouts. He has been stopped only once, in 1959.

Torres, after battering Pascual Perez to a draw in March 1965, had only one fight. That was a unanimous decision over heavyweight Tom McNeely at San Juan, Puerto Rico, July 31.

Will Finish Fifth

Special to The Intelligencer

PORT ARTHUR — Barbara Ward's 'flu and title hopes both disappeared here Thursday as the Ontario representative in the Canadian 10 pin bowling championships for the O'Keefe awards fell from contention.

The Belleville bowler with a sixth round byte, managed only one point in her fifth round match against Cathy Townsend of Quebec and finished the day in fifth place with 11 points.

BARBARA WARD

She is five back of the leader, Charlotte Johnson of Winnipeg. Louise Smith of Vancouver has 15½ and Bonny Ballantine of Regina and Mrs. Townsend 15 apiece, with just one round left next Saturday, prior to Sundays playoff between the top pair for the O'Keefe trophy.

Miss Johnson seems sure of doing well against last-place Frances Taylor of Calgary while Ballantine and Smith finish Saturday so Mrs. Ward's chances have departed. Quebec has the bye Saturday.

Mrs. Ward bowled at about the same pace she has been but it wasn't good enough. She won only the third game 193-172 dropping the others 212-180, 154-131 and 196-164. She lost the odd point on total pins 729-668.

Mrs. Ward did, however, win her battle over the 'flu which had been bothering her for the first two days of the championships.

In her first five matches she was averaging 12 pins more than the score she carries at home. Her average is 165 here compared to 177 during the season.

TORONTO (CP) — Wayne Lorne Ford, 19, heir to most of a $100,000 estate, was recaptured early Friday with another youth who escaped with him Tuesday from Burwash Industrial Farm for boys. Ford and Richard Van Dusen, 20, were arrested without a struggle in the city's east end. Ford's mother disappeared three years ago. He stands to inherit most of her $100,000 estate if she is still missing and presumed dead after several years.

Opinions Differ On Emmy Awards to Daytime Shows

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Are the Emmy Awards, to be given Sunday night, unfair to daytime television?

"There's not much question about it," says Tom Kennedy, emcee of NBC's daytime game show, You Don't Say!

"Not one daytime five-day-a-week audience participation show or continuing drama was nominated.

"You can't ignore a segment of the television industry—we're more than part of it. I find it hard to believe you're only talented after 5 p.m."

Says Art Linkletter, whose daytime House Party won an Emmy in 1954: "I don't think daytime emcees and shows get a fair share of recognition, considering the amount of time demanded."

Coleen Gray of Days Of Our Lives: "The time of day that the actress or actor performs certainly has nothing to do with the proficiency of his work."

The nominations were announced by the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences are in 22 categories of "program excellence and achievement" and 13 "craft and programming" areas. Hayley Mills's role nod is an area headed "Performers and Performances," achievements in daytime programming," with three nominations: A Tribute To Stevenson; Camera Three and Wild Kingdom.

WANTS RECOGNITION

Says Macdonald Carey, Miss Gray's co-star: "If the academy is truly interested in improving the quality of television, recognition of the daytime show would seem in order."

Monty Hall, host of daytime's Let's Make A Deal: "... The name of the Emmy categories often has to be spelled 'ridiculous.'"

Even the president of the television academy's Hollywood chapter, producer John Goedel, agrees in part:

"It's very unfair—unbalanced is the word. Two-thirds of the people and time in television are daytime. When they have

At the Park
"THE SILENCERS"
Hilarious, Sophisticated Comedy

Almost every day, in motion pictures and personal appearances, Dean Martin proves he is one of the most versatile entertainers in show business. Currently the proof is in "The Silencers," the Columbia Pictures release now playing at the Park Theatre for an extended run in color, with Dean playing Matt Helm, a special agent with a sense of humor, a flair for fisticuffs and a hand for the girls. His "cover" is that of playboy-photographer.

Dean is an accomplished, mold-it-talented actor, a fact that sometimes escapes many observers who may be misled by his casual, relaxed, devil-may-care ease with which he works and the social, effortless manner in which he takes on a role.

It was because of this combination of many talents that, of course, the matchless Martin personality, the producer Irving Allen and director Phil Karlson selected Dean for "The Silencers," a swift-paced action - and - intrigue comedy. Dean heads a cast that also includes co-stars Stella Stevens, Daliah Lavi, Victor Buono, Arthur O'Connell, Robert Webber, James Gregory, Roger C. Carmel and Cyd Charisse. Featured are the "Slaygirls," and Beverly Adams and Lovey Kravezit.

In 1946, Dean was singing at the 500 Club in Atlantic City when he met Jerry Lewis. When the club owner found himself minus an act, Dean and Jerry went on as a double, and the team of Martin and Lewis was born. The soldout crowds there and a show chapter in show business opened, a bright chapter of shattered records in night clubs, theatres, TV and movies. Eight years and 16 pictures later, the team of Martin and Lewis was dissolved—the news hit the entertainment world like an H-Bomb. The reason, Dean told the public was the simple fact that the best associations can wear thin and that both performers had reached the point where there were no longer new areas to explore separately. Their success as singles also is entertainment history.

Dean's current television appearances: Monday - 2.00 —7.00 and 9.10 p.m. Special matinee Monday. Doors open 1.30 p.m.

Devlin Extends Lead

PORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Australian Bruce Devlin shot a two-under-par 68 Friday and increased his lead to three strokes at the halfway point of the Colonial golf tournament.

The lanky Devlin's 36-hole total of 135 compared with 138 by Gene Littler, who shot a second-round 68.

R. H. Sikes had the day's best round, a 67, but, weighted by the anchor of an opening 78, it left him well back.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: Would you please tell me the time the ferries are in bloom in Ottawa and the route there? — R. L., Belleville

ANSWER: Tulip time in Ottawa is May 15 to May 30 and a beautiful sight it is, which attracts hundreds of visitors daily. The boat route from Belleville is Hwy. 37 to Actinolite and Hwy. 7 into Ottawa. If you do not know Ottawa well, the Corporation of the City of Ottawa has issued a very good tourist guide which may be obtained from the Ontario Motor League, the Chamber of Commerce in Belleville or at the Tourist and Convention Bureau, 70 Nicholas Street, Ottawa. This includes a 36-mile scenic drive around the National Capital, or, if you prefer, there are two walking tours listed. Both start at the Confederation Square (War Memorial) and are approximately 1¼ hours long. Parking is sometimes difficult in the centre of town so if you are taking the walking tours you might leave your car out a bit. Nearly all buses lead to Confederation Square.

QUESTION: We are passing through Cleveland and will not be there long, but we are most anxious to see the All Nations Gardens. Could you tell us where they are and how best to get to them? — R. P., Trenton

ANSWER: You will most likely be approaching Cleveland on Interstate Hwy. 90 via Painesville. Go down Euclid Ave., Hwy. 6 and 20 to Superior Ave. (6 and 20) to Rockefeller Park between Superior and St. Clair Ave., just past 105th Street.

The Cultural Gardens are a mile-long strip of land including over 35 acres. Here more than 30 nationality groups are creating a memorial to peace in the form of gardens, representative of the native countries of most of the ethnic groups included in Cleveland's population.

QUESTION: We are interested in visiting the Mesa Verde National Park, and the cliff dwellings. Have you any general information about the park and the diggings, how they may be seen, etc.?

ANSWER: The Mesa Verde National Park in southern Colorado is one of the major archeological preserves in the United States.

Mesa Verde, Spanish for green table, is so called because of its comparatively level top, heavily forested with juniper and pinon trees. It is 15 by 30 miles in size and rises 1,000 to 2,000 feet above the valley on the north side and slopes gradually down to the cliffs bordering the Mancos River Canyon on the south. A score of large canyons seam the mesa and in the shelter of the hundreds of caves eroded in the precipitous cliffs are found some of the largest and best preserved cliff dwellings in existence. Archeologists have excavated only a few of the principal ruins.

Mesa Verde was occupied in pre-Columbus times by agricultural Indians. From about A.D.1 to approximately 1300, these people made their homes on the mesa tops and in the caves of the canyon walls. At first their culture was simple, but by the end of the 13th century, they had reached a high level. Archeologists recognize four periods of cultural development. Drought struck the region in 1276. By the end of the dry spell (24 years) the Indians had left the Mesa Verde.'

The park is open all year, interpretive activities and services are available throughout the year, weather permitting. The museum, with exhibits illustrating the prehistoric Indian life, tour information and campfire schedules is open 7:45 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. June 16 through Labor Day; 8 to 5 the rest of the year, free.

Oil surfaced roads lead to the principal ruins. Conducted trips to the ruins are scheduled each day during the year. Under guidance of well-trained rangers-interpreters, visitors may enter some of the outstanding ruins. Information concerning these trips may be obtained at the Museum.

Complete accommodations at the lodge near park headquarters are available May 15 to Oct. 15. Reservations are advisable from June 1 to Labor Day.

Free campgrounds in Morefield Canyon near the park entrance, are open May 1 to November 1. There are picnic quarters, near headquarters, a grocery store and gas station. Accommodations are also available at Cortez, 8 miles from the park. Admission to the park is 50 cents per day or $1 per season for persons 16 years of age or older. A recreation-conservation sticker applies.

Maple Downs Assistant Pro Scores Ace

TORONTO (CP) — Wally Byers, 25, assistant professional at nearby Maple Downs, scored a hole in one Friday on the final green to win the $2,000 Bolton professional best-ball championship.

Coupled with Maple Downs pro Bobby Rose, Byers faced the 12th trailing the team of Moe Norman of Barrie and Alvie Thompson of Toronto by one stroke.

Norman had already scored a two on the 170-yard par-three hole to put his team six-under-par.

"You mean I need a one," Byers asked other pros as he teed up his ball.

Then, with a hard tail wind, he hit an eight-iron to hole his first card a 62, seven-under-par.

Toronto Play Will Close Drama Festival

By JACK BRAUCKMANN

VICTORIA (CP)—A group of Toronto players will close the 1966 Dominion Drama Festival here tonight with an original Canadian play—the only one of the seven-day, seven-play amateur theatre showcase.

Friday night, a capacity DDF audience saw "a very good show" of Bertolt Brecht's Mother Courage And Her Children, a chronicle of The Thirty Years war, presented by the London, Ont., Little Theatre.

Adjudicator Marius Goring, the versatile British actor-director, said, "I am sure you were very impressed with what you saw and heard tonight as I was."

Tonight, The Questors of Toronto will present A Stranger Unto My Brethren, an original play by John Burgess of Toronto.

Directing the play is Maurice Evans, whose Taste of Honey won the best production award at last year's festival.

Old Pupil Reads Verse From Column

DEAR DORIS: Without a doubt there are a great many readers of your column who have reason to be everlastingly thankful to you for your precious, priceless thoughts, as well expressed that anyone could understand and benefit from them.

You will be delighted to know that my verse, which you were gracious enough to include in your column, was read in an eastern paper by a pupil I had taught as a teacher in a Belfast school.

Perhaps you will like my thoughts about "Triumph Over Tragedy":

DORIS CLARE

I shall not give to gloom the thought that joy demands,
For sadness only that you are dead;
And e'en though grief has thrown her mantle round my heart,
And stretching far ahead
The lonely years without you seem but desolate,
I shall not feint nor fear,
Knowing that within the everlasting arms
God keeps us ever near.

Mary Croft Preston.

DEAR M.C.P.: I do like it. Thank you.

DEAR DORIS: Would you have any suggestions as to how a woman of 50 who didn't have a chance to learn a trade can learn one, or learn something interesting and profitable to do?

In my late forties I have learned to type, play the piano and swim. So I'm still able to learn. My husband is a successful business man who has no time for pleasure and no interest but his business.—NOT THROUGH YET.

NOT THROUGH YET: In fact, you are just nicely started. And you could strike out in several directions. Would a course in furniture finishing appeal to you, or are you more of the book-learning type?

Typing suggests office work; swimming makes me think about the help you could be at a recreation centre. So does the piano playing.

I'm sorry this is a solo effort. Your one-track husband will find himself off on a siding while you steam on through. My ten-cent leaflets on "Learning for Living" and "Part Time Work" are on their way—but I'd strongly advise a conference with a counsellor.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I was asked to go to a show with my girl friend by my girl friend's mother. When we entered the lobby I offered to buy my own ticket, and my girl friend's mother readily accepted.

I had really expected, since she had invited me, that she would buy my ticket. Should I have offered to buy my own? Should she have accepted my offer?

What is the proper procedure when one is invited to something for which there is a charge?—WONDERING.

* * *

DEAR WONDERING: Might have been different if your girl friend had made the date with you, and you both understood that it was Dutch treat. This time, the lady inviting you should have expected to pay, and probably did. But when you offered, it occurred to her that to refuse your money might embarrass you more than to accept it as a matter of course.

An invitation implies that you are being paid for. Your way is to pay thank you is to return the invitation some other time, or bring a small gift to your hostess later.

Ten-Pin Tidbits

By GRACE POSTE

The first annual Brunswick Handicap tournament was held recently with 400 bowlers and 250 singles standing.

Bill Kirkham placed first with 853, including handicap, with Bernie Cannon second at 849 and Bob Liscum third at 834. Wally Lavergne hit 321. Kirkham had a 335 single, Roy McKenzie 229 and Lavergne 213.

In the women's section, for bowlers with 500 and 200 series, Joan Liscum rolled 596, Shirley Colbin 575 and Marilyn Thurgood 568. Verla Dales had 236 and a 196 single and Thurgood had a 186 single. has been scheduled for Monday.

A house team tournament day, May 30. The top three teams from each ten-pin league will compete for Brunswick plaques and trophies.

The junior bowlers have also received their awards. The 4-Aces captained by Robert Collacchio, with Patti Reid, Cynthia Grier and Yves Beaulieu, won team honors.

Bonny Brannigan, with 130, and Ken Sedore, with 129, had high averages. Robert Collacchio, with 482, and Patti Reid, with 443, had triples honors. Mike Akey, with 191, and Vickie Sedore, with 172, took title high singles awards. Most improved bowler awards were won by Chisly Kelly, improving 30 pins, and by Hunter Fournier, improving 30 pins. Best game trophies went to Ron Sedore for a 207 and Patti Reid for her 181.

Ages of these fine young bowlers range from eight to 13 years and speak well for the future of ten-pin bowling here.

(Editor's Note — This will be the last column of the season.)

WITCHES TO HANG

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP)—Two "witches" were sentenced to death by hanging Friday for the murder of a 12-year-old schoolboy.
